MERCURY AT 102; 5 TREATED FOR HEAT EXHAUSTION

Yesterday Second Day in Succession and Sixth This Month With Temperature Above 100.

LOW HUMIDITY MAKES IT BEARABLE

Continued Warm Today Forecast but Cooler, Probably With Thunderstorms Tomorrow.

Five cases of heat exhaustion were reported yesterday when, for the second successive day and the sixth day this month, a temperature of 100 degrees or more was recorded by the Government Weather Bureau. A maximum of 102 was reached at 5 p. m.

Continued warm weather was forecast for today with promise of relief Monday when local thunderstorms are expected to lower the temperature.

Reaching the 100-degree mark at 2 p. m., the mercury remained above it until 8 o'clock, when it dropped to 96. An unusually low humidity of 21 per cent and a light breeze made the heat bearable. The highest July temperature in the records of the Weather Bureau was in 1901, when 107 was recorded.

The recording instruments of the Weather Bureau are on the twenty-second floor of the Railway Exchange Building and thermometers at street levels showed readings of from 110 to 115 degrees.

Swimming pools were crowded again last night and many persons took refuge from the heat in city parks.

Frank Springmeyer, 64 years old, a carpenter, 2714A Chippewa street, who died Friday at City Hospital, brought the total deaths as a result of a nine-day heat wave which ended last Sunday to 11.

Those treated for heat exhaustion at City Hospital are: Miss Georgia Bub, 17, 5211 Devonshire avenue; Mrs. Della Petrules, 40, 1037 Howard street; Anthony Schumorcher, 63, 4342 Tholozan avenue, a teamster; William Pepers, 70, 5353 Enright avenue, a janitor; Fred Rodenwald, 66, 2306 South Tenth street, a laborer.

HEAT WAVE SWEEPS CENTRAL STATES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The Middle West withered today with 100 degrees plus weather reaching into virtually every nook and corner between Lake Michigan and the Nebraska prairies. Even Chicago and other shore cities found the cooling lake breezes absence or fetid.

A prayer for rain was invoked by the Catholic Bishop at Omaha, Neb., who asked every church in his diocese for invocations tomorrow for rain to save the crops. It was 104 and even higher in Central Nebraska and the mounting mercury showed little signs of dropping.

A youth in Omaha killed himself to escape the heat and street car motormen wore gloves, the controls were so hot.

The mercury continued to soar in Chicago until it had officially reached the 101 mark. When the Lake Michigan breeze sprang up the temperature dropped to 76 in three hours.

Thermometers showed 111 degrees at Mattoon at 5 p. m.

Many points in Illinois, reporting high temperatures during the day, experienced relief tonight. Rockford, with a maximum of 100 at 2:30 p. m. reported a drop to 79 at 8:40 p. m.; Danville with 101 at 3 p. m., reported a drop to 70 at 9 p. m.

Champaign reported a temperature of 100, equalling that of July 12, highest there in 10 years. The temperature stood at 86 at Bloomington at 8:35 p. m.

St. Paul and Minneapolis, where a week ago the mercury hovered around 100, were spared the worst of the present wave and enjoyed a temperature in the 80's today.

Most of Iowa was baked beneath the 100-degree sun and Wisconsin sweltered in temperatures not much cooler.

No relief was promised by the official forecast, although some

EXPLOSION AND FIRE CAUSE $13,000 LOSS

Streets and Parked Autos at Washington and Ninth Littered With Broken Glass.

An explosion and fire in the Morganstern Garment Co., on the sixth floor of a loft building on the northwest corner of Washington avenue and Ninth street, at 6:45 o'clock p. m. yesterday, caused damage estimated by firemen at $13,000 and littered the streets and nearby parked automobiles with broken glass.

Although firemen did not determine the cause of the explosion, it occurred near several gas pressing irons. The noise was heard for several blocks and attracted a crowd of several hundred persons.

Fire broke out in three places in the garment factory, but was extinguished quickly. Water, however, damaged the stock of factories on two floors below, and the windows were shattered in the adjoining factory of the Braun Garment Co.

Damage to the Morganstern stock is estimated at $4000; to the building, $2000; to the Wax Bros. dress factory on the floor below, $5000, and to the M. M. Cohn curtain Manufacturing Co., on the fourth floor, $2000.

No one was in the building when the explosion occurred and none of several passersby on Ninth street and Lucas avenue was injured by the falling glass from the shattered windows. Glass covered the tops of about 16 automobiles parked near the building.

The force of the explosion broke a window in the Klyman Clothing Co., 626 Ninth street, setting off a burglar alarm.

CHICAGO CAMPAIGN ON NOISE

Railroads Warned of Engines' Blowing Off Steam.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Chicago is taking its noise seriously and has named a committee to put the muffler on as much of the din as possible.

Dr. Arnold Kegel, health commissioner, yesterday informed a group of railroad men that one of the principal things to be avoided is blowing off steam by locomotives. Experts with noise measuring machines are going about the city and, as soon as they get some statistics organized, the authorities will get busy.

CHICAGO POLICE HIDE FOSTER IN LINGLE INQUIRY

Hint Valuable Information Was Given by Man Who Once Owned Revolver Used in Killing.

GUNMAN TAKEN OFF TRAIN IN YARDS

Spirited Away With Fleet of Squad Cars About Him—Even Attorney Is Unable to Find Him.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Official investigators tonight intimated that Frank Foster, reputed to have been the owner of the revolver which killed Albert J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, had given valuable information to solve the mystery surrounding the newspaper man's death.

But what Foster told the authorities, if anything, was as much a mystery to the general public as was the killing of Lingle itself. Foster was taken back to Chicago on a train which made an unscheduled stop in the South Side yards. Twenty detectives swarmed about him, a fleet of squad cars sped away, and Foster, said by police to be one of the keys in the Lingle killing, had disappeared for the day.

A court stenographer received an emergency call and hastened away. The reporters guessed that Foster was talking.

"Well, the case is all cleared up," an attache of the State's Attorney's staff remarked as he emerged from headquarters. And the reporters guessed that Foster had talked. The gangster was returned from California under indictment for the murder of Lingle, but not accused of being the actual slayer. The Prosecutor hoped to learn from him the last owner of the revolver found beside the reporter's body. Foster had once owned it, he admitted, but he has said the police took it from him long ago.

Detectives, prosecutors and special investigators threw reporters off their trail. Comment was refused and the place where Foster was taken for questioning could not be learned. An attorney announced that he had been retained for Foster and would demand that he be placed in the county jail to await the trial for which his indictment called. But Foster could not be found.

His wife, returning on the same train from California, had left it at Joliet.

Action was begun to free Tommy Abbottini, alias Abbott, but the Court decided the police could keep him in custody until Monday morning. Abbottini was captured by detectives after an automobile chase that ended at his home, his automobile being identified as the one used by the gangsters who fired a fusillade at Jack Zuta, reputed Capone vice and beer manager, and killed a State street trolley motorman. Mrs. Abbottini was also arrested.

60 PERSONS INJURED WHEN TRAIN STRIKES AUTOMOBILE

Driver of Car Thought to Have Been Killed in Accident at South Elizabeth, N. J.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 19.—One person is thought to have been killed and at least 60 were injured, six seriously, tonight when a Pennsylvania Railroad express train crashed into an automobile at the De Hart Place crossing, South Elizabeth.

The engine and three coaches of the train, bound from Philadelphia to New York, left the rails and rolled down an embankment. Firemen, police and volunteers helped the injured from the wreckage, a part of which burst into flames.

Fifty-eight persons were taken to Elizabeth hospitals. A number of those taken from the wreckage were treated by physicians in houses near the scene.

Police think the driver of the automobile was Arthur M. Allcroft of Elizabeth, whose wife reported that he had not returned home. The car was demolished and it was thought Allcroft was killed.

ISTANBUL, July 19.—Mustapha Kemal, president of the Turkish republic, has fallen in love again, this time with Mlle. Mubedjel Hamen, 16-year-old beauty contest winner.

The Turkish press, well censored, naturally has made no comment upon the Ghazi's interest in the girl who has just dethroned Mlle. Feriha Tewfik, Turkey's representative in the international beauty contest in the United States last year. But it has printed columns about the rivalry that has resulted from Mlle. Mubedjel's selection for 1930 queen, when last year's winner was ranked second.

Ever since he divorced Latife Hanoum, who shared honors with him in the days of his first political successes, Mustapha Kemal has sworn that he would never take another wife.

GRAND JURY TO BE RECALLED TO TAKE UP KIDNAPING CASE

St. Clair County Body to Hear Evidence July 28 on Abduction for Ransom of Sam Scorfina.

PROSECUTOR WANTS PROMPT ACTION

Lindauer Says He Wishes if Possible to Place Three Men Accused on Trial Next Month.

The April grand jury in St. Clair County, which had been adjourned, will be reconvened July 28 to hear evidence in the kidnaping of Sam Scorfina, Carr street grocer. Scorfina escaped last Wednesday night from a group of men who held him prisoner. His statements to Assistant State's Attorney Lindauer at Belleville, Friday, resulted in the issuance of warrants charging kidnaping for ransom, against three St. Louis Italians.

Lindauer made announcement concerning the grand jury when he returned to Belleville last night from Lebanon, Ill., where he had been in conference with Circuit Judge Henry G. Miller.

"I believe in immediate action in cases of this kind," he said, "and if possible, we will go to trial next month with the three men who are already in custody."

To Ask for Death Penalty.

Lindauer indicated that other arrests might be made as a result of the grand jury investigation and repeated an earlier statement that he would demand the death penalty for the defendants. A recent amendment makes kidnaping for ransom a capital offense in Illinois. The minimum punishment is five years in prison.

Those named in the warrants, who are held at Police Headquarters pending extradition proceedings by Lindauer, are Sora Mantia, 25 years old, 932 Bates street; Mike Lombardo, 22, 1017 North Eleventh street, and Baptista Bommarito, 22, 717 Carr street.

All have denied implication in Scorfina's abduction and have said they will resist extradition.

Lindauer, however, said he was confident that extradition would be granted and said: "After we get the men in our custody every application to have these defendants released on bail will be strenuously opposed. Nothing will be left undone by this office to bring the men to trial as soon as possible."

Scorfina Kidnaping.

Scorfina was kidnaped in East St. Louis, near the entrance to the Eads Bridge, last Saturday night, as he was on his way to the dog races at the Madison Kennel Club, with two companions. He was held without food or water, he has said, until he escaped from a farm house near Ste. Genevieve, Mo., when his captors fell asleep.

Police have complained previously after crimes against Italians, that the persons of that nationality were prone to avoid asking police assistance, through fear of death. Scorfina, however, has disregarded the threats he received in captivity, and has indicated by going to Belleville and applying for warrants, his willingness to prosecute.

June Figures on Exports and Imports Given by Commerce Department.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—International trade of the United States during June declined to the lowest monthly level the country has experienced in the last six years.

Exports of American goods amounted to $299,000,000, the Commerce Department estimated today, which was a figure less than that of any month since July, 1924, when the country's exports amounted to $276,600,000.

Imports for last month were $250,000,000, which is lower than those recorded since January, 1922, when they amounted to $217,000,000. Imports and exports for June were each $100,000,000 below those for the same month last year.

Gold imports for June amounted to $13,938,000, offset by exports of $26,000, leaving the net gain to the country for the month $13,912,000. The total net gain of gold for the first six months of 1930 was fixed by the report at $222,536,000. Silver exports for June, registered during a month when prices of that metal were the lowest record in modern history, amounted to $3,336,000, as compared with imports of $2,707,000.

'THE WORLD'S RICHEST LANDLORD' KILLS SELF

Harry S. Black, Head of Firm Which Owns Savoy-Plaza, Found Fatally Shot.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Harry S. Black, chairman of the board of the United States Realty Corporation, died tonight in his home at Allondale, near Huntington, L. I., from a bullet wound in the head which police said was self-inflicted.

Black was found in bed bleeding today by a servant. Police said he held a revolver in his hand from which two shots had been fired and there was one bullet wound in his head.

Black, who headed real estate companies owning large hotels, including the Savoy-Plaza of New York and Boston, was found near death in an overflowing bath tub in his suite at the Plaza here last October. He was revived by a rescue squad.

He was at one time part owner of the Hippodrome Theater, a director of the National City Bank and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad. He was once known as the "world's richest landlord."

He also led the opposition which resulted in the ousting of William Childs from the chairmanship of the Childs restaurant company in 1929.

Newspaper files show that in 1927 the realty company he headed took out a $1,000,000 policy on Black's life, payable to the company.

BORAH ORDERED TO REST, TO REMAIN FOR TREATY FIGHT

Senator Told by Physicians to Refrain from Work at Least Two Months.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — Ordered today by physicians to take a complete rest of two months, Senator Borah returned to the Senate to finish the contest for ratification of the London naval limitations treaty before obeying the command.

Foregoing his daily early morning horseback ride, the Senator took a motor car ride this morning and journeyed over to Baltimore to get the report on his examination made earlier in the week at Johns Hopkins University Hospital.

Physicians told him his condition was not dangerous, but they warned they would not be responsible if he did not immediately take a rest of at least two months. The veteran Idahoan was back in the Senate chamber as another grueling day of debate on the naval treaty got under way. He said to his colleagues: "I guess I better take this advice when the treaty is out of the way."

SENATE VOTES DOWN TWO CHANGES IN NAVAL PACT

Amendments to Treaty Text By Bingham and Moses Defeated Without a Roll Call as Filibuster Wears Itself Out.

BIG MAJORITY LIKELY FOR RATIFICATION

Plans for Another Night Session Abandoned by Proponents and Reservations Are to Be Balloted On at 11 A. M. Tomorrow.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The filibuster against ratification of the London naval treaty having virtually worn itself out, leaders on both sides tonight predicted a final vote early next week, possibly on Monday. Unless some last-minute complication should arise, the treaty will be ratified by a substantial margin over the necessary two-thirds majority. According to a final check-up by Majority Leader Watson, there will be only 11 votes against it.

When it became evident this afternoon that the Johnson band of "die-hards" could not carry on much longer, proponents of the treaty abandoned their intention of forcing another night session and brought about a recess until Monday at 11 a. m.

The Two Amendments Squelched.

Two amendments to the treaty were offered during the formal reading of the document and were squelched without a record vote. Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut, sought to modify the so-called "escape" clause in a manner to permit the United States to build eight-inch gun cruisers if Great Britain or Japan should invoke the clause to add to its tonnage in the six-inch gun cruiser category. The treaty provides that new construction to match an increase by a treaty signatory must be confined to the category in which the increase is made.

Reed, (Rep.), Pennsylvania, explaining the escape clause, pointed out that it was made necessary by the failure to bring Italy and France into the tonnage limitation agreement. The purpose underlying it, he said, was to permit Great Britain to increase its destroyer tonnage if France should build a menacing fleet of submarines.

Reed said he could conceive of no combination of circumstances that would lead either Japan or the United States to initiate an increase under thec lause. The chance that Great Britain would ever use it to build more six-inch gun ships he regarded as too remote to be worth consideration.

The other defeated amendment was by Moses (Rep.), New Hampshire, who proposed that in the clause relating to the use of submarines, merchant ships should be defined as "unarmed" vessels. This is the clause stipulating that a submarine may not sink a merchantman without first having insured the safety of the passengers. It draws no distinction between armed and unarmed merchant craft.

Each of the proposed amendments was defeated by a viva voce vote.

Ratification Resolution Offered.

Upon the conclusion of the reading of the treaty by a Senate clerk, Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, offered the resolution of ratification and announced that it would be taken up on Monday.

Before the final vote on the resolution, 14 reservations must be disposed of, ranging all the way from Senator McKellar's "freedom of the seas" demand to a reservation by Senator Johnson that if the United States should join the League of Nations or adhere to the World Court, the treaty would become null and void.

A reservation is in the nature of an amendment to the instrument of ratification and can be adopted by a simple majority. Proponents of the treaty predict the defeat of all pending reservations with the single exception of that sponsored by Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, which affirms the Presi-

RELIEF WORK IN TYPHOON-SWEPT JAPAN UNDER WAY

On Kiushiu Island 65 Persons Were Killed—10,696 Houses Destroyed and 31,311 Damaged.

LOSS PUT AS HIGH AS $50,000,000

In Korea, Which Is Still Suffering From Devastating Floods, Heavy Shipping Loss Is Reported.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 19.—Still receiving reports of loss of life and injury and property damage, as faltering communication lines are restored, Japan and Korea today set about rehabilitating its regions swept yesterday by the worst typhoon in a generation.

The storm swept over the Loo Choo Islands, Kiushiu Island, across the inland sea from the main island of Japan and into Korea at a velocity reaching 100 miles an hour.

Sixty-five persons were killed Kiushiu. Thirty-seven of these on Kiushiu. The number reported injured in Japan has reached 254, and more than 20 are missing. It was estimated by officials 10,696 houses were destroyed and 31,311 damaged. Japanese houses as a rule are of flimsy construction compared with Western residences.

Estimates of the damage run as high as 100,000,000 yen ($50,000,000). This includes damage to shipping. The cities of Kagoshima and Nagasaki reported $9,500,000 and $10,000,000 damage respectively.

In Korea three provinces bore the brunt of the typhoon. These are Keishonando, Keishohokudo and Chuseihokudo. Fusan dispatches said five were dead, 14 injured and 85 houses destroyed there and many casualties inland. Fifty-five boats were sunk and 168 houses damaged at Fusan.

Korea still was suffering from recent floods in which 258 persons were killed, 252 are missing and thought to be dead; 155 were injured and 5400 houses were destroyed.

College Student Said to Have Been Ignorant of Accusation Leading to Killing.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 19.—Police, the Solicitor-General, a private committee and the Commission on Inter-racial Co-operation joined today to prosecute seven white men charged with killing a Negro college student and to curb reputed activities against Negroes growing out of the case.

The student, Dennis Hubert, was killed June 15, on the playground of a Negro school, after a group of white men accused him of having insulted a white woman. The Solicitor-General's office says it had evidence that Hubert was ignorant of the accusation. Six men, J. C. Gravin, Tom Berryman, T. F. Martin, Aubrey Sikes, Murray W. Harmon and R. H. Evans are in jail charged with the slaying. "Fat" Wilson is at liberty under the same charge. The trial will open Tuesday before Judge Earl Camp.

Since the arrest of the white men the house of the student's father, the Rev. G. J. Hubert, has been assaulted, also the sisters' chapel at Speilman College has been stoned and a meeting in a Negro church to raise funds for the prosecution was disturbed.

The private committee is raising funds to restore Hubert's home and is also asking all Atlantans to "unite with us in a city-wide execration of the crime."

HELD ON SUSPICION

GRAND BANK SUSPECT IN COURT TOMORROW

Circuit Attorney Expects to Have Ex-Convict's Bond Continued.

Henry Bostelman, former convict, the first person arrested on definite suspicion of having had part in the $1,000,000 safe deposit vault robbery at the Grand National Bank, May 25, will appear in Judge Butler's division of the Court of Criminal Correction tomorrow on his $20,000 bond.

He was arrested, as has been told, after his attempt a week ago yesterday to deposit $2500, of which $1080 was in gold and $1420 in paper money, in the Hamilton State Bank. One of the gold pieces, a $2.50 coin of date 1851, and five $2 bills, have been identified by tellers of the Grand National Bank as having been in the bank before the robbery.

Because possession alone is not sufficient evidence for conviction under such circumstances, the Circuit Attorney's investigators, and city detectives, are trying to obtain further evidence as to Bostelman's movements and associates. The Circuit Attorney intends to have his bond continued for 30 days, on his appearance tomorrow.

Bostelman was arrested in May, 1927, as a suspect in the murder of Clifford Hicks, lawyer, who was shot to death, and his body thrown into a ditch beside a lonely St. Louis County road. The case is still unsolved.

Bostelman's arrest, in the Hicks case, was connected with that of William Davis, also a former convict. Bostelman and Davis were questioned for days as to their relationship with Hicks, or with persons who might have sought his death.

Davis, in August, 1928, was trapped and killed by city police and county officers in the act of extorting money from Philip Cracchiolo, a county saloonkeeper. Cracchiolo, a few weeks later, was killed on a county road, presumably in retaliation for the killing of Davis.

Bostelman was sentenced to five years' imprisonment in 1921, on his plea of guilty to a part in the theft of $60,000 worth of furs from downtown stores. He was sent to Boonville Reformatory, because the penitentiary was overcrowded, and was released after a time on parole, but the parole was revoked after he had been arrested several times in company with known criminals.

Chief Gerk returned to Ed Mays, president of the Grand National Bank, last night, $2357.50 of the $2500 in gold and currency which Mays took from the Hamilton State Bank, giving that bank a check for that amount. Gerk kept $142.50 in bills and gold, which he said bore markings that had been identified by tellers at the bank, but said he did not wish to be responsible for the large amount.

Mays wanted the Police Department to hold the entire amount, and did not want it placed in his bank, lest that fact weaken the value of the money as evidence later. Gerk, however, said the money he returned would have no value as evidence, since it bore no identifying marks.

VON HINDENBURG CHEERED ON VISIT TO THE RHINELAND

ACCOMPANIED BY SON AND FOREIGN MINISTER

Crowds Give Aged Executive Warmest Reception Any Official Has Received.

By the Associated Press.

SPEYER, Germany, July 19.—President von Hindenburg's first day in the liberated Rhineland was the occasion for the warmest reception accorded any German in this ancient city since the republic was founded.

From early morning, when the presidential car pulled into the railway station and until his departure for Ludwigshafen, Worms and Mayence in the early afternoon, crowds such as Speyer has seldom witnessed thronged the streets and burst into applause every time the head of the nation showed himself.

At the city hall, where the President responded to the official greetings of the Bavarian and Badenese Premiers, the crowds standing outside shouted so insistently that the soldier-statesman had to appear on the balcony and wave to the multitude, which spontaneously broke into the strains of "Deutschland Ueber Alles."

The octogenarian President surprised everybody by the erectness of his bearing and the firmness of his voice. He looked fit and well.

In the President's entourage was Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, the President's son and aid, Col. Oscar von Hindenburg, and his political secretary, Dr. Otto Meissner. The President again declined to take a physician along.

From Speyer President von Hindenburg started by automobile through the palatinate for Ludwigshafen, from where a Rhine steamer was to carry him via Worms to Mayence. His entire trip is to take five days.

Hindenburg Enthusiastically Received at Mayence.

By the Associated Press.

MAYENCE, July 19.—President von Hindenburg, making a triumphal progress through the newly liberated Rhineland, landed here this evening from a river steamer from Ludwigshafen.

All river boats were gay with flags. The city, evacuated only last month by the French army of occupation, was in holiday mood.

The President was received by city authorities and after supper with a few intimate friends retired to the palace where Napoleon once stayed and where Gen. Guillaumat, commander of the French forces of occupation, had his headquarters.

Von Hindenburg's journey today bore witness to his extraordinary popularity. The whole countryside turned out to pay him homage. For miles the roads were lined by peasants lustily cheering the President.

Woman Wins King's Prize With Rifle With 280 Score

Miss Marjorie Foster Outshoots Best Male Marksmen of Kingdom at Bisley——First of Sex to Get Award.

By the Associated Press.

BISLEY, England, July 19.—Miss Marjorie Foster, with a score of 280, today won the King's prize in competition with the best male rifle shots of England and Canada. The King's competition is the culmination of the annual fortnight of rifle shooting at the camp of the National Rifle Association.

Miss Foster, the first woman ever to win the famous prize, runs a chicken farm near here. She was one of the five women entries this year. Her nearest competitors, both men, shot 279 and 278, respectively.

Miss Foster served in the Women's Legion during the World War and entered the competition, which is a service affair, as a driver. She traveled to the range by motorcycle every day.

Rifle experts maintained that a woman could not stand the strain of a fortnight's shooting, but she remained calm to the final moment when, as the winner, she was carried from the range in the historic chair, the closing ceremony of the meet.

This was the second national competition won by a woman over a field of male experts. Miss Winifred Brown, 22 years old, won the King's Cup air race over a 750-mile course July 5.

SENATE VOTES DOWN TWO AMENDMENTS TO TEXT OF PACT

dent's statement that the treaty contains no secret commitments.

A resolution introduced today by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, seeking to put the Senate on record for the "substantial" completion of the tonnage permitted the United States under the treaty, contains the germs of possible trouble. Though the resolution was offered as an independent proposition, not as a reservation to the treaty, it nevertheless has a direct bearing on the treaty contest.

Walsh said he would seek a vote on his proposal prior to the vote on ratification. The possibility was immediately seen by the pro-treaty leaders that if the resolution shoud be adopted, the La Folette-Norris Progressive group, who thus far have gone along for the treaty, would turn against it and endanger ratification. It is no secret that the Progressives will seek to curtail the building program allotted by the treaty.

An effort was made by the treaty supporters to persuade Walsh to accept a vote on his resolution after the vote on the treaty, but when the Senate adjourned for the day no agreement with him had been reached. The leaders expressed confidence, however, that the difficulty would be ironed out.

Senator Johnson of California said after the recess that there had been no agreement on a time for the final vote and would be none. He indicated, however, that the end might be reached Monday.

62 Answer Roll Call.

Sixty-two Senators answered the opening roll call today which leaders considered assured a quorum until the end.

During the reading of the treaty articles, Senators Hale (Rep.), Maine, and Copeland (Dem.), New York, constantly peppered Senator Reed, one of the delegates to London, with questions, thus drawing the proponents into the debate which they had determined to leave entirely to the opponents.

Hale and Copeland read their questions from typewritten papers and Reed called attention to this at one stage as he showed irritation at the constant examination.

Johnson started today's session with resumption of the continuous debate carried on by the treaty opponents for the last three days, but his voice was hoarse and after a short address he yielded for the consideration of the text of the treaty.

Three days of continuous debate carried on by the group of opponents had obviously tired them. Some gave notice today to their leaders they could go on no longer and the end of the fight against the treaty was obviously at hand.

400 NEGROES STORM HAT CLEANING SHOP IN HARLEM

Quarrel of White Proprietor With Woman Customer Results in Outbreak.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A clash between the white proprietor of a hat cleaning and shoe shining establishment in Harlem and a Negro woman customer brought a crowd of 400 Negroes to the shop today and missiles were thrown before police arrived and took the shopkeeper into custody.

Phillip Nassenbaum and an assistant were in the shop when the woman entered and asked for a hat she had left to be cleaned. She thought part of the ribbon on it was missing, and in a quarrel which followed, Nassenbaum, she charged, knocked her down.

The passing Negroes saw the altercation and shouted. A crowd swarmed to the scene, but Nassenbaum held it off by throwing brushes and other articles until a patrolman arrived. He locked Nassenbaum in a rear room and called an emergency squad. Nassenbaum was led to the police station unharmed and was held on an assault charge preferred by the woman.

144 SOVIET ENGINEERS STUDY AT FORD PLANT

Learning Mass Production Methods So They Can Apply Them in Russia.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 19. — As part of the comprehensive plan of the Soviet Government to increase industrial, mining, agricultural and chemical productivity, 144 Russian engineers and workers are learning American mass production methods in the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Co. Among them is one woman, a metallurgist, interested in the heat treatment of steel. Along with men employes she is working in the Ford steel mills.

The agreement between Ford interests and the Soviet Government provides for the intensive training of Russian engineers and workers in practically all departments of the company. As soon as they have completed their studies they will return to Russia and their places here will be taken by others. Fourteen who came here with the first group in July a year ago already have returned and 10 of the 144 now here will return this month. Eventually 500 Russians will have spent an average of not less than six months each in the plant.

Part of the great industrialization plan of the Soviets is the erection by the Government of the autostroy plant near Nijni Novgorod, on the Volga River. S. Bondarchik, head of the group of Russians now here, said today that the production of automobile parts should be well under way in the autostroy plant by the end of next year.

When completed the autostroy plant will have a capacity of 140,000 cars annually and it will be so designed that production can be extended to 300,000 cars annually.

"The Russian engineers and technicians who are here are employes of autostroy, which, translated, means automobile builders," said Bondarchik. "However, there are some from the other Soviet trusts, such as electricians, textile engineers, rubber experts and so on. Each man is engaged in the studies relating to his own work and when he completes them he returns to Russia."

Bondarchik said 9000 persons are being employed in the building of the main plant at Nijni Novgorod and the community to accommodate those who will work it. Production will be undertaken a little at a time as the plant progresses.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Senar George W. Norris will leave the pital next week for Nebraska to n his campaign for renominan on the Republican ticket, folwing the action of the Nebraska preme Court in ruling the name George W. Paul Johnson, a Broken Bow atorney, was questioned regarding a eeting with the grocer in Lincoln. ohnson admitted that he sought he grocer to withdraw his canidacy and said he had prepared n affidavit of withdrawal. The ttorney said he went to Lincoln t the request of Yale Huffman, a Broken Bow banker and friend of enator Norris.

At the conclusion of the hearing enator Nye said the candidacy of he Broken Bow groceryman "was ot one of good faith in any deree." He added he would hold rivate conferences in Lincoln toorrow and indicated a further estigation would be made.

. D. Ream, State master of the range, a farm organization, testied that he thought the filing was plot to defeat Senator Norris in is campaign for re-election.

ORRIS GOING TO NEBRASKA

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Senar George W. Norris will leave the pital next week for Nebraska to n his campaign for renominaon on the Republican ticket, folowing the action of the Nebraska upreme Court in ruling the name f George W. Norris, youthful Broken Bow grocer, off the ballot. Only prompt action by the Court revented Senator Norris from ithdrawing from the Republican rimary to run for re-election as n independent candidate.

It was ascertained today that a epresentative of the Senator was n Lincoln, the State capital, yeserday, with authority to withdraw is name in case the Court failed o act, or acted adversely. Last ight marked the end of the period ixed by Secretary of State Marsh hen candidates would be permited to withdraw.

Tangle Straightened Out.

Under Marsh's ruling, which held at Grocer Norris was eligible, otwithstanding that his papers ere received two days after the iration of the legal filing period, d that no designation could be aced on the ballots enabling votrs to tell the two Morrises apart, would not only have been impossible for voters to know whom ey were voting for, but also ould have been impossible for lection officials to know for which orris to count the votes.

Immediately after mailing his ng papers, Grocer Norris disppeared, with his family, but in e hearings before the Secretary f State and the Supreme Court, e was represented by a prominent ttorney of North Platte. It was earned today that a friend of enator Norris, seeking information oncerning Grocer Norris' candiacy, yesterday trailed Grocer Norris' attorney from Lincoln to Omaha, after the court hearing. He reported that the attorney proeeded immediately to the general ffices of the Burlington Railroad.

Norris Testimonials Stolen.

Incident to the effort to defeat enator Norris, Judson King, direcr of the National Popular Govrnment League, with offices here, oday made a new disclosure. ing, who has been preparing a mpaign pamphlet in Senator Nor' behalf, containing many inrsements from prominent liberals ughout the country, reported that his office was opened with a skeleton key, four nights ago, and all the original copies of the indorsements stolen.

King had taken the precaution to make extra copies of most of them, taking them home, but in the case of the others he was compelled to ask the authors to furnished new copies. Aside from these testimonials, nothing of value was taken from the office except a fountain pen, he said.

Norris said he was gratified by the action of the Supreme Court, and surprised that it had acted so promptly. His preparations to withdraw from the Republican primary and run as an independent had been based on the supposition that it would be impossible to obtain a decision from the court before the primary date, Aug. 12. Information received here indicated that the regular Republican leaders in Nebraska were tremendously relieved over the development, as they feared Norris' presence as an independent in the campaign might result in the defeat of the entire Republican ticket.

"Once the court decided to act, there was no doubt about its decision," Norris said today. "There was only one side to the question. The law plainly fixes the end of the filing period, and numerous courts have held that the date applies to the actual receipt of the papers by the Secretary of State.

"As for refusing to permit the identification of two candidates having identical names on the ballot—it is perfectly absurd. The law certainly intends that voters shall be able to tell whom they are voting for, and it certainly intends that election officials shall know how to count the ballots after they are cast. Any contention to the contrary is simply ridiculous."

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 19.—Scorching winds continued to threaten growing farm crops in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma while the mercury again rose above 100 in many parts of the two states this afternoon. Low humidity made the abnormal temperatures more endurable. Farm crops, particularly corn, were burning severely under the intense rays of the sun.

Relief is predicted by the Govern Weather Bureau for this section, with local showers expected early next week and a break in the heat wave by mid-week.

Salina, Kan., registered 104; Concordia, 103; Topeka, 101; Coffeyville, 101, and Dodge City, 100.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 19.—Mrs. Susanna Bransford Emery-Holmes, married in Paris today to Dr. Radovan Nedelkov Delitch, had been twice previously married to prominent and wealthy men of this city. She is 71 years of age.

Her first husband was A. B. Emery, former speaker of the Utah House of Representatives and cofounder of the Silver King mines at Park City, Utah. Her elaborate entertainments here brought her the title of "the silver queen."

After Emery's death, she married Edwin F. Holmes, with large lumber interests at Oscoda, Mich. He purchased for her the Amelia Palace, home of one of Brigham Young's wives, where her social triumphs were repeated. Some 25 years ago, out of deference to public sentiment, the property was returned to the Latter Day Saints Church, and Col. Holmes provided her a palatial home at Pasadena, Cal. He died three years ago.

Mrs. Delitch is a sister of John S. Bransford, former Mayor of Salt Lake City.

EUROPE NOT READY FOR FEDERATION, IRELAND DECLARES

In Reply to Briand, Free State Suggests League Program Might Accomplish Same Object.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 19. — The Irish Free State, like Great Britain, gives the European union idea cool treatment in a note received by the Foreign Office today responding to Minister Briand's recent questionnaire.

The reply agrees with the principle of co-operation but thinks the League of Nations program which, it says is far from being achieved, would accomplish the objects of such a federation.

The Irish Free State note suggests that "conditions in Europe and the sentiment of common interests are not yet sufficiently strong to justify the assumption that members of such a union generally would take the collective responsibility in problems which did not concern them individually."

The response also reminds Briand that Ireland, through emigration, has strong links outside of Europe, particularly in America and Australia, creating "between the Irish Free State and those regions of the world a tie of moral union not exceeded in any way by that which exists between Ireland and other European States."

Paris Fears British Reply Endangers Proposal.

(Copyright, 1930, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, July 19.—The British reply to the memorandum of Foreign Minister Briand suggesting formation of a federal union of European states has dealt such a severe blow to the project that in some quarters here it is now thought to be doomed, at least in the form originally conceived.

London's criticisms of Briand's plan are regarded as sound and justified by many French political observers and commentators in the press.

"Eyes have been opened to the probable consequences of too ambitious a scheme," says Le Journal des Debats, referring by implication to the fact that both Germany and Italy made use of Briand's memorandum to hint at revision of the treaty of Versailles. "The wisest thing is not to insist further, but to reduce the project to modest proportions.

"Some of the replies received show a good way of arranging everything without wounding anybody. Sweden suggests a mere convocation of European states during regular meetings of the League of Nations with a view to general debate whenever that might be thought desirable.

"England proposes eventual formation of European committees of the Assembly, Council and technical sections of the League. She would also like Briand's project to be discussed at the next assembly of the League of Nations.

"These ideas are worth examining. Their adoption would remove evident objections to the original scheme."

The Quai d'Orsay is editorially urged not to consider its honor pledged in pursuit of the enterprise. The opinion is voiced in several quarters that reasonable adaptation of the scheme to provide some kind of a European union could then be made possible.

UNITED STATES LINES SEEK SHIP LOAN OF $60,000,000

Plans for Two Super-Leviathans Sent to Hoover's Advisory Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Documents relating to the pending sale of two Government-owned steamship lines and an application for $60,000,000 of Government funds with which to build two super-Leviathans were prepared today by the Shipping Board for delivery to President Hoover's Advisory Committee on Shipping.

Ira Campbell, secretary of the committee, asked that the documents be sent to him in New York, where the committee has begun work.

The proposals to be studied first are the application of the United States Lines for money with which to build the two ships and the offer of the same lines to purchase the American Diamond and America France steamship lines as contrasted with the bids of the present operators of these ships, the Black Diamond and the Cosmopolitan Steamship Co.

Samuel Goodacre, secretary of the Shipping Board, said the information requested and other general data would be forwarded to Campbell as soon as possible.

SECOND GRASS FIRE IN 2 DAYS COVERS 50 ACRES IN COUNTY

Blaze on John Bopp Farm Checked After Two Hours by Plowing Furrows.

A grass fire, the second in two days, burned over 50 acres of ground on John Bopp's farm on the east side of Ballas road, just south of the Clayton road, yesterday afternoon.

The fire, which is thought to have been started by a cigarette thrown from a passing automobile, was discovered at noon, and caddies from the Crystal Lake Country Club near by assisted in beating out the flames. The Manchester Fire Department was called, but its apparatus was useless because of the absence of a water supply. The fire was checked after two hours by the plowing of furrows. A dry creek bed protected Bopp's buildings.

The fire was about a quarter of a mile south of the blaze which burned over 200 acres, including a barn and a large strip of woods between Clayton and Conway roads Friday. Lack of rain caused grass and undergrowth to burn readily.

DEMANDS INQUIRY INTO NEW YORK CORRUPTION

G. O. P. Leader in State Senate Urges Gov. Roosevelt to Investigate City's Affairs.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19.—Senator John Knight of Arcade, majority leader of the State Senate, in a formal statement tonight, told Gov. Roosevelt that in view of recent scandals, an investigation into New York City's government was imperative. He said that only the State could investigate properly. That the Republican-controlled Legislature would do everything it could to assist the inquiry, and that all that was lacking was a call from the Governor for an extra session to enact the legislation necessary for the investigation.

In his statement, given by telephone from his home, Knight said that the Board of Standards and Appeals of New York City "has been brought under the gravest suspicion as a source of graft heretofore unequalled."

"The chairman of the board," he said, "has been indicted in both Federal and State courts; the leading practitioner before the board, Dr. William F. Doyle, is under indictment and under sentence for contempt and has been shown to have received at least $2,000,000 in fees during the last two years; and these fees he admits he has split with others.

"It has been shown that leases of city piers have been bartered to non-American steamship lines for huge fees under circumstances that indicate corruption in public office. County Judge Vause, the recipient of these fees, is also under indictment for using the mails to defraud; City Magistrate Ewald has been forced to resign after his indictment for conspiracy and for using the mails to defraud in a stock-selling scheme; and documentary evidence has been produced to indicate this same Magistrate dispensed favors from the bench at the behest of high city officials and Tammany politicians.

"These amazing disclosures have been made by the Federal attorney acting under the very limited authority he has under the Federal law. The situation plainly calls for an investigation not limited to violations of Federal law."

Socialist State Convention Asks for Inquiry by Commission.

By the Associated Press.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 19.—Asserting that the New York City administration is honeycombed with graft and corruption, the Socialist party state convention here today asked Gov. Roosevelt to call an extraordinary session of the Legislature to appoint a multipartisan commission to investigate the administration of the metropolis.

The resolution calling for the investigation said: "The degree of municipal government has reached a new low level in New York City, where a professedly liberal Governor has not dared to offend the New York City machine by investigating any of the open scandals that have disgraced it."

3 YEARS FOR KILLING WOMAN IN AUTO CRASH

Ernest Barnes, in Stolen Car Collided With Another in County.

Ernest Barnes, 26-year-old laborer, pleaded guilty of manslaughter before Circuit Judge Mulloy at Clayton yesterday and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for the death of Mrs. Margaret Roth, who was killed, June 23, in a collision.

Driving a stolen automobile, Barnes collided head-on with an automobile driven by Mrs. Roth's husband, Oliver Roth, 2215A Prather avenue, on Lemay Ferry road near the Meramec River. Mrs. Roth died at Alexian Brothers' Hospital and Roth was injured seriously.

Constable Fassler, who arrested Barnes and a companion, Jeff Leach, reported that both men had been drinking. They were jointly charged with manslaughter, but Leach was exonerated at a preliminary hearing.

The automobile Barnes was driving had been stolen a half hour before the accident from in front of the home of Harold Blumenthal, 209 Bowen street. Blumenthal saw his car being driven away and pursued the thieves in a neighbor's automobile. He arrived at the scene of the collision a few minutes after the crash.

The accident, Buckley said, occurred when he lost control of the car and it overturned.

CANDIDATES TRY TO STIR COUNTY VOTERS' INTEREST

Only the Sewer Question Will Bring Out the Electorate to Political Meetings on Hot Nights.

TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE IMPORTANT FACTOR

Renewed Activity of Fred Essen, Former Republican Boss, Causes Comment—167 Have Filed.

With the St. Louis County primary election scarcely two weeks away, candidates for the 57 offices to be filled are making strenuous efforts to arouse the lagging interest of voters in a campaign which, with one exception, offers no stirring issues.

Voters will select, at the primary Aug. 5, candidates on the two major tickets for nomination for 14 county offices and 43 township offices. There are 167 candidates. County officials to be chosen at the general next November from candidates named at the primary include two Circuit Judges, three State Representatives, Probate Judge, three Judges of the County Court, Prosecuting Attorney, County Clerk, Circuit Clerk, Collector and Recorder of Deeds.

Lack of interest, while not unusual in off-year elections is said to be more pronounced this year than formerly and is exemplified by the decrease in registration from 82,057 in 1928 to 70,867 this year, as announced following an intermediate registration July 1 and a canvass of the last registration in 1928. The decrease is chiefly due to failure of voters who have removed from one precinct to another to transfer their registration at the Election Commissioners' office in Clayton.

Democrats Active.

Numerous political meetings are being held nightly throughout the county, but candidates generally complain that the chief constituents of the meetings are other candidates.

While interest in county politics generally centers on the Republican contests because of the superior strength of that party, members of the minority party have shown an increased interest, forming a "Democratic Organization Committee," and indorsing a group of Democratic candidates both for nomination and election.

The one issue which has been successful in crowding halls, even in the warmest weather, is that of sewers. After a six-month campaign by the Taxpayers' Protective Association, which seeks the repeal of the Ralph sewer law on grounds that it is oppressive, public interest is so alive on the matter that not a single candidate for office has announced in favor of the law. While eight sewer districts have been organized, two have temporarily ceased operation pending legislative action. Meetings of the Taxpayers' Association have been concentrated in districts still operating and candidates for offices have been allowed to speak provided their remarks are limited to their stand on the sewer question.

Wurdeman Opposed.

While the Ralph low opponents have consistently maintained their fight is strictly nonpolitical, proponents point to the candidacy of Orla M. Hill, a leader of the "antis," for Circuit Judge. Hill participates in programs of association meetings, but does not mention his candidacy for office.

The most important political stand taken by the association thus far has been a pronounced opposition to the candidacy of former Circuit Judge G. A. Wurdeman for the Republican nomination for State Representative from the second district. John E. Mooney, attorney and president of the taxpayers' group, said at a recent meetin: "Wurdeman must be defeated if the Ralph law is to be repealed in the Legislature. He has indicated that he favors the law by accepting appointment as an attorney for the Lemay ferry sewer district." Wurdeman's opponents are Herman Barken, University City attorney, and Sam L. Miller of Maplewood, a former postoffice clerk. The Democratic candidate, unopposed, is Ralph C. Lashly, son of Circuit Judge Arthur V. Lashly. The Mooney group has not as yet indicated a choice.

Of the other candidates for the Legislature, the association has announced in favor of the Republican incumbents, William W. Bamber in the First District, and George F. Heege in the Third, both of whom have attacked the Ralph law.

League's Slate Awaited.

Judge Wurdeman's re-entry into politics comes just 40 years after his first venture in that field. Prior to his retirement from the bench in 1927 Judge Wurdeman, who is now 73 years old, had served almost continuously for 37 years in public office, including the offices of State Representative, to which he was elected in 1890 and to which he again aspires, State Senator, Probate Judge and Circuit Judge. His present candidacy came as a surprise to many, in view of his announcement last winter in declining the chairmanship of a courthouse and jail bond issue committee, that his law business was heavy and that "besides, I'm not as young as I used to be."

Candidates for every major county office are awaiting with unfeigned interest the announcement of the slate of the Taxpayers' League, an organization which has been signally successful in putting over its candidates in recent elections. The league has a large subscription membership, but is operated at election times solely by an executive committee of 12, headed by George W. Baumhoff of Valley Park.

The president of the league is James A. Jennings of Richmond Heights, rolling mill foreman and the secretary, Gus Loeffel of Webster Groves, a retired jeweler. Baumhoff said yesterday he considered it inadvisable to give out names of members of the Executive Committee at this time due to harrassment they wolud receive from candidates seeking support.

Essen's Position.

The Taxpayers' League slate will be mailed to approximately 60,000 voters several days before the primary election, and some 40,000 more circulated by other means, according to Jennings. The cost, about $2500, will be defrayed by contributions from committee members and members of the league.

The renewed political activity of Fred Essen, former Republican boss of St. Louis County, is causing comment. Owner of an influential county weekly newspaper, Essen has undoubtedly regained much of his lost strength and has developed a machine to be reckoned with by every candidate for county office.

It is rumored that Essen, in order to strengthen his own position, may throw his support behind the slate of the Taxpayers' League. Officers in which his faction appear to have shown most interest thus far are: Judge of the County Court, Prosecuting Attorney, Recorder of Deeds and County Clerk. Candidates he is expected to support are: Charles N. Gilles of Clayton for Presiding Judge of the County Court; Arthur H. Kuhlmann of University City, Associate Judge, First District; Peter C. Bopp of Kirkwood, Associate Judge, Second District (incumbent); Harry W. Castlen, who is seeking re-election as Prosecuting Attorney; Holman Johnson, 2663 Carson road, who opposes the incumbent, Arthur W. Schmid, for Recorder of Deeds, and Walter E. Miller for County Clerk (incumbent).

Mueller Has Advantage.

A group of candidates who, it is known will not have Essen's support includes Fred E. Mueller, candidate for Circuit Judge, Robert B. Denny, for Prosecuting Attorney, Schmid, for Recorder, Circuit Clerk Oscar Jacobsmeyer, running to succeed himself, and Presiding Judge Albert Wehmeyer and Associate Judge Gardner of the County Court, who seek re-election.

Mueller, former Prosecuting Attorney, is generally conceded to be far in the lead in his chances for nomination. Defeated by fewer than 2000 votes in 1928 by the present occupants of Divisions No. 1 and 2, Judges Nolte and Mulloy, Mueller, with nine other candidates of both parties, now seeks election to one of two new divisions. Judges Lashly and Brackman, appointees for unexpired terms, do not wish to succeed themselves. Mueller has been cleared of two charges of bribery growing out of alleged slot machine operation, for which he was indicted by a special grand jury called by Judge Mulloy before the 1928 primary.

The race for the Republican nomination for Prosecuting Attorney, will be closely contested. Both candidates are working vigorously, Denny promising personal attendance at all felony trials if he is elected, and Castlen pointing to the fact that the county is still "closed up" with reference to gambling, dog racing and other violations.

Another close race will be that for Recorder, both Schmid and Johnson having strong personal followings.

JUNE AUTO OUTPUT 335,475 OFF 210,457 FROM YEAR AGO

On the June total, 289,245 were passenger cars, 45,771 trucks and 459 taxicabs. Canadian production last month totaled 15,090 of which 12,194 were passenger cars and 2896 trucks.

Total production in the United States for the six months ending with June was 2,219,546 of which 1,895,006 were passenger cars, 320,019 trucks and 4521 taxicabs.

Last year production for the six months period totaled 3,224,443 of which 2,763,297 were passenger cars, 451,513 trucks and 10,633 taxicabs, the total reduction in this year's output being a little more than 1,000,000 under that for the first half of 1929.

Canada's total production for the first six months this year was 110,685, including 93,359 passenger cars and 17,326 trucks. These figures compare with a total of 188,361 vehicles during the first half of 1929, which included 151,713 passenger cars and 36,748 trucks.

In June of last year the total production in this country was 545,932, of which 451,371 were passenger cars, 93,183 trucks and 1378 factory built taxicabs.

SAYS WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BOARD IS UNFAIR

Kirksville, Mo., Judge Declares, in Cases Appealed to Him, Commission Favored Insurance Firms.

By the Associated Press.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., July 19.—Circuit Judge Paul D. Higbee delivered an attack on th practice of the Workmen's Compensation Commission during trial here today.

He said the act was passed for the benefit of the working man who had been injured, but from his experiences in cases appealed from the commission to his court the only persons benefited by the act were those who owned the liability insurance companies.

Judge Higbee said that since his appointment as Circuit Judge he has reviewed three cases, and that in each of these the commission had found against the employe in spite of the fact that from two to four reputable physicians and surgeons of Kirksville, who had treated and cared for the injured employes, testified to the injuries and disabilities.

The court said that, if these same physicians had testified as witnesses in a case before any jury of this county their evidence would undoubtedly have been accepted as true. The Judge said that in each of the three cases the insurance company defending the case had placed a St. Louis doctor on the stand, and that this physician testified in substance that the employe was not injured. The commission, he added, evidently saw fit to take the word of the "hireling of the insurance company" rather than the evidence of the local physicians and surgeons.

In one of these cases, said the Judge, two of the doctors who testified for the injured man were those who had been paid by the insurance company to treat the injured, yet when they testified before the commission, it accepted the word of the St. Louis doctor.

BABIES SWITCHED BUT FATHER WANTS ONE HE GOT IN CHANGE

Apparent Mistake by Hospital Discovered After Mother Had Gone Home.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The Charles Bambergers and the William Watkins may have the wrong babies but Bamberger wants the one he has now even if the hospital tag says it belongs to the Watkins.

Both babies were born June 30 at the Englewood Hospital. Both were boys. It was Mrs. Watkins' first and Mrs. Bamberger's third.

Both babies and both mothers did nicely and all were discharged from the hospital on the same day, July 9.

Three days later, Watkins was personally supervising the bathing of his son, christened Charles Evans Watkins. On the baby's back was the piece of hospital identification tape.

It read: "Bamberger."

Half an hour later, Watkins stormed into the Bamberger home, crying "You've got the wrong baby. Yours is mine."

A nurse had just bathed the Bamberger baby and had removed the tab. But she found it and it read: "Watkins."

Hospital authorities said they would make blood tests today to determine the parentage.

ADMITS BEATING AUNT TO DEATH WITH BLACKJACK

Youth Says Saugus, Mass., Relative Had Spoken in Derogatory Fashion of His Mother.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 19.—Bernard Thompson, 26 years old, of Dorchester, Mass., who confessed beating his aunt, Mrs. K. Edith Wight, who was found dead in her home at Saugus, Mass., Wednesday, was taken to Saugus today. Mrs. Wight, a private detective, had been beaten to death with a blackjack.

Thompson said that because of a troubled conscience, he was unable to sleep and this morning, surrendered to the first policeman he met.

He went to the home of his aunt, according to the police version of his story, last Tuesday morning and sat on the sun porch of her home drinking beer and wine with her. His aunt, he said, made several deprecatory remarks about Thompson's mother. He went to a bedroom, got a blackjack and beat her until she fell.

"I guess I must have been out of my head," he said, "but she shouldn't have talked about my mother that way."

RIGHT TO EXCLUDE NEGRO IN PRIMARY UPHELD BY COURT

U. S. Judge Boynton Sustains Action of Texas Democratic County Executive Committee.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., July 19.—Reaffirmation of an opinion that the State Democratic Committee, as individuals and not as a State agency, has a right to bar Negroes from participation in a party primary, was given here today by Judge Charles A. Boynton of the United States District Court.

He dismissed the application of Luther Wiley of San Antonio, who sought to restrain the Bexar County Democratic Committee from carrying out the instructions of the State committee to refuse Negroes a vote in the primaries.

In giving the decision the Judge cited his ruling in the Nixon vs. Congdon case in 1929, involving the same question.

"The Court held in the Nixon case that the Democratic Executive Committee and the county committees are not governmental agents," Judge Boynton said.

Oliver W. Johnson of San Antonio, of counsel for Wiley, said the matter would be pressed further.

In spite of the State committee's action in disqualifying Negroes, the county executive committees of McLennan and Val Verde Counties voted to let them vote.

ITALIAN-AMERICAN METHODIST PILGRIMAGE TO ROME ASSAILED

Tribuna Protests Against Visit of Protestant Group as "Undesirable."

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 19.—The Tribuna today protests editorially against the visit to Italy of an Italian-American Methodist pilgrimage reported to have sailed from New York today on board the steamship Conte Grande.

The newspaper headlines the protest "An undersirable American pilgrimage." The article says "this does not seem a very opportune time to have this Protestant Italo-American pilgrimage with us, in the eighth year of the Fascist regime, which composed differences between the church and state."

The Tribuna article continues:

"Protestants in alliance with Masonry gladly availed themselves of that difference until the day when fascism, restoring the fortunes of Italy, restored its full value to the Catholic faith which is so large a part of the history of civilization of Italy, and dismissed all adulterations which in darkness and in light were poisoning the life of our country."

Referring to a statement that the pilgrimage intended visiting spots in Italy "memorable to protestantism," Tribuna ironically adds:

"This news teaches us something we did not know—that there are in Italy places memorable to Italian Protestantism. In truth, we did not know until now that there was Italian Protestantism and much less that it had memorable spots on our soil."

The vote was taken when the manager asked a Negro to leave the dining room. Some of the guests disagreed with the action and the ballot was cast to decide the question.

STIMSON AGAINST OFFICIAL MISSIONS TO SOVIET RUSSIA

Advises Secretary Mellon to Use Some Other Way of Finding Out About Convict Labor.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Secretary of State Stimson has advised Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that the State Department looks with disfavor upon suggestions that official missions be sent into Soviet Russia.

It was recently suggested that the Treasury Department would send a representative into Russia to investigate the production of goods by convict labor, forbidden entry into the United States under the Hawley-Smoot tariff act.

Stimson said today that, while the State Department favored the gathering of necessary information on such subjects, in so far as it concerned the Soviet, with which the United States has no diplomatic relations, some other method should be employed. The two secretaries and Secretary of Commerce Lamont held an informal meeting recently to discuss the matter.

BRITAIN IS SETTLING CLAIMS OF SUBJECTS AGAINST MEXICO

Consulate Advises Steps to Be Taken; Period Involved Prior to Aug. 28, 1925.

The British Consulate in St. Louis has issued an announcement that the British Government is in process of presenting to the Mexican Government claims of British subjects against Mexico, arising from occurrences before the renewal of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Mexico, Aug. 28, 1925.

British subjects holding such claims, the announcement says, should notify the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Foreign Office, Downing street, S. W. 1, London. Full particulars of the claim should be stated. British claimants residing in the United States should communicate particulars of their claims to the British legation at Mexico City.

"This announcement," it is stated, "does not refer to claims arising from revolutionary acts which took place in Mexico between Nov. 20, 1910, and May 31, 1920. No further action is required in regard to such claims, provided they fall within the scope of the Anglo-Mexican Special Claims Commission, which is at present considering them."

BONDING COMPANY OFFICIAL SPENDS THREE HOURS IN JAIL

Contempt Charge Against Alan Gimpel, Who Was Released on Habeas Writ.

Alan Gimpel, credit manager of the National Bond and Investment Co., spent three hours in City Jail yesterday on a contempt of court charge before being released on a preliminary writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Becker of the Court of Appeals.

The habeas corpus writ, directed against Sheriff Strodtman, is returnable Wednesday. The contempt order was granted by Circuit Judge Sprague on motion of R. B. Johnson, 4952 Floy avenue, who alleged that Gimpel, as agent of the bond and investment company, failed to comply with an order directing return of an automobile replevined by the company. Johnson furnished a forthcoming bond which Judge Sprague held entitled him to the automobile. Counsel for the company argued that the Court was without jurisdiction to recognize the bond.

The company claims it has a mortgage on the car on which $170.63 is due, but Johnson asserts only $115.73 is due. Gimpel lives at Hotel Coronado.

The tract is in the foothills of the Ozarks. The owners plan to utilize five large springs on the tract to feed a five-acre lake, which they intend to stock with rainbow and mountain trout.

Birmingham is in the hardware business in St. James. The tract has been named Olivia Springs. Construction of several three-room bungalows for the convenience of hunters and fishermen has been begun.

'GHOST' CAMEL IS AN ALBINO

ADELAIDE, Australia, July 19.—What natives believed to be the ghost of a camel and what zoo authorities believe is the first pure white camel in existence, has been discovered near the Wirraminna cattle station.

With the increase in automobiles, thousands of camels have been turned loose to fend for themselves. Within recent months rumors of a "holy" camel disturbed aborigine camps. R. K. Jenkins, manager of the cattle station, determined to investigate and discovered the animal to be an albino. It now is in the Adelaide zoo.

FIRE IN WAREHOUSE ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

Unoccupied Building at 1014 South Vandeventer Burns Loss $20,000.

A three-alarm fire in an unoccupied warehouse at 1014 South Vandeventer avenue at noon yesterday caused $20,000 damage to the roof and interior structure.

A large crowd of spectators was attracted by the dense smoke from the oil-soaked timbers and tar roofing. The fire was extinguished in half an hour.

The cause was not ascertained, as no one has occupied the building since the D. D. Murphy Shows used it as winter quarters several years ago. Previous to that it was occupied by the American Bridge Co.

Sixteen units of fire apparatus were summoned. Firemen directed their attention to keeping the flames in the center building of the five in the group in which the blaze started, a three-story brick section with wooden beams and a trussed roof.

Hundreds of spectators hung over the tops of board fences in the neighborhood, lined the Chouteau avenue viaduct on the north, and stood in weed patches separating the property from the Huttig Sash and Door Co., on the south, and the storage lot of the Independent Oil Co. on the north, to watch firemen throw streams of water through the broken windows into the empty interior and onto the vari-colored remains of circus equipment.

Traffic was blocked on Vandeventer avenue south of Chouteau avenue, Southampton street cars being taken west to the route of the Sarah street line. Automobile traffic was diverted from Chouteau avenue at Grand boulevard and from Vandeventer avenue several blocks north of Chouteau avenue.

CAHOKIA DOG TRACK TO OPEN AUG. 3, BUT WITHOUT BETTING

St. Clair County Fair Will Be Held in Arena There Also Sept. 8-14.

The Mississippi Valley Kennel Club dog track at Cahokia will open Aug. 3 with a modified form of dog-racing as one of a number of special features. The St. Clair County Fair will likewise be held in the arena there Sept. 8-14.

The plant was originally opened the night of Oct. 25, 1929, but was closed before any races had been run as a result of an injunction forbidding use of an electrical rabbit installed there. Permission for its lease to the St. Clair County Fair Association was granted yesterday by Circuit Judge Bernreuter of Belleville. Several members of the fair association were interested in the original venture.

No betting will be permitted in connection with the dog races or automobile and horse races which are scheduled as part of the track activities. The difficulty over the electrical rabbit, however, has been straightened out.

A crowd of 6000 persons was in readiness at the opening of the track last October when Federal officers served a copy of the restraining order obtained by Mrs. Hannah Smith, widow of Owen P. Smith, inventor of the mechanical rabbit, on grounds of patent infringement. 'Had that move proved unavailing. Deputy Sheriffs were ready with a blanket gambling warrant to close the tracks by arrests after the first race had been run. With the plant closed, its course ran afoul of injunctions, disagreements within the organization and finally receivership. The new policy for its operation will attempt to make it an amusement place with carnival concessions and exhibition races.

LETTERS URGE CO-OPERATION IN ABATEMENT OF SMOKE

League Writes Coal Dealer, Furnace Makers and Improvement Associations.

The Citizens' Smoke Abatement League has sent letters to coal dealers, furnace manufacturers and improvement associations seeking to enlist their aid in the campaign to reduce smoke in St. Louis next winter. The letter points ou that St. Louis last year was the smokiest of all American cities, according to a survey published by the Litrary Digest.

Coal dealers are advised to recommend proper fuel to householders and advise them of correct firing methods. Furnace manufacturers and improvement associations, the letter suggests, should bring to the attention of their customers and members the advisadility of putting heating plants in good condition.

FIREMEN MAY ENTER HOMES FOR INSPECTION AFTER AUG. 1

Fine $25 to $500 for Refusing Them Admission to Residences or Places of Business.

Fire Chief Alt called attention yesterday to an ordinance recently enacted which will become effective Aug. 1, giving firemen authority to enter any residence or place of business for inspection between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m., or at an ytime in case of emergency.

He said firemen making inspections in prevention work had been hampered heretofore because they had to be accompanied by a building inspector of a policeman. The new ordinance provides a fine of $25 to $500 for refusing admission to a fireman seeking to make an inspection.

ENGINEER SAYS DRY AGENTS FIRED AT AUTO

Maryland Highway Employe Sends Complaint to New Prohibition Chief.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 19.—A complaint was sent to Amos W. W. Woodcock, new prohibition chief, today by E. G. Duncan, State Road Engineer, charging that his automobile, containing himself and his wife, was fired on by two men who represented themselves to be prohibition agents last Wednesday night. He said the men searched his automobile.

The letter, made public here by the State officer, said an automobile bearing a license tag issued in the District of Columbia to the United States Treasury Department, followed his machine with all lights out. The lights suddenly flashed on and two shots were fired. He stopped, he said in the letter, and the occupants of the second machine accosted him.

They told him, he said, they were prohibition agents and one said his name was Ofstedel. They searched his machine and allowed him to proceed when no liquor was found, the complaint cited.

Duncan sent a copy of his letter to Attorney-General Thomas H. Robinson, and intimated further action would be taken. The engineer is of a prominent family and has been in the road commission employ for eight years, stationed at Upper Marylboro, near Washington.

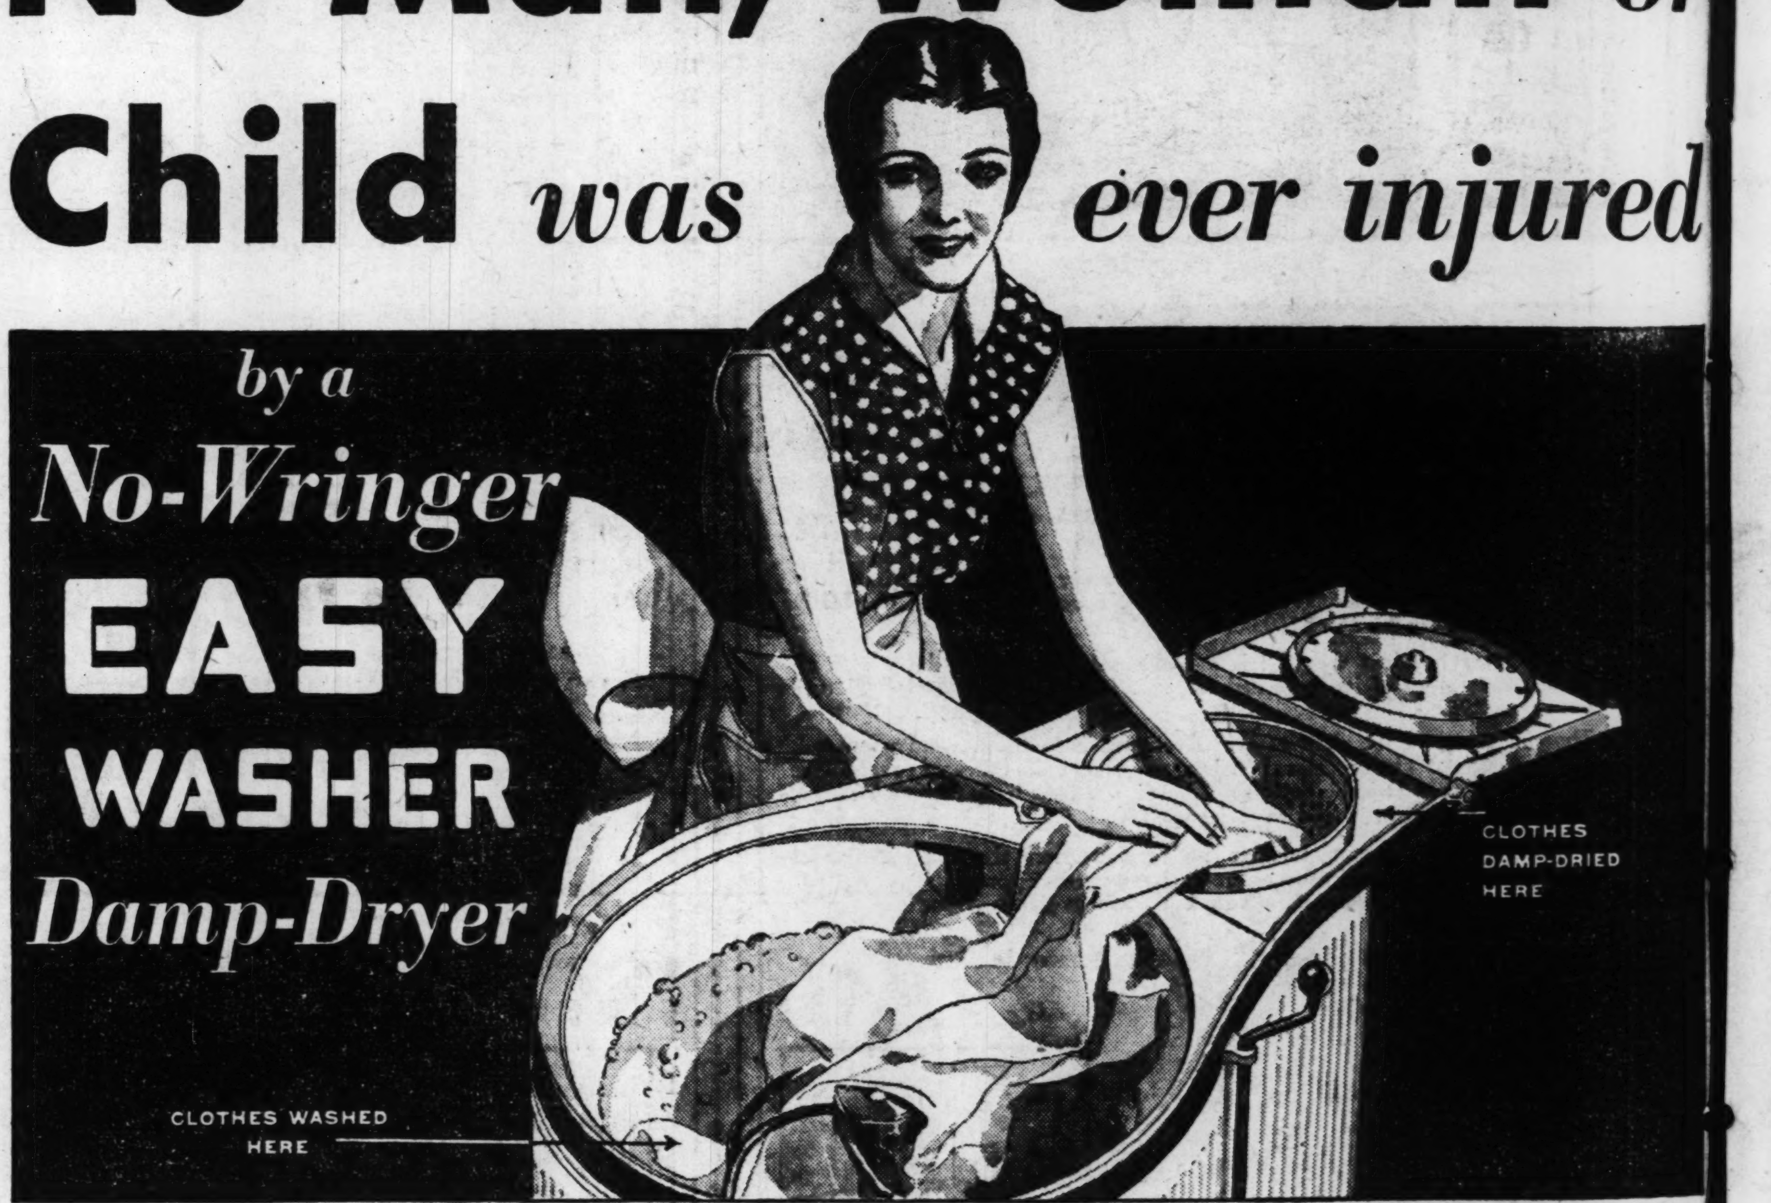
No-Wringer

EASY WASHER

Damp-Dryer



The No-Wringer EASY Does many EXTRA things no other Washer will do!

Before you buy a washing machine—think! Don't buy it on price alone. Why are you buying it? How long will you use it? What is the value of the clothes to be washed in it? How much time and labor will it save? Is it safe?

Investigate! Inspect other makes of washers as well as the EASY. See if you can find a single other washer which can do all the extra things the no-wringer EASY does.

The no-wringer EASY is more than a washing machine. It does many extra things that no other washer will do. Its centrifugal Damp-Dryer whirls the water out of a tubful of clothes in less than two minutes. All you do is touch a lever.

Probably the first appeal of this modern washer is absolute safety. No man, woman or child has ever been injured by the no-wringer EASY Damp-Dryer.

But it does away with more than a wringer. With it there are no broken buttons or torn clothes—no deep hard-to-iron creases. Rinsing can be done without handling clothes until ready for the line. Even the water is emptied for you electrically.

Sounds miraculous, maybe, but the new no-wringer EASY does all these extra things. And we will gladly prove it in your own home—with your own clothes.

A Week's Washing Free

Phone the nearest EASY dealer for a free demonstration. He will bring a new EASY to your home and show you a miracle in washing clothes—any day you say.

CAROL GOES WITH HELEN TO SERVICE FOR FERDINAND

Rumanian King and Queen Thought to Be Reconciled on First Journey Together Since His Return.

MOVE TO ANNOUNCE DIVORCE ANNULMENT

Ruler, Aboard Special Train Calls Meeting of Cabinet to Prepare the Official Decree.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, July 19.—King Carol and Queen Helen of Rumania rode out to Curtea de Arges today to a memorial service for King Ferdinand, Carol's father, and for the time being, at least, put away the marital troubles which had separated them.

Appearing for a journey together for the first time in public since Carol's return, the royal pair was thought by the populace, which had awaited such a gesture, to have composed the last of their differences.

Support was given to that opinion when, aboard the private train which took them with Queen Marie, Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana and others to the ceremony, King Carol called a Cabinet meeting to draft the legal formula announcing annulment of her divorce.

Friends of both had pressed them to settle their troubles and officials close to the King had emphasized that Mme. Magda Lupescu, companion of Carol's exile, would not come to Rumania to mar their marital happiness.

Announcement of annullment of the divorce is generally expected by court circles on the return of the royal pair to Bucharest.

The public hopes their marital problem will be officially settled in time for Helen to share the throne with Carol at the coming state coronation.

It was announced tonight the King within a few days personally would broadcast a speech to the nation.

YOUTH ARRESTED IN STOLEN CAR SAYS HE PLANNED HOLDUP

Lee Le Sage Caught in St. Charles; Was on His Way to Kansas City.

A youth, who said he is Lee Le Sage, 19 years old, 5913 Coronado avenue, was arrested by Sheriff Grothe in St. Charles yesterday after an automobile he was driving collided with another. He said he had stolen the car from the wash rack at a filling station at 3970 Wilmington avenue, intending to rob someone on a drive to Kansas City.

In the youth's possession were found an imitation revolver that flicked cigarettes out at pressure of the trigger, a six-inch dagger, eight revolver cartridges and a black sock with holes that fitted his eyes like a mask. He said he had been out of employment since December, when he lost his job as a movie usher, and had had difficulty at home.

$850,000 BONDS BRUNK APPROVED BARRED BY BOARD

Fund Commission Rejected Other Collateral Than St. Louis Apartment House Issue.

EXCLUDED LAND BANK SECURITIES

Also Declared Drainage District Paper Unacceptable as Guaranty of State Deposits.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—When Gov. Caulfield and Attorney-General Shartel disapproved $100,000 of bonds of the Pierre Chouteau Apartments, St. Louis, which had been posted by the defunct Farmers' National Bank of Marshfield to secure a deposit of State funds, they also disapproved $750,000 of other collateral which had been posted with State Treasurer Brunk, an examination of records here disclosed today.

Sitting as the Board of Fund Commissioners, of which Brunk is a member, the Governor and the Attorney-General in January rejected $300,000 of Pierre Chouteau bonds; $235,000 of bonds of drainage districts in Southeast Missouri; $160,000 of bonds issued by Joint Stock Land Banks, and $150,000 of bonds of Federal Land Banks.

During the past week, the Pierre Chouteau bonds have been the center of a dispute between Brunk and Shartel, each asserting that the other was responsible for their acceptance as collateral although the bond issue represented more than 50 per cent of the value of property, a violation of the law governing acceptable collateral. Brunk said Shartel approved the bonds a year ago when they were issued and Shartel said he did not know of their existence until the Fund Commission's meeting.

The drainage district bonds, specifically approved by law, were rejected because no active market exists for them as a result of the failure of some districts to maintain interest payments. During 1929, Brunk encouraged banks to substitute other collateral for drainage bonds and did not accept drainage bonds as additional collateral. In this way $260,000 of the bonds were weeded out last year.

The other bonds were rejected under the statute which provides that the Treasurer may accept as collateral only bonds of some unit of the Government and real estate notes secured by first mortgages on Missouri real estate, where the value of the property is double the amount of the loan.

The land bank bonds were not issued as those of a unit of the Government, the commission held.

About $500,000 of Pierre Chouteau bonds, part of $650,000 issue secured by property valued by the promoters at $1,100,000, were sold last year to Missouri bankers by William H. Norwine, St. Louis bond salesman, who represented to his customers that they had been approved by Gov. Caulfield, Shartel and Brunk.

When the Marshfield bank failed last month, Brunk found he was still holding $100,000 of the bonds as part of collateral posted by the Marshfield bank to secure a State deposit of $153,000.

CUBAN PRESIDENT REGULATES AVERAGE PRICE OF RAW SUGAR

Appoints Commission, One Member of Which Is Secretary of Agriculture.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 19.—President Machado today issued a decree regulating the average price of cuban raw sugar fixed upon the basis of New York and London transactions and appointed a commission to govern sales. Eugenio Molinet, Secretary of Agriculture, a representative of the mill owners and another for the growers will comprise the board.

Consuls at New York and London will be instructed to employ specialists to study conditions affecting the market. The Agriculture Department will be notified of all transactions within 24 hours. On the basis of data thus obtained daily prices will be issued f. o. b. Cuban ports.

Prices will be determined on a basis of 96 degrees polarization, the unit being a bag of 325 net pounds.

The Secretary of Agriculture will regulate prices for exportation at Matanzas, Cardenas, Cagua, Cienfuegos and Manzanillo. Daily, fortnightly and monthly averages will be published in the official gazette. The effect is intended to be an end of disagreements over sales and prices and creation of stability.

FORMER EGYPTIAN PREMIER ANSWERS BRITISH WARNING

Head of Nationalist Party Says Nation Always Has Welcomed and Protected Foreign Guests.

ACCEPTS PLEDGE OF NEUTRALITY

Declares Country Is Only Defending Constitution Against Ministry Encroaching on Its Authority

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 19.—Former Premier Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafd (Nationalist) party, today followed the example of his successor, Premier Sidky Pasha, in replying to the British Government's warning that he equally with the Egyptian Government would be held responsible if foreign lives and interests were endangered.

After welcoming the British Government's declaration of neutrality in the present situation, the Wafd leader says:

"The Egyptian nation, which by its very nature, is inclined to peace and tranquility and which has always warmly welcomed foreign guests, occupies itself unceasingly with their security, surrounds them with care and lavishes solicitude upon them.

"It profoundly deplores the sad events which have happened in the country against its wishes. These events have been caused by the conduct by the Ministry in the present constitutional crisis and the nation is only defending the Constitution against a ministry which is encroaching upon its authority."

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"

—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

G. O. P. CANDIDATES ADDRESS WOMEN'S HOTEL LUNCHEON

Congressman Niedringhaus Predicts 9-Foot Channel From Minneapolis and Chicago to Gulf.

Republican candidates for Congress, State superintendent of schools, the State Senate and the State House of Representatives addressed the Republican Woman's Club at luncheon at Hotel Statler yesterday.

Congressman Niedringhaus, seeking re-election in the Tenth District without opposition, was the only congressional candidate present. He told how Congress had passed the largest rivers and harbors appropriation on record, taking good care of the Upper Mississippi and the Missouri, and predicted that in a few years there would be a nine-foot channel from Minneapolis and Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico. He referred to passage of a bill providing more capital to obtain barge equipment for the Government's Inland Waterways Corporation and said additional barges should be provided particularly for cheap transportation for agricultural districts. He told of encouraging legislation to permit mentally afflicted St. Louis war veterans to have bed space at an Excelsior Springs (Mo.) hospital.

Other Candidates Present.

The three candidates for State Superintendent of Schools—John H. Gehrs, Cape Girardeau; Don Mathews, Sullivan, and W. S. Smith, Excelsior Springs—were present. Gehrs said he was the author of seven agricultural books and read a letter from a St. Louis school principal praising his ability. Atkins said candidates ought to tell the State of the value of education and he told the meeting that his wife and four children constituted reasons for his nomination. Smith, the nominee four years ago, who got a majority here then, said he hadn't changed much in the interim and felt the reasons for voting for him remained the same.

William Maffitt Bates, seeking re-election for State Senator in the Thirty-second District, explained that he was unopposed, the Supreme Court having ruled his opponent off the ballot on Friday. A son of Charles Forster Sr., who was seeking nomination in the Thirtieth senatorial district, spoke for his father, unaware that the court's action had caused the Election Board to strike the elder Forster and Senator Depelheuer's only other opponent from the ballot yesterday.

An epitome of the three-minute remarks of candidates for State Representatives' places who were present follow:

First District.

Louis C. Hehl, incumbent—"I did everything I promised in campaigns two and four years ago. The only promise anyone can make is to support good and oppose bad legislation."

Robert F. Miller—"I have not withdrawn."

Walter C. Ploeser—Spoke in behalf of younger Republicans who aspire to improve politics, and praised the club for opening its meeting with the national anthem and an invocation.

Arthur J. Nicolay—Cautioned voters to scratch sufficent legislative candidates to avoid invalidating their ballots for that office.

Speaker for Munro Roberts—Pointed out that two woman candidates, unlike some of the men, had not had to be stopped when speaking time expired.

Charles Ehrhart—Was a Representative 34 years ago, in "Government service" for 31 years and wants to serve the people the rest of his life.

Second District.

Albert J. Applebaum, incumbent—Introduced bills against deed of trust frauds, which the last House passed but the Senate defeated. Said: "Passing laws to make it impossible to buy firearms, creating a central bureau of criminal identification and things of that kind will accomplish more than difficult reform of criminal procedure."

Mrs. Adolphe Neuville—"I think there is an absolute need for women in the Legislature. We have never had one there from St. Louis. I am not subsidized by any organization and I want you to come to me, but I'm not going to be an interpleader. I'm not going to be there straddling issues and pussyfooting, but will act straight from the shoulder."

Charles F. Meier—"I'll not make any promises of what I'll do, but I assure you that you will not be ashamed of what I do when I get there."

Clifford C. Rens, a former Representative—Would do the same as in his past service.

Claude B. Ricketts, Incumbent—Was a member of the Governor's State Survey Commission and introduced the bills for rapid transit in St. Louis. Has been all over the State, knows conditions and believes he can be of service. Realizes the recommendations of the survey group cannot all be carried out at once.

Alvin A. Wolff—Was pleased that this club would hear candidates for the Legislature, since many political meetings, for lack of time, only called on them for bows, but the offices are not of small importance, since the legislators make the laws. Wants St. Louis, with about one-fourth of the State's population, but only about one-eighth of the legislative representation, to have the best possible representation.

Third District:

David Berger—"I'm not a politician. My mother is crazy about me. I'm 34½ years old and single, which is a tough break for me. I had nothing to do and my father had a little money so I studied law; knew some big Republicans and got in a law office, but now I'm a shirt manufacturer. If you feel I'm full of too much of this bunkobunkorum, scratch me."

Fourth District:

Miss Georgina Raby—"Some of us need votes in the primary; it might be too late in the general election. It's like the dying Irishman, who smelled doughnuts cooking and sent for one, but his wife said, 'You can't have any, they're for the wake.'"

Fifth District:

Joseph W. Davis, Incumbent—"I'm proud of what I did in the Legislature, which was for the best interests of St. Louis, and if you send me back, I'll repeat."

M. F. Doud—Followed legislative proceedings of 40 years and wrote the bill estabiishing the State Veterinarian's office, also aided the agricultural school of the State University. Said he lost 2000 votes in a previous campaign because his candidacy was linked with that of a dry candidate for Governor.

Richard Goodenough, a former Representative—"I hope I'm good enough to go back. As a printer, I'm engaged in reading proof on the Revised Statutes, and am gaining experience that way. If elected, I'll always watch the interests of ladies and children."

DENIES BAD CONDITIONS EXIST AT SOLDIERS' HOME

Resolution by St. James Spanish War Veterans Sent to Gov. Caulfield.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—A resolution by the Gen. A. R. Chaffee Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, of St. James, which denies that bad conditions exist at the Federal Soldiers' Home at St. James, has been received by Gov. Caulfield.

The resolution was adopted in answer to a resolution by the Department of Missouri, United Spanish War Veterans, in June, in which it is charged that the Soldiers' Home is a "blot on the escutcheon of Missouri."

The St. James Camp condemned what it called the "sniping tactics" of those responsible for the attack, and declared that conditions are good at the home.

Gov. Caulfield has indicated his intention of appointing a disinterested committee to investigate conditions at the home.

KILLED AT AIRPORT CEREMONY

St. Joseph (Mo.) Stunt Flyer Crashes at Creston, Ia.

CRESTON, Ia., July 19.—Joseph Londergran, 30 years old, of St. Joseph, Mo., was killed today when his airplane crashed during the dedication of Creston's airport.

The accident occurred when he was unable to bring his machine out of a spin. Londergran was rushed from the field but died on the way to a hospital. His exhibition was part of an aerial circus.

KILLS SELF, CHEATS HANGMAN

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., July 19.—William (Red) O'Brien, Oakland bank robber and slayer sentenced to hang next Friday, committed suicide today in his cell in condemned row.

Guards found O'Brien's body at breakfast. Warden James Holohan thinks poison had been smuggled into the cell.

An Old Prescription for Stomach Discomforts

ASAFOETIDA was well known to your grandparents. Doctors prescribed it in liquid form for baby's cramps. Grownups took it in pills as a laxative. RUPANER TABLETS contain ASAFOETIDA. Mixed with other good drugs they give relief to those who suffer with gas, stomach discomfort and constipation. They will not gripe. It will pay you to get a 25c box today.

Tee off with golf balls your tooth paste pays for Intelligent people, recognizing the remarkable cleansing powers of Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢, buy it instead of dentifrices in the 50¢ class. The average saving is $3 a year. Spend it as you please. Golf balls are merely a suggestion.

See teeth whiten!

Feel your mouth grow healthier

EVEN those whose teeth are hard to whiten comment on how swiftly, yet how gently, Listerine Tooth Paste performs this task. Such action is due to new cleansing and polishing agents, harder than tartar and so, capable of removing it, but softer than enamel and therefore harmless to it.

And regular users assert that this dentifrice definitely improves mouth hygiene. The gums grow firmer. The entire mouth seems fresher, exhilarated, and healthy.

Buy a tube of Listerine Tooth Paste and give it a thorough short trial. Compare it with any paste at any price—and judge by results alone. After such tests, more than a million people have switched to Listerine Tooth Paste. We can think of no greater tribute to the product.

Incidentally, Listerine Tooth Paste saves you about $3 per year, over dentifrices in the 50¢ class. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Forever Protected

Against Knocking

LASTS A LIFETIME

The Dexter Washer is surprisingly sturdy. Each has the "built-in strength" which insures QUIET lifetime service. You are forever protected against chattering gears and noisy parts.

Only by the two successive suds washing method, found in the Dexter Fastwin, is it thoroughly convenient to keep that all-over grayish tinge out of clothes permanently.

And only with the sensational new Dexter Fastwin is it convenient to use the two successive suds washing method which is advocated above all others by Good Housekeeping Institute and other authorities.

1 Even for a small washing the Dexter "Fastwin" saves handling at least one tub of water, and saves time and effort as compared with any single-tub washer properly used.

2 The Dexter "Fastwin" can wash properly at least twice as much clothing per hour (including all operations from hamper to line) as any single-tub washer made.

3 Only by the "2 suds" washing method (which is thoroughly convenient only with the Dexter "Fastwin"), can that "grayish tinge" and that "harsh feel" be kept out of clothes month after month, without soaking or boiling.

4 The Dexter "Fastwin" thus offers a very substantial and easily demonstrated advantage over any single-tub washer that is, or ever can be built—even though the Dexter Company builds the finest of single-tub washers, also.

5 Builders of fine washers for more than a quarter century, The Dexter Company originated the double-tub type of washer 16 years ago, and the first one ever made is still in weekly use.

6 More than 100,000 delighted users say they could never again be satisfied with any mere single-tub washer.

U. S. Will Play France in Davis Cup Challenge Round

AMERICANS ADVANCE BY BEATING ITALY IN 3 MATCHES

By the Associated Press.

AUTEUIL, France, July 19.—America overcame a fighting Italian tennis team today to enter the challenge round for the Davis Cup.

Adding two more victories to the one achieved yesterday in the opening match of the inter-zone final, the United States forces chalked up the three victories necessary to clinch the series. Tomorrow's two singles cannot affect the result and the Americans will clash with the French for the trophy here next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

As usual, however, the South Europeans upset all the locker-room gossip.

Baron Humbert de Morpurgo, whom many hereabouts had believed might win from George Lott of Chicago, was beaten by scores of 3—6, 9—7, 10—8, 6—3, in a match which was interrupted by darkness yesterday, with the American leading at two sets to one.

Real Battle in Doubles.

The Trieste nobleman then paired with Placido Gaslini in a last-minute shift of the doubles lineup and gave the crack American combination of John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., one of the hardest tussles they have had in many a day. The match went to five sets and provided some brilliant but spotty tennis and ended with the Americans on top by scores of 5—7, 6—2, 6—4, 1—6, 6—3.

Tomorrow, in the anti-climax, John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., will be substituted for Allison against De Morpurgo and Lott will face Georgio de Stefani, who forced Allison to five hard sets yesterday.

It may be that De Morpurgo suddenly changed his tactics overnight and decided on a desperate effort to win the doubles rather than trust to the chance of a singles win over Lott. At any rate, for his one set against the Chicagoan, he stuck to the baseline and refused to be enticed into racing over the court for pretty ones, as he did yesterday.

The Baron won the first, fifth and sixth games but Lott had the others his own way. The Italian was never within a mile of victory.

Sudden Form Reversal.

When it came to doubles, De Morpurgo was another man. He shot vicious drives from the baseline straight between the Americans, played stinging backhand liners across the court and was formidable at the net. Gaslini was erratic in the first few games of the opening set but rallied toward the end and the Italians ran it from 2-4 to a win at 7-5.

Both Allison and Van Ryn thumped the ball hard but they

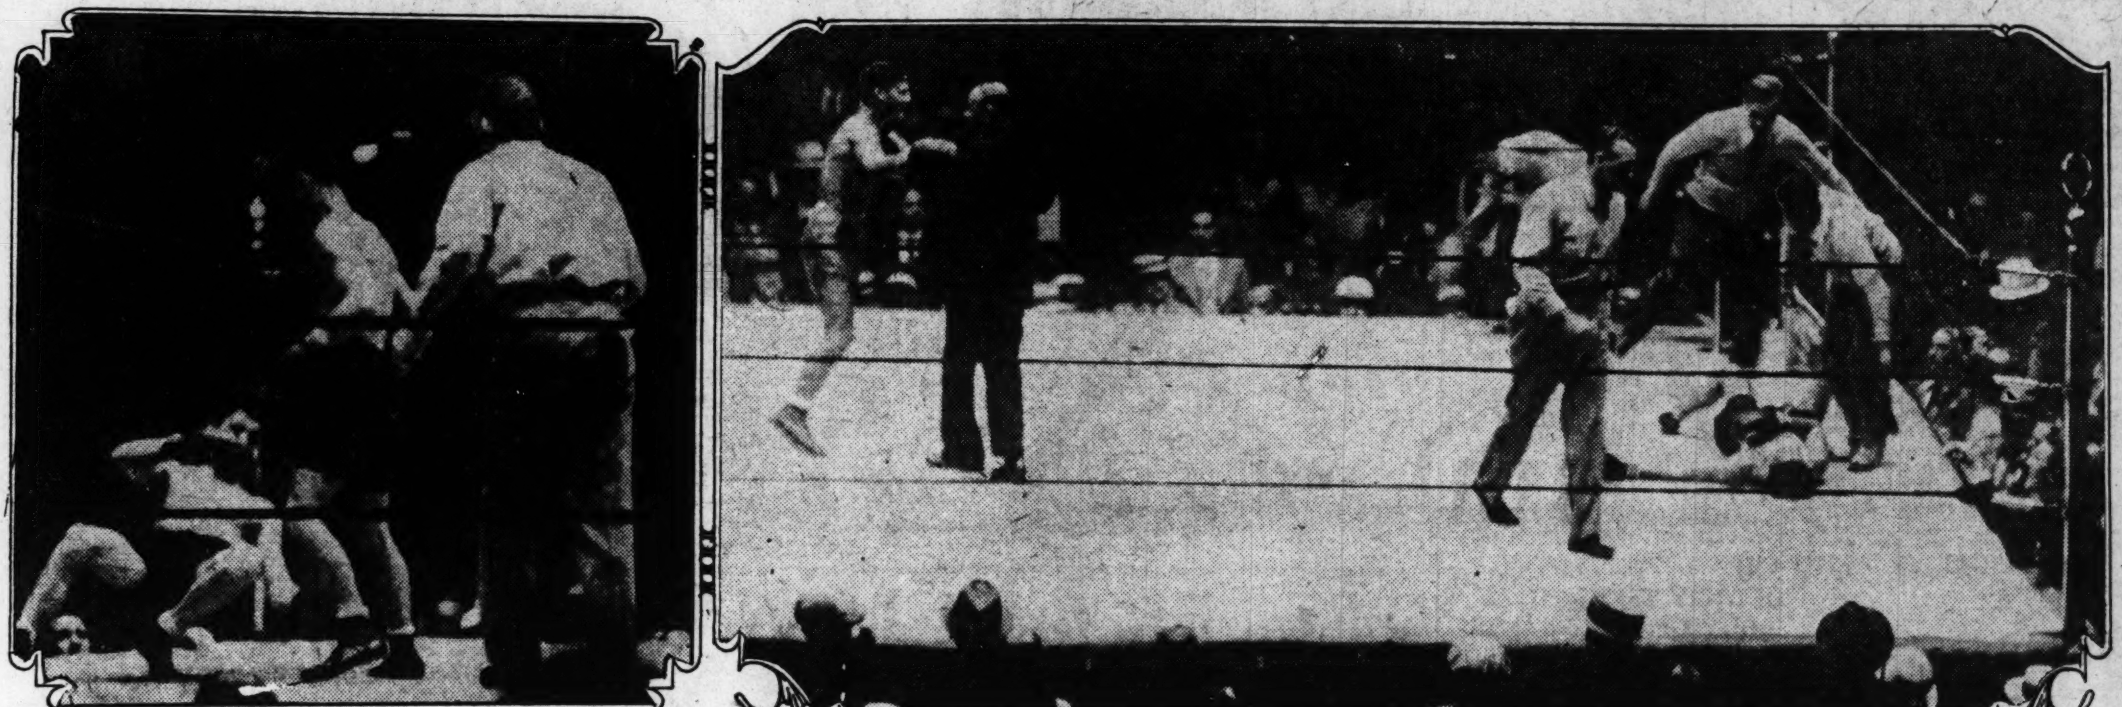
The Punch That Knocked Mandell Off His Throne; Mandell Going Down and Out



The former champion was knocked to the canvas four times by Al Singer in the one minute and 46 seconds the fight lasted. He went down the first time from a left hook, which is Singer's weaker hand, and the last time from a right. Mandell was so dazed during the fight that ring siders and some of the onlookers accused him of "blocking with his chin."

New York Fans O. K. Mandell Bout; Singer May Meet Berg Next

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 19.—New York's somewhat pessimistic views of the Mandell-Singer lightweight championship fight today had materially brightened. The result of that bout is now accepted as a true indication of the relative merits of the men on the night of the fight. The quick defeat was attributed to Mandell's exhausted condition due to weight making.

Fight fans no longer talk of a "dive" but rather recalled the fight in which Tony Canzoneri, then featherweight champion, reduced himself to such a state of weakness that a veritable tyro like Andre Routis was able to defeat him—at the weight. Routis afterwards proved a "flop" while Canzoneri, in a new class, soared on upwards. He is now one of the men Singer will have to meet in defending his title.

Disinterested fans are inclined to attribute the surprising result not to Singer's greatness so much but rather to Mandell's weakness.

When Mandell left for his home he told friends here that he would not again try to fight at the lightweight limit and that he would not seek a return fight. He said he intended to continue fighting but at higher weights and perhaps go after the junior welterweight crown, now held by Jack Berg of England.

Efforts are already being made to get Singer into the ring with Berg, the clever British fighter. The Englishman is in reality a lightweight and has no difficulty in making the weight. A fight between Singer and Berg is being considered for late in September.

Besides Berg and Canzoneri, Kid Chocolate, King Tut and other fighters are trying to interest Singer in a bout. It is likely that he will spend the next two months picking up a little easy money in exhibitions.

Pictures of the fight made it plain that the result was not a bit of acting but that the downfall came from a savage assault by Singer. Mandell was beaten to the floor time and again and succumbed to a terrific light-hand wallop.

Rockford Welcomes Mandell.

By the Associated Press.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 19.—Sammy Mandell, though deposed as lightweight boxing champion by Al Singer in New York Thursday night, still retains his hold on his following here. More than 3000 persons gathered at the depot to meet him tonight when he returned from New York. Cheers, automobile horns, firebells and the like provided expression for their feelings.

HELEN JACOBS BACK IN U. S. AFTER NET CAMPAIGN IN EUROPE

The Next Big Surprise.

WRESTLING is all set to spring another of its interesting surprises on the world, we infer from surface indications.

Wayne Munn surprised everybody when he dumped Ed Lewis out of the championship a few years ago. Wayne himself was violently shocked, not to say grieved, when Old Man Zibby, a few months later, spilled him so quickly that the dear boy was taken violently ill, in the middle of the match.

Then, not so long ago, while Ed Lewis was still claiming the championship, another green collegian, Gus Sonnenberg, very successfully butted Ed out of his title, if any—and that brings us to our story:

The next coup will be furnished by none other than Gus himself, who, it is learned, is preparing to defend his title against an opponent not a member of his family circle!

Taking Private Lessons.

DAN KOLOFF, who has been in the Sonnenberg camp since Gus first began to foul his opponents into submission, wrote a St. Louis friend, "Gus has been working hard at legitimate wrestling holds with me and with Malcewicz and he is getting pretty tough to handle."

Malcewicz is a headliner for the Sandow circuit and Koloff is a tough old bird who can make most of the best wrestlers think twice before tackling him.

Gus is still coining money by meeting his teammates in "defense of his title," downing Joe De Vito, Koloff, Malcewicz, Cantonwine and others, for several falls and plenty of dollars. "Sonny Boy" uses the old exhibition stuff, the "flying tackle" and the "airplane spin" to keep the crowd in a roar; but all the time it appears, he is learning real wrestling holds and feeling out his strength against some very good men in practice.

Wrestlers say that Gus—the champion—is a tough hombre with plenty of "insides," that he is powerful as well as game and that he should make a good wrestler.

"Some day," when he gets his full wrestling stature, when he learns something about the game of which he is champion, he may accept some of the challenges that have been hurled at him by the rival camp—Steinke, Shikat and Londos—and give the Blue Larkspur began fast, was taken to inside for a big saving of ground until in the back stretch, where he gradually overhauled Petee Wrack and making a bold move entering the stretch easily headed Petee Wrack, drew into a long lead and was not threatened in the final issue. Petee Wrack was hustled away into a good early lead, began tiring slightly after half the trip and was no match for Blue Larkspur, when latter challenged, but held on well to outlast Toro. Toro had no mishaps, raced evenly in forward position, and was gaining on Petee Wrack near the end. Sun Beau saved ground under restraint first mile failed to respond when called on, beginning the final quarter. Reveille Boy fractious at the post, had to be started from outside the starting machine.

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago, July 19.—Blue Larkspur, 1929 3-year-old champion of America, galloped to easy victory over a select field of five in the Arlington Cup, with $25,000 added, before 30,000 sweltering racing fans at Arlington Park today.

The brown 4-year-old son of Black Servant-Blossom Time captured the rich prize by three and one-half lengths, with Petee Wrack second and Toro third. Sun Beau was fourth and the frisky acting Reveille Boy, surprise winner of the $50,000 American Derby, the only 3-year-old to accept the issue, finished fifth, trailing in last place. The horse that paid $113.08 in the betting on the American Derby and rewarded his owner, old Johnny Best of Memphis, who was broke at the time, with $49,000 for that victory, was nowhere in the race except for a fleeting moment at the start, when he attempted to give Blue Larkspur and Petee Wrack a battle for third place.

Blue Larkspur ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 4-5, a fifth of a second slower than the track record, but the same time in which Gallant Fox won the $70,000 Arlington Classic a week ago.

Third Greatest Money Winner.

As a result of his victory, Blue Larkspur moved into third place among the leading money winners of America for all time. He rewarded his owner, Edward R. Bradley of Lexington, Ky., with $25,200 for the mile and a quarter gallop, bringing his total earnings to $272,000, which ranks him next to Gallant Fox and America's leading money winner, Zev. Owner Bradley, who bred Blue Larkspur in the blue grass region of Kentucky was present with a party of friends to watch his champion race to victory. After the race, Owner Bradley was presented with the cup by Louis L. Emmerson, Governor of Illinois.

FOTHERGILL GOES TO CHICAGO WHITE SOX VIA WAIVER ROUTE

DETROIT, July 19.—Robert Roy Fothergill, outfielder and of late pinch batter for the Tigers, went to the Chicago White Sox today by the waiver route.

Since 1921 Fothergill has been on the Tiger roster except for a period of seasoning with the Rochester Club of the International League. He has an all time major league bating average above the .300 mark and last year was the most consistent pinch hitter in either league. He gave way this year to Jonathan Stone in left field.

COEN TO MEET GRANT TODAY IN TENNIS FINAL

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 19.—The three ranking tennis players of the Missouri Valley, two Easterners and a player from the old South, will compete tomorrow for the singles and doubles championships of the twenty-first annual national clay courts tennis tournament.

Championship pairings finally were determined today. Wilbur F. (Junior) Coen, Kansas City, advanced to singles finals, with a straight set triumph over Herbert L. Bowman, New York City. The defending doubles pair, Frederic Mercur, and J. Gilbert Hall, Harricburg, Po., and Orange, N. J., defeated Frank Shields and Emmett Pare, New York and Dayton. Coen won 6—2, 6—2, 6—3, and Mercur and Hall remained in com-

TEAM BATS HARD BEHIND HAINES, BELL AND LINDSEY

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Gabby Street's Cardinals threw away their white whiskers and discarded the role of Santa Claus this afternoon and by showing a fine attack behind the excellent pitching of Jess Haines, Herman Bell and Jim Lindsey, gave the Giants a surprise party, defeating them in both ends of a doubleheader, 4 to 1 and 8 to 4.

Haines held the Manhattan maulers to seven scattered safeties in the opener and was master all the way. The Redbirds reverted for a few minutes to their Santa Claus role in the early innings of the second contest and gave the Giants three runs, but they rallied later and made it a double victory by the power of their budgeons.

Home runs played a big part in both struggles. Charley Gelbert hit a four-bagger into the right field seats in the opener to give Haines a safe lead and in the second contest Mancuso, after being the goat of two Giant rallies, broke a 3-3 tie by belting a four-bagger into the upper seats of the left field stand with two comrades on the bases.

The double victory enabled the Cardinals to gain ground in the pennant race. The Robins, losing again to the Cubs, are only six games ahead of Street's men now and the Cubs' second place margin was reduced by half a game. With the four-game series at the Polo Grounds evenly divided, the Cards are once more just one game behind the third-place Giants.

How Games Were Won.

Here's how the two games were won:

Douthit walked to open the first affair and moved to second on Adams' infield out. Blades singled to right, scoring Douthit, and took second on Ott's fumble. Ray moved to third on an infield out and scored when Hafey slashed a single to left.

Terry beat out a grounder to Orsatti to start the New York second inning and after Ott had flied out, O'Farrell singled to right. Blades had the ball in time to stop Terry at second, but seeing Terry stop, he tried to stop his throw and the ball slipped out of his hand and Terry reached third and O'Farrell second. Jackson then hit a sacrifice fly to Blades to score Terry.

YANKEES ROUT COLLINS AND KIMSEY AND DEFEAT BROWNS, 13 TO 7

GOSLIN HITS HOME RUN IN 9TH WITH TWO MEN ON; LAZZERI ALSO RAPS ONE IN THE SAME INNING

By James M. Gould.

Returning to normalcy, the Browns yesterday started another losing streak when, in the final of the series, they were defeated by the Yankees, 13-7. It was the third defeat in four games with New York and the eighth in 10 games played since the Browns returned home. Killefer's pitchers did little pitching, his defense at odd times was terrible and his offense functioned only in the second and ninth innings. The Browns still hold seventh place as Boston also lost.

Lazzeri for the Yankees and Goslin for the Browns hit homers in the final inning. It was No. 16 for the "Goose." Killefer used Collins, Kimsey and Holshouser in the box and Pennock, Johnson and Ruffing worked for New York.

Neither team scored in the first and both counted in the second. For the Yanks, Gehrig started with a single. After Rice flied out, Dickey and Reese singled, the latter's hit putting Gehrig over. Pennock then tried to "squeeze" another run home but Collins handled the bunt and Dickey was out at the plate. Combs doubled and Reese tallied.

Browns Rout Pennock.

The Browns knocked out Pennock in their half. Kress doubled and scored on Schulte's two-bagger. Melillo's single moved Schulte to third and he counted when Gullic forced Melillo. After Manion went down, Collins smashed a two-bagger to left that admitted Gullic. Collins scored on McNeely's single. Johnson then came in and retired the side.

Lazzeri's single, a pass to Gehrig and a double by Dickey gave the Yanks another run in the third. There was nothing to the Browns' half of this frame nor did either team score in the fourth.

Yankees Forge Ahead.

The Yanks went ahead and Collins went out of action in the first of the fifth. With one out, Lazzeri singled and Collins filled the bases with passes to Gehrig and Rice. Dickey forced Rice and Lazzeri scored and Gehrig was over when Reese singled. Kimsey relieved Collins and retired Johnson.

In the Brown's second half Goslin singled and Kress walked as a starter but fortune favored Johnson for Schulte fouled out and Melillo lined straight to Lary, who had an easy toss to Reese to double Goslin off second.

Kimsey retired the Yanks in order in the sixth, getting Ruth on a high fly to Goslin. When Gullic opened the last half with a single, Johnson was relieved by Ruffing though the Browns hadn't scored off Johnson since his relief of Pennock.

Manion sacrificed Gullic along and Kimsey put him on third with a roller to Reese. McNeely left him there when he flied to Ruth.

O'Rourke Spiked.

Kimsey had considerable trouble in the seventh and before the inning was over, the Yankees had five more runs. Holshouser was doing the pitching. And, as a contest, the ball game was over. In this inning, Reese was out stealing third and O'Rourke, spiked on the play, was forced to retire in favor of Hale.

The Browns could do nothing with Ruffing until the ninth and Holshouser prevented the Yanks from scoring in the eighth.

In the ninth, the Yanks added three on singles by Combs and Ruth and a home run by Lazzeri inot the right-center seats. In the final half, Goslin's homer followed singles by Pinch Batter Blue and McNeely, and gave the Browns three inconsequential runs.

Today, the Washington Senators who have found the Western going rather rough, will open a four-game series with the Browns. It is Killefer's intention to open against the second-placers with Dick Coffman.

Brownie Notes

Bobby Wallace, the greatest shortstop any St. Louis team ever had, saw the game on his way West. Bob is a scout for the Cincinnati Reds. Commenting on the return of Ike Boone to Brooklyn, Bobby said, "Perhaps I can get back in shape next spring."

Bud Hungling, St. Louis reserve catcher, is mourning the loss of his new Ford coupe. He assures the world that "no questions will be asked" if only the car is returned.

Manager Shawkey benched Chapman, shifted the versatile Lazzeri to third and put Reese at second. This gave the Yanks the same keystone combination that Oakland of the Pacific Coast League had a couple of years ago.

Lary can thank Kress for his first inning single. Kress ran in front of Melillo as the latter was about to field the ball. Good fortune continued with him for he went to second on a balk and then stole third while Collins held grimly on the ball.

ANOTHER MAN O' WAR?—Gallant Fox and Sande Unbeatable So Far

Mancuso a Goat, Then a Hero.

In the second struggle, Mancuso gave the Giants a run in the fourth inning. With one out, Ott singled and was forced by Hogan, who reached second when Frisch threw wild trying for a double play. Jackson beat out a bounder in front of the plate, moving Hogan to third and then, with Roettger at the plate, Jackson dashed for second. Mancuso threw low to Frisch and Frank was lucky to stop the ball, Hogan scoring and Jackson reaching second.

Critz led off in the fifth with a little pop fly between the plate and third. Mancuso went after the ball and so did Adams, all the other Cardinals being tongue-tied. Just as the ball hit in Mancuso's glove, Adams collided with him and the ball popped out and Critz reached second.

Leach and Lindstrom were easy outs, which should have ended the inning, but Terry beat out a hit to Gelbert, scoring Critz, and Ott tripled to right, scoring Terry.

Blades' single and Gelbert's double produced a run for the Cardinals in the sixth and in the seventh, Jackson's two-base wild throw on Mancuso's grounder and singles by Douthit and Adams tied the score.

Hafey opened the big eighth inning with a pop double to center and Gelbert was hit by a pitched ball. Orsatti sacrificed, but it was unnecessary, for Mancuso hit into the upper deck of the stands for his homer, putting the Cards three ahead. Pruett then relieved Hubbell and Douthit's double and Adams' single added a fourth run to the Redbird lead.

Hogan missed a third strike in the eighth, but reached first when the ball got away from Mancuso. Roettger's single and O'Farrell's sacrifice fly drove Reese, running for Hogan, around the bases.

The double victory came just in time to prevent Gabby Street from hiring a flock of taxies and driving his team, bag and baggage, into the East River.

Redbird Notes.

NEW YORK, July 19.

FLINT RHEM has been selected by Manager Street to pitch against the league leading Robins tomorrow 1 nthe first game of a series of five.

About 20,000 persons paid to see the double-header between the Cards and the Giants.

The weather was oppressive, the temperature soaring well over 100 in the steaming Polo Grounds.

There was too much humidity and not enough humility to suit the umpires. When the Giants were not complaining the Redbirds were voicing their objections to decisions.

Terry doubled wtih one out in the fourth inning of the first game and took third while Ott was beating out a grounder to Frisch, but O'Farrell hit sharply to Gelbert and Frisch pivoted at second for a useful double play.

Hubert Pruett, who made a business of striking out Babe Ruth several years ago, hurled the last two frames for the Giants and retired six men in a row.

In the first inning of the second game Frisch's pop fly fell in front of Roettger, but Adams, on second, feared the ball would be caught and was forced at third on Roettger's throw to Lindstrom, thereby depriving Frisch of a hit.

Jackson led off in the sixth with a triple to center, but Gelbert held him on third while he threw out Roettger; Hubbell popped to Frisch and Critz bunted and was thrown out by Bell.

Gallant Fox Great, But Not Another Man o' War, Statistics Show

Comparison of Times of Winning Races of Two Discloses Man o' War Was Much Faster.

By John E. Wray.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

Gallant Fox's remarkable record in races exclusively for 3-year-olds this year, has the turf world violently wagging tongues. Some of the interested turf followers believe that the Fox's record of winning six successive stakes and a total of around $260,000 in 60 days entitles him to a place in the Hall of Fame alongside of Man o' War.

Others voice the opinion that Gallant Fox is just a lucky horse in a lucky spot, much after the manner of Morvich, unbeaten champion 2-year-old of 1921 and winner of the 1922 Derby.

Morvich was just a good consistent runner in a year of poor opponents. To win the Derby he had only to beat Bet Mosie and John Finn, and the world knows they were never heard of afterwards—not importantly. Nor was Morvich. He passed out of the picture then and there—the Derby was his last victory, if memory serves.

Now comes Gallant Fox, a better horse than Morvich and a consistent winner in a year of weak 3-year-old opponents. The opposition which ran over Gallant Fox as a 2-year-old all fell by the wayside for one reason or another and failed to stand up as 3-year-olds. Whichone, which was expected to prove another Man o' War; Boojum and Flying Heels were the most important failures.

Consistency Not Greatness.

Supporters of Gallant Fox's greatness contend that his very consistency proves his merit; that he has done everything that has been asked of him. But the opposition points out that Crack Brigade held him to half a length in the Preakness and Gallant Knight held him to a nod in the Arlington classic. These contend that the great Earle Sande has lifted Gallant Fox to greater heights than he deserved. But—that is more guesswork.

The finish of the Classic proved that Sande's mount had a great heart and plenty of courage, for Gallant Knight challenged him at the head of the stretch, from which point the Fox stood the drive.

But it is the time of this race, in which Gallant Fox probably was fully extended, which seems to dispel the illusion that the Fox is a superhorse, rather than just a great one. His time was one second slower than the track record and was 2-5 seconds slower than the best time made in the Fairmount Derby. We have had no Man o' Wars running at Fairmount.

Even these comparisons do not show up the real discrepancy between Man o' War and Gallant Fox fully. Man o' War set five American records, of which four were equivalent to world records, although time is not so meticulously kept in England as in America.

The highest weight Gallant Fox has been asked to carry is 126, but in 11 of Man o' War's races he shouldered from 127 to 138 pounds.

Gallant Fox vs. Man o' War

A comparison of times, weights and distances as between Gallant Fox and Man o' War leaves nothing to be said. Here are just a few of their winning races compared:

GALLANT FOX Dist.—Wt.	Time.	MAN O' WAR Wt.	Time.
5½ —112	1:06	120	*1:05 3-5
¾ —120	1:11 4-5	130	†1:11 1-5
1 —116	1:38	118	1:35 4-5
1 3-16—126	2:00 3-5	131	1:56 3-5
1¼ —126	2.03 4-5	120	2:01 4-5
1½ —126	2:31 3-5	118	2:28 4-5

*Track slow.
†Track good. All other times are for fast track.

Many Racing Followers Contend That Fox Is Just a Lucky Horse With Weak Opposition.

Carried 138 Pounds; Sets Record.

He picked up 138 pounds and ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:44 2-5 on the Havre track, which is notoriously slow, lowering a track record which had been made previously under a weight of 105 pounds!

In running his mile and one-fourth in 2:01 4-5, Man o' War covered the half mile in 46 2-5 seconds, the six furlongs in 1:10 and the mile in 1:35 3-5—faster than his best mile in competition at that distance!

And in the Lawrence Realization, the second longest race for 3-year-olds in this country—it was the longest in Man o' War's day—he ran the one and five-eighths miles at truly amazing speed. His time at any distance in the race would be a really creditable performance for any stake horse. He stepped the mile in 1:36 2-5, which is considerably faster than Gallant Fox ever raced in any event at a mile; he covered the mile and one-quarter in 2:03 3-5, which is within one-fifth second of the record for the Kentucky Derby; he ran the mile and one-half in 2:28 4-5, which is nearly 3 seconds faster than the Fox's time at this distance in beating Whichone, and he still went on for another eighth of a mile to hang up the record of 2:40 4-5, with 126 pounds up.

Gallant Fox is a gallant horse all right. Nothing that may occur during the remainder of the campaign can take from him his right to this year's championship of the 3-year-old division.

But, "another Man o' War"? Not on the records, son.

United States Defeats Italy In Davis Cup Interzone Final could not seem to find the range and neither had an effective first service.

The Texas-Princeton machine began to click normally in the second set and it clicked some more in the third. Allison seemed to discover the holes he had missed in the earlier frame and time after time a sharp drive that barely cleared the net, a cross volley or a resounding smash left the Italians reaching into empty air.

Allison Saves the Day.

Van Ryn, weak in the back court, was redoutable at the net, and while De Morpurgo and Gaslini never faltered in their attack, these two sets were fairly easy for the Americans.

The fourth set was a different story. Gaslini, reaching top form at this late stage, showered unreachable placements from every section of the court, and while his partner seemed to lose a bit of his edge, Gaslini carried the attack so heavily into the American camp that Allison and Van Ryn got only one game.

Allison bore the brunt of the Italian attack in the final frame and while his service let him down a couple of times, he was pretty generally the master of the situation. The set was enlivened for a moment when De Morpurgo exchanged some words from the court with the American captain, Fitz-Eugene Dixon of Philadelphia, who was sitting under the referee's chair, and the crowd began a combination of cheers and whistles.

The incident ended quickly, but the Italians from that time on seemed to lose their grip. They fought valliantly to the end, however, and it was not until the last point was called that they stopped battling.

In an exhibition match afterward, Bill Tilden and Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., a substitute on the American team, beat Christian Boussus, French youngster, and Doeg, 8—6, 6—4.

Rain marred the matches again today and there was only a slim crowd to watch the Americans win their way into the challenge round.

CUBS ONLY FOUR POINTS FROM LEAD AFTER BEATING ROBINS

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 19.—The Chicago Cubs climbed into a virtual tie with Brooklyn's Robins for the National League lead today, trailing by only four points after winning the final game of the series, 5 to 4. Chicago won four games of the five.

Dazzy Vance, pitching with only a day's rest, pitched well for five innings with an early lead given him by Babe Herman's home run in the first. The Dazzler lost command in the sixth when English's triple and Hack Wilson's twenty-sixth home run of the year put the Cubs ahead and a single by Stephenson and a double by Hartnett netted another run.

The essential tallies, however, came in the eighth as the result of a wild throw by Catcher Hank Deberry. Vance started the inning badly and was relieved by Phelps, who walked Wilson to fill the bases. Two runners were forced at the plate and as Deberry was trying to make a double play at first he heaved the ball far into right field and two runs scored.

Brooklyn rallied and knocked Bob Osborn out of the box in the last half of the eighth after he had given but three hits in seven innings. A pass, a single, Gilbert's triple and Boone's double scored three runs. Teachout checked the rally with the tying run on second.

Charley Root protected Chicago's one-run lead in the ninth, fanning Wright and Lopez.

FIVE RACES IN TWELFTH ANNUAL MUNY REGATTA ON MISSISSIPPI TODAY

ENTURY CREW S FAVORED TO TAKE FEATURE 8-OARED EVENT

Whether St. Louis will be rep- ented in the National Amateur atta at Boston Aug. 1 and 2 be definitely determined at twelfth annual regatta of the nicipal Rowing Association this ernoon at the Western Rowing b on the Mississippi.

The Century Boat Club's senior ht, winner of the eight-oared ior race at Cleveland in the tral States regatta, July 5, will sent to the National if it wins eight-oared race this after- n, officials have announced. e fact is, according to some mbers of the Century club, senior eight will go to the Na- al whether or not it wins this ernoon. The boys have been d that the trip hinges on their wing in the Muny event, in or- to keep them at concert pitch. eir trip to the National was tually assured when they won Central States event.

Century Figures to Win.

Unless they run into tough row- luck, such as getting caught the wash of a passing launch, ntury's seniors should win han- y. Their strongest competitor, form to date, is the junior crew the St. Louis Rowing Club, d this squad was beaten by a gth and a half in a two-crew e with Century a few weeks o.

The St. Louis Rowing Club's v bases its hope of winning on fact that Century has been kened by the loss of its star ke, Harold Smith. Illness has ed him out, probably for the son. Wade Auld, formerly at 6 seat, has been moved to oke, and John Masterson of the ior crew has been promoted to 6 in the senior crew. Western wing Club's eight, the third w in the event, is figured to sh that way.

The race has been scheduled for first event on this afternoon's gram in order that the crews y be fresh for the test.

Four Other Races.

Four other races are on the af- rnoon's program, scheduled to run off at half-hour intervals. ey are the single scull, in which olph Kreuder, Western Rowing ub, is favored to retain his Mu- cipal title; four-oared shell, uble sculls, and six-oared barge. e last named race has drawn ven crews, Central Rowing Club d St. Louis Rowing Club having tered two crews each.

Clerk of the course will be Wil- m E. Bentlage, president of the unicipal Rowing Association, and judges will be Dr. Charles F. lther, Western Rowing Club; Bokel, Century Boat Club; C. hewe, Central Rowing Club; R. us, St. Louis Rowing Club, and Link, North End Rowing Club. hur E. Eilers will act as starter, h Fred Mueller referee.

Starting time for the first race 3 o'clock. The Western Rowing ub, where the races will be held, at 5000 South Broadway. Spec- tors will watch the races from clubhouse lawn on the bluff rlooking the river.

All races will be at one mile, nstream.

SHAMROCK V. SAILS FOR U. S. FOR CUP RACE

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PORTSMOUTH, England, July 19.—The Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's cup, left here for New York at 11:30 a. m. today.

Thousands gathered on the seasrore at Southsea and on the seafront at Gosport and cheered the yacht as she passed them. In Portsmouth harbor all ships roared hoarse parting blasts from their whistles and sirens and supplemented them with signals in international code wishing the Shamrock goodby and good luck in her effort to lift the cup.

High wind and choppy sea made it necessary for the challenger to be towed out of the harbor, which she left with all her sails bent, ready to spread them after she had gone through the necessary preliminary of adjusting her compasses at Spithead.

Her progress toward Spithead was triumphal. Large crowds cheered her all the way and local yachting stations signalled their good wishes. After she reached the Spithead roadstead the Shamrock came in for greetings of the British and French navies. Anchored there were the French flotilla leader Bison, the Emperor of India, flagship of the Fifth Battle Squadron, and the Warspite. All these manned ships and gave the Shamrock a hearty ovation.

Late tonight the Shamrock V was taken in tow by the Erin and moved from Ryde Roads up the Spithead roadstead toward Cowes, where the yacht races are annually held. The Westerly wind was greatly abated and the water much calmer.

During the night the Shamrock will remain under the lee of the Isle of Wight, and in the morning if weather reports are favorable she will set sail again with the Erin.

The yacht is yawl rigged, ocean crossing, and has been deprived of the top section of her tall mast.

Sir Thomas was unable to be at Portsmouth for the sailing. Confined in his London home by a cold, he said:

'I am determined to get the old mug and I think, in fact I am sure, that the Shamrock V can manage to do the trick. She's a wonderful craft, a real flyer, and does extremely well going to windward. You have only to look at her record to see what a fine yacht she is. Already she has won fifteen first prizes and four seconds out of 22 starts, despite a big handicap and the fact that she was competing with much bigger craft."

The Erin, Lipton's steam yacht, will escort the Shamrock V across the ocean, via the Azores. They expect to complete the trip within a month.

SENATORS AND INDIANS SPLIT; BURNETT HURT

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., July 19.—Washington and Cleveland broke even on their double-header here today, Cleveland winning the first game, 5 to 2, and Washington the second, 17 to 4.

In the first game Ferrell held the Senators to seven hits. Fischer was driven from the mound by Cleveland batters in the sixth inning and was replaced by Hadley.

In the second game Marberry held the Indians scoreless until the fifth inning. Belve Bean was driven from the Indian mound in the third inning and was replaced by Clint Brown.

Johnny Burnett, Cleveland third baseman, suffered a fractured wrist while at bat in the first game, when a ball pitched by Carl Fischer, rookie Senator, struck him. Burnett will be lost to the Indians the rest of the season.

Uruguay Stadium, Unfinished, Seats 110,000, Vaughan Writes

Herewith is a letter received by the Post-Dispatch from Frank Vaughan, St. Louis boy who is playing fullback on the United States team in the World Soccer series at Montevideo, Uruguay. Ralph Tracy, another St. Louisan, is playing halfback on the team.

By Frank Vaughan.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 8 (By Mail.)

After one week in this beautiful city, we are just about ready for the opening of the world soccer series. (The United States team since has won both its games.)

Frank Vaughan.

The American players were guests of the Penarol football club of this city in their match with the River Platte club of Buenos Aires, last Sunday. Penarol won, 2 to 1. The game had many interesting angles for us, principally the perfect short passing in midfield, by both teams, and the comparatively weak shooting of the forwards. Not more than four or five shots in the entire hour and 30 minutes of play were dangerous.

Another feature of their play which attracted our attention was the treatment of the goaltender. As soon as the ball reached his hands the opposing forwards stopped their charge and permitted him to clear without interference. If a forward attempted to rush the goalie he was roundly booed by the crowd, which leads us to believe the United States team is in for a lot of razzberries for the temptation to charge the goaltender is almost too great to be resisted.

This inter-city game attracted a crowd of 22,000 paid and a lot of persons watched the game from the roofs of surrounding houses.

Our club visited the Centennial Stadium where the tournament is to be held and found that it will not be entirely completed for the games. However, the finished section will seat 110,000 persons. When finished it is designed to accommodate 135,000. Bob Millar, our coach and manager, tells me that it completely overshadows the famous Wembley Stadium at London, both in size and beauty.

We start tapering off our training this week. Millar is well satisfied with the condition of the players and is confident we will make a good showing in the competition.

Thirteen nations are represented, as follows: Argentina, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, France, Jugo-Slavia, Mexico, Paraguay, Peru, Rumania, Uruguay and the United States. Next to Uruguay, the United States seems to be the great favorite here.

The teams were drawn in four groups, with four teams in one group and three in each of the others. We are tied up with Paraguay and Belgium. The winner of each group will enter a semifinal round and it is expected that the final will be played not later than Aug. 1.

COEN TO MEET GRANT TODAY IN TENNIS FINAL

petiton with a 6—3, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1 victory.

Coen will play Bryan Grant Jr., 19-year-old Atlanta Georgian, of a well known tennis family, and Mercur and Hall will meet Wray Brown and Harris Coggeshall, St. Louis and Des Moines. Grant went to the finals yesterday after a hard fought 5-set struggle with Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., and Brown and Coggeshall eliminated Fred Royer and Louis Thalheimer, Chicago, in straight sets.

Coen and Bowman today played three sets of orthodox tennis, with no spectacular shots to arouse the calm gallery. The doubles were more entertaining, but both teams were erratic and the tennis displayed was far from championship caliber.

Bowman's straight set elimination was a surprise to critics, and tennis followers, as the seventeenth ranking player in the nation is credited with being able to win a set from almost anyone he plays. Coen played perhaps his best tennis of the tournament and his accurate placements could not be equaled by the New Yorker, who appeared sluggish and reluctant to exert himself.

Pare and Shields teamed well together at times, especially in the third set, which they won, but most of the match Shields was driving outside or into the net on his service and was wild on backcourt returns.

GRANT UNBEATEN IN FOUR YEARS' PLAY IN DIXIE NET TOURNEYS

ATLANTA, Ga., July 19.—Bryan Grant, the diminutive Georgia youth who challenges for the national clay court singles tennis championship at Kansas City tomorrow, has dominated Southern court circles. Since as a knee-pants kid of 17 he won his first crown back in 1927.

Grant's success can be attributed to his accurate placements, his remarkable swiftness on the courts and his ability to get returns which other players would acknowledge beyond their reach. The Atlantan who still shades the voting age and stands barely over five feet, has a record unparalleled in dixie tennis. Since he first ascended the throne four years ago he has never been defeated and dropped only four sets. Only once has he been carried to four sets and that a week ago at Memphis in the finals of this year's Southern meet when Clifford Sutter, the intercollegiate champion from New Orleans, forced him to the limit.

22 ENTRIES RECEIVED FOR OUTDOOR AMATEUR BOXING PROGRAM

The Mississippi Valley Amateur Athletic Association's opening outdoor amateur boxing show of the summer season, which will take place Thursday night, July 31, at the Olympian A. C. open-air arena, already has attracted 22 entries, according to an announcement by Matchmaker Tom Conroy.

Conroy plans to use Les Schulte, national amateur heavyweight champion; Johnny Miles, Mississippi Valley junior light-heavyweight titleholder; Clifford Doetzel, district bantamweight king; Frank Doxey, wearer of the city's amateur flyweight crown, and Steve Marre, local middleweight champion, in the special attractions.

Other bouts will show such fighters as Billy Williams, Woodrow Williams, Joe Sansone and Harold (Spider) Kaderbeck. Conroy plans to schedule 12 fights for the coming show.

Collins Released by Keokuk.

Herman (Pat) Collins, veteran outfielder, has been released by the Keokuk Indians, following the return of Dolly Gray to the lineup. Gray had been out with an injured ankle.

216 GOLFERS TO START PLAY IN WESTERN MEET

Six St. Louisans Will Strive for Western Honors

ST. LOUIS will be represented in the Western amateur golf tournament at Chicago starting tomorrow by several of the leading golfers of the district. Among them are Elliott Whitbread, Normandie, St. Louis District champion; Donald Anderson, Normandie, a former State amateur champion; Roger Lord, Charley Collins and Ben Goodwin, all of Algonquin. Goodwin was co-medalist in the district tournament this year and also in the trans-Mississippi tournament at Denver, Colo.

Sidney Salomon Jr., youthful Westwood star, also will compete in the Western.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Two hundred and sixteen golfers, most of them comparative youngsters with rising hopes, unpack their war clubs Monday in a drive for the thirty-first Western amateur championship over the Beverly Country Club course, where Chick Evans won the Western open in 1910.

It will be one of the youngest fields in the championship's history. Even the defending champion, Donald K. Moe of Portland, Ore., is barely out of his teens.

But what the veterans lack in numbers they more than make up in quality. Among them are such capable shotmakers as Chick Evans, who has held virtually every title on this side of the Atlantic during his more than 20 years of golfing; Cyril Tolley and T. Phillip Perkins, formerly amateur champions of Great Britain; Bob McCrary of Des Moines, trans-Mississippi champion, and Ruddy Knepper of Chicago.

Moe to Defend Honors.

Moe, apparently far off the great game he displayed in the Walker cup matches and during the 1929 championship, ranked anything but a favorite to repeat in the long week's grind.

Other representatives of golf's younger generation who were regraded as certain contenders were Keefe Carter of Kansas City, 1925 champion and runner-up last year; Larry Moller of Quincy, Ill., runner-up in he national intercollegiate for Notre Dame at Oakmont; Gibson Dunlap of Los Angeles, who played spectacular golf along the Pacific Coast last spring; Fred Lyon of Chicago, former Western junior camhpion; Johnny Lehman of Chicago, former Big Ten champion, and Jack Westland, Chicago district champion.

Sixteen states and England are represented in the field.

Play Two Rounds a Day.

The Western amateur is a championship exactly to the liking of the consistent shooters. Eighteen holes will be played Monday and Tuesday by the entire field for the 36-hole qualifying round, after which the low 31 and Moe, who is spared the task of qualifying, will open match play. Two 18-hole matches will be played by the survivors Wednesday after which each match will be at 36 holes until completion of the finals Saturday.

So large is the field that the first pair, Billy Sixty of Milwaukee and Art Sweet of Chicago, both golfing newspaper reporters, will tee off at 7:28 a. m.

U. S. FIGHTER WINS ON FOUL IN MANILA

Risko-Heeney Go Off.

CLEVELAND, O., July 19.—The 12-round bout between Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, and Tom Heeney of New Zealand, postponed from last Thursday to next Tuesday, when Risko injured his shoulder in practice, has been put off indefinitely.

Risko's manager, Danny Dunn, said tonight that the Cleveland fighter's shoulder had not healed sufficiently.

WRAY'S COLUMN

boys of the Curley crew a taste of real wrestling.

Believe it or not, a Londos-Sonnenberg match in Philadelphia would fill the Sesqui stadium. Gus may be training for that.

Forget It?

WHAT'S that? Ed Lewis held Gus to a draw in Canada? Well, why not? It's all in the family. Sonnenberg and Sandow have seemed thicker than molasses and twice as sweet for two years. Billy's stable obliges Sonnenberg quite frequently, and what is more natural than that Sonny Boy reciprocate, especially as Lewis is on the verge of departing for Australia, there to play with a lot of other American wrestlers in the land "down under"?

Lewis can now go abroad and claim that he "held the champion to a draw and has beaten him once"—which might reinstate a championship claim, if he gets far enough away from America.

John Pesek's financial success in Australia convinced Ed that there was more gold to be dug out of the mat game there than out of the mines. And they do say that Ed needs the dough, although he must have made half a million dollars out of the title, while he held it.

Thumbs Down for John.

AS TO John Pesek, that great wrestler is now on the outside of all wrestling circuses looking longingly in. The only city which is "at home" to John is Columbus, O., where Al Haft dwells, and where that much talked-of National Boxing Association mat championship was scheduled but never came off,

That was a bad break for John—that collar bone break or run out powder, or what have you. It caused John to withdraw. One of our best of wrestlers, he is now forced to meet unknowns for small sums or quit the game entirely.

Lately John has been knocking at the door of Doc White, who manages champion Jimmy Londos. John now is ready to meet Londos for the title, he says. But the situation is reversed. Londos is coy. Doc White greets Pesek coldly and hands him a list of prominent wrestlers.

"Here, go take on these boys and beat them. Let's see if you can really wrestle. Then, maybe, we'll talk a bit about a match," he says.

Pesek the Goat.

BOY, that's 100 per cent indigestion to John, who all his life, for one reason or another, has had to stay out of the king row because somebody or other would not give him his chance.

It was always "John, you'll have to do this and put up that to guarantee your good behavior." And so John, in his good days, when not playing policeman for Ed Lewis, was putting up collateral to behave himself.

'Came a day in Los Angeles when he decided the title was worth more than the said collateral, so we are told, and he went gunning for the titleholder.

"This is one time you're going to have to do your stuff," he told the champion in the first clinch. And then he proceeded to put the champion down twice. The referee tapped John on the back and he rose with the glad light of success in those agate blue eyes of his.

But a short time later the referee changed his mind. That's a privilege of women and referees. He awarded the match to the champion on a foul—and that ended John's title bid. Also his collateral.

The next two years were the worst. They made John pay through the nose for his violation of circus ethics.

John, it seems, is still paying, in one way or another. And we begin to think that this fine wrestler will never sit in the champion's place, where he belongs, many wrestlers say.

REDS AND PHILLIES DIVIDE DOUBLE BILL

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—The Cincinnati Reds split a double bill here today with the Phillies, winning the first, 10 to 3, and losing the second, 4 to 1.

Benton outpitched a trio of local hurlers in the first game, while Willoughby twirled magnificent ball for the Phillies in the nightcap. Kolp also pitched excellently for the Reds until he was relieved in the eighth. The Phils then pounded Campbell, who relieved Kolp, for three runs. Ford got the only home run of the day on a drive into the left field bleachers.

QUESTIONNAIRE BEATS FLYING HEELS BY FOUR LENGTHS AT EMPIRE

COMSTOCKERY THIRD; SECOND FEATURE GOES TO CHECKERBERRY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Questionnaire, rated as the third best 3-year-old of the year, erased all doubt as to his superiority over Gifford A. Cochran's Flying Heels as he carried the green silks of James Butler to victory in the Yonkers Handicap at Empire City today.

One week ago the little son of Sting defeated the pride of the Cochran barn by a neck at a mile and 70 yards. On that occasion Questionnaire had a pull of six pounds in weight, but today he was packing only one pound less as he covered the mile and one-sixteenth in 1.47 1-5 to conquer Flying Heels by four lengths. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Comstockery finished two lengths further back for the short end of the purse.

Workman on Winning Horse.

In his previous victory over the son of Flying Ebony, Questionnaire had Slim Robertson, contract rider for Harry Payne Whitney, in the saddle, but today Sonny Workman, first string jockey for the Whitney string, was aboard. The change in the riders, however, failed to stop the fast traveling Butler colt, which ran third to Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Belmont Stakes.

With Flying Heels on the rail and the Butlerite on the outside, the two colts had the race all to themselves. Side by side they swept around the paddock turn. Down the back stretch they flew with Flying Heels showing a bit in front, though his margin was slight. At the three-quarter pole Workman gave Questionnaire his head. He quickly took the lead and increased the advantage to one-length as the field of seven turned into the stretch. All through the final furlong Sonny was looking back at his field as the Butler colors flashed past the judges' stand an easy winner.

Vanderpool Scratched.

Despite his victory in the Mount Vernon Handicap, Questionnaire was made the second choice at 9 to 5 with Flying Heels ruling the favorite. In the also ran group were such great performers as Frisius, Starpatic, Distraction and Voltear. The race carried a value of $4240 to the winner.

With the East View Stakes shorn of their color by the scratching of the Tennessee Stable's unbeaten Vanderpool, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Checkerberry and Surfboard had an easy time running one, two, in the juvenile feature, which was worth $9150.

Again it was Workman in the saddle as the chestnut son of Broomstick led his stablemate over the six furlongs by a head, with a La Carte, an added starter third. The stable declared to win with Checkerberry or Mack Garner might have pushed Surf Board home first. As it was Surf Board finished under tight restraint.

Sport Salad

Emperor Jones.

WHILE Bobby Jones is King of all,
He's not a bit tyrannical;
Around the links he drives the ball
In manner quite mechanical.

When on his heels the foemen press
With grim determination,
At making holes in par or less,
He gives a demonstration.

A forty-footer Bobby sinks—
With him it is a hobby;
All countries and all golfing links
Look quite the same to Bobby.

When not engaged in the pursuit
Of matters that are legal,
He likes to take time out and shoot
A birdie or an eagle.

Although a flock of friendly foes,
Their strength against him marshal,
He licks both amateurs and pros
In manner quite impartial.

Too True.

You can't believe everything you read about baseball players. F'rinstance, Joe Boley's right name is John Bolinski.

You've got to give it to Adam Comorosky for not coming into the game under the nom de guerre of Comiskey.

But Joe Boley isn't the only "A" masquerading under an assumed name. Al Simmons' real moniker sounds like a bunch of firecrackers under a tin can.

Slogans.

"Blames Soot for St. Louis' Loss of Population."

OUR progress has been rather slow,
Behind the rest we poke;
But rather "Watch Our Smoke!"

Check and Double Check.

Well, we gained about 3500 on the recheck which shows that we are holding our own and a little over.

See where Baltimore is trying out night baseball. The Orioles have turned into night owls.

That's Watt.

Playing ball by electric light may be all right on a short circuit, but not in the majors.

At that it wouldn't hurt some of those hardy annuals known to the trade as second division clubs to get hold of a few live wires.

John McGraw and the original Orioles would have prospered under the electric lights. He would probably have wired the bases so that he could give Pat Tebeau and his Spiders a shock every time they stepped on a base.

$2000 DERBY AT MADISON WON BY PLAYGOER II

Playgoer II, the well-played favorite, won the eighth Madison Kennel Club Derby last night, defeating Dick Free and Just Andrew, the second and third dogs, in the fast time of 39 2-5 seconds, which is one-fifth slower than the world's record, made at Madison. Playgoer II refunded $3.80 for a $2 win ticket and the race was worth $2000 to the winner. The attendance at the track was estimated at 20,000.

Dry Creek, the second choice in the betting and former winner of Madison Derbies, broke well from the box and took the lead. Dick Free and Playgoer II came up fast and passed Dry Creek on the first turn. Just Andrew started slow, but moved up in the back stretch to approach Playgoer and Just Andrew, which were racing neck and neck. Playgoer pulled away to win by four lengths, in the final stretch.

Spalding Bowser, an also eligible dog, ran in place of Reckless Warrior, which was scratched.

MUNICIPAL NET PLAY UNDER WAY AT FOREST PARK

The Municipal Junior Girls' and Boys' tennis tournaments got under way yesterday with 24 matches. The tournaments are being held on the Jefferson Memorial courts on the north side of Forest Park.

Frank Keaney, the defending boys' champion, and who has entered the junior tournament, is now in the third round of both tourneys by playing two matches yesterday and losing only one game in the 25 he played. Keaney, while he is the ranking player in the boys' division, holds the second seeded position in the junior tourney.

There was one upset in the girls' division when Sarah Finkelstein, the fourth seeded player, was eliminated by Marion Carroll in a three-set match, 6—0, 2—6, 6—4.

In addition to the play of the three tourneys, there will be two more attractions for which there will be a 25 cents admission charge. There will be the interpark playoff in the men's division, between O'Fallon, which won the northern park title, and Carondelet, which won the southern. Ted Drewes, who won the municipal tennis title for the twelfth time last week, will meet C. E. Groerich of Carondelet while Robert Norton of O'Fallon will cross racquets with Leo Moult and William Bell will clash with the third Carondelet player, Joe Patrick. The other attraction is the finals of the district junior doubles event, which is scheduled to take place at 2 o'clock between Ray Wiese paired with Warren Davis and Sam Schneider and Charles Rovin.

timer of the saddle, Jimmy Smith, was a heavily played favorite, and rewarded his backers with $3.52 to win, $2.84 to place and $2.32 to show. Petee Wrack, overlooked in the betting, paid the surprising place price of $9.62 with $4.16 to show. The show price on Toro was $3.50.

Although Gallant Fox and the Western champion, Misstep, were missing from the list of starters, the presence of Blue Larkspur was sufficient to scare out six others. Snow Flake, Stars and Bars, Victorian, Maya, Gallahad and Paul Runyan were withdrawn after it became apparent to their owners that the track would be fast as lightning and their entries had only a remote chance of winning.

Johnny Best, owner of Reveille Boy, however, thought that his pride and joy, with the weight advantage of 12 pounds, could conquer Blue Larkspur. Reveille Boy gave evidence that he was ready for the race of his life when he bucked and reeled twisted and turned and finally threw his jockey, Johnny Leyland, off his back twice, before he was led outside the starting gate. There he was held by two assistant starters before the barrier could be sprung. Reveille Boy shot across the track like a bullet and moved up with Petee Wrack and Blue Larkspur in the scramble for the lead. His speed was soon spent, however, and he folded up like a suitcase.

In the meantime, Petee Wrack, owned by J. R. Macomber of New York, and Blue Larkspur, were out in front battling for the lead. Jimmy Smith, astride Blue Larkspur, held a tight grip on his mount, being content to have Petee Wrack set the early pace. Petee Wrack sped into the lead at the start and clung to it until the field had traveled three quarters. Then Smith loosened the reins, giving Blue Larkspur his head and the Kentucky 4-year-old quickly conquered Petee Wrack, moving into the lead.

As the five thoroughbreds swung around the last bend for the dash to the finish, Blue Larkspur had a lead of three lengths with Petee Wrack battling hard to hold off Toro, owned by E. B. McLean, Washington's newspaper publisher. Blue Larkspur merely galloped on to the finish and Petee Wrack kept going long enough to beat the fast finishing Toro by a neck. Sun Beau, Willis Sharp Kilmer's great stallion, could not find his racing legs and finished in the ruck, six lengths behind Toro and beating only Reveille Boy.

JONES, AT 14, TRIED FOR FIRST AMATEUR TITLE OVER MERION LINKS

BOBBY WILL BE SEEKING 13TH MAJOR CROWN IN FALL CLASSIC

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The seven-year cycle in which Bobby Jones' golfing career seems to swing, will, on Sept. 22, bring him back to the Merion Cricket Club of Philadelphia, to battle for his fourth major title of the year, the national amateur championship. It was at Merion that the youthful Bobby, playing in long street trousers, at the age of 14, began his assault on the national amateur championship; it was at Merion, after some seven years of efforts to win the title, that Bobby first captured the crown; and it is now at this selfsame course that the greatest golf player of all time hopes to put the crowning touch to his wonderful career by winning the title for the fifth and possibly the last time—for he is now wavering on the verge of retirement.

At the peak of his game today, Bobby will be a strong favorite to conquer the field as, either at medal or match play, he has proved superior to both amateurs and professionals. It would be fitting, if he must close his tournament activity, to end such a famous career on the links that saw his first bid for fame.

Has Won Four U. S. Amateurs.

If he wins the national amateur again it will be for the fifth time, he having been successful in 1924, 1925, 1927 and 1929.

In the 14 years that have elapsed since the pink-cheeked Bobby made his first national championship bow—the youngest candidate ever to try for the title—Bobby has achieved 12 major champions. In addition to his amateur titles his record, as shown in detail elsewhere on this page, reveals the following successes:

U. S. Open—1923, 1926, 1929, 1930.

British Amateur—1930.

Bobby—a pupil of Stewart Maiden, who once taught golf at the St. Louis Country Club, by the way—had a hard time striking a championship gait. It was seven years after his maiden effort at Merion before he finally won a major championship—the U. S. Open. Youth and temperament, or perhaps temper might be the better word, were against him. A brilliant player, he was inclined to lose his poise and smash his clubs when things went wrong.

Tried in the Fire.

It was this seven years "drouth" that proved the furnace in which the greatest champion of all time was annealed. Out of this ordeal of fire Bobby emerged chastened in self-control as well as a finished player. He had conquered himself and therefore was ready to conquer the world.

It took him seven years to fit himself for the task and it has required seven years for him to reach the peak where, in one season, he was able to do what no man ever accomplished before—win three—perhaps it will be four — major golf championships on two continents.

It was not so long ago since the belief prevailed that it would never be possible to produce a super golfer—one who could absolutely dominate all rivalry. That an amateur would ever reach such a peak would have been scoffed at and the sponsor of such an idea been sent to the care of a keeper.

That 13-12 Defeat by Hagen.

There have been many and grievous setbacks to Bobby's ambitions in past years, but they only served to steel him to the job in hand. Perhaps the most notable reverse ever experienced by Bobby Jones came at the hands of Walter Hagen, when the mighty professional player was in his prime, several years ago. Bobby was on top the amateur world and a 72-hole match play event was arranged in Florida between Hagen and Jones. Hagen defeated Jones, 13 up and 12 to go—a reverse big enough to break the spirit of almost any player. But not the stout-hearted Bobby; it only made him strive the harder. Today Hagen would be more likely to suffer defeat by a similar margin if such a match were repeated.

Many have tried to decide whether Jones or Hagen, both at their peak, played the better golf, but that of course is the merest guesswork. Jones as an amateur has won more major titles than Hagen in a shorter space of time—12 to 11. Hagen has won the British open four times, the American open twice and the Professional Golfers' Association championship five times.

Naturally Hagen's competitions have been the harder, for he was a competitor in British and American professional championships in a day when many great British players like Ray, Vardon, Duncan and Mitchell were in their prime.

Bobby Improving All the Time.

If Jones decides to continue competitive play there is no telling to what extent his game will improve, for he is only 28 years old, and getting better every tournament.

But even if he ends his career at Merion, next September, it will be a long, long time before his 1930 achievement will be equaled.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

Jones qualified with a sensational 74 for the first round and an 89 on the second at the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, Pa. He defeated E. M. Byers and F. W. Dyer, veteran stars, in the first two rounds, and lost to Bob Gardner, 4 and 3, in the third round. Gardner eventually was runner-up to Chick Evans. It was here that Bobby Jones became known as the "Kid Wonder."

UNITED STATES AMATEUR

Jones, after two years of exciting experiences in Red Cross matches throughout the country, returned to competition at Oakmont. Qualifying with 159, he defeated J. H. Manion, Bob Gardner, Rudy Knepper and W. C. Fownes Jr. to reach the final. Here he lost to S. D. Herron, 5 to 4. Thus, in his second attempt at a national title, the Atlanta youngster went as far as the final round.

1920.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

At Engineers Jones tied for the medal with F. J. Wright Jr. with 154. In the first round he defeated J. Simpson, Dean, following with victories over Wright and F. W. Dyer. He lost in the semifinals to Francis Ouimet, 6 to 5. Ouimet bowing in the final to Chick Evans.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

This was Bobby's first venture in open competition against the giants of the professional ranks, the scene being Inverness at Toledo, Ohio. With rounds of 78 and 70, a final round of 73 would have carried him to a tie. He wound up, however, with 77, for a total of 299, four strokes behind the winner, Ted Ray of England.

BRITISH AMATEUR.

Upon his first invasion in quest of British golf crowns, of which in subsequent years he was to win four—three open and one amateur—Jones met with indifferent success. In the fourth round at Hoylake, scene of 1930's great triumph, he lost to Allan Graham.

BRITISH OPEN.

At St. Andrews the Atlantan withdrew after scoring 78 and 74, dissatisfied with his playing.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

In the tournament at Columbia Country Club, Chevy Chase, Md., a final round of 77 spelled Bobby's doom, for he was in the running with 78, 71, 77 for the first three rounds. His total of 303 tied him for fifth place, four strokes behind the winner, Jim Barnes.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

Qualifying with 151 at the St. Louis Country Club, Jones triumphed over Clarence Wolff and Dr. O. F. Willing, but lost to Willie Hunter, 2 and 1, in the third round. Hunter bowed in the next round to Bob Gardner, who lost to Jesse Guilford in the title round.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

A youthful ex-caddie named Gene Sarazen flashed a 68 on the final 18 at Skokie, leaving Jones one stroke behind at the finish in a tie with John Black, the winning score being 288. Bobby shot a superb 73 on the last stretch but it was not sufficient to match Sarazen's inspired flash. This was his closest bid for the open crown to date.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

Once again the quarterfinals proved Bobby's nemesis in the amateur at Brookline, the Atlantan bowing to Jess Sweetser, 4 and 3. It was Sweetser's year, Big Jess of Siwanoy going on to defeat Chick Evans for the title.

WALKER CUP.

This was the first year of the international matches between the United States and England, the play being over the National Golf Links at Southampton. Jones won in the singles from Roger Wethered, 3 and 2, and paired with Sweetser in the foursomes to defeat Hooman and Torrance, 3 and 2. The United States won, 8 to 4.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

At Flossmoor Bobby qualified with 149, tying for the medal with Chick Evans. He defeated T. B. Cochran and then encountered an inspired Max Marston in the second round. In this match Marston played only one hole all day above par. On the thirty-fifth green he had a 12-foot putt to halve the hole and win the match. The putt was true all the way and Bobby succumbed by 2 and 1. Marston won the title, defeating Sweetser in the final.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

The "seven-year drouth" for Robert Tyre Jones Jr. ended at Inwood Country Club, Inwood, L. I., on July 15. Since 1916 he had been shooting at golf's chief prizes, only to miss. At Inwood he turned in scores of 71, 73 and 76 and began the fourth round three strokes ahead of Bobby Cruickshank. His 76 on the last 18 while Cruickshank was taking 73 resulted in a tie at 296. In the play-off, Jones won with 76 to 78. Bobby's finish was an epic of golf, his spectacular mid-iron shot to the green from the rough landing seven feet from the cup and giving him a 4, while Cruickshank took 6. Thus Bobby, at 21 won his first national title.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

At Oakland Hills Jones ran second with 300, three strokes behind Cyril Walker.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

The first amateur title for Jones came to him at the Merion Cricket Club. After turning back in succession W. J. Thompson, D. Clarke Cochran, Rudy Knepper and Francis Ouimet, he overwhelmed George von Elm in the final, 9 and 8.

WALKER CUP.

Jones won his singles match in the international amateur series at Garden City, defeating Maj. C. O. Hezlet, 4 and 3, but in the foursomes he and W. C. Fownes Jr. met defeat at the hands of Michael Harris and Robert Scott, 1 up. The United States won, 9—3.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

Once again a play-off was necessary to decide this event, with Bobby and Willie Macfarlane of Oak Ridge the actors in the drama at Worcester, Mass. Each had finished the regulation four rounds with 291. Jones had overcome a four-stroke deftly on the last round to catch Macfarlane. In the play-off Macfarlane turned in a 72 to Bobby's 73 to win the championship.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

Thwarted in the open, Bobby did better two months later in the amateur at Oakmont. He swept aside William Reekie, Clarence Wolff and George Von Elm in order, then crushed Watts Gunn in the final, 8 and 7.

At Muirfield Jones defeated C. B. Ormerod, Colin C. Aylmer, H. M. Dickson, J. Birnie Jr. and Robert Harris, but lost to Andrew Jamieson in the sixth round, 4 and 3. Here it was that Jess Sweetser rose to heroic heights, defeating Alex Simpson for the title, the first native-born American to capture the British amateur.

BRITISH OPEN.

Qualifying with the astounding scores of 66, 68 at Sunningdale — still a target for all who play that course—Bobby went on to St. Anne's and became the first American amateur to win the open title, with a 72-hole aggregate of 291. It was also his first championship won on British soil. Jones had to come from behind to slip in ahead of Al Watrous by two strokes.

WALKER CUP.

In the international matches at St. Andrews, won by the United States, 6½ to 5½, Bobby triumphed in the singles over Cyril Tolley, 12 and 11, and won in the foursomes with Watts Gunn, defeating Tolley and Jamieson, 4 and 3.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

Following upon his triumphs abroad, the Atlantan set a hot pace at Scioto, finishing one stroke ahead of Joe Turnesa to capture the honors with 293.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

At Baltusrol Jones found himself once again in the final, with George Von Elm his opponent. Bobby had beaten R. A. Jones Jr., William Reekie, Chick Evans and Francis Ouimet before facing Von Elm, who won by 2 and 1.

BRITISH OPEN.

St. Andrews was the setting for Bobby's second victory in the British open. Twelve thousand persons were thronged around the last hole when he rapped in a three-inch putt to capture the title with 285, a record score for that classic. Aubrey Boomer and Fred Robson tied for second with 291.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

Jones was off his stride at Oakmont and finished with 309, eight strokes behind the leaders, Tommy Armour and Harry Cooper, Armour winning the play-off for the title.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

A third national amateur title was annexed by the Southern wizard at Minikahda. He put out Maurice McCarthy Jr., Eugene Homans, Harrison R. Johnston and Francis Ouimet, then defeated Chick Evans in the final, 8 and 7.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

Finishing in a tie at the end of the regulation 72 holes with Johnny Farrell at Olympia Fields, each with 294, Bobby ran second to the Quaker Ridge pro in the play-off for the title, 143 to 144.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

Brae Burn brought Jones his fourth amateur title and his eighth national crown when he defeated T. Philip Perkins, then British amateur champion, in the final, 11 and 9. His victims before the final round were J. W. Brown, R. R. Gorton, John B. Beck and Phillips Finlay.

WALKER CUP.

At the Wheaton international matches Bobby defeated T. Philip Perkins in the singles, 13 and 12, and, paired with Chick Evans, won from Hezlet and Hope, 5 and 3.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

Sinking his famous 12-foot putt on the eighteenth green at Winged Foot for a final round 79, which enabled him to tie Al Espinosa with an aggregate of 294, Bobby proceeded to crush the Chicago pro in the play-off with a typical display of par-wrecking golf, scoring 141 for the 36 holes, against Esponsa's 164. This marked Bobby's third national open title.

UNITED STATES AMATEUR.

Jones' defeat at the hands of Johnny Goodman, unheralded Omaha youngster, in the first round at Pebble Beach, is still fresh in the memories of golf fans. Bobby had tied with Gene Homans for the medal. Goodman took a three-hole lead at the start, and never relinquished his hold, winning by 1 up on the eighteenth. The Omaha boy was eliminated in the next round by J. Lawson Little, 2 and 1.

WALKER CUP.

In the international matches at Sandwich, won by the United States, 11 to 1, Jones paired with Dr. Willing to defeat Torrance and Hartley in the foursomes, 8 and 7, and defeated Roger Wethered in the singles, 9 and 8.

BRITISH AMATEUR.

This tournament was Bobby's main objective. It was the only major championship he had never held. He had a stiff fight in the first round at St. Andrews when Sidney Roper shot 15 fours and a five at him, but Bobby played super golf to get a 3 and 2 victory. Bobby had it easier against Cowan Shankland, but Cyril Tolley carried him to the nineteenth hole before he was able to put the British champion out. G. O. Watt gave Bobby a breathing spell in the fifth round, but Harrison R. Johnston, United States amateur champion, pressed him hard before he was able to win, 1 up. Eric Fiddian was next to fall before the Atlanta genius, and then George Voigt, who also carried Bobby to the last green. Jones' ambition was realized when he overwhelmed Roger Wethered in the final 7 and 6, while 20,000 frenzied fans cheered madly.

BRITISH OPEN.

Jones became both British amateur and open champion when he led the field at Hoylake with a score of 291. It was his eleventh national title.

UNITED STATES OPEN.

At Interlachen, Minneapolis, Jones won his second successive national open title and his third major title of the year, when he scored 287 for the 72 holes, the second lowest total in the history of the American Open. His Interlachen total was one stroke short of the record set 14 years ago by Chick Evans on the nearby Minikahda course. Jones, after successive rounds of 71 and 73, scored a 68 on his third round, shattering par by four strokes. On his final 18 round on the last hole, Jones sunk a 40-foot to make a birdie three to win the title. MacDonald Smith finished second, two strokes behind the Atlanta wizard.

SENATORS, ON PRESENT FORM, EXCELL MACKS, BABE RUTH SAYS

By Babe Ruth.

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Maybe they'll slump before the end of the season and maybe the Mackmen will suddenly go on a wild rampage, but right now it's my humble opinion, and the opinion of the rest of the Yankees as well, that the Washington Senators are a stronger ball club than the Athletics—and if they continue to play the rest of the season as they have to date, they'll be right in the money when the pay-off comes.

Proving that after all you can't tell about baseball. On paper, the Senators don't look so hot. Out there on the ball field they're the best ball club I've looked at all summer—fighting to the finish and winning just because they won't be licked.

Babe Ruth.

The thing that makes the Senators a great ball club is balance. They haven't any great outstanding stars. They haven't a man on their club who can compare to Simmons or Cochrane. But they haven't any weakness either, and when it comes to defensive ball (and that includes pitching and fielding) they're in a class by themselves. I haven't seen the National League clubs in action much this year, but I have followed them pretty closely through the sports pages and the records and it's my opinion that the Senators, right now, have the best infield in baseball. Certainly they've got the best one in the American League.

Fighting Spirit Important.

However, it isn't so much their mechanical play that makes Washington a real contender. It's the fighting spirit back of their play. They believe in themselves. They think they're the best in the business and they say so frankly. They don't boast—they just admit they're good, and that's the best spirit a ball club can have.

I notice over in the National League that the Giants and Brooklyn are beginning to come up again following bad slumps on the road. I said early in the season that the Giants would be dangerous and I still contend that they will. True, they're still several games out of first place but in a cat-and-dog race where three or four clubs are fighting a few games more or less don't mean anything. And McGraw has the club, if only he can get the pitching.

The latest sensation in the two leagues is the Boston Braves. And their sudden spurt out of the cellar just goes to show what a couple of men can do to a ball club. Walter Berger started them on their winning ways and now this kid Chatham just about rounds them out. Through these two fellows they get some real hitting punch to go with their pitching and while they don't figure to win any pennants—or even come close—they will have a lot to say about the final pennant winner.

Its Good for the Game.

It's a good thing for baseball too, to have a club like the Braves show signs of winning again. Boston is one of the best baseball towns in the country if they have a winning club—and there are no more loyal supporters in the world than the boys and girls who sit up there in the Boston stands every day pulling for a home club victory. I've been there and I know. And don't overlook the fact that the Braves have a mighty smart manager handling them. Bill McKechnie isn't one of those handshaking loud talking fellows and being always in the background he hasn't been properly appreciated. But he knows baseball and he knows how to handle men. Bill always reminds me of Miller Huggins the way he works. Hug, you know, never cared for the limelight either—and he was always ducking interviews, and newspaper writeups and that sort of thing. But he had the stuff it takes to turn out pennant winners. And so has Bill McKechnie.

MACK SAYS A'S, ONCE AGAIN AT FULL STRENGTH, WILL WIN FLAG

By James M. Gould.

Connie Mack, shrewd manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, outwardly wears, like Cassius, a "lean and hungry look." No one to look at Connie would say that he was especially happy or terribly optimistic about the chances of his ball club to repeat its success of last year. Yet, a talk with this gentleman of ministerial mien, will convince anyone that he is "sartainsure" the A's will be one of the contending teams in the October edition of the World Series.

The reason for Mr. Mack's present joy and optimism is not far to seek. When he and his team arrived in St. Louis a week ago, they were looking up at the surprising Washington Senators who, not regarded highly by pre-season experts, had hopped into the lead, skidded out of it and hopped back again. Now, after a profitable stay here and in Chicago, Mack and his men are looking down on the Senators from the top-place heights.

Gives Reasons.

"Certainly, I think we are going to win," said Mack when asked for his idea of what was going to happen. "Why shouldn't I? We were able to keep in the race when, at various times and over extended periods, we were without the services of Mickey Cochrane, Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and Max Bishop. The absence of any one of a set of players as great as these would spell disaster for an ordinary club. But, ours is not an ordinary club. We weathered the storm by what I consider a judicious use of recruits and now all my stars are back in condition and action. For the first time this season the team that won the world championship last October is functioning.

"My great task," he continued, "is to keep my team intact. Of course, we have to gamble with the possibility of sickness or injury but give me the team that now represents us in the field for the rest of the season and we'll win without question. I depend on four pitchers as starters—Grove, Walberg, Earnshaw and Mahaffey and I doubt if a more efficient quartet exists in either big league today. Quinn, Rommel and Shores constitute my pitching reserve and I have Williams and McNair for infield reserve and young Cramer for outfield duty. Schang and Perkins protect me in the catching department. I really don't believe either the Senators or Yankees can match either my regulars or my reserves."

"Apparently," it was suggested, "you figure only the Senators and Yankees as having a chance to contest with you for the flag."

How to Judge.

"Well," he replied, "the only thing to judge by is the standing of the clubs. That's what the race is decided on and certainly only Washington and New York are what we call 'up there.' I did think Cleveland might put up a fight, and they did for a while, but were hit by a bad slump and now seem out of the flag contention. Sometimes I think the Yanks will be closer to us at the end of the season than the Senators. One thing I do know and that is all our players were pleased when Washington hammered New York as it did earlier in the season. And I was just as pleased.

"Of course, Washington cannot be overlooked. It has fine pitchers—better than New York has—but it lacks the punch carried by Bob Shawkey's club. If the Yanks had good pitching — well, they'd be pretty troublesome."

Two questions then were put to Mr. Mack.

"How do you think the Milwaukee case over Outfielder Bennett will come out?" and "How do you figure the 1930 Browns?"

To both queries he answered in that soft voice of his: "That was quite a hot spell St. Louis had, wasn't it?"

Mr. Mack is more than a tactician; he is a diplomat.

VOLLMER HURLS SECOND NO-HIT GAME FOR FOURTH BAPTIST JUNIORS

HIS TEAM WINS 22-1; LACLEDES SCORE VICTORY ON TWO BLOWS

A chance to pitch a perfect no-hit, no-run game was lost when Vollmer, who twirls for the Fourth Baptist Juniors in the Sunday School division of the Municipal League yesterday afternoon booted Christopher's grounder, which put Christopher in position to steal second and to score on Pickles' error of another grounder. Third Baptist lost the game, 22 to 1. It was Vollmer's second no-hit game of the season.

Vollmer struck out 11 and walked two in the seven innings played. He helped his team to victory by hitting a home run, but the chief slugging honors went to Stumbaugh, who slammed out a single, double, triple and home run in six times at bat.

One of those rare occurrences, a game in which a team only makes two hits and wins, happened when the Laclede-Christy club defeated the Olivers, 4 to 2, in the Y. M. C. A. No. 3 division. The wildness of Fowler, the losing pitcher, had a great deal to do with the loss of the game. Fowler walked five and hit Rempe, an opposing batsman, twice.

Another Y. M. C. A. branch, the South Side division, produced some good pitching, as there were two three-hit games turned in. The Tormentors won from the Brownies, 11 to 1, as Krieg set the Brownies down with three safeties. Orf of the Optimists let the Allens down with the same number of hits, the Optimists winning, 6 to 1. Orf fanned 11 batsmen and Krieg 10.

Gray of St. Peters, who probably will be the regular pitcher for Beaumont High School next year, allowed Bethel two hits and two runs, St. Peters winning, 16 to 2. Gray struck out 13 in seven innings. The teams are in the Junior Evangelical League.

CANADIAN POLOISTS PLAY IN TOURNAMENT FOR NORTHWEST TITLE

By the Associated Press.

FORT SNELLING, Minn., July 19.—Polo activities in the Northwest took on an international tinge today as the Winnipeg team wound up practice preliminary to the annual Northwest polo tournament starting tomorrow.

The Canadian team, an outstanding stick-and-ball aggregation, will compete with five others from Lake Forest, Ill.; Pierre, S. D.; Fort Snelling and the Twin Cities for the famous Sifton and Northwest trophies.

The four horsemen from across the border are here for the first time in four years, in an attempt to lift the trophies and capture the Northwest title from the Pierre quartet, last year's winners.

Winnipeg will open the tournament against the Fort Snelling Blacks of the Third U. S. Infantry.

INCREASE IN TRADING AS STOCKS RISE DURING WEEK

Important Professional Operators Take Bullish Stand and Rather Laboriously Work Prices Upward.

PROFIT TAKING AS WEEK CLOSES

Bull Forces Fail for First Time in Several Days to Drive Prices Up at Finish—Substantial Recovery From June Low.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The stock market lifted itself up by the bootstraps this week, hoping to land on a firm foundation of business recovery.

Important professional operators took an uncomprisingly bullish stand, and steadily, if rather laborously, worked prices higher until week-end profit-taking caused a little backsliding today.

The average of 90 stocks made an extreme gain of 6.6 points, and ended the week with a net advance of 5.1. Trading was moderately accelerated. The market experienced its first 3,000,000-share day of the month on Tuesday.

The newly organized bull leadership was forced to operate without the benefit of tangible improvemnt in business, although a better tone in the grain and cotton markets helped operations in stocks during the latter part of the week.

While the upturn in share prices has been generally explained as in anticipation of the autumn upturn in business, speculators for the rise had difficulty in attracting a public following on the basis of expectations alone.

Technical Rally Natural.

On technical market considerations only, a rally regaining from 30 to 50 per cent of the recent decline might be expected. As measured by Standard Astatistics Co.-Associated Press averages, the rally from the year's low reached on June 24 has been about 17 points, or approximately 34 per cent of the loss from the year's high recorded April 10.

All in small, speculative confidence in professional circles had improved considerably by the end of the week, but there was a notable and perhaps healthy inclination to go slowly.

Sudden and abrupt upturns in business activity are not looked for this month or next, and most observers expect only a seasonal gain in the early autumn. Even in conservative quarters, however, it is acknowledged that signs of a major upturn may be in evidence by the end of the year.

The upturn in stocks was frankly a professional, manipulative venture, but was justified by its sponsors on the grounds that it is almost always professional activity that provides impetus to the market when it reaches an impasse, such as it obviously had two or three weeks ago.

Corporate and statistical reports coming to hand only bore out what has been generally recognized regarding the present business recession. A few industries, indeed, appeared to be virtually depression proof and several manufacturers reported second-quarter and first-half earnings approximating or better than those of the like periods of 1929, but the aggregate showed marked shrinkage. The Annalist preliminary index of business activity for June was but a shade above the low level of 1924, and the tendency thus far in July has been distinctly downward.

$8,000,000 Gold Shipped.

The recent strength in the French franc finally caused an outgoing gold movement from New York to Paris, $8,000,000 being consigned during the week. This was the first outward movement since January. It was rather disconcerting to London, where it was thought the yellow metal will be as useless in Paris as it has been in New York. Imports of some $200,000,000 in gold into this country so far this year have not been really needed. The Canadian dollar also rose well above par, and shipments of gold to Canada are likely.

Short-term credit remained highly plentiful in New York. Call money got back to 2 per cent, and on Friday some funds were offered in the outside market as low as 1½ per cent. Longer term credits,

LOCAL STOCK PRICES SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Wagner Electric and McQuay Norris Gain the Most but Coca Cola Bottling Is Most Active.

Prices improved some in the trading on the St. Louis Stock Exchange during the week just closed, though the volume of business still was restricted.

Coca Cola Bottling was the most active issue of the period but gained only a little more than a point. Wagner Electric rose sharply late in the week. International Shoe gained a point. Consolidated Lead, Rice-Stix and National Candy also recorded small upturns.

McQuay-Norris advanced two points and Laclede Steel one point. Ely Walker was unchanged.

Bentley common was lower, one large block figuring in transactions. Corno Mills also was down.

In the banking group First National sold at 80 and Mercantile-Commerce at 249⅛ to 250½.

Among bonds, Moloney Electric 5½s sold higher at 95.

however, were a little firmer in anticipation of the expanding commercial requirements in the autumn.

The weekly brokerage loan tabulation showed a gain of $40,000,000, the first increase in several weeks.

Profit Taking at Week End.

For the first time in several days there was no closing rally today. Its absence suggested that the short interest had been well eliminated while the market was recovering the 34 per cent of the ground lost in the April-June decline, and that pool operations on the long side might expect little support from further covering at this time.

Today's decline virtually equaled yesterday's loss. Measured by the averages it amounted to 1½ points, which made the drops of 2 and 3 points in many popular shares rather deceptive, just as some of the recent strength in pool favorites had been rather misleading when viewed in the broader light of the general market's performance. A few active shares, including U. S. Steel, General Electric, General Motors and Radio held up well but in American Telephone, American Can, Anaconda, Byers, Johns-Manville, Proctor & Gamble, Vanadium, and Westinghouse the losses ranged from one to three points. Allied Chemical was off 6, J. I. Case 5⅝ and National Cash Register 4⅝. There was individual strength in United Carbon, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and International Silver.

Grains Advance.

While stocks were selling off, the grain markets were exhibiting considerable strength. Wheat closed a cent and a half higher, reflecting largely much-desired export demand. Canadian Government forecasts were bullish and the foreign markets were strong. Corn was up ⅝ to more than 2 cents on bullish weather news. Reports from the belt said that the drouth was continuing. Covering, based on the absence of rain forecasts for the dry sections, helped cotton materially and the close was 65 cents to $1.25 a bale higher.

Stock traders who have been active on the up side found little that was favorable in the news, and there was some disposition to accept a test of the market's actual position; that is, whether the rally has been based solely on professional operations or whether it has represented a discounting of future recovery in business. A reaction at this time, it was pointed out, should clarify the situation.

There is a growing relief in commission house circles that July will see the bottom of the business depression, particularly in the basic steel industry. Many of the second quarter earnings are undoubtedly better than had been expected, although it is admitted that some of the reports so far received have been from the strongest companies. The statements of U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel, due week after next, are being eagerly awaited.

From the Youngstown district came reports that producers in that area would operate at present ratios next week, which was encouraging, although some of the schedules are being maintained on steel pipe business for which demand continues.

Foreign exchanges were firmer. Sterling cables rose 5-16 and other leading European rates shaded upward.

Metal Market Review.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Copper prices were easier with two reductions of ¼c each during the week, carrying the price down to 11 cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley. This level was said to be the lowest since 1902. The final reduction attracted improved buying interest with liberal offerings from some producers reported available at the new level. Foreign demand was checked somewhat by failure of export prices to promptly follow domestic changes. June statistics published early in the period were said to be more favorable than anticipated, due to increases in refined stocks to the highest point in nine years.

Price changes in the tin market were rather narrow and the tone was somewhat steadier at the finish. Dealers and consumers were credited with fair purchases.

Consuming demand for lead was reported as good, and the market tone was steady.

Zinc prices continued to harden and the market was featured by small offerings. Consuming requirements were not believed to be heavily covered. Antimony was a little firmer with improved demand for spot position.

Steel Market.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Steel prices unchanged.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Reports of the Bureau of Mines are to the effect most railroads in Alabama are taking from 10 to 25 per cent below their regular minimum coal purchases, and that mines producing domestic household sizes of coal are operating from 25 to 60 per cent of capacity.

In Colorado domestic coal mines are operating two and three days a week and steam coal mines are running three to four days a week. The current month is expected to show an improved demand for domestic sizes. The Colorado and New Mexico markets appear to be demoralized, orders being confined to small lots with no bookings for future business.

In Southern Illinois the demand for industrial and commercial coal has been very light.

The Commerce Department dealt with 177 violations of air commerce regulations during the second quarter of 1930. Fines in the amount of $900 were assessed and collected from 53 persons, and penalties in the form of 20 reprimands, 63 suspensions, 12 revocations and fine denials of licenses were meted out. In 24 cases evidence was produced which justified dismissal.

Violations dealing with acrobatics and low flying led the list of specific offenses.

Italy will, in future, purchase feedstuffs for its army direct from farmers' federations instead of through intermediaries as formerly, it has been announced. This policy is for the dual purpose of aiding Italian agriculture and economizing in its own expenditures, as authorities feel both farmers and the State will benefit greatly by this elimination of the middleman.

Mexico, by a presidential decree, has increased the duty on some commodities and decreased it on others, effective Aug. 11.

Decreased import duties are provided for a number of items, including certain lead pencils, silver in sheets, floss silk, carbonate of potassium and of soda, empty shotgun shells, tricycles and kiddy cars with pedals.

The usual surtax of 2 per cent of the import duty is added to the basic rate.

PRICE MOVEMENTS ARE MIXED IN BOND TRADE

Small Fractions Mark Changes Except in More Volatile Domestic Issues.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK July 19.—Price movement in the listed bond market was of a mixed character today. Trading was dull although activity was somewhat better than previous half day sessions, small fractions marked the changes which took place throughout the list except in the more volatile domestic issues.

Railroad issues moved irregularly with gains and losses about evenly divided, and foreign issues which have been quite stable this week were erratic and dull. By far the best showing was made by utility issues which quickly responded to nominal offerings, and a group of high-grade industrials in the miscellaneous list.

American Water Works 6s, Western Union 6½s, San Antonio Public Service 6s, Laclede Gas 5½s, North American Edison 5s, Public Service 6s were strong. American Telephone bonds of several issues were moderately active and firm, and about the only recession of any consequence was the 1½-point drop of Columbia Gas & Electric 5s.

Such issues as Inland Steel 5½s, Sinclair Crude Oil bonds, Lorillard 5s and Western Electric 5s gained about ½ a point. Sinclair 7s sold at a new year's peak price. Consolidated Coal of Maryland 5s rose 5 points. Fisk Rubber 8s, off 2 points, and Chile Copper 5s, off ⅝, were soft spots.

Convertible issues showed good resistance to the downward trend of stocks, and closed steady to firm. American Telephone 4½s were conspicuously weak, losing 2 points. Lautaro Nitrate 6s which have been strong this week, gained fractionally.

Dealings in foreign bonds were quiet and prices irregularly easier. Australia 4½s, French 7s, Sao Paulo 6½s, and several German issues which comprised the most active bonds in the group reflected the easier tone. Berlin City 6½s dropped more than a point. British 5½s, Brazil 6½s and Jugo-Slav Mortgage Bank 7s made good advances.

United States Government presented an improved appearance after the reactionary trend yesterday. Dealings were small and confined principally to Liberties which were firm.

COTTON PRICES CLOSE NEAR BEST FOR DAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Cotton was higher today on week-end covering which appeared to be coupled with some trade and commission house buying on the relatively firm showing of Liverpool and an unfavorable view of the weather outlook. The new October contract sold up to 13.33c, or 18 points net higher, and closed at 13.31c, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 13 to 25 points. Spot steady; mids., 13.65c.

The opening was steady at an advance of 8 to 13 points in response to the showing of the Liverpool cables and the failure of early weather reports to indicate any rain in drouthy sections of the belt. The opening advance met considerable realizing and the demand tapered off after the first few minutes, when there was probably some selling on an idea that the scattering short interest had been pretty well covered.

Offerings were absorbed on reactions of some 6 to 10 points, however, and the market steadied up again after the publication of the official forecasts which were regarded as holding out no promise of immediate relief from dry, warm weather in central and western belt sections. There was enough further realizing to cause some irregularity later in the morning, but the best prices of the day were reached in the late trading, when July sold at 13.43c, or 25 points net higher, while the old October advanced to 13.58c and the new December to 13.50c. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

There appeared to be some differences of opinion among local traders as to the weather outlook, with some expecting to see shower developments over the week-end, while others looked for continued dry weather. The week-end forecast was for occasional local thundershowers in east gulf states and near the middle gulf coast with temperatures near or above the seasonal average and generally fair weather elsewhere, except for possible showers during the latter part of the week. The outlook for southern plains and west gulf states was for generally fair weather the first part and probably local thundershowers during the middle or latter part of the week.

Liverpool cables said there had been continental and Bombay buying, short covering and trade calling in the market there and reported a better inquiry for cotton cloth in Manchester, although offers were mostly unworkable. The amount on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 49,500, against 56,300 last year.

MODERATE REACTION IN PRICES ON CURB

Selling Is of Light Volume — Here and There, Stock Shows Undivided Strength.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Curb shares reacted moderately in week-end profit taking today. Selling was in light volume and most losses were limited to a point or less, but a few shares dropped 2 to 4. Sales for the two-hour session were only 262,370 shares.

Here and there a stock showed individual strength. Driver Harris sold up 3 points, following announcement that it had been licensed to use the Krupp-Nitrosa patents. A little bullish activity appeared in Pilot Radio, which rose a point to 8½. Duval Texas Sulphur, Niles Bement Pond and Ulen & Co. moved up more than a point each.

The holding and investing company group generally sagged. United Founders declined to a new low at 16⅛ in active selling, and closed at 17⅛, off a fraction; Transamerica and Goldman Sachs each lost about 2 points, then rebounded a point from the bottom.

The Cities Service group, strong features yesterday, yielded part of their gains in realizing sales. Cities Service slipped back below 30, closing at 29¾, off 1¼. Indiana Territory "A" lost a point of yesterday's 4-point rise, but the class B stock was firm. Oils generally were sluggish. Gulf and Humble lost about a point each. In the utilities, Electric Bond and Share closed at 84, off ⅝, and American Gas and Electric lost 2 points.

Among recent firm spots in the industrials and specialties, Anglo Chilean lost 3 and Deere 4 points. In the aviation group, New York, Rio and Buenos Aires sagged 1⅝.

CORN STRENGTH IS FEATURE OF GRAIN TRADE

Local Market Closes 3 3-8 Cents Higher on New Crop Delivery — Wheat Advances on Export Sales

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE. July 19.—Corn futures led the rise in the grain market at the week-end session, closing 3⅜c higher as traders interpreted the weekly weather forcast as failing to indicate hope of the breaking up of excessive heat and drouth soon. The new crop, December delivery, was the strongest. The strength of corn influenced wheat, as did estimate of North American export sales of 3,000,000 bushels, with estimate of 15,000,000 taken during week. Unfavorable comment from spring wheat belt also was factor. Liverpool closed 1⅝ to 1⅛d higher.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was up 1c to 2c, with the best figures being paid late. Trading was active at the upturn. Receipts were heavy, with the bulk of the offerings going to local elevators. Local and outside mills were fair purchasers and some wheat went on orders. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis 2¼c to 3½c below the Chicago September figure and No. 2 at 2¼c to 3⅛c below, mainly 3 and 3½c. Discounts on garlicky grain under straight grades ranged from 2c to 2½c below for light to 5c to 6c below for medium and 7½c to 8c below for heavy. Hard wheat was 1c to 2c higher. Offerings were light as practically all receipts were terminal old grain delivered here on contracts. There was a good local demand and local mills and elevators absorbed the available supply. Sales of No. 1 winter 12.82 per cent protein were on a basis 1½c below the Chicago September figure and average protein 3 and 3¼c below. Corn was 1½c to 3c higher. Good yellow variety sold at 3½c and 4½c above the Chicago September figure as compared with 5s above yesterday. The limited offerings of yellow corn went to mills and the white went to fill shipping orders. Oats were up 1c to 2c. Local trade absorbed the limited supply.

September wheat opened at 90⅝c, December wheat 96c. September corn 80¼c and December corn 74½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 838,600 bushels, compared with 420,000 a week ago and 361,200 a year ago, included 580 cars local and 39 through. Corn receipts, which were 40,600 bushels, compared with 49,000 a week ago and 54,600 a year ago, included 25 cars local and 4 through. Oats receipts, which were 30,800 bushels, compared with 33,000 a week ago and 28,600 a year ago, included 12 cars local and 2 through. Hay receipts were 14 cars local and 13 through.

SHARP ADVANCE IN CORN AT CHICAGO

Weekly Weather Forecast Credited Largely With Affecting Prices.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—It was a runaway market today in the corn trade, with a tumultuous rush of buying, and prices showing a decided tendency to soar. The climax came when the weekly official weather forecast was issued, shutting off hopes which previously were held that a general break-up of excessive heat and drouth damaging the crop might be looked for soon. A maximum jump of nearly 4c a bushel over yesterday's finish on corn resulted, with wheat values strongly sympathizing.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous at ¾@3⅝c a bushel net advance, and more than 7c up from this week's bottom figures. Wheat closed unsettled, ½@1⅜c over yesterday's finish, oats showing ½@1½c gain, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Hardy speculators, nevertheless, indulged in considerable selling after the day's opening bulge in prices, and something of a reaction followed for a brief interval, the basis being predicted showers in parts of the Northwest and West. Details pouring in, however, describing the heat and drouth over the corn belt as a whole sent the market quickly up again, with the weekly forecast later bringing about a buying stampede.

From start to finish, trading in the corn market proved to be of broad volume and especially in the last hour, the widespread prevailing excessive heat and drouth being an incentive to general buying. Besides, numerous stop-loss orders to purchase were forced into operation from previous speculative sellers who found themselves at a disadvantage in the rapid upturn of values. December delivery of corn, representing the new crop, displayed the most strength. July and September contracts that are filled from corn now in store, were less violently affected.

Aside from the stimulating influence of the upward flight of corn prices, the chief feature in the wheat market today was big export business and unfavorable comment from spring crop territory, both north and south of the Canadian border, with crop news adverse also from France and Germany. It was estimated that 3,000,000 bushels of wheat was bought today for trans-Atlantic shipment and that as much as 15,000,000 bushels have been taken altogether during the present week. Figures were cited here indicating that about 3,000,000 acres in Southern Saskatchewan and Southern Alberta have been continuously short of moisture, both surface and subsoil, this season.

Oats prices followed the action of wheat and corn.

UNEVEN TRADE IN HOGS DURING WEEK

Prices Suffer Sharp Setbacks Early in Period — Improved Dressed Pork Helps Later.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, July 19.—(U. S. Department of Agricultural)—Receipts of hogs this week approximately 58,800; actual receipts last week 59,365; year ago 65,905. Marked unevenness and considerable fluctuation featured swine trading this week. With increased receipts, prices suffered sharp setbacks early in the week but buoyed up by improved trends to dressed pork in the East, lighter weights, 215 lbs. and down, scored a quick comeback and finished around 10c higher than last Saturday. These kinds on Friday, when top reached $10.10, were at the highest point since June 16 when top was $10.35. Weightier descriptions encountered severe pressure, particularly on later sessions and closed with an uneven 10 to 25c loss. Sows were slow all week and lost 25c. Pigs were scarce found good action from both killers and feeder buyers, and advanced 25c. Better 140 to 220-lb. weights sold Saturday at $9.75 to $10, latter price top. A few early sales of 220 to 230-lb. weights were noted steady at $9.65 to $9.85 but later sales were 25c lower and a fair proportion remained unsold late. A few 230 to 240-lb. descriptions sold late at $9.20 to $9.50 and a few 250 to 260-lb. kinds went at $9 to $9.10. No heavier butchers were on sale. Desirable 100 to 130 lb pigs were considered salable at $9.50 to $9.75 or a little better. Packing sows cashed ta $7.50 to $7.75.

Cattle Prices Down.

Very liberal receipts of cattle were accompanied by sharply declining prices that affected all classes here the past week. With generous runs reported at other markets as well, there was little or no demand from outside interests, throwing the responsibility of clearance on local packers for the most part.

Compared with the close of last week, fed yearling steers sold 50c lower, all other natives 75c to $1.25 lower; Western steers 50c to 75c lower, spots down $1; strictly lightweight, fat mixed yearlings and heifers 50c lower, all others $1 to $1.25 lower; beef cows 75c to $1 lower, spots off more; cutters and medium bulls 25c to 50c lower; low cutters 25c lower; vealers $2 lower; stocker and feeder steers 75c lower; feeding cows and heifers 50c lower. Tops for week—874-pound yearling steers, 559-pound heifers and 500-pound mixed yearlings $11; 1342-pound matured steers $10; Western grass steers $8.10; native cows $7.75; sausage bulls $6.75; vealers $12.75 (Monday); feeder steers $7.40. Steers averaging 1406 and 1420 pounds scored $9, while a few scaling 1306 to 1367 pounds brought $8.25, $9.25 and $10. Steers averaging 1205 to 1279 pounds ranged from $8.35 to $9.40, bulk $8.75 to $9.40, while that group scaling 1109 to 1174 pounds spread from $7.75 to $9.75, the majority $8.25 to $9.50. Lightweight steers ranged from $7 to $11, bulk $8.35 to $9.75, with bulk of all natives $8.35 to $9.50. Bulk of fat steers scored $8.75 to $10. Western steers ranged from $4.75 to $8.10, bulk $6 to $7.50. Fat mixed yearlings and heifers went principally from $8.75 to $10; medium fleshed descriptions mostly $7.50 to $8.50; cows largely $5.25 to $6.25; low cutters $3.25 to $4. Good and choice vealers closed at $10.50 last Friday. Bulk and top prices the corresponding week last years were as follows: Native steers $13 to $15, top $15.90; fat mixed yearlings and heifers $13@13.75, top $15.60; medium fleshed heifers $11.50-$12.50; cows $8 to $9.75, top $11.85; low cutters $5.50 to $6; top sausage bulls $9.75; top vealers $16.50; stocker and feeder steers $8.60 to $11, top $13.

Fat Lamb Prices Lower.

Sheep and lamb marketings this week approximated 19,400; actual receipts last week 18,301; corresponding week last year 20,577. Increased supplies around the livestock circuit furnished packers with material for bearish efforts and fat lamb prices dropped to a new low for the current season. Compared with the close of last week, values declined 50c to $1, or mostly 75c, and closing prices this week were at the low time. Throwout lambs and all grades of fat ewes continued throughout at the low levels of the past few weeks. Best fat lambs topped at $11 on Tuesday but at the end of the week only a few closely sorted lambs to city butchers were able to reach $10.25. Packers made their late purchases at $10 and below with bulk of sales Friday at $9.50 to $9.75. Common throwouts bulked at $4.50. Fat ewes sold all week at $2.50 to $3.50, according to weight and quality, though marketings of this class were very light. No yearlings or aged wethers were offered.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, July 19.—The horse and mule market was nominally steady today. Receipts were light all week and trade closes on an unchanged basis for the period.

LAST MAN'S CLUB SURVIVOR TO DRINK THE FINAL TOAST

South Dakotan Tomorrow to Dine Alone With Bottle of Burgundy in Memory of 33 Veterans.

By the Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Minn., July 19.—A weird promise made in jest and sealed with song and laughter will be fulfilled in deep solemnity here Monday, when Charles Lockwood of Chamberlain, S. D., completes a pilgrimage to Stillwater and drinks a toast in old red wine.

For the 87-year-old Civil War veteran is the last man of the Last Man's Club, and Monday, the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run, in which he and 33 other club members fought, is the traditional date set for carrying out the covenant of these men who survived a battle-scarred company of Stillwater men who marched away to war in 1861.

A massive banquet table will be spread in Lowell Inn, on the site of the old Sawyer House, where the survivors of Company B, First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, gathered for a reunion July 21, 1885.

There it was that after hours of feasting and speeches the plan for the club was laid—just how no one ever recalled. But a bottle of Burgundy, the last of the evening's supply, was set aside from which the toast of the last should be drunk—and this bottle will be standing before Lockwood Monday.

MARY LEWIS FILES DIVORCE SUIT; DANSEUSE INVOLVED

Opera Singer Charges Michael Bohnen Deserted Her; Recently Withdrew Separation Action.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 19.—There will be no reconciliation between Mary Lewis and Michael Bohnen, erstwhile "ideally married" pair of Metropolitan Opera. Unlike her separation suit of two years ago, which was dismissed after a reconciliation, the prima donna's divorce action, filed here yesterday, will be pushed forward to a decree. Those close to her declared she was determined to give Bohnen his freedom in order that he may marry Mlle. Lajana, Berlin danseuse.

In her present action, the diva, a Methodist minister's stepchild from Arkansas, who rose by way of the Ziegfeld Follies to become a Metropolitan star, made no reference to the charge in her first suit that the bass-baritone beat her on their honeymoon three years ago.

Her only charge is that Bohnen deserted her July 19, 1929. With a present income from the movies said to be $5000 a week, she asks for no alimony. From Hollywood, Miss Lewis telegraphed Bohnen, as he sailed from New York for Berlin, where he has since remained, that all was forgiven.

Services to Be Held at Sacred Heart Convent; Nephew to Sing Mass.

Mother Margaret Ryan, religious of the Society of the Sacred Heart, will observe her golden jubilee today as a member of the religious order. She is well known to many St. Louis women, former students of the Sacred Heart Convent, Maryland and Taylor avenues, where services in honor of the occasion will be held. She still is active in the educational and religious work of the school.

The Rev. Francis Ryan of Chicago, a nephew, will sing solemn high mass in the convent chapel at 9 o'clock. Members of the order as well as relatives and friends will be present. At 4:30 this afternoon Archbishop Glennon will officiate at solemn benediction.

There will be a reception after both the morning and afternoon services.

7 SEIZED AT BOOTLEGGERS' RADIO STATIONS GIVE BOND

Four Accused of Violating Broadcasting Law After Raids on Long Island.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Seven men arrested in the seizure of three outlaw radio stations on Long Island thought to have been used by liquor runners, were held today in $7500 bail each for hearing Aug. 1 on charges of violating the Volstead act and operating unlicensed radio transmitters.

Joseph H. Wickert, wealthy retired shoe manufacturer of Mattatuck; Peter Wyckoff, a roadhouse proprietor, also of Mattatuck, and Patrick Fitzgerald, the Bronx, were held on the liquor charge. Alonzo M. Contdell of East Hampton; Robert Verno and E. J. Blake of Southampton, and Sam Schwarz, the Bronx, are accused of operating the outlaw stations.

Twenty-five Treasury agents, Federal radio engineers and Deputy Sheriffs conducted the raids on four apparently respectable homes last night. They said the stations were communicating with Scotland in aiding ships to transport liquor to the United States.

JOCKEY DEPORTED FOR SECOND TIME

James Burns Left England When He Was 3 Years Old —Entered U. S. From Canada.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Jockey James Burns doesn't know a soul in England, and, so far as he's concerned, Picadilly Circus is a tent show—but he was started for the British Isles today on a deportation order.

Burns was born in England but when he was 3 years old his parents moved to Canada. His mother lives in Calgary, Alta. He ran away when he was 11, came to the United States illegally and became a jockey.

Last fall he was deported to England when he fell into the hands of immigration officers, but he came right back on a freighter, the Kensington Court, to Philadelphia and resumed riding at Havre de Grace, Md., and. other tracks.

Rearrested, he spent three months in jail at Philadelphia and was convicted there of entering the country illegally. Then it was found that he should have been tried in Camden, N. J., so he was taken across the Delaware, spent another three months in jail, and was convicted again.

He said as he started for England today on the Adriatic that the United States was by all odds his favorite country.

BAR ASSOCIATION COMMITTEE ASSAILS FARM RELIEF ACT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 19.—An attack on the farm relief act is contained in a report of the Committee on American Citizenship of the American Bar Association. The report, made public today, will be submitted to the association at its annual meeting in Chicago, Aug. 20 to 22.

The convention will be addressed by leading American lawyers and judges and will be attended by delegations of attorneys from Canada, England, France, Scotland, and the Irish Free State.

The committee citizenship report, signed by Chairman F. Dumont Smith and four committee members, declared that the "farm relief experiment was foredoomed to failure." The avowed purpose of the bill, the report asserts, is "to raise the price of bread to 90 per cent of the people in order that 10 per cent may have a larger profit in producing it."

The bill is characterized as an "unconstitutional and vicious attempt to debase our great republic into a Soviet commonwealth."

"Under this act," the report continues, "Congress has appropriated $250,000,000 and the Farm Board and its subsidiaries, as agents of the Government, have engaged in a purely private business of buying and selling wheat on which a loss of more than $20,000,000 has already been incurred, and the present result is a decline of one-third in the price of wheat since these operations were commenced. In our judgement it is a dangerous assault upon the form, the ideals, and the purposes of our Government."

WAILING WALL COMMISSION'S COMPROMISE EFFORTS FAIL

Meeting Adjourns but Delegates Will Assemble Later to Prepare Report.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, July 19. — The Wailing Wall Commission, which has been in session here in an endeavor to bring about an Arab-Moslem agreemnt over the Wailing Wall, held its final meeting today.

The delegates departed for their various countries ready to meet again after three weeks, possibly at Geneva, to draw up their report. Aouini Bey Abdulhadi, a prominent Jerusalem attorney, made the final adddress on behalf of the Moslems.

The question is not one of law, he said, but one of Zionism. If the Zionists claim the right to rebuild the temple which was destroytd 2000 years ago, he argued, then the Moslems equally may claim Spain, where the Cordoba Mosque still stands.

Another attempt made by the commission to bring about a compromise between the contending parties failed, it was learned.

HOLLAND LEADS CHESS PLAY

HAMBURG, Germany, July 19.—With the exception of two unfinished games, nine rounds of the team tournament of the international chess federation were completed today. Holland, with 25 points, assumed the lead, leaving Poland tied with Germany for second place. England is fourth and Hungary, Austria and the United States are in a triple tie for fifth place.

The Americans, in their match with Sweden in the ninth found, came through with a 2—2 tie. They also won an adjourned match with Rumania in the eighth round, 2½—1½. Poland suffered its first defeat in the ninth round, losing to Holland by 2½—1½.

LAWRENCE, Kan., July 19. — Louis Cohen of St. Louis, and his two children, Marjorie and Dickie, suffered lacerations and bruises in a head-on collision when their motor car struck another driven by Richard S. Rueland of Kansas City on U. S. Highway No. 40, six miles west of here today. After being treated at Memorial Hospital here, the Cohens continued their westward journey.

TURKISH PALACE OF CULTURE STARTED WITH AMERICAN GIFT

"Golden Rule" Nash Donated $120,000 to Hearth Society, Equivalent of Fascist Body.

ANGORA, Turkey. — American philanthropy and Mussolini both had parts in the creation of Angora's most magnificent edifice, the headquarters of the Turkish Hearth Society.

The beginning of this marble palace of culture and nationalism was made possible by a gift of $120,000 from the late "Golden-rule" Nash, Cincinnati manufacturer. With this as a starter, the Turkish Hearth Society, an Eastern equivalent of Mussolini's Junior Fascists, raised the thousands more which have gone into this $1,000,000 building.

Designed by a Turkish architect, Hikmet Bey, it is a striking departure from most of Angora's new occidentalized buildings in its faithful adherence to old Turkish architectural ideas.

Tributes to Nash, to the American Y. M. C. A. as the type of social organization which Turkey wishes to emulate, and to Mussolini's Black-shirts, were paid in the President's inaugural address.

The building contains the finest theater in the Near East, reception rooms decorated in the old Turkish style with divans of rare brocades, fireplaces with witch-cap hoods, and soft-colored tiles, frescoes and rugs; a library, a printing press, and recreational rooms.

STANDS TRIAL FOR MURDER TO SAVE FIANCE'S BROTHER

Italian Workman Freed Only When Attorney Finally Produces Suppressed Evidence.

PARIS, July 19.—That the age of chivalry is not dead was shown today by an Italian workman, Angelo Macher, who for love of a pretty compatriot stood trial for murder and risked the guillotine rather than denounce the real assassin, the girl's own brother.

The murder was committed last October in a cafe kept by his sweetheart's parents at Gargan, near Paris. The victim before dying whispered to the magistrate the name of the murderer—the son of the cafe keeper. The man was arrested but released when Macher came forward and confessed the crime. He had been in prison ever since. Even at the trial he insisted he was guilty, against the evidence.

There was a dramatic moment when his lawyer, after vainly trying to persuade Macher to declare his innocence, produced, at the last minute, proof in the shape of a blood-stained handkerchief bearing the initials of the other man.

LIVES AT EASE WHILE SOVIET SUES FOR $1,000,000

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN REMO, July 19.—Cibrario, son of a Turin lemon merchant, is living in the Devachan Castle here with a nobleman as a secretary, while the Soviet Government is trying to get from the Italian courts an order requiring him and the National City Bank of New York to pay it $1,000,000.

The Russians say they deposited this money in the New York bank to Cibrario's order.

The Soviet's case thus far has not met with great success. It lost in the local San Remo court, and in the Court of Appeals at Genoa. Now it is before the Court of Cassation at Rome.

According to the allegations, Russia commissioned Cibrario to go to America and purchase for them American films depositing $1,000,000 for his use on that mission.

According to the Soviet's allegations, Cibrario found the New York weather rather cool and returned to the sunny Riviera and San Remo and carried out his life's dream by buying the Devachan castle.

The Court of Appeals at Genoa decided that the Soviet could not touch the National City Bank, but could still proceed against Cibrario. In this connection it is recalled that the Soviet seized branch offices of the National City Bank in Moscow, Petrograd and Vladivostock, confiscated stocks and bonds imprisoned the staffs, and never returned a dollar.

MISSING ON EVE OF MARRIAGE TO DANCER IN MINNEAPOLIS

T. A. Marque Said He Was Leaving to Bring Back Guests Who Never Heard of Him.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 19.—Police are trying to find Thurman A. Marque, who disappeared last Tuesday night after flying to this city to marry Miss Evelyn Rosita Radell, a dancer. Marque had been employed until recently as an attendant at McLean Hospital, Waverly, Mass. Miss Radell, who reported the case to the police, said he had $2200 in cash when he disappeared.

Arriving in Minneapolis July 10, Marque immediately obtained a marriage license and suggested that Miss Radell marry him at once. She set last Thursday night as the date of the wedding.

Marque told her he would like to have two doctor friends from Rochester, Minn., attend the ceremonies, and left Tuesday night after telling Miss Radell he was going to Rochester to meet his friends. He has not been heard of by Miss Radell since. Inquiry at Rochester disclosed that he had not arrived there. The doctors he told Miss Radell he was going to see, told Minneapolis detectives they had never heard of him.

AGREEMENT NEA ON SYSTEM FOR MARKETING MIL

Consumers, Producer Dealers Will Comple Understanding After O More Conference.

COMMITTEE HEADED BY MRS. LOE

Will Prevent Strikes in Fu ture, Consumers' Co mission Claims in D tailed Report.

The Consumers' Milk Commis announced yesterday that more conference to be held week will complete an agreem between producers and dealers collective bargaining, a stable ket and better quality.

Consumers, dealers and produ ers each have three representa tives on the joint conference co mittee which is drawing up the plan. The committee is headed by Mrs. Virgil Loeb, who disclosed yesterday that the agreement wil provide that consumers continu to have an equal vote in matte affecting the St. Louis milk sup ply.

"The conditions which cause consumers to organize provided positive bar against any improv ment of milk in St. Louis," sai Mrs. Loeb. "The farmer had incentive for all the troublesom sanitary measures which woul make improvement possible. Tha incentive requires a fair retur and a voice in the phases of th business that most nearly affe him."

Advantages to All.

Three alternatives were open to establish that incentive, she said a strike, damaging producers, con sumers and dealers alike; a Farm Board loan, permitting the Sanitary Milk Producers' Association to go into the distributing busines ruinous to St. Louis distributor and the method chosen, offerin definite advantages to all thre parties.

Preliminary work by a fact-find ing committee of the consume provided data for drawing up th plan. Voluminous first-hand tes timony was taken from all parti concerned at a series of hearing The commission was formed t avert disturbances to quality o quantity of milk in St. Louis which might follow economic difficulties Impetus was given by representa tions of the producers' association which included the fact that, of the 13 cents which consumers pay for a quart of milk, about 3½ cent goes to the producer.

Farmers sell milk for the St Louis market on a flat price, vary ing from month to month. Fo this the agreement would subst tute the "basic and surplus plan with more stable prices, highe for the basic milk for bottle con sumption than for surplus milk fo manufacturing purposes.

At Expense of Farmer.

"It learned," the consumers' con ference committee reported in a discussion of data from both sides "that the city of St. Louis is get ting its milk at the expense of the farmers and their wives and chil dren. It learned that any effort to improve quality under prevailin prices would succeed in forcing a large percentage of dairymen ou of business. This would mea higher prices eventually to the con sumer, and possibly an under-sup ply of milk.

"The commission was helped to an understanding of the dealers' problems by the dealers themselves, and they learned that previous at tempts at farmers' organizations had ended in failure. A producers' organization eight or nine years ago, having been recognized by the dealers, had undertaken to tell the dealers how much they should pay for the milk, and the strike which followed had left its toll of ill feel ing and a disrupted market for the producers."

The statement concluded with the fact that the Pevely Dairy Co. alone had withdrawn from the con ference when the point of drawing up the agreement was reached, and called upon the head of that con cern for a public statement.

Statement by Pevely.

D. C. Kerchoff, president of the Pevely Dairy Co., commented that withdrawal from the joint effort to improve milk quality would not prevent that dairy from making its own effort toward the same end. He said he was willing to stand back of any organization that would accomplish it, "if all farm ers are treated alike." A consum ers' movement at Chicago, he ex plained, resulted in the establish ment of a limited "milk shed" and farmers outside of it received a much lower price than those within it. He said his firm dealt by con tracts with individuals, many of them members of "the producers' organization.

Mrs. Loeb said that the St Louis plan did not contemplate de fining a "milk shed" or establish ing a closed market. She said quality improvement required the co-ordinated effort of producers, dealers, consumers and the Health Department.

"We have missed the benefit of Mr. Kerckhoff's experience at the conference table," she said. "But when we have completed the agree ment he will have opportunity to study it on its merits."

HOW CITY BENEFITS BY NEW RAIL RATES

St. Louis Placed Closer to Parity With Chicago, Commerce Chamber Says.

Recent revision of class rates in the official classification territory, ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which would increase revenues of railroads more than $10,000,000, places St. Louis closer to parity with Chicago in the matter of rates from and to Eastern points, according to a study the Chamber of Commerce Traffic Bureau has completed of the commission's order. The new rates are effective Nov. 1.

Rates between the central territory, including Chicago and St. Louis, and the so-called trunk line territory have been made since the seventies on what is known as the percentage system, using the New York-Chicago rates as the basis for computation of rates from all trunk line territory points to other cities in the western territory, including St. Louis. The trunk line territory is generally regarded as that east of the western terminus of Eastern trunk lines and includes such cities as New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Norfolk.

"Thus the St. Louis-New York rates are at present 117 per cent of the Chicago-New York rates," the report states. "Under this system the first-class rate between Chicago and New York is $1.42 and between St. Louis and New York $1.66, a rate 24 cents in favor of Chicago. In other classes the rates favor Chicago as follows: Second class, 21 cents; third, 16 cents; fourth, 11 cents; fifth, 9.5 cents; sixth, 8 cents. Rule 25, applying to cotton piece goods, which is of special interest to St. Louis dry goods wholesalers, is at present 17½ cents."

The First-Class Rate.

Under the new system, the report states, the New York-Chicago first-class rate will be $1.52, or an increase of 10 cents, while the St. Louis-Chicago rates will be $1.67, an increase of only 1 cent.

"The differential in the Chicago-New York and St. Louis-New York rates will therefore be only 15 cents instead of 24 cents, which it is at present, giving a reduction in the differential of 9 cents," the report points out. "Likewise, the differential in other classes has been reduced as follows: Second class, 21 cents to 13 cents; third class, 16 cents to 11 cents; fourth, 11 cents to 8 cents; fifth, 9.5 cents to 5 cents, and sixth class, 8 cents to 4 cents. In addition the differential on Rule 25 has been reduced from 17½ cents to 11 cents."

The rate from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and other points will be changed similarly.

"Much of the tonnage in the territory moves in the carload classes—the fifth and sixth classes," the report states. "It has been shown that of the tonnage thus moving 30.4 per cent is in the fifth class, 16.5 per cent in the sixth. This tonnage, of course, includes carloads moved into distributing points, such as St. Louis and Chicago, for distribution in less than carload lots to the consuming territories.

"The effect of this reduction in the differential is obvious since it will make it possible to bring commodities into St. Louis at rates much more on a par with those of Chicago. With St. Louis' advantages for distributing, including its closer proximity to consuming points, the new rate structure should be the means of changing the picture materially in favor of St. Louis business firms."

Pointing out that St. Louis has been chafing under the old rates for many years, that is the old 117 per cent basis, the report states that in the first class rates St. Louis under the new order will enjoy rates 110 per cent of the Chicago-New York rates.

The report also refers to the wiping out of the so-called 100-mile zone in Illinois or bridge arbitraries as being a feature of the new order. At present, although there exist published class rates from St. Louis to points within the 100-mile zone in Illinois, there are some which are higher than the East St. Louis rates. As a result of the Interstate Commerce Commission's order the rates published to all points east of the Mississippi River will be the same as the East St. Louis rates.

The Chamber of Commerce was actively concerned with the case. It made a joint presentation of evidence with Chicago and other Illinois communities at a hearing in Chicago in September, 1925.

6 French Fruit Crop Short.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 19.—Charles Brillaud de Laujardiere, Director-General of the Central Syndicate of Agriculturists of France, today published pessimistic predictions regarding the French fruit crop. He said he expected a short crop but with enough of last year's holdover to meet French needs. Bad weather and rust, he said, have caused much damage to the crop, which once gave brilliant promise. He concluded: "Unless the unexpected happens the average crop is the best one can hope for."

FIVE PLEAD GUILTY, GET PRISON TERMS

Ten Years Each for Two Who Confessed Robbery With Deadly Weapon.

Five men were sentenced to penal institutions for crimes to which they pleaded guilty in Circuit Court last week.

Two of them entered pleas to violations of the Henry law, robbery with a dangerous and deadly weapon, and got minimum punishment—10 years in the penitentiary. They were Richard C. Walker, 18, 4467 Delmar boulevard, and Morris Jones, 25, a Negro, 2338 Wash street.

Walker made a confession to the police in which he named his brother and another man as participants in three holdups. The brother, Gus Walker, stood trial before a jury on May 14, last, and got a 30-year penitentiary sentence. The crime was the holdup of the Guaranty Motor Corporation on Nov, 18. 1929. Two men entered the Guaranty Motor Corporation's offices at 2936 Locust street with weapons drawn and compelled those in charge to part with over $600.

Besides this, crime, Richard Walker entered pleas of guilty in the robbery of the Manchester Theater on Sept. 22, 1929, and to the robbery of a Standard Oil filling station.

Morris Jones got his 10-year sentence for robbing Oliver Perry, 2829 Olive street, as he was walking on Eighteenth street, between Morgan and Lucas avenue, on June 22, last. A watch and chain valued at $12 was taken from Perry.

Others who received penitentiary sentences on their pleas were: Simon Ross, 38, formerly of Chicago, who prowled the home of Louis Vilton, 4442 Evans avenue, last May, taking a watch and chain, and James Johnson, who admitted a larceny from a dwelling house.

Renzo Herzinger, charged with assault to kill, entered a plea to the assault without malice and was permitted to take a year in the city workhouse.

"INDUSTRIAL PLAY" POPULAR AT SCHOOL PLAYGROUNDS

Weaving, Scroll Saw Work and Other Diversions Provided for the Children.

Handicraft activity at school playgrounds has proved a popular pastime at those periods of the day when intense heat makes the more vigorous diversions less attractive. Supervisors at each of the 67 playgrounds regard the industrial play as one of their major projects.

The desire to make things finds an outlet in many channels. Girls are taught dressmaking, weaving with reed and raffia, and the production of crayon batiks.

Among boys the most popular handicraft work is with the scroll saw, with which toys, picture frames, magazine racks and toy furniture are fashioned. A new project, the making of paper boats, is being tried this summer. Miniature frigates, sloops and schooners have been fashioned of cardboard and remained afloat for more than an hour despite their frail construction. A series of races on playground wading pools is planned for later in the summer.

STOLEN PUP CAUSES ARREST

Ex-Convict Held as Burglar When Woman Identifies Dog.

Edward Walicky, 35-year-old former convict who was arrested on suspicion Wednesday when detectives saw him carrying a brindle puppy, was held pending application for a burglary warrant after Mrs. Julia Cass, 1127 Aubert avenue, yesterday, identified the dog and a book of trading stamps and two keys found in Walicky's possession as her property.

Mrs. Cass said her home was ransacked Wednesday night, in her absence.

LAST OF MIDGET TOURS BY SCOUTS THIS WEEK

One Group of Boys to Visit Onondaga Cave, Another Mammoth Cavern.

The last two of a series of Midget Roving Tours, or scout camps on wheels, will be conducted by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council to Onondaga Cave, near Leasburg, Mo., and to Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, this week. The Onondaga tour will start Tuesday, while that to Mammoth Cave will begin next Thursday.

Following the plan of the regular Roving Tours conducted each year by the scout council, the Midget trips are intended to combine scout camping with visits to historical or scenic spots of the Middle West. They differ from their progenitors only in length of time and distance, occupying two to five days instead of three weeks or more, and traveling only a few hundred miles instead of to Washington, D. C., or Yellowstone Park, the goals of the regular tours.

They are being tried out for the first time this year.

The trip to Onondaga, the most noted cave in Missouri, will be the second to be taken to the cave during the series, the first tour of all having had the cave as its goal. The schedule calls for most of the time to be spent at the cave, exploring its three and one-half miles of onyx chambers and underground rivers. Some time, however, will be devoted to swimming in the nearby river, and a campfire program is also planned for Tuesday evening.

The Mammoth Cave trip will occupy five days instead of two. The route will carry the campers through the hill country of Kentucky to Louisville, and thence to the cave. Guides will be obtained to take the party through the cave, where some time is expected to be spent. The Mammoth Cave trip is the longest of the midget series.

The cost of the Onondaga tour will be $4.50, while that to Mammoth Cave will be $10.

West District.

Contests in scouting activities, such as waterboiling, handicraft, compass reading and fire by friction, have been started by Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A. to determine the troop champion. The troop has been divided into two groups, Group A including the older scouts and Group B the younger boys. The winner of each group will be selected by a committee of judges, made up of Scoutmaster B. M. Goldsmith, Assistant Scoutmasters Louis Platt and Louis Romansky, and Senior Patrol Leader Melvin Hertzman.

North District.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Troop 1 of Benton School and the scouts of the troop held a picnic at the country home of the auxiliary president, Mrs. C. Freeman, recently. The day was spent swimming and playing games. Plans are being made for a party at the same place Aug. 27.

Scoutmaster Simons of Troop 3 of Grace Holy Cross Church is attending Camp Irondale. Durwin Turpin has joined the troop.

Troop 208 has been organized at Salem M. E. Church under Scoutmaster J. Robert Wood. The troop has a membership of 25.

South District.

Twelve new scouts received tenderfoot badges at an investiture ceremony held by Troop 73 of Lyon School recently. The ceremony was conducted by Scoutmaster Pollock and the scouts of Troop 155. Committeemen F. Hammer, Bleitz, Bauer, Knusley and A. Hammer were inducted into office.

A hike to a cave on Tesson road was taken by the scouts of Troop 155 recently. The boys found it necessary to climb down a rope in order to gain entrance to the cave. Inside they discovered stalactites and stalagmites and also found several lizards. The scouts of this troop defeated Troop 102 in an inter-troop rally conducted at a recent meeting by a score of 71 to 38. Among the events were a candle relay race, a signaling contest, an over and under race, tying bandages, a three-legged race and an artificial respiration contest.

Although organized only about a month, Troop 242 of St. Francis de Sales' Church already has taken several hikes. The first hike, to Alton, was conducted two days after the scouts were organized. One overnight camp has been held, at the St. Louis Turners' Camp on the Bourboise River, near Union. Frank Bruns, former scoutmaster of Troop 16, is scoutmaster.

Several scouts of Troop 168 of St. Pius' Church attended the midget roving tours conducted by the council last week. Twenty scouts, Scoutmaster Metzger and Assistant Scoutmaster Feldotto attended Camp Irondale the last section.

300 AT COURT OF HONOR HELD AT CAMP IRONDALE

More than 300 Boy Scouts attended a Court of Honor held at Camp Irondale, the summer camp of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, last Sunday evening. Nearly 375 scouts and leaders were members of the section, which started July 1 and closed last Monday.

The court, which was held to present awards won by the campers during their two weeks' stay, was presided over by Alfred W. Pauley, chairman of the North District Court of Honor, assisted by Arthur Sherwood, chairman of the West District Court, and H. C. Finck, a member of the North District Court.

Sixteen candidates for the rank of second class scouts received badges from Finck and seven candidates for first class received badges from Sherwood. Sixty-six first class scouts received a total of 122 merit badges. While several camperscompleted requirements for Star and Life awards, none of these higher badges were presented. These will be awarded at a City Court of Honor Oct. 6 at the Scottish Rite Temple.

SPECIAL COURT OF HONOR

A special court of honor, to present awards by Boy Scout candidates for first or second class badges, or for merit badges passed since the last court, will be held at the Ben Blewett Junor High School the evening of July 28. Awards will be made to Scouts in all four of the council districts, as no regular district courts will be held until fall.

Scouts who have qualified for merit badges before merit badge counselors, but who have not as yet filed their applications, should make application this week in order to receive their award at the special court. The next regular court of honor will be held Oct. 6.

Syndicate Project to Buy Stations Is Reported

Promoters' Overtures to Purchase WOR, at Newark, N. J., Dropped When Price of $5,000,000 Is Asked—Trend Toward Recorded Broadcasting.

By MARTIN CODEL.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — Undercurrents are stirring in radio which portend important changes and radical new departures in American broadcasting and broadcasting methods in the next few years.

Changes in the ownership of stations, the synchronization of two or more stations on single wave lengths and the use of higher and higher power are in prospect. Apace with such developments, the increasing use of program continuities specially recorded for broadcasting bodes marked changes in the program technique of large and small stations alike.

On reliable authority, the writer learns that certain unnamed interests are back of a project to purchase many broadcasting stations throughout the country during the next few years. These are to be operated as individual units under central control, somewhat as chain newspapers are operated. Later they may be joined as a network, especially if synchronization makes it possible to do so without going to the Government for more of the better wave lengths.

This syndicate, it is understood, approached Station WOR, Newark, with the thought of purchasing it, but negotiations did not go very far when the staggering price of $5,000,000 was asked for that station.

That the big motion picture producers now without radio outlets of their own would like to get into broadcasting is well known. Warner Brothers and Fox have long been "sold" on radio, but, unlike Radio Pictures and Paramount have not been able to gain a foothold. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer likewise wants to go into broadcasting, and may be expected to join forces in the radio field, as in motion pictures, with the Hearst interests, whose radio executive, E. J. Gough, even now is on a tour to consult with Hearst publishers about radio.

Around WLW, Cincinnati, and WGBS, New York, not to omit WOR, many rumors of chain ambitions have been woven. They have not been substantiated, although movements are discernible which lead to the belief that any one or all of these stations may be keys of hookups under new auspices within the next year or so.

As a matter of fact, WLW and WOR are frequently hooked together and with various other stations for certain programs, and a few weeks ago WGBS was admitted to this "Quality Group" for certain programs which WOR could not handle. Others in the group are WMAQ, Chicago; WTAM, Cleveland; WIL, St. Louis; WJR, Detroit, and KQV, Pittsburg. Here is a nucleus for a possible third chain, although each of these stations has other chain affiliations

Seventeen Stations to Guide Planes on 11,000 Mile New York-Buenos Aires Route—Automatic Radio Transmitter to Guard Ships From Chinese Pirates—Two St. Louis Students in High School Orchestra Broadcasts—Words Relayed Around World in Eighth of a Second.

Two St. Louis students, Alvin Dinkin, 5191 Kensington avenue, a violinist, and Jean Schneider, 4480 Maryland avenue, a 'cellist, are members of the National High School Orchestra and Band which is broadcasting in the Majestic Hour over the Columbia chain Sunday nights from the music instruction camp at Interlocken, Mich. The boys and girls making up the orchestra and band were selected for certain qualifications, and it is regarded as quite an honor to be able to attend the school and camp, which is devoted to instruction and cultivation of appreciation of good music. The broadcasting by the orchestra in the Majestic Hour is to continue for seven weeks.

The expense of the camp and the cost of sending pupils to it are defrayed by the Rotary Clubs, the National Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis clubs and music clubs of the country.

A system of 17 key radio transmitting stations in 16 countries along the 11,000-mile New York-Buenos Aires airplane route will go into operation when the service begins. The stations will be used to communicate with the planes flying the route. There will also be 13 two-way ground stations to maintain constant communication with planes in their districts. They will have direction finding apparatus to keep planes on their courses in fog and bad weather. Each plane will have transmitting and receiving sets with a range of 600 miles. This equipment will be used for communication between planes as well as between planes and the ground and key stations. A radiotelephone in each ground station will enable pilots to get in instantaneous touch with field officers within a range of 50 miles from the planes to obtain landing directions in fog.

The powerful Government radio station at Grand Island, Neb., which is to be used to check stations all over the world and to compel broadcasters in this country to keep rigidly on their waves, will go into service Sept. 1. Three kinds of receivers will be used, two to check from 100 to 30,000 kilocycles and one to check from 10 to 100 kilocycles. These are said to be 200 times more sensitive than ordinary sets used in the home.

As a safeguard against attacks by pirates in Chinese waters, which occur all too frequently, the Marconi company of England has devised an automatic radio transmitter that is fitted in a fireproof safe to make it secure from damage. The mere closing of the switch locks the safe and sets the transmitter in operation, the ship's call letters and request for assistance going on the air uninterruptedly until the batteries are exhausted.

Chinese pirates attack only coastal and river steamers, whose positions are usually known from hour to hour, so that coastal stations picking up the signals can inform ships within range as to the attacked ship's approximate position. Moreover, the continual radiation from the safe-locked broadcaster, which is a standard 250-watt quenched-spark transmitter, makes radio direction-finding relatively easy.

Another innovation in radio sets comes out of Los Angeles in the form of a diminutive radio-phonograph combination. One plant is getting out its mantel model with a phonograph turntable in the top, making a complete, self-contained combination that retails at less than $100. While not a thing of beauty, it has compactness and portability. Western dealers predict a craze for it rivaling that for a mantel set which originated on the Pacific coast, then swept eastward into popularity.

In tests conducted by General Electric engineers from Schenectady, N. Y., words spoken by a member of the staff were transmitted through an elaborate relay broadcasting system clear around the world in an eighth of a second. The spoken words left Schenectady from W2XAD on a wave length of 19.58 meters, were received at Huizen, Holland, and rebroadcast by PHI on 16.88 meters; then were received in Java and rebroadcast on 86.5 meters by PLW, at Bendoeng, Java; were picked up and rebroadcast by 2ME, at Sydney, Australia, on 28.5 meters and were received back in Schenectady as an echo an eighth of a second after each syllable was spoken.

Vincent Lopez is reported to have signed a five-year contract with the Hotel St. Regis, in New York, which involved an advance of $100,000 and a total payment of $1,000,000. This does not include personal appearances of Lopez and his orchestra, which will be handled through a special bureau. Lopez is said to get $2500 an hour when he broadcasts.

Red-Headed 'Blues' Singer Wins

Bernardine Hayes, "The Red Head of the Air," who has been steadily winning popularity all over the country since she left KMOX with her bundle of "blues songs" for the Columbia Chain.

Three Stations Join Rush for 50,000 Watts

KOA, WHAS and KFRC Make 23 Applicants for Five Super-Power Permits Available.

The rush for maximum radio station power of 50,000 watts continues, with KOA, Denver, Colo.; WHAS, Louisville, Ky., and KFRC, San Francisco, Cal., the latest applicants.

A recent ruling by the Federal Radio Commission fixes the number of 50,000 watt stations in each zone at four, or a total of 20. Eight stations now use 50,000 watts. KMOX, St. Louis, is to go on the air with that power late this month, probably on July 28. Six other stations have 50,000 watt permits. For the other five 50,000 watt licenses there are already 23 applicants.

Stations now broadcasting with 50,000 watts power are: WEAF, New York; WGY, Schenectady, N. Y.; KDKA, Pittsburg, Pa.; WTIC, Hartford, Conn.; WLW, Cincinnati, O.; WTAM, Cleveland, O.; WENR, Chicago, and WFAA, Fort Worth, Tex.

WABC, New York; WLS, Chicago; WBAP, Ft. Worth, Tex.; WOAI, San Antonia, Tex.; KFI, Los Angeles, Cal., and KNX, Hollywood, Cal., have been authorized to erect 50,000 watt transmitters.

In addition, the following stations have asked for 50,000 watts: WOR, Newark, N. J.; WCAU, Philadelphia, Pa.; WBZ, Springfield, Mass.; WMAQ, KYW and WCFL, Chicago; WHAS, Louisville, Ky.; WBT, Charlotte, N. C.; WFBM, Indianapolis, Ind.; WWJ, Detroit, Mich.; WSB, Atlanta, Ga.; KWKH, Shreveport, La.; KGO, Oakland, Cal.; WHAM, Rochester, N. Y.; WRVA, Richmond, Va.; WSM, Nashville, Tenn.; WCCO, Minneapolis, Minn.; WOWO, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; WAPI, Birmingham, Ala.; KTNT, Muscatine, Ia.; KVOO Tulsa, Ok.; KOA, Denver, and KFRC, San Francisco.

WBBM, Chicago, is expected to renew its application for an increase from 25,000 watts to the maximum, and the WHO-WOC combination at Des Moines and Davenport, Ia., has not withdrawn its application for super-power, despite its synchronization experiments. A number of other stations on cleared channels are likely to make similar applications.

The first Zone already has two 50,000 watt stations—WEAF and WGY, a half time 50,000 watter—WTIC, and a 50,000 watt permit for WABC.

The second Zone has three 50,000 watters, in KDKA, WTAM and WLW. It is reasonable to predict that a Philadelphia station will get the fourth plum in the third. The third Zone, which takes in the Southern states, has only one 50,000 watter—WFAA, Dallas, and 50,000 watt permits for WOAI and WBAP. But WFAA and WBAP use the same channel, so there are two super-power vacancies in that zone. It would be a good bet that WSB, Atlanta, would get one of the two maximum power licenses in the South if its owners pressed the matter.

In the fourth Zone, WENR and KMOX are the only 50,000 watters. As WLS shares a channel with WENR, there are two 50,000 watt vacancies in this zone.

The fifth Zone has two stations licensed to build 50,000 watt transmitters—KFI and KNX. As a matter of program possibilities, it woud be logical to license a San Francisco station to use that power. As a matter of covering the Far West, the other two 50,000 watters to which the fifth Zone is entitled might well be located in Denver, Col., and in either Seattle, Wash., or Portland, Ore.

Winner of Audition Sings in Net Program

Hazel C. Arth, Washington contralto who won the second national radio audition, is singing over a coast-to-coast network each Sunday. She sings with the Medievalists in the Catholic hour on KSD. The Medievalists take the place of the Paulist choristers until Sept. 1.

In addition to her radio appearances, Miss Arth, who won $5000 and two years' instruction in music in the 1928 audition, is studying in New York in preparation for a professional career.

Donald Novis, Pasadena (Cal.) tenor, who won the boys' division in 1928, has been singing in the "movies." Wilfred Engleman, Detroit baritone, who placed third in the same audition, is studying in Milan, Italy, after several appearances with the Detroit Grand Opera Company.

Educational Experiment.

The United States is to place radio receivers in 100 isolated mountain homes in various parts of this country. The object is to get data on the possibility of using broadcasting as a medium for educating persons who have little or no chance, because of their isolation, to attend school. Professors from state universities will cooperate with government officials in ascertaining how the families selected react to the experiment.

Picturesque Circle Trip Leads Through Big Springs Section of Missouri Ozarks

Route Passes Five State Parks and Crosses Black, Current and Jack's Fork Rivers—Van Buren Is Destination of First Leg of Journey, With Return to St. Louis Via Salem, Steelville and Cuba.

By ROBERT L. BRADLEY,
Automobile Editor.

NEW scenic beauties are constantly being disclosed to the motorist in that section of the Big Springs country of the Ozarks through which the Current River and its grown-up little brother, the Jack's Fork, pursue their picturesque courses. No matter how many trips are made into this part of Southern Missouri, where the State has set aside lands around the larger springs as public parks, and established a game preserve here and there, something different will be found. Perhaps it will be a hitherto unnoticed vista of forests and far-stretching hills, or it may be a new fishing stream, with more numerous and gamer bass, or goggled-eyed perch or perhaps trout.

One may even discover the quaint simplicity of the natives—"hill-billies," some call them — in a newer and more interesting phase. It is hard to scratch the surface of their indifference, but once in awhile they may be drawn into conversation. The other day it was the arid condition imperiling their crops and threatening the existence of their livestock that one man spoke of.

Two-Day Motor Tour.

A circle trip covering a little more than 400 miles and passing near or through four state parks, may be made from St. Louis in two days, or its description may be used as a guide in choosing the itinerary of a motor vacation. Such a route passes through Ironton, Lesterville and Centerville to Van Buren, and back through Winona, Salem, Steelville and Cuba.

United States Highways 61, 60 and 66 form roughly the circumference of this circle; State Routes 32, 21 and 19 fill in the outline, adding their individual attractions of rugged woodland landscapes.

From this city U. S. 61 is followed to Flat River, Route 32 to Bismarck, a county road to Ironton, and Route 21 to Van Buren. No. 21, called the Kingshighway of the Ozarks, traverses a section of historic interest. At one place the old Buford farm, site of a Spanish grant, is within a short distance. This land was allotted to William and John Maxwell by the Spanish King, with the proviso that a mission be established, which was done. Surrounding this old settlement is an ancient grove of sugar maples.

One passes the Tom Sauk Wildcat Mountains, rising to a maximum of 1800 feet, the highest point in the Ozarks; then crosses the east fork of the Black River at Lesterville and, driving north on a country road for four miles, may visit the caves of the district, the East Ford "shut-ins" and the "devil's toll-gate."

Cross Other Forks of Black.

Highway 21 meanders on across the middle fork of the Black and, finally, the west and last fork, at Centerville. Half a mile east of this town, is Reed's Spring. Water gushing from the hillside provides the hydro-electric power for the community's lights and ice.

Up the west fork from Centerville are the old Klondike Spring and rainbow trout hatchery. There also is the town of Bunker, 1420 feet above sea level and the highest in the hills.

From Centerville, 21 winds southward through a setting of oaks and pines, across Sinkin Creek to Ellington. Mountains 30 miles distant may be glimpsed through the trees that fringe the highway.

Deer Run State Park is four miles west of Ellington, with a deer and turkey refuge covering part of its 6000 acres. On down 21 until U. S. 60 is reached, nine miles northeast of Van Buren. Crossing the long bridge over the Current, and turning sharply to the left on the far side of the river, one takes the marked road to Big Spring State Park. At the top of Assembly Hill, stop a moment and look back to where the river and bridge and town of Van Buren lie far below, an inspiring sight.

Big Spring State Park.

The park is one of the most colorful in the Ozarks. Big Spring, bubbling up from the base of a majestic, wooded bluff, is blue and clear. Its maximum flow has been checked at 543,000,000 gallons a day. A hike through four miles of wooded wonderland with one extensive stand of virgin pine, leads to a game refuge, where wild turkey and deer are propagated.

Thousands of visitors make this park their objective and at this season the camping grounds are al-

The principal roads are either concrete or gravel and those into the various state parks visited on the suggested trip may be traveled except in extremely wet weather.

Motor Car Tests In Safety Lanes Start Tomorrow

Automobile Club Sponsors Two Weeks' Program of Free Inspection.

With the view of making St. Louis streets more safe for pedestrians and motorists, the Automobile Club of Missouri will inaugurate two weeks of free testing of the mechanical parts of automobiles tomorrow. Safety lanes have been established at 4300 North Kingshighway, 6000 South Kingshighway and Clayton road just west of Big Bend road.

Brakes, headlights, horn, rear view mirror, windshield wiper, steering wheel play and wheel alignment will be checked every day except Saturday and Sunday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. If a car passes these tests, the owner will be given a certificate sticker.

If a car is found defective the owner will be given a duplicate of the test card showing what adjustments are necessary. After the repairs have been made the car may be tested again.

At the first stop in the lane the motorist will be given a registration card, with his name, the make of car, and space for the results of the tests. At the second station headlights will be tested both for focus and direction, to correct glaring of lights which has caused so many accidents.

Horn, windshield wiper and rear view mirror will be checked at the third stop and at the next station the steering apparatus will be gone over. At Station No. 5 wheel alignment will receive the attention of the inspectors. Incorrect alignment causes the front wheel shimmy, wear on tires and the driving gear of the car.

At the sixth and final stop, brakes will be tested by special equipment to show whether the pressure at each of the four wheels is equalized. Faulty brake adjustment causes skidding, particularly on wet pavements.

Co-operating in the safety program is the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association and the inspectors will be men of experience in each line.

It is the first time the safety lane idea has been tried out in St. Louis, although similar programs have been successful in Washington, Chicago, Detroit, Springfield, Ill., and elsewhere.

Mayor Miller has issued a proclamation calling on motor car owners and drivers to avail themselves of the opportunity and urging them to assist in every way to make the streets more safe.

Post-Dispatch Highway Maps Made Available

THE Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch has for distribution an excellent 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada, showing the condition and numbers of highways and mileage between towns. The price is 50 cents, and 60 cents, if mailed.

St. Louis and vicinity maps show all towns, roads, rivers, streams, lakes and other details within a radius of 50 miles of St. Louis. They sell for 20 cents, 24 cents if mailed. Individual State maps are 10 cents, and 12 cents mailed.

City guides, giving the location of streets and street car and bus lines, churches, hospitals, theaters, office buildings and containing a map of the city, sell for 25 and 30 cents.

Maps of St. Louis and the suburbs, showing the streets of St. Louis, East St. Louis, Madison, Venice, Clayton, Ferguson, Kirkwood, Webster Groves and University City, sell for 40 and 45 cents.

Nation's 1930 Highway Bill To Increase $250,000,000

This Figure, Estimated by Economic Committee of Hoover's Conference on Unemployment Will Include New Projects Only—Total Cost of This Type of Construction Set at $1,750,000,000.

New highway construction alone in the United States this year is expected to exceed the outlay for that class of public works last year by more than $250,000,000, which will bring the total 1930 expenditures for roads and bridges constructed by the Federal, state, municipal and other local governments throughout the country close to $1,750,000,000, according to a survey just made public in Washington by the Committee on Recent Economic Changes in the President's Conference on Unemployment. Among the many projects which were pushed ahead to offset business depression, highway construction is likely to show the largest increases when final records for 1930 become available, the survey observes.

Actual expenditures for the construction and maintenance of bridges and roads, not including various overheads and the cost of equipment and materials, the survey states, rose from $784,000,000 in 1923 to more than $1,237,000,000 in 1928, and the annual cost of maintenance alone is now rapidly approaching $500,000,000.

40 Per Cent for Maintenance.

It is pointed out in the survey that the cost of constructing and maintaining roads, streets and bridges in this country now amounts to about 40 per cent of the total expenditure on public works.

The survey, begun last July at the suggestion of President Hoover for the purpose of appraising public construction as a factor in business stability, was prepared by Dr. Leo Wolman, statistician and economist, under the auspices of the National Bureau of Economic Research with the assistance of the Department of Commerce. The survey together with an interpretative report signed by the Committee on Recent Economic Changes has been published by the National Bureau under the title "Planning and Control of Public Works."

Federal Government expenditures on road building, including Federal aid to states and forest roads, have averaged about $90,000,000 annually during recent years, the survey notes. The appropriations for Federal highway construction for 1931, 1932 and 1933 have been increased from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 annually. Last year the Federal Government spent $101,212,135 on roads, mostly in the form of aid to states. Federal aid appropriations are matched with State funds, the survey explains.

Chrysler Offers Two "Straight 8's," Longer and Lower

The Chrysler Eight Takes Place of "77" Model, Prices Lower.

By the Automobile Editor.

Chrysler has entered the increasingly popular eight-cylinder field with two cars—the Chrysler eight and the Imperial eight. Both are straight eights. First showing of the Chrysler eight, Thursday, at Midwest Motors, Inc., the St. Louis Distributer, revealed a longer and lower car of striking appearance. In price it represents a decrease of up to $210 from the "77" which it replaces. The first shipments of Imperial eights will arrive within a few weeks, according to L. M. Stewart, president of Midwest.

In the new cars smoothness, ease of handling, roadability and a noticeable decrease in the tendency to rock or sway are apparent. We drove over rough roads and around sharp curves last week and the sensation was unusual.

Refinements in the four-speed transmission facilitate shifting. The shift lever moves but a short distance between the acceleration and driving positions, or third and high gear. In both of these gears the car runs smoothly and quietly, with but a flick of the wrist needed to shift.

Smooth Riding Qualities.

Better spring suspension and longer springs, with two-way hydraulic shock absorbers, result in smooth riding qualities. Even in the back seat, little sway was noted when going around corners. The feeling of power and the quick response to the pressure on the accelerator impart confidence to the person at the wheel.

Prices of the eight at the factory are announced as follows: Standard models, roadster, $1495; coupe, $1495; sedan, $1595; special coupe, $1535; special sedan, $1565; special convertible coupe, $1665; sport roadster (six wire wheels and trunk rack), $1595.

Of these models, Midwest at present has on display the sedan in several color combinations, the coupe and the roadster with rumble seat and wire-wheel equipment.

Mechanical features of both the eights include the L-head type of straight eight power plant, with the silver dome cylinder head, four-speed transmission and gear shift, down-draft carburetion, automatically controlled radiator shrutters, two-way hydraulic shock absorbers, inclosed four-wheel internal expanding hydraulic brakes, fuel pumps, bonderite rust-proofing process on all enameled parts, rubber engine mountings and other refinements.

Low, Fleet Appearance.

In appearance the cars are low and fleet, due to the development of the chassis and body design as a unit, employing a new type of reinforced double drop frame and welded all-steel body. Extreme lowness and increased headroom result, with no sacrifice of road clearance.

The hood narrows at the front and comes to a point in a single vertical chromium bar at the center. Bullet-shaped headlamps and one-piece fenders, with the lamp tie-rod concealed behind the radiator shutters add to the clean-cut frontal appearance.

Sloping windshields are parallel to the forward slant of the radiator front. On the Imperial eight the windshield is in two panels. From front to rear bumper both cars embody a pleasing sweep of line, departing from the orthodox body design.

All-steel bodies are introduced on each model of the eight, the first time this type of construction has been offered on cars in this price class. The front end, cowl, sides and rear compartment are one-piece stampings flash welded and fused together to form a single body unit. Squeaks and rattles are reduced by well-fitted doors and windows. Doors are single steel stampings welded together with bridge type of construction. Depressions and ribs stamped in the metal prevent rumbling and drumming.

Adjustable Steering Column.

The driver's compartment is roomy with seats and steering post adjustable, the latter to three positions. On the instrument panel, arranged in separate single glass dials, following air craft style, are speedometer, electric fuel gauge, ammeter, oil pressure gauge and engine temperature indicator. Below these gauges are carburetor choke and manifold heat control buttons.

Spark control is automatic. Theft lock ignition switch is above the steering column. The panel is illuminated by two hooded lamps. Gasoline throttle, headlight control and horn button are mounted on top of the three-spoke steering wheel. Clutch, brake and foot-size accelerator pedals are padded with rubber. The windshield can be raised for ventilation by a control lever. Two windshield wipers are provided. Cowl ventilators on each side are operated by the foot.

The luxury of custom coach work is apparent in the interiors. All metal appointments are in matched silver design. Assist cords, vanity and smoking sets are standard equipment. Pillow type upholstery and interior finish are broadcloth. Genuine leather is used for upholstery in the open models.

The engine of the Chrysler eight incorporates the finest Chrysler features, developing 80 horsepower at 3400 revolutions per minute. It has a bore of three inches, a stroke of four and one-quarter inches and a displacement of 240.33 cubic inches.

The downdraft carburetor mounted above the engine and Chrysler manifolding produce a gain in engine power and flexibility. A fuel pump supplies the gasoline to the carburetor. The carburetor is equipped with an acceleration pump to furnish fuel instantly under sudden acceleration.

Chrysler craftsmanship reaches it height in the Imperial eight. In this series, custom coach work is carried out in every model. Its low, rakish lines can be appreciated by the fact that its overall length from bumper to bumper is 210¾ inches, with a road clearance of 8 15-16 inches and overall height of 68 inches. From its wide chromium-plated radiator shell to the neatly concealed fuel tank, massive grace and simple elegance have been attained. Varied color combinations are in harmony with all custom coach work. Two sloping windshields, mounted in chromium frames, are set at angles to meet at the center in V shape. Not even an outside sun visor mars the sweeping body contour, as adjustable sun visors which swing down inside from the top, are provided for both occupants of the front seat.

Mounted on the radiator cap to typify the car's speed and fleetness is a chromium-plated cast of a gazelle.

the survey show that the main sources of meeting the cost of new state roads throughout the country are motor vehicle fees and receipts from the tax on gasoline, the latter being the leading item.

Out of income and funds available for State roads during the years 1923-1928, amounting to nearly $4,000,000,000, in that period, nearly $2,400,000,000 was derived from motor vehicle fees and the gasoline tax together, motor vehicle fees providing about $1,265,280,000, and the gasoline tax about $691,000,000. Funds from the gasoline tax which totaled $15,872,884 in 1923 had risen to $234,163,826 in 1928, being the leading item of sources to meet highway construction costs in that year. Funds provided by the Federal Government in the 1923-1928 period were somewhat less than $500,000,000.

For State highway and bridge building, road taxes in the same period provided $113,124,697; State appropriations, $194,067,624; bonds and notes, $647,750,000; transfers from local authorities, $459,811,442.

Custom Car Sales of Pierce-Arrow Gain

Pierce-Arrow custom car sales during the past 12 months show a total of almost $1,000,000, according to George E. Willis, vice president in charge of sales at the Pierce-Arrow factory, in portraying the preference of many buyers for individually custom-tailored motor car bodies.

Work Progressing On International Pacific Highway

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 19.—Work on the International Pacific Highway is proceeding actively at both ends of the North American continent, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Coincident with the recent blazing of the trail from Hazelton, B. C., to the boundary line of Alaska comes word that the Government is opening a field office in Panama to co-operate with Central American countries in making surveys to determine the most desirable route for this proposed longest highway in the world.

Not only are Canada, the United States, Mexico and the Central American countries at work on the huge project, but also the Argentine Republic. The Argentine Republic has provided the initial appropriation for a road across the Andes from Buenos Aires to Santiago, Chile. Santiago marks the southernmost point of the great highway that eventually will extend from Alaska along the Pacific Ocean down the west coast of South America into Chile.

Picturesque Circle Trip Leads Into Big Springs Section of the Ozarks

ways in use. A bathhouse has been built and the Current River is within a stone's throw.

At night the spring and the trails beside the spring branch are lighted up. The spring at night under the flood lights is unforgettable.

West from Van Buren on U. S. 60, the route passes through Fremont and Low Wasie, whose derivation is still a mystery and a matter of some concern to us. At Winona, Route 19 branches northward, 12 miles, to Eminence. Off from Eminence four and a half miles is Alley Spring Park, the third to be encountered on the trip.

Here, from an underground chasm at the base of a cliff, the spring flows, though not so rapidly as Big Spring, over an old mill dam, winding through the park until it empties into the Jack's Fork, lively tributary of the Current. The branch is stocked with rainbow trout. A number of caves along the fork contain good examples of stalactite and stalagmite formations.

Spring Once Went Dry.

A few years ago Alley Spring suddenly went dry, remained so for about 12 hours, then resumed its flow.

Between Eminence and Round Spring Park, where the Current River is seen and crossed for the last time, is one of the most picturesque automobile drives in Missouri. There is a gradual winding climb, becoming steeper and steeper until the summit of the mountain ridge is reached and then, on either side, are opened up breathtakingly beautiful views of the hilly country for miles around. There is an old copper mine nearby the highway just before you reach the park, and occasionally you pass an old log cabin, with roof thatched or of clapboard, and with the unusual appearance of having been abandoned for scores of years.

Round Spring is 13 miles from Eminence. Route 19 passes through one corner of the park and then plunges on through the woods toward Salem. Steelville is 36 miles from Salem but before getting there, if the motorist wants to, he may turn off to the right at Sligo, nine miles below Steelville, and visit Indian Trail State Park, the fifth and last of the parks.

From Steelville to Cuba is nine miles and there one strikes United States 66. The 85-mile drive from Cuba to St. Louis over pavement is interrupted only in the last stage by the detour from Manchester road over Ballas to Clayton road.

Blue Still Most Popular Summer Motor Car Color

Black Is Beating Back to Favor; Brown Group Is Also Gaining.

Blue continues as the preferred summer color in the automobile field, with such shades as "classic" and "state" blue increasing in popularity, although, states the Duco Color Advisory Service, "an impressive gain for the current period has been recorded for Bennington, a clear, lively shade of blue."

Black is showing signs of recovering from a decline in favor noted during recent months and the trend away from this somber shade is believed to have been checked for the present, at least.

"An upward tendency," states the Service, "is noticed in the brown group, with chicle drab, a grayish beige of medium chroma, well in the lead for the first time since March. Millet, a clear olive hue of medium strong brown, has been elevated to a place among the leaders in the brown color family."

Green has moved up from fifth to fourth position in the scale of preferred colors and is expected to grow in popularity. A decline of interest in maroon is seen. It is predicted, however, that "unusual color values in the maroon group will stand out from time to time, particularly fine clear purple-red hues of maroon on the order of Rosemar and Ascot."

Gray is in a somewhat exclusive position and seems most in evidence on cars of the custom-make class, a number of colors in the gray group having been seen in the metropolitan centers recently.

The vogue for bright colors appears to have reached the saturation point for the present. The current trend toward dark, serene color values, clear and rich in depth, is not peculiar to the United States alone. A recent survey of Buenos Aires and other active South American trading areas discloses a strong preference for subdued colors in finely related sequences, such as "verona brown" with "timber beige" and "kewanee green" with "gray olive green."

Colors pointed to as gaining in acceptance are described as follows: "Interlaken blue, haverhill brown, pine forest green, neenah gray and ascot maroon are outstanding colors among the newly popular, clear, deep values of strong distinctive chromas. Each of these shades can be effectively combined with black moldings and fenders."

Buick to Present Complete Line of 8-Cylinder Cars

FLINT, Mich., July 19.—Announcement that the Buick Motor Co. will introduce a complete line of eight-cylinder automobiles July 26 is made by E. T. Strong, president and general manager.

Strong declined to comment further upon the Buick line for 1931, other than to say that the new cars are the culmination of some three years of tests conducted by Buick and General Motors. Details as to models and prices will be announced in a few days, Strong said.

Rumors that Buick was to introduce an eight have been current in the motor industry for many months, and Strong's announcement today is the first official confirmation issued by the company's chief executive.

Franklin Sales in May

That the fine car buyer is demanding more of the performance of the airplane in his automobile is proved by Franklin sales for the first six months of 1930, according to H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile Co. The percentage of the fine car market Franklin has obtained this year is 6 per cent greater than 1928 and 3½ per cent greater than last year. In 1928, 7.6 per cent of all fine cars sold were air-cooled Franklins, while the first six months of this year show that 13.5 per cent of fine car buyers chose Franklins, according to Franklin.

Economies Effected In Car Construction Through Use of Cork

Necessity for Accurate Finishing of Metal Surfaces Reduced.

In looking over the new crop of cars, no matter what make or model strikes your fancy, be sure of one thing—that it is well corked. The part that cork plays in effecting economies of production and improvements in performance, comfort and durability is surprising.

Elimination, to a considerable extent of the necessity for accurate machine finishing of metal joint surfaces is one of the major uses discovered for cork as a time—and expense—saver in the automobile industry. Cork gaskets fill up irregularities and make perfect seals, thus permitting the use of steel stampings in the place of castings. They are generally used wherever a seal is required between adjoining surfaces, and particularly between steel stampings or rough machine castings to retain oil, gasoline, water or other liquids, to keep in air or gas, or to keep out dust, dirt and moisture, and otherwise assure smooth running.

Elimination of squeaks and rattles between the body parts, making the moderate priced car as soundless as the most expensive custom-built model, is another important function of cork gaskets. Cork also lessens the transmission of vibration from one part to another and absorbs shock and jar.

To enumerate specifically some of the various wide applications of cork in the good old family "bus," cork strips cushion the floating core used in several types of radiators; corks are used to plug openings in the bodies during the painting process; cork lining and gaskets are used between cowl and windshield, rear wheel housing and and body, panels and castings in door and window frames, and other metal and wood parts to prevent squeaks; cork pads prevent rattling between instrument board and finishing panel; cork oil retainers are used at the top of steering gear housings; gaskets seal oil pans, rear axles, gear covers, valve spring covers and timing gear housings, and cork washers keep moisture out of the ignition system and, on the end of the fan, prevent leakage of oil before the fan is put in use.

Then when it comes to the accessories, cork floats are used to operate the recording dial in the gas gauge, while cork gaskets are used between glass and metal on the dial face and more cork gaskets between the glass lenses and reflectors in the spotlights and driving lamps. As a durable covering for the running board or car floor, cork composition, or heavy linoleum which contains much cork, is widely used.

No other natural or synthetic substance seems to offer the particular combination of properties found in cork. Chief among these properties, which account for its wide range of usefulness as an economical and practical material, are resistance to liquid penetration, compressibility, resilience, frictional quality, buyonacy, light weight, fire resistance, low thermal conductivity, stability and low cost.

All these qualities are found in both natural cork and cork compositions, but certain qualities can be accentuated in the compositions and the effect of others lessened according to the purpose for which it is intended. Cork composition is usually employed for sealing gaskets, but where buoyancy is wanted, as for floats, natural cork is generally used.

Local Roads Cost in Michigan is Studied

In a effort to determine how much of the cost of local roads in Michigan should be paid by local taxpayers and how much should be spread over the State, the Bureau of Public Roads, in co-operation with the Michigan Highway Department, is making an origin-and-destination traffic survey on all roads, local as well as main state highways, in sample townships in the 83 counties in the State.

The survey will show to what extent the local roads of each local taxing jurisdiction are used by traffic originating within and without these jurisdictions, and will serve as a basis for distributing public moneys now being made available for highway improvement. The amount of tourist traffic in the State also will be determined.

The survey will continue for one year. After this the same agencies will make special studies, for one month, in seven cities, Ann Arbor, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Lansing and Niles, to determine the relative use of city streets by city vehicles and by vehicles owned outside the cities. These studies also will serve as a basis for taxation.

Road Building in Quebec.

The Roads Department of Quebec is preparing to expend more than $11,000,000 this season for construction, maintenance, paving and repairing of highways. The intensive road-building program is due to the ever-increasing influx of motor tourists entering the Province.

National Traffic Survey Completed By Hupmobile Co.

DETROIT, Mich., July 19.—In connection with its recently completed traffic survey, the Hupp Motor Car Corporation today made public several suggestions relative to the national adoption of a single traffic code. The study covered a three months' survey of the traffic rules in the larger cities.

Four provisions to be considered in the revamping of existing ordinances or the adoption of any suggested single traffic code are listed. First, no single law or rule, as respects traffic control, will operate equally well in all municipalities because of varying local factors which must enter into its enforcement; second, the adoption or use of any traffic code must, to be efficient and enforceable, be general in scope, flexible in application and easily adopted to the greatest possible number of cities; third, a clearer understanding of traffic rules and the needs of the community is necessary on the part of the motorist, and fourth, a clearer conception of existing conditions and future development of pedestrian and motor traffic control should be exercised by all law-making bodies.

One Man in Every Six at Chevrolet Plant Is Inspector

Such are the precision demands of mass production today in the automobile and many other industries, that to call a product hand-built would be to brand it as a crude product indeed.

When parts are put together at the assembly line they must fit to hair-breadth accuracy, else the efficiency of the whole unit is destroyed and delays are occasioned that are far above cost limit. Such a variable factor as the human equation must play only a minor role in measuring variances, for research engineers have found the light ray infinitely more exacting that the human eye. And so they have developed many wonderful instruments to displace the old-time workman with his calipers—instruments tens and hundreds of times more accurate.

Concrete examples of the exactness required in precision manufacture are provided every few steps along the assembly lines of the motor plant of the Chevrolet Motor Co. at Flint, Mich. Here every motor has to undergo 5162 separate precision inspections, and one man in every six is an inspector.

Two Studebaker Closed Models Are Wired for Radios

Studebaker President eight and Commander eight, closed models, are now wired for radio installation, according to Arthur R. Lindburg, Studebaker distributer here.

The aerial is ingeniously concealed in the roof of the car. The lead-in wire is also concealed, being carried from the aerial to the instrument board through the left front body pillar. To this wire the radio receiving set may be connected.

Precautions have been taken to make this antenna "leak-proof." All wires are well insulated. Wherever metal touches metal in such a way that a ground might result, adjoining parts are thoroughly insulated with heavy rubber tape.

June Deliveries of General Motors Cars Totaled 97,318

During the month of June General Motors deals in the United States delivered to consumers 97,318 cars, according to an announcement by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president. This compares with 131,817 in the month of May and with 154,437 in June, 1929. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers in the United States amounted to 87,595 cars, as compared with 136,169 in May and as compared further with 163,704 in June, 1929.

Those Taxicabs.

Taxicabs, representing only 2 per cent of the motor vehicles registered in New York State, were responsible for 24 per cent of the automobile accidents in 1929, in that State.

Burning of Lights to Lower Charging Rate Of Battery Assailed

It is not advisable to turn the car's headlights on in the daytime.

In the early days batteries and generators were not in their present state of high development. Batteries were under-sized and would charge fully with a few hours' driving. In order to avoid injuring batteries it was often suggested to turn the lights on on long drives in summer as a means to reduce the charging rate.

Today this practice is not needed. If a motorist is in the habit of taking unusually long and steady trips he can have the generator charging rate reduced which automatically takes care of the situation.

There is only one way that a driver can tell if the battery is being overcharged and that is if it needs to be refilled with water more than once a week.

Another good bit of information for motorists to know about concerns spark plug gaps. If the car at any time operates with a jerky or uneven motion, have the spark plug gaps examined as the electrodes probably are worn too far apart.

Safety at Crossings.

Automobile drivers in New Hampshire who do not come to a complete stop at railroad crossings before proceeding across will have their driver's license suspended, according to a recent ruling.

Cooling System of Motor Under Strain In Warm Weather

When the weather is too hot for comfort, consider the automobile engine. With only the same hot wind as its final cooling medium, the automobile engine is expected to absorb the heat of thousands of explosions per minute and still stay cool.

There are 12,000 intensely hot gas explosions in the combustion chambers of an eight-cylinder automobile every minute it is operated at high speed. This means nearly three-quarters of a million explosions per hour. And all of this heat generated must constantly be removed and dissipated so that the engine will run at an even, efficient temperature.

An example of an efficient cooling system is to be found in the Viking eight. It is so designed that the cool circulating water reaches all valves and combustion chambers, thus keeping the entire engine at an even temperature. The V-type design of the Viking engine, with two blocks of four cylinders each, increase the efficiency of this feature.

Carriers Pay Huge Tax.

Commercial vehicles, although comprising but 13 per cent of the motor vehicles in the United States, are paying more than 5 per cent of all the direct motor vehicle taxes of the country. They now contribute $250,000,000 a year in special fees for highway use.

The bantam Austin offers a new idea about going places!

CONSIDER this new idea of transportation without tonnage, beauty without bulk, mileage with minimum expense... see what it offers you.

First of all . . . economy. Here is the bantam Austin waiting to take you wherever you wish for a mere ¾ of a cent a mile for gas, oil and tires. It's a car that does fifty miles an hour on the straightaway yet which stretches a gallon of gasoline over forty miles of road as well.

It is one member of the family that seldom needs new shoes. Twenty to forty thousand miles on a set of tires is its usual performance.

Yet the bantam Austin vies in smartness with cars of far more impressive list prices, offers as much of a thrill in its way as the high powered giants, and gives you a sense of perfect control and easy handling that only another Austin can match. Yet it lists for but $445 f.o.b. factory.

As the garage-mate of your larger car, the Austin will pay for itself by sparing the big car the many one and two passenger trips that are so costly in fuel and depreciation.

Certainly it's a car worth seeing. You'll find it waiting for you at the address below.

Come see it!

Bring your prejudices with you!

SOUND ECONOMY SUGGESTS OLDSMOBILE

Body By Fisher

Have you noticed how many business men—how many thoughtful women—how many shrewd and careful buyers in this community have turned to Oldsmobile?

Such widespread public favor shown to anything so important as a motor car is no result of chance. It must be founded on an excellent fundamental reason. And in Oldsmobile's case that reason is sound economy.

Sound economy at the time of purchase. Sound economy that holds through the months and miles. For Oldsmobile's proved design, quality materials, and precision workmanship insure dependability of the highest character.

Finally, the deciding factor in favor of Oldsmobile is that the economy which characterizes this fine car entails no sacrifice of those elements of appearance, comfort, and performance which discriminating motorists value so highly.

Come in—examine this car—consider its moderate price. Drive it and make your own performance tests. We believe that to you, as to thousands of others, sound economy will then suggest Oldsmobile.

Here and There on the Air

Durstine, the advertising man, recounts in the book, "Radio and Its Future," how broadcast programs are sometimes ordered by executives of large companies simply as an "exciting plaything" for themselves or their wives. The periodical of the show business, Variety, makes these observations about the foibles of the men who pay for radio programs:

"Paralleling the instance of a picture producer ordering changes in a talker because of his daughter's suggestions, it's more or less of a standing gag that one of the most prominent advertising agents in America is governed in the commercial radio programs he presents by the opinion of his young daughter. If the youngster okeys a program's reception, that's all this high-powered ad man cares for.

"It's quite a gag, too, among radio commercials how a flock of vice presidents endeavor to evidence their showmanship in framing radio entertainments. One head of a tobacco broadcaster is a bug for old-time tunes and his program includes a good percentage of them. He also stages parties, rolls back the carpet and hoofs to the hour his company sponsors.

"There are instances galore of the interference of commercial men or their advertising agents with the actual radio program director, not to mention the talent, and how they must yes them more than an assistant director in Hollywood."

Definite station quotas for the various states have been fixed by the Federal Radio Commission. According to these, 27 states have fewer stations than they are entitled to and 21 are over their quotas. Missouri is 2.36 units over quota and Illinois is 11.78 units over. Texas, Tennessee, New York, California and Iowa are among the states that are most likely to lose broadcasting facilities, unless the Davis law be amended.

WLS, Chicago, has filed suit in the U. S. District Court in Chicago demanding restoration of its former status on the channel it shares with WENR. Formerly, WLS had five-sevenths of the time on this wave length and WENR had only two-sevenths. After much litigation, the U. S. District Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia ordered the commission to divide the time on the channel equally between the two stations.

KMOX Notes

It is under the direction of "Mike" Child and Carl Hohengarten and has in it musicians who have recorded and worked in the best orchestras in the country. Warner Brothers now own, besides the Brunswick radio plants, the Soatone system of preparing recordings for broadcasting, and has big plans for exploiting recorded programs. Another New York company, known as Radio Artists of the Air, Inc., and headed by Eddie Dowling, is reputed to have nearly 200 stations under contract for recorded radio broadcasts.

The announcement that WOR was turning to recordings, after consistently refusing to broadcast anything but original studio performances, gave rise to reports of a concordat with the Warners, reports which cannot be substantiated. In radio circles it is generally believed that the economics of broadcasting, especially since WOR changed hands as part of a recent big department store merger in New York, constrained the new owners to turn to records to reduce expenses.

Then again there is the ambition of Victor, now in the Radio Corporation of America's "family," to promote its recordings via the broadcast channels. Efforts to place Victor records on the National Broadcasting Co. chain last year were successfully resisted by M. H. Aylesworth, president of N. B. C. But the story will not down that Victor, possibly under N. B. C. auspices, intends to develop a new outlet for its records. Some credence is given this report by the fact that Victor has circularized all radio stations to the effect that they must cease broadcasting Victor records.

Synchronization, or the placing of enough stations to cover the entire country on one wave length, is the big goal of radio engineers. There is no doubt that if and when the problem of synchronization is solved, the present chains and other interests will immediately begin forming new networks.

It is partially to experiment with synchronization that KDKA, Pittsburg, applied to the Federal Radio Commission for authority to employ 400,000 watts of power, or eight times the present maximum of any station in the country, in experiments during the hours after midnight. Stations KDKA of Westinghouse and WGY of General Electric propose to go on the air in these trials with 200,000 watts each on the same wave length and with the same program and to note the results.

At first blush, such "superpower" appears staggering, but 400,000 watts is a relatively small amount when transposed to horsepower. One horsepower equals 746 watts, so that KDKA's proposed experimental power would amount only to 537.5 horsepower. Of course, there is the problem of blanketing the nearby points on the dial, if not the whole dial, with such power. But that is also one of the problems Westinghouse engineers think they can master.

What's New in Radio Industry

Dealers to See Crosley Sets Tomorrow—Fada Receivers to Be Shown Three Days This Week—New Westinghouse Superheterodynes on Market by Aug. 1.—Trade Notes.

Van Ashe Co. to Show New Crosley Line Tomorrow.

The Van Ashe Radio Co., Crosley distributer, will show the entire line of Crosley receivers to dealers at a business luncheon at Hotel Jefferson at 12:30 noon tomorrow. Merchandising and advertising policies will be explained. Technical features of the new chassis will be discussed by a factory engineer and the sets will be operated and displayed throughout the afternoon. Several hundred dealers are expected to attend. It has just been announced that Amrad receivers will be manufactured in the Crosley plant at Cincinnati, O.

Westinghouse Receivers Shown to Dealers.

Three new Westinghouse receivers, the first radio sets to bear that company's name, were shown and operated for some 150 dealers Monday and Tuesday at Hotel Chase. The sets are to be known as Models WR5 and WR6, both superheterodyne receivers, and WR6 a radio-phonograph combination with tone color control. It was stated at the meetings that the new sets should be in the hands of dealers by Aug. 1.

All three models have a super-selective superheterodyne circuit, which also is extraordinarily sensitive for distance tuning. The circuit begins with a band pass pre-selector to prevent station "cross talk" interference, and continues through a screen grid R. F. stage, a screen grid first detector, a 27 type power oscillator, two screen grid intermediate stages peaked around 175 kilocycles, a 27 type power detector and a push-pull audio stage of two 45 type power tubes. A superdynamic speaker is built into every model.

In tuning tests in the hotel, directly under the transmitting antenna of KWK, one of the receivers tuned out that station within a degree on either side and did the same with WIL and KMOX. The writer picked up numerous out-of-town stations at 1:30 in the afternoon.

The meeting was in charge of R. De Lano, division manager of the Westinghouse Electric Supply Co., distributer, and H. A. Ward, manager of the firm's radio department. The Westinghouse factory was represented by C. Hart Collins, merchandising manager, and R. C. Reinhardt of the engineering staff.

Fuchs Co. to Display Fada Sets to Dealers This Week.

The Fuchs Appliance Co., distributer, will show the entire new line of Fada receivers to dealers Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at a series of meetings in Parlor D, Coronado Hotel. Tom Phillips, district sales manager, and D. J. Roe of the engineering staff, will represent the Fada factory. The new sets feature Flashograph tuning, whereby stations are announced by name in lights as the dial is turned; a two-element detector; automatic volume control; a noise filter and pre-selector tuning.

Licensing Superheterodynes.

The superheterodynes, the one group of patents which Radio Corporation of America hitherto has steadfastly refused to license others to use, have finally been made available to its patent licensees, who represent 90 per cent or more of the radio set and tube production of the country. Yet it is doubtful if any of the set makers will offer superheterodyne lines this season except the RCA Graybar, General Electric and Westinghouse companies.

Down-Draft Type Of Manifold Said To Aid Performance

Complete down-draft manifolding, in which the force of gravity assists the free flow of the gasoline mixture from the carburetor to the cylinders, represents one of the engineering developments responsible for the performance of the Oakland V-type eight, according to engineers of the company.

The arrangement of the engine in two banks of four cylinders each, permits the one and three-quarter inch carburetor, with its accelerating pump and economizer, to be placed above and between the two blocks. The Oakland motor being actually a pair of four-cylinder engines is served its mixture through a manifolding system as simple and compact as that of a "four."

Short, direct passages of equal length enable each of the eight cylinders to receive an exactly equal volume of gas vapor. This uniformity of fuel supply is further aided by the Oakland eight design which permits cylinders to be fired alternately in two blocks. Thus two successive cylinder charges never are drawn by one side of the engine from this main manifold passage. This passage and the short sections of equal length into which it divides follow a gently curving design, entirely eliminating sharp angles which might retard the even flow of gas vapor.

Varied Prices for Gas.

Gasoline prices in foreign countries run all the way from 25 cents a gallon in Austria to 86 and 91 cents in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Hints to Automobile Drivers

A SIMPLE way to tell if the clutch plates fully disengage is to press the pedal to the floor while the car is in motion and watch the ammeter. The pointer should immediately drop over to the discharge side.

Also you will know when the engine is idling smoothest by the steady reading of the ammeter indicator.

If the car is used a lot in hilly country it is a good plan to have the front brakes adjusted a little looser than the rear ones. In stopping on a downgrade the weight of the car tips forward, thus making the front brakes more effective.

Unreasonableness on the part of many drivers accounts for their inability to get higher speed from their cars. Not only do they want to drive faster but reach that speed at a faster rate. If the car does not jump from 50 to 60 suddenly they think it cannot reach a higher speed and promptly head for the dealer to make a complaint. For the average automobile the rate of acceleration generally reaches a peak somewhere between 25 and 40. Over that point wind resistance is one of the powerful factors to check pickup as well as speed increase.

When a driver fails to stop in time to avoid a collision with any of the newer cars equipped with powerful brakes the trouble usually can be traced to inability to start stopping quickly enough. It takes some drivers quite a few seconds to lift the foot from the accelerator, transfer it to the brake pedal and press down. But that isn't all. Sometimes the throttle return spring is weak or the accelerator mechanism sticks. The engine then fails to act as an effective brake while the driver is getting prepared to stop.

Every oil pressure gauge is a viscometer to a certain extent. At a definite engine speed, and with the engine heat indicator reading at a certain temperature level, a reduction in pressure will usually indicate that the oil is thinning out or has less viscosity.

Sometimes a vacuum windshield wiper will leak suction and prove annoying. This is easily remedied for the time being by tying a piece of string around the tube.

Incidentally, it is well to test the wiper in fair weather to make sure it will operate properly when needed. However, be sure the windshield is dusted clean before making the trial as any particles of dirt may result in the glass being scratched by the blade.

In approaching a line of cars held up behind a truck be on your guard. Someone may try to get ahead by cutting over to your side of the road.

There are three reasons why a car will go through a flooded stretch of road better backward than forward. Reverse offers surer traction. There is less splashing because the car moves more slowly. The engine is at the rear where its ignition is better protected.

I have just heard of another driver who gave so much attention to the glaring headlights of the car behind, as reflected in the rear-view mirror, he failed to note the approach of a car from a side street. There was a collision and considerable meditation as a result of it. Doubtless one more motorist has come to the conclusion that the dangers that lurk behind a car never can be as dangerous as those that are ahead. Nothing coming out of a side street that is already passed can cause a collision with your car.

Because they have been raised on the idea that an engine should not be raced when first started too many drivers forget that the newer engines are designed for higher speeds and can be run faster after cranking without risk of scoring.

Automobile Engine, Cut in Half, Used To Power Airplane

An unusual record for longevity of an automobile engine has been revealed in California where a 1914 air-cooled Franklin motor, after 100,000 miles of driving, was cut in half and the three forward cylinders installed in an airplane which it successfully flew.

The half engine was installed in a plane at Stinson Beach and came out of a Franklin touring car which was sold as a used car to Jack Rabe, aviation enthusiast. Rabe chose the air-cooled Franklin engine for his experiment because of its power and lightness, but particularly for the adaptability of its air-cooling to meet the modern demands of his plane.

He immediately set about rebuilding the Franklin engine for use in his plane. This engine, having no water jacket, was easily cut in half and the cut crankcase sealed to make it a three-cylinder motor. Redesigning of the ignition system somewhat and transferring of the oil pump to a new position in the shortened crankcase resulted in an air-cooled valve-in-head motor of sufficient power and speed for Rabe's usage.

Mileage Marathon Car Finishes First Cross-Country Run

DETROIT, Mich., July 19.—The Dodge eight "mileage marathon" car, which left the factory July 1 on a series of cross-country runs which will continue for as long as the car will hold up, completed its first round trip this week. When Lou Miller, the driver, parked the car at the end of the first stage of the test, it had gone 8236 miles. He turned the car over to two crews of drivers who will have charge of the marthon from now on.

The two shifts of drivers will make their headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., and will relieve each other there. Each crew will drive seven days and rest seven. If the car is still running at the end of six months, it will have gone as many miles as the average driver would cover in 10 to 11 years.

Let us give you a complete demonstration of the new General Motors Radio so that you can appreciate how thoroughly fine these modern sets are.

You will be as impressed by the beautiful cabinets of the new General Motors Radio as you are by its exceptional performance. Chrysler's 5 Months' Sales Record Better Than General Average

Comparative data on automobile registrations for the entire country for the first five months of this year shows that sales by the Chrysler Corporation for the month of May were 76.5 per cent of what they were during the same month last year as compared with 76 per cent for the industry as a whole. Excluding Ford and Chevrolet, Chrysler's percentage of 76.5 for May compares with 55.3 per cent for the balance of the industry.

Chrysler Corporation's sales for the first five months of this year, exclusive of cars in the lowest-priced bracket, viz., Plymouth, Chevrolet and Ford, were the highest percentage of last year's sales of any of the large producers in the automobile industry.

WALTER P.
CHRYSLER
PRESENTS TWO NEW STRAIGHT EIGHTS

All progress is change.

Only by change do man and the factors of his civilization move from the lower to the higher state; from the cruder to the finer development.

Our Chrysler engineers devote their lives to study, to analysis, to experimentation. And out of this constant searching and trying come the knowledge, conviction and decision that lead to progress.

In announcing two complete lines of New Straight Eights, in addition to our lower-priced Chrysler Sixes, we now register our most important change and progress—all designed, all worked for, all created to give the world better and more satisfying transportation.

In our progress there is no departure from fundamental principles.

To maintain public approbation, we must give always finer, more dependable, more dynamic car performance—must offer always greater value, as well as cars better suited to the needs of modern transport.

Thus, our latest Chryslers—the new Chrysler Eight and the new Chrysler Imperial Eight—containing as they do, outstanding engineering and style improvements—are, we believe, milestones along the course of automobile progress.

We are proud and eager to submit these cars to the inspection and test of the public.

Mussolini Calls Byr d's Feat Symbol Of Nation's Spirit

Explorer's Achievement Great, He Says, Not for Material Gain, But as Expressing the Virility of His People—Declares World Must Beware of Demagogues Who Seek to Decry the Exaltation of the Hero.

By BENITO MUSSOLINI.

(Copyright, 1930. All Rights Reserved.)

ROME, July 19.

THE claim of the United States for what is said to be a vast territory—a continent, Antarctica—around the South Pole tells of the fascination and charm of empire. It symbolizes the expansion and the spirit of expansion which stimulates the forward march of a virile people. The nation breathes more deeply and feels pride in the strength expansion brings. It can take a deep breath which is a sign of healthy developing youth.

But there are other claims heralded in the press and on the platform for this new continent, claims which run counter to those of the United States. Great Britain, Norway and other countries state that Shackelton, Scott and Amundsen have previous rights of discovery within the Antarctic Circle and perhaps an interesting international question could arise over the rights of these various explorers. Volumes can be mustered to support the claims of all and learned international lawyers and diplomats would probably be mobilized by the score if the question of right of sovereignty over these territories ever seriously be fought out.

It is doubtful, however, in practical operation whether solely through the nationality of the discoverer a valuable claim may be established nowadays to the possession of the vast lands. Half the world would belong to Italy if we claimed the continents discovered by Italians. What of the epoch-making voyage of Marco Polo and John Cabot, both Venetians, Columbus the Genoese and Amerigo Vespucci, the Florentine. Even America received its name from the last named.

Difficulties of Prospecting.

However, the territories of the South Pole will certainly never furnish an "outstanding question" between the two countries. These lands would never make an Alsace-Lorraine or an Irredenta for either the United States or Great Britain. The territories are there and each may claim whatever it wishes but neither is desirous of setting up an effective occupation with a governor or viceroy. There may be minerals there but that so far is very problematical and besides the mountains would have to be made of gold to attract a gold rush like that of the Klondike. I have often wondered just how long it would take to discover the metals which might be there. Minerals are not so easy to find. They very seldom lie on the surface. If one could know just where oil or coal is, then there might be some inducement but when we think of the experimenting and the trying which is necessary to find oil and coal today in temperate climes, what would they be in the Antarctic?

Italy has never been to the South Pole but it has been to the North Pole, and has been there in probably greater numbers than any other nation. We were in the polar regions with Duke Abruzzi with what is now antiquated equipment, but we have been there in more recent years with airships and airplanes, and undoubtedly covered a greater area than many explorers, either in the north or south polar regions. While modern Italy can never let it be said that she has not furthered her claims to the limit, whether economic or territorial, yet these expeditions had a scientific value which transcended the territorial acquisitions of the Italian Dominion.

Likens Arctic to Desert.

The acquisition of the Arctic and Antarctic territory is akin to the acquisition of a vast desert territory, whether it be in the torrid or frigid zone. Italy has African possessions which are divided between those which we can even if with hardship, colonize and exploit, and the vast area toward the equator which lies under our dominion but where we keep no garrisons and where our people cannot penetrate because of the barren character of the soil. We are in just that latter position with any Arctic claims.

But this will to penetrate and explore the unknown world has induced a deeper significance than the annexation of vast stretches of useless territory. It is a symbol of the pioneering prowess of the race. Italy

The Great Russian Experiment in Socialism

THIRD INSTALLMENT

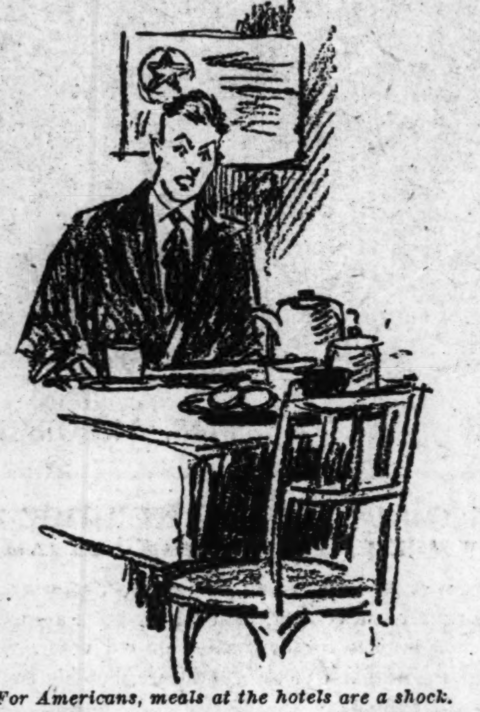
By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,

Of the Post-Dispatch Washington Staff.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., June 19.

THE Soviet Government discourages casual travelers who want to sally into the Union, take a cursory look around and breeze out, disgruntled and disgusted with the country and the communist system of Government. The reason is not that the Government fears that such visitors will see something the communists do not want them to see, but rather that the visitors, accustomed to Western conveniences, will find present - day Russia a most uncomfortable place and will let the discomforts prejudice them against the socialistic experiment.

Persons visiting the country on conducted tours escape many of the annoyances besetting the paths of visitors seeing the country on their own, but even the Government cannot do the impossible and make touring in Russia as easy and as comfortable as traveling in the United States and Western Europe.



For Americans, meals at the hotels are a shock.

The trouble begins when one arrives in Moscow. Few porters meet the trains and those who do demand unreasonable pay to handle one's luggage. After the visitor carries his own baggage outside the station, he finds no taxicabs, only a few dilapidated droshkies with apathetic drivers who do not seem to care whether they have a fare or not. Then the fun begins.

The first problem is to make the driver understand the name of the hotel and to arrive at a price for the trip. It is necessary to bargain first, otherwise the driver can charge whatever he wishes. The usual practice is to offer a fourth or a third of what the driver demands and compromise on a half. This is done by the old Curb Exchange system of bidding and offering by finger signals. To bring down the price it is often necessary to walk away from the driver two or three times.

Obtaining a room at a hotel is a much more difficult proposition. I had telegraphed from Germany for a room, and arrived at the Savoy Hotel confident. Ah, yes, said the manager, there was the telegram, but unfortunately all the rooms were taken. Perhaps a room might be available tomorrow or the next day. Trips to the Grand, the Metropole and the Europa, the three other hotels catering to foreigners, brought only vague promises that I might be able to obtain rooms the next day.

But there was an ace in the hole, a strong letter from Senator Borah, who rates higher in Russia than any other American. This letter, presented at the offices of the Society for Cultural Relations With Foreign Countries, turned the trick. The manager of the society, after closely questioning me about the chances for American recognition of Soviet Russia, informed me that his assistant had arranged for my room at the Grand, said to be the best hotel in Moscow, which would be available at 8 o'clock.

Russian hotels leave a lot to be desired, both in matter of accommodations and food. My room, a large one on the fourth floor, cost nine rubles a night—about $4.50. A similar room in New York would cost about $3. Although the Grand boasts an elevator it is not running. From an hour's to two hours' notice is required for a bath, and unless one has brought toilet soap into Russia, one goes without. None can be bought.

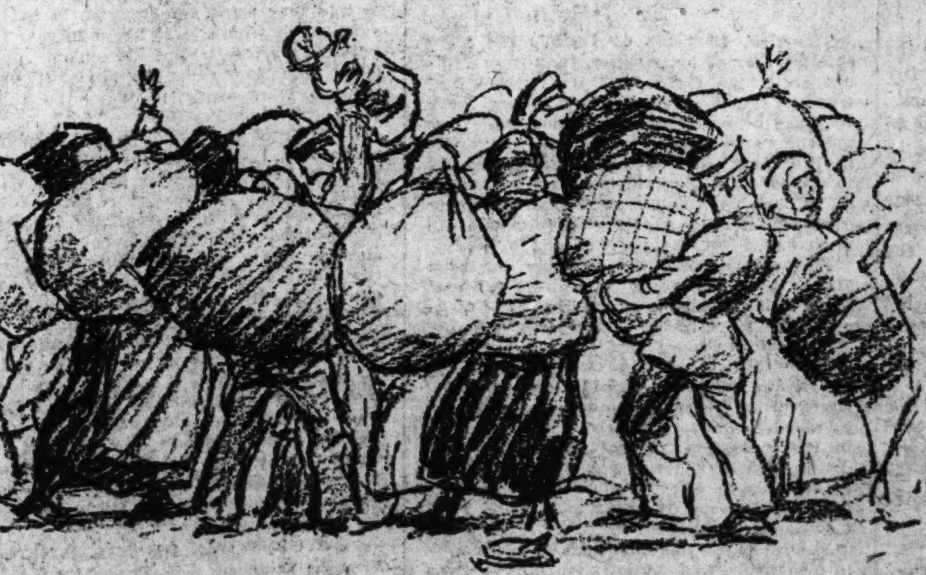
For an American, the meals, obtainable only at the hotels are a shock. The unvarying breakfast is two boiled eggs, black bread, butter and tea. The menu for luncheon and dinner, day after day, offers eggs, chicken and "cutlet." A "cutlet" in Russia is made with ground-up meat. Once or twice a week, stewed lamb or veal is served. The breakfast costs about 75 cents; luncheon and dinner, between $2 and $2.50. Wine, caviar and a salad of sorts are obtainable at exorbitant prices.

A group of American engineers living in Moscow, disgusted at the ordinary hotel food, welcome every opportunity to give a special dinner at which they can have steaks and other delicacies. The latest one they gave cost $17 a plate, a lot of money in any country.

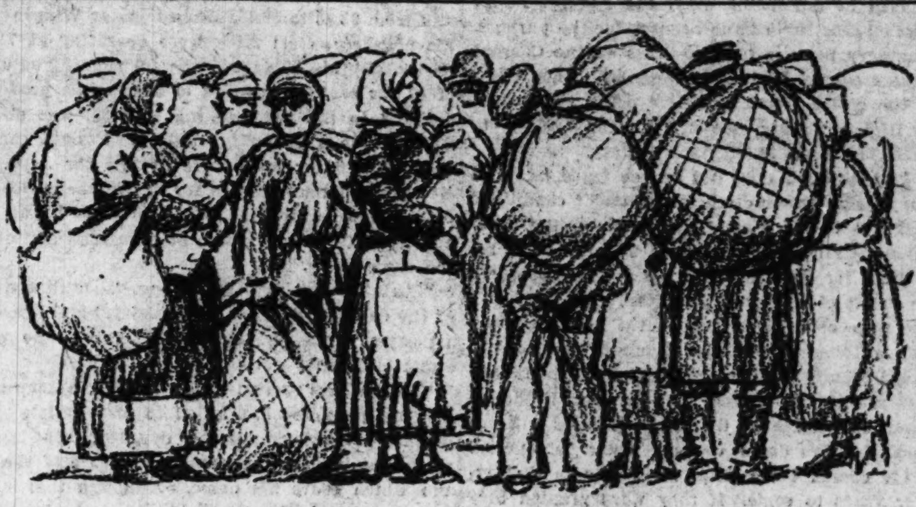
Trouble Over Train Tickets.

Hotel rooms and meals are much better in Moscow than in the provinces. After waiting five hours for a room in Smolensk, I was told that I could share a room with four Russians. At Vitebsk, White Russia, I obtained a room at once in a hotel that had just been opened. But at neither place could I get any food other than bread, tea, cheese and some hard ginger biscuits. Raw herring and a conglomerate salad were on sale but these require Russian training.

The Russian's utter disregard for time is likely to catch the American traveler unawares at the most unexpected places. Bureaucratic red tape is responsible for much of this. Considerable trouble arises over passports and railroad tickets.



An hour before the train was due the platform swarmed with third-class passengers.



"Every peasant carried a huge bundle."

A foreigner's passport is taken by hotel officials for police identification. When he attempts to get it back preparatory to leaving Moscow he is informed by the hotel management that he must have an exit visa costing $12.50 and requiring three days to obtain. By insistence the three days can be shortened to two.

The foreigner then finds that railroad tickets are another source of delay. The Government has tried to ease the situation by establishing a downtown ticket office for foreigners called "Intourists," but the employes are more remarkable for their ability to speak several languages than for their knowledge of time tables. At this bureau I met a famous New England editor, outwardly dangerously calm, but inwardly fuming over the fact that he had been promised tickets for three days and had just been able to get them. I thought I had been lucky in getting tickets until I found that an itinerary had been arranged for me whereby I was expected to make a connection with a train departing an hour before my train arrived.

The clerk who drew up this arrangement calmly stated that it was up to a traveler to verify train connections before paying for the tickets, and when I asked whether I could return the tickets, I was told that I could not. The employe suggested that I might be able to hawk the tickets if I went to the station and looked for a buyer. The result of this mix-up cost 15 hours' delay in a little provincial town.

Too Much Black Bread.

Much of the trouble over railroad tickets is caused by the fact that the Soviet transportation system has not yet been built up. The trains themselves are good, comparable to the trains of Germany and France, but there are not enough of them.

The American technical experts to whom the Soviet Government is paying large salaries find that their money will not buy them much in American comforts. The mining engineers, accustomed to hardships in all parts of the world, do not seem to mind, but many of the other experts frankly say that only their contracts keep them in Russia. I ran across a young citizen of Peoria, Ill., who was leaving the Union principally because he had beeen forced to live on black bread, tea and cottage cheese for two months on a State farm on the Volga. At the Savoy Hotel the other day two young Americans, pickled to their ears in vodka, were breaking glasses and informing the world with considerable profanity that they were leaving the communists to their fate as soon as they could get transportation. The mining engineers have only contempt for those who leave before their time is up. "This is their first trip from home," is their explanation.

The newspaper correspondents are like the engineers. They can buy what food there is available at the Government stores without standing in a queue and they have fairly good apartments. They are keenly interested in the communistic experiment and they want to stay around and see what the final outcome will be. At present they are trying to arrange with the Government for free importation of food and clothing for their personal use. If they are successful, they will be much more contented.

Incidentally, the engineers and the newspaper men are the most optimistic of the foreigners about the success of the Five-Year program.

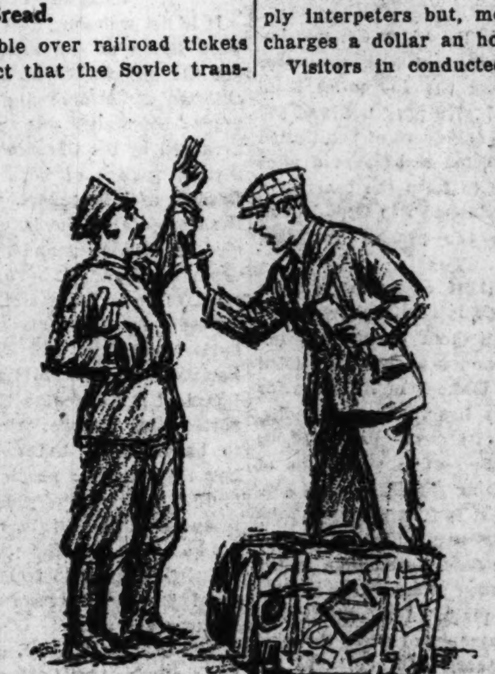
Foreigners Under Suspicion.

Many people in the States believe that the communists try to prevent visitors from seeing things which might cause an unfavorable reaction against the Government. So far the only evidence of this I have met is the refusal of the Society for Cultural Relations to arrange for me to visit a few children's homes, such as I had inspected when with the American Relief Administration. The explanation given is that all of the children have been sent south to camps for the summer.

This explanation, however, doesn't hold water, because I have visited some of these homes on my own and found that they are kept in fairly good condition, according to Russian standards. As far as I know I have not been trailed as I was at times in 1922 and 1923, but the old order apparently holds good for the former intelligentsia. When I told old Russian friends that I was in Moscow they were willing to meet me any place except my hotel. They told me that it would be dangerous for them to be seen with a foreigner at such a public place.

Strangely enough an English speaking visitor does not have a great deal of trouble with language in Russia if he knows a little German and can decipher the Russian alphabet. A slight knowledge of Greek helps a lot. The Cultural Relations Society will supply interpeters but, most uncommunistically, charges a dollar an hour for them.

Visitors in conducted tours have no such difficulties as mentioned here. The Government, seeking to encourage such travelers, gives special privileges to the managers and the conducted visitors have their paths smoothed for them and see a great deal of the country and its institutions. But they miss a lot of the fun of traveling in a strange land.



The old curb exchange system of bidding is used in arriving at the amount of the taxi bill.

WARSAW, June 23.

THE passport and visa racket still flourishes in Europe and the passengers on the Moscow - Warsaw train have seen what a nuisance it can be.

Shortly after the train left Stolbtzy, the first town in Poland on the Russian border, half a dozen trainmen and Government officials went through the coaches looking for a young Britisher who had failed to board the train. The officials had his passport, which because of red tape they had to take to Warsaw for a report. The result was that the Britisher was temporarily stranded in a small Polish town without official identification.

The Soviet Government, despite its appeals for tourists, is the worst offender in the visa racket. Somewhere in its archives, presumably for future reference, are five pictures of your correspondent, and the Government is $28 richer in visa fees as the result of his visit.

Four to six weeks are required for a Russian visa. The Soviet Information Bureau in Washington supplies the application form which requires the prospective traveler to Russia to tell among a great many other things why he wants to visit the Soviet Union, how long he intends to stay, what cities he

New U. S. Tariff Leading Issue in Canadian Election

Logical Consequence of Hawley-Smoot Law Is to Make Canada a "Vassal" State, Conservatives Declare—All Parties Forced to Adopt Protectionist Policy, Not in Reprisal, But of Necessity—Vote to Be Taken July 28.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 19.

PROBABLY not since the American republic took form have its domestic politics and legislation played so large a part P in the considerations of another nation as during the federal campaign now drawing to an animated close in the Dominion of Canada.

Next week the Canadians will register their votes on issues that have been almost wholly thrust into the limelight by Washington legislation—the tariff. Economically, affairs in this dominion are vitally concerned with the tariff structure of the United States. Canada sells more of its products south of the line and buys more from the American people than elsewhere. It is a $1,000,000,000 business the dominion does annually with the republic.

New customs barriers erected by the United States resulted in abandonment of the historic free trade policy of the Liberal party in favor of a high or higher tariffs, not, as the leaders of that party assert, in a spirit of reprisal but of necessity.

Forced Protectionists.

As an illustration of the revolutionary change, alleged to be due to Washington's new tariff, that has been witnessed on this side, 33 of the 114 votes cast in the House of Commons at the last session for the Liberal protection budget, were contributed by men from the three prairie provinces who had been elected as free traders. Until this campaign the prairies of Canada have been a free trade stronghold and to be a protectionist there was to be an ecomonic heretic.

But the party now in opposition—the Conservatives—has been basically protectionist since the confederation—1860. This condition has resulted therefore in a welter of individual political changes probably never before witnessed in an Anglo-Saxon country. That has resulted in a spectacular campaign by both sides that makes for absolute uncertainty in possible results in the polling, July 28.

How Parliament Stands.

There are 245 members of the House of Commons. In the last Parliament the Liberals, with Mackenzie King as Premier, had 119 seats; the Conservatives with R. B. Bennett, 89; one Farmers' group, 11; another, the Progressives, 12; Liberal - Progressives (those elected in a fusion arrangement) 8; Labor 3 and Independents 2.

But all these smaller groups, have in the past, supported the Liberal party organization in actual process of voting on policies in the Parliamentary sessions. That was chiefly—almost wholly—the reaction on the tariff policy.

Now, with the Liberals out for protection, the cardinal difference between the two controlling parties has disappeared. To complicate the situation further in this domestic campaign, the influential Conservative party of Great Britain has abandoned its historic free trade attitude and has swung around for protection in the British isles.

And, frankly, much feeling has been developed all over the Dominion against the United States because of the new tariff barriers. Premier King has been placed between two fires. He spent two years in the United States in connection with the Rockefeller Foundation fund as an expert in settling labor troubles. He was, under the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Minister of Labor. Culturally, he has contributed much to the improvement of feeling between labor and capital and has written books on the subject that are regarded even outside of Canada as classics.

Accused of Pro-Americanism.

While the King Government was waiting to see what would be the outcome of the Washington tariff discussions, he had leveled at him on the floor of Parliament by the Conservative opposition the charge that, because of his connections formed while temporarily residing in the United States, he was inclined to compromise the interests of his own country to suit the views of Washington legislators.

This angle of the campaign has been em-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Bellamy's "Looking Backward."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE just read in your valuable paper the article by Stuart Chase, "The Nemesis of Modern Industry," contrasting pre-machine culture of Mexican villages, where there is enough to satisfy simple needs, with life in the world's richest city, where jobless men stand in bread lines, etc. Mr. Chase raises the question whether these Aztec Indians of Mexico would be worse or better off if transplanted in world's richest city.

Mr. Chase no doubt realizes that modern industry will some day be modified so as to do away with jobless men in breadlines without abolishing machine culture, but as long as the jobless, no matter how many in number, amount to only 3½ per cent of the population, as in St. Louis, they are powerless against the 96½ per cent who are employed, and therefore indifferent or antagonistic toward any changes in industrial conditions aiming to assure everyone willing to work, a job.

Nor are the jobless in general cognizant of any method by which to provide jobs without depriving others of theirs. And as long as they comprise only a small percentage of the population they can be kept under control by unemployment doles, as in England and Germany, or by charity (soup kitchens) and police clubs, as in this, the richest country on earth. But as industry is progressing now, the percentage will grow and will include not only erstwhile workers, but also erstwhile employers. Of course according to the want ads there seems to be always demand for salesmen, but with the number of prospective purchasers decreasing by their entering the ranks of the jobless or those of the salesmen—in many cases amounting to about the same—the field of selling is also overcrowded.

I should like to see discussed by a paper like the Post-Dispatch or by a man of Mr. Chase's ability a book, written now over 40 years ago, which, while disposed of as utopian by the average man, would, nevertheless, make interesting reading for such of our younger generation who are serious minded and regard conditions of society from a humanitarian standpoint. The book I refer to is "Looking Backward," by Edward Bellamy, discussing industrial conditions in the year 2000, based on co-operation as against conditions based on competition. Since the book was written many and great changes have taken place, improving things in a mechanical and industrial way, but socially the race is still to the swiftest and let the devil take the hindmost, if not more so. A Tribute to Southeastern Missouri.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SOUTHEASTERN Missouri's progress since the great flood of 1927 far excels that of any similar section on this continent. The great retwork of drainage ditches and the system of elevated highways, for use during high water seasons, are an inspiration for all those that visualize a greater and mightier Missouri. Going ahead, in spite of her many setbacks, Southeastern Missouri has shown the nation courage and accomplishment beyond comparison. Long live that courage—and may its reward be as great as the Missouri for which it stands.

Gigging in Ozark Streams.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HEARTILY agree with you that if the gigging of fish in the Ozarks is no stopped in time, there will be no fish left for him who spends his money for a trip to the most beautiful country in the United States.

Try and find any part of the United States that is more beautiful. Then try and find any state that permits gigging the way Missouri does.

Recently while sitting on the banks of the Black River trying to get a bite on a shiner minnow, 19 men passed by and each one had a gig.

One man came up to the brush pile where I was sitting and gigged a trout about nine inches long that refused to bite while lying over its eggs.

If that is good sportsmanship, I will grease my rod and reel and put them away forever.

Reed and Prohibition.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

OLD "Fox" Jim Reed did well to hike out for Europe about the time the Post-Dispatch began publishing his ravings against prohibition. He knew the sort of fire he would draw. Sharpshooters have been ready to snipe at him for some time, just waiting for him to break cover.

The first good crack at him comes from an East St. Louis contributor to "Letters From the People" column, who tells about Reed's begging the Anti-Saloon League's support in his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination two years ago. That bit of demagoguery cooked his goose completely. No wonder he hates the league with such fervor.

Now let us hear from the wet St. Louis Republicans who elected him Senator the last time in anticipation of a prompt repeal of the eighteenth amendment. They should be beginning to come back to life again now, and their opinion of Reed would be good reading. R. L. S.

SAVE OUR OZARK ASSETS.

At the hearing on Current River hydro-electric projects before Lieutenant-Colonel F. B. Wilby, United States district engineer, at Doniphan, the State's Attorney-General, through his assistant, J. D. Parteet, offered a reasonable request which has been forwarded to the Federal Power Commission, to which Wilby will report. Mr. Parteet stated that the Attorney-General did not oppose legitimate and necessary development of Missouri's water power resources, but asked delay in issuing licenses for water power dams until the State could formulate a policy with regard to such developments.

Missouri's water power resources are wide open for exploitation by public utility companies. The State has neither a policy nor protective laws to safeguard its own interests nor those of individual citizens from the schemes of water power developers. The beautiful streams, of which the State contains many, may be dammed at any point when the Federal Power Commission sees fit to issue licenses for the purpose.

Preliminary permits for five dams on the Current River were sought by three companies. They cover almost the entire river, from five miles above Doniphan, Ripley County, through Carter County to Round Spring Park, in Shannon County.

The Post-Dispatch does not oppose legitimate and necessary water power development under conditions advantageous to the State. The developments, however, and their location should be under the control of the State for the benefit of the people, not solely for the profit of utility corporations.

There were other objections to the projects urged by a few citizens. One of the strongest objections to haphazard granting of licenses for dams is the threatened destruction of the most attractive scenic and resort assets of the State. Of course, licenses will not be issued for five dams because their production would far exceed the market for power in that region for years to come. If they were granted they would turn the most beautiful stretch of river, not only in Missouri, but in the United States, into a series of artificial lakes and probably would obliterate wonderful springs. The Current River is an extraordinary stream, clear and cold, flowing through the Ozark hills and fed by great springs of from 100,000,000 to 700,000,000 gallons capacity a day. It is picturesque and charming from end to end. It abounds in many varieties of fish, chiefly the favorite of sportsmen, the bass. If a license for one dam should be issued the dam should be located with judgment and care, so that the beauty and continuity of the stream would be as little impaired as possible.

The Ozark region of Missouri is just coming into great repute as a resort for hunting, fishing and recreation. Tourists are visiting it for its scenic and recreational attractions in rapidly increasing numbers. Its springs and streams are charming. Artificial lakes have attractions, but wonderful springs and streams are works of nature which cannot be duplicated by man. They are invaluable assets of the State, which should be preserved for the people. Let us save them from the hands of unbridled greed.

ONE YEAR OF AIR-RAIL TRAVEL.

With 30,000 passengers carried in the first year of operation, the combination of T. A. T.-Maddux airplanes by day and Pennsylvania and Santa Fe sleepers at night seems to be and to promise success. It enables the man in a hurry to cross the continent in an almost incredibly short time and at a cost, since the rates were reduced, which is less than railroad fares plus the four-day cost of dining car meals. "Sooner or later," says President J. L. Maddux, "an all-air service from coast to coast will become a necessity." By such a service a crossing within a day may soon be offered. For the present the air-rail combination is quite wonderful enough and seems to be thoroughly established.

SPARE THE RIO.

Can it be the International Boundary Commission is really serious in its talk about taking the meanders out of the Rio Grande along the 150 miles from El Paso to Quitman Canyon? We pray not, and yet what else can it mean when engineers of the United States and Mexico are instructed to prepare a joint report, the recommendations to form the basis of a treaty "under which a straightened Rio Grande will replace as a boundary line the present rambling course"?

As we see it, such a feat of costly engineering would do no good, so why do it at all? Everybody knows the Rio Grande is without commercial importance. The small delta and sand bar obstructed channel in the lower course make it of little use for navigation. The Rio's value lies in another realm. In a sentence, it is a thing of beauty. Rising 12,000 feet above the sea in the San Juan Mountains of southern Colorado, then rushing rapidly down a canyon to the San Luis Valley, it is first a river of the Rocky Mountains. Next between picturesque narrow walls it crosses the interior deserts and then in the "Big Bend" becomes a silt-laden stream with a shifting channel in the coastal plain. Its complex features make it a splendid example of what the physiographers call "youth, maturity and age." To the Mexicans it is the Rio del Norte in the upper course, the Rio Bravo in the desert section and the Rio Grande only through the coastal plain.

The Rio is not of the world of trade and moneymaking; its rapids and waterfalls, its leisurely bends belong to song and story. The fire and lethargy of the Southwest's fading romance are portrayed in its varied moods. One moon along the Rio's winding course is better than many produce-filled boats. Straighten it? We would as soon the engineers decided to take the zig-zag out of a rail fence. And besides, the Rio Grande washes the soil of Chihuahua for many miles. What river could do that and still go straight?

ZARO AND THE GIRLS.

Zaro Agha, the 156-year-old Turk, who pretends to know a lot about the girls, says he likes them plump and brunette. That explains why, after 11 marriages, he is still dissatisfied and disgruntled. The calendar of history is full of warnings against plump brunettes. Take Xantippe, who made Socrates' life miserable; Judith, that dark-visaged girl who put the quietus on Holofernes; Delilah, the beetle-browed dame that ruined Samson's career; Charlotte Corday, who killed Murat in his bath. For that matter, take Carrie Chapman Catt who, if her locks are not raven, has acted all her life just like a brunette. Take—but let Zaro take them all.

Apparently Zaro is unfamiliar with that type of femininity which has always held as her chief aim in life the happiness of man. She is fair of skin and her hair is creamy yellow. She has been accused of being silly, shallow, frivolous and latterly has been libeled with the vulgar adjective, dizzy. Nevertheless, she can dance. She can mix a cocktail. She laughs twice at the same story. She is divinely sweet, and divinely dumb. To come to the point without further ado, she is the kind of girl that gentlemen prefer.

AFTER 30 DAYS.

"If this bill is passed," proclaimed Senator Watson, Indiana, on June 12, during the debate of the Hawley-Smoot tariff, "this nation will be on the upgrade financially and economically within 30 days." The Senator's 30 days are up. What are the facts?

The New York Times weekly index of business activity has fallen from 93 to 89. The Annalist's index of wholesale commodity prices has dropped from 129.7 to 124.2. Wheat at wholesale in New York declined from $1.20 to 98 cents, cotton from $14.80 to $13.20, silk from $3.80 to $2.75. When Senator Watson voiced his prophecy, steel mills were operating at 71.5 capacity. Within 30 days they were running on a basis of 48 per cent. The index of automobile production, at 101.8 in the week ending May 31, was down to 67.9 for the week ending July 5. Freight car loadings, at 89.9 for May, were at 87.5 for June. The New York Times average for the market price of 50 leading stocks stood at 207.93 on June 12, at 195.76 on July 12. Other figures of industrial activity tell the same story.

"Curtailment," says the Times, "is still the order of the day in business and industry," and the Annalist says, "There is nothing in sight in the way of signs of greater activity."

The business revival which Senator Watson so confidently predicted has failed to materialize. Representative Hawley, nothing daunted, has issued a statement lauding the accomplishments of the measure which bears his name. Although this law has been on the books for only a month, he tells us many business enterprises have resumed operations. Large numbers of workmen have found employment. There is a confidence in the tone of business which indicates renewed activity. Such statements as these emanate from men whose minds are peculiarly impervious to plain and simple facts. Like the declamation of Senator Goff that the tariff has "illuminated our valleys with the leaping flames of our furnaces and caused them to kiss the mountain tops;" like the breathless prophecy of Representative Crowther that, at the first touch of Grundyism, "the country again will blossom out into the full sunshine of prosperity," they are probably not intended to be taken seriously. They are to be classed perhaps as oratory, as romantic fiction, as poetry. Certain it is they have nothing to do with reality.

For all their hard-boiled pose, Captains of Industry, it seems, are susceptible to flattery and, if adroitly approached, will substantially react. This discovery is reported by the National Better Business Bureau, which learns that business executives are being bilked systematically by pseudo press organizations which pretend to have access to newspapers and promise complimentary publicity to prominent citizens who respond with liberal checks. The graft is said to yield a total of $1,000,000 a year.

It is an old racket. Modern salesmanship may have refined and polished the technique, but puffery is a shopworn commodity the purchasers of which ordinarily know what they are buying. It is unlikely that exposure will have any permanent effect. The crop of suckers of all kinds is marked by an endless rotation that enables the gentry of nimble wits and no scruples to live sumptuously some of the time and comfortably most of the time.

No statute will exorcise vanity from the cosmos.

CHILDREN LEADING THE WAY.

It is not a dozen years since Britons and Germans were flying at one another on the battlefield and yet the breach has been so far healed that school children of Germany and England are enjoying each others' hospitality this summer through "exchanges" arranged by the German Peace Society. This month several parties of boys and girls from Hamburg, Bremen and Bergedorf, where English is taught in the elementary schools, are being entertained in England at Tyldesley and Southend-on-Sea. Senior students at Bradford have exchanged with German scholars from Bonn and Giessen.

Credit for this fine step in forgetting the war hysteria goes to Herr Karl Struwe of the Peace Society, who went to London and at once won the Board of Education to his plan. "In Tyldesley," reported Herr Struwe, "the whole community appears to have backed the experiment. It is incredible how the very poor people welcomed us." His opinion is that a system of exchanges is the best possible means for bringing the nations closer to each other. As he put it, "in the present state of world affairs the nations need to feel that frontiers are only artificial barriers between them—that their joys and sorrows are alike."

The German Peace Society is wise when it carries the exchange idea to those of lower school age. Heretofore such enterprises in the main have dealt with adult students who have been less receptive to the international point of view than more youthful visitors would be. Children are no respectors of nationalistic shams. They are playmates under the skin.

WAITING FOR THE PUBLIC'S RETURN.

In the past few days, the market has been on the rise. Plus signs embroider the list which a few weeks ago was a depressing waste of minus marks. Nevertheless the market is still floating aimlessly in mid-ocean, its decks bare of the crowded masses of merrymakers who cruised on it in 1929. High up in the rigging, the "experts" are scanning the horizons for a return of the public, but the more honest of them will not admit seeing so much as a sail. The public is out, and the daily see-saw is only a desultory battle of the professional speculators. In the meantime, stocks which were grabbed like hot cakes last year at prices from $10 to $100 above their present levels are going begging.

Apparently the public is waiting for another sustained bull movement, during which prices soar once more to levels beyond any reasonable relation to earnings, dividends and future prospects. Reversing the old speculative axiom, the public seems addicted to the practice of buying high and selling low.

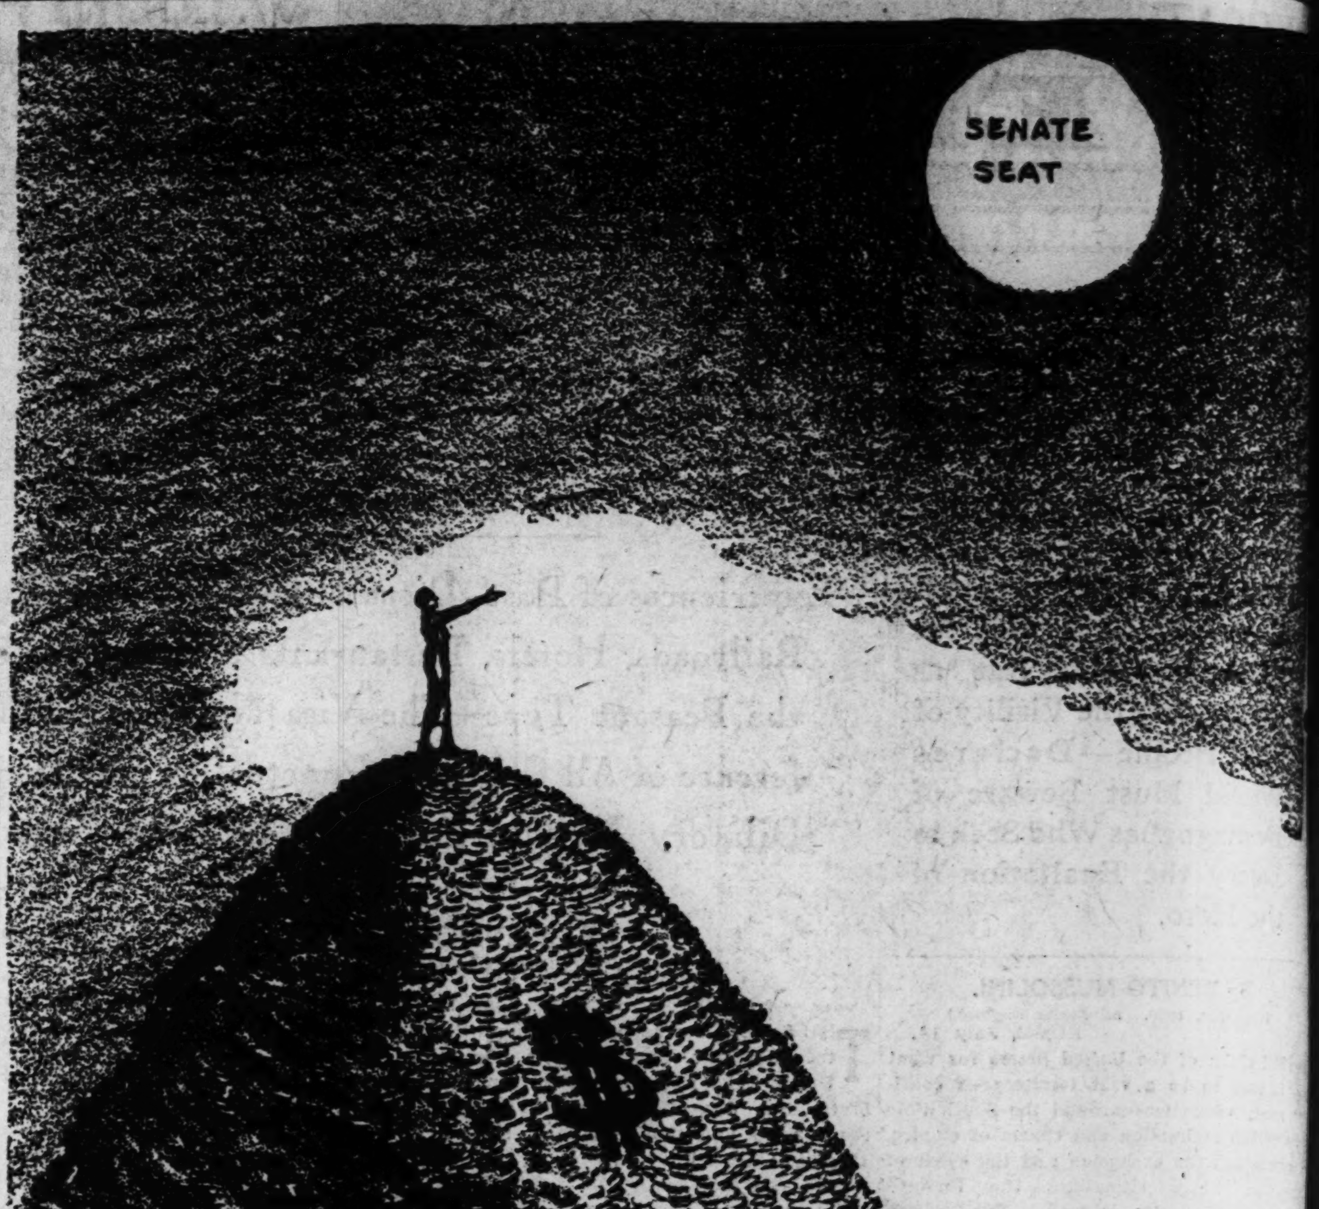
Mahatma Ghandi is getting along all right in prison but confesses he is tired of spinning yarn. He'd rather spin yarns.



MRS. McCORMICK: I WANT THAT!

Nikolai Lenin, Dreamer and Doer

Life of late Soviet leader given to one purpose, assuring happiness to masses; 40 years a dreamer and student, then for six years a great executive and master of Russia; had instinct for destruction of old order, with desire to construct a new world; a man full of self-confidence, but big enough to confess his errors.

Gamaliel Bradford in Harper's Magazine.

NIKOLAI LENIN lived and died with one paramount object, to overturn the world organization of society in such a way that wealth, leisure and the means of happiness should not be confined to a small class, but should be fairly distributed among the vast masses who perform the useful labor of the world.

Lenin, whose real name was Vladimir Ilyitch Ulianov, was born in Simbirsk, southeastern Russia, in 1870, of a fairly well-to-do family. The execution of his adored elder brother in 1887 for attempted assassination of the Czar is said to have been the origin of Ilyitch's relentless, lifelong effort to overthrow tyranny and give the lowly and downtrodden the dominion of the earth. His determined agitation with this view naturally made him obnoxious to the imperial Government. He was sent to Siberia for three years and then kept in wandering exile all over Europe, during which he worked into connection and gradual leadership with many whose passions and tendencies were similar. He took an active, if not the most prominent part in the Russian Revolution of 1905, only to be exiled for another 10 years.

The Great War brought his opportunity. Under the Kerensky regime he returned to Russia in 1917, and by skillful manipulation and fortunate circumstances he found himself at the head of the Government with an authority over millions unsurpassed by that of any Czar or Mussolini or Napoleon.

Lenin's admirers say that he forgot himself altogether and lived simply in absolute devotion to a great cause, that he cared nothing for glory or display or the outside trappings of power. As if history had not proved to us again and again that the most furious love of power shows itself in just the disdain of the outward manifestation of it! There is no madder or more engrossing ambition than that of making over the world.

The first 40 years of Lenin's life were simply years of preparation for the marvelous six years, from 1918 until his death, when he was master of Russia. During those 40 years he was scheming, dreaming—"one must have something to dream of," he wrote in the early days—reading, sometimes 12 to 15 hours a day, laying vast plans for all possible contingencies. It was the entire concentration and supreme erection of a life upon one devouring purpose and hope.

He came across the writings of Karl Marx. What he would have been without Marx it is impossible to say, but it is obvious that Marx made Lenin intellectually. The cardinal principle of Marx is of course the tireless, ceaseless, remorseless war between the proletariat and the capitalist bourgeoisie, war which must be carried on by ruthless means and which can end only in the complete victory and permanent domination of the working classes. Lenin, as soon as he got the chance, acted Marx with a venomous realism which would have astonished his master.

For it cannot be denied that destruction—to overthrow, to tear down, to uproot—was a primitive instinct in Lenin's disposition. When he came to exercise command he was mercilessly arbitrary and authoritative; but, like many such people, he bitterly hated to be repressed and commanded himself. After overturning Russia he schemed to overturn all Europe, America, and Asia; and it is possible that even yet his schemes may come to fruit.

After which, it must be admitted that the man thought of construction as well as destruction. When you had torn down the old, worn-out fabric of bourgeois statecraft something must be substituted; and he planned long and elaborately and wrote thousands of pages explaining how the dictatorship of the proletariat could be and would be established and what mighty wonders it would accomplish.

Some writers express amazement at the sudden change, at the difference between the dreaming Lenin of earlier years and the doer of later. But it is probable, is manifest, that the doer was the real man, and was simply waiting his chance. At any rate, when the door of opportunity was flung open, the great executive swept through it with magnificent eclat. All the qualities of a statesman shone out in him.

This superb doer realized perfectly well that he made mistakes, and he did not hesitate to confess them. He reversed his course and adopted the New Economic Policy, which recognized the necessity of combining the abhorred methods of capitalism with working communism to some extent and temporarily. And his frankness, his energy and, above all, his winning persuasiveness were sufficient to carry his followers with him anywhere.

"The art of government cannot be got out of books," he cried. "Try, make mistakes, learn how to govern." In this respect he might perhaps be called an opportunist, but it would be cruel to call him so, since some of the harshest epithets in his rich vocabulary of abuse are attached to this very word, opportunist, in the sense of the man who always keeps his ear to the ground, who is trying to curry popular favor and to catch the slightest veering wind of temporary prejudice so that he may trim his sails to it.

In contrast to this cheap and shallow opportunism, I would rather call Lenin's disposition "vitalism"—the profound vitalism of a Caesar, a Napoleon, or a Lincoln, which moves with far-reaching insight and dominating, prevailing purpose, yet constantly adapts and adjusts that purpose to the living, vital movement of human circumstance, always with the fixed determination of arriving at a long predestined goal.

How much of that goal Lenin would have reached it is impossible to say. His premature death left a chaos of which no man can yet foresee the end. But judging from his manifest abilities and from what he did accomplish in the face of superhuman difficulty, it is fair to assume the chance of his arriving at supreme achievement—as well as of grotesque failure.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, July 19.

THE "grand old man" of the Army—Major-General Hugh Lenox Scott—is going to hit the trail again this summer. Congress has given him $5000 to spend on a job out in the West among his beloved Indians. In the plains, where he has spent more than 50 years of his life, Gen. Scott is to make a permanent record of the Indian sign language in talking pictures.

Now 76 years old, his hair white as snow, this doughty old Indian fighter is delighted as a child at the task which lies before him.

GEN. SCOTT is one of the few survivors of the old Army. No outstanding scholar, (he was graduated from West Point twelfth from the bottom) he came up through the ranks to the position of Chief of Staff in Wilson's administration, and for a while was acting Secretary of War, attending Cabinet meetings at the request of the President.

The late Gen. Wood always said that Scott had only to be told to do a thing, and, however difficult it was, the order was executed. He seems never to have failed.

Perhaps the greatest tribute to the man lies in the fact that the Indians, with whom he has spent so much of his life, revere and trust him. Often he has interceded for them when they had substantial grievance. He has made an intensive study of the Indian and his customs.

ON one occasion he went to President Cleveland and bared a particularly "raw" deal that one Indian had received. So impressed was Cleveland that he jumped up from behind his desk, and striking one hand into the other in emphatic indignation, he exclaimed: "I will not permit it. I will see justice done to those Indians as long as I am in power."

Though the General has been in retirement from the Army for several years, he still spends a part of every year in the Indian country. Among all tribes he is welcome. He has averted many outbreaks and sometimes long Indian wars because of his knowledge of how the Indian may best be approached and influenced.

This summer he will have to drop his duties as chairman of the New Jersey Highway Commission to accomplish the task Congress has laid out for him.

GROWTH OF COMMUTATION TRAFFIC

From the Reading (Pa.) Times.

THE Railway Age announces that while railroad freight and passenger business generally are trending downward, commutation traffic is growing. It has reached an all-time peak this year.

In the first three months of the year, 115,000,000 commuters were carried on American railroad trains. The passenger-mile total was 1,714,000,000. The gross revenue from these short-haul passengers, shuttling back and forth between the cities where they work and the suburbs where they live, was $19,000,000. These totals, presumably, should be multiplied by more than four for the whole year.

Here is evidence of the growth of suburban life. Also of the fact that by no means all the suburbanites use automobiles and busses.

ADVOCATES OF CITY-COUNTY UNION ANSWER CRITICISM OF FOUR CIRCUIT JUDGES

Insist It's Not Dangerous Experiment and Amendment Is Not Ambiguous—Reduction in Taxes Stressed.

Criticisms of the proposed consolidation of St. Louis and St. Louis County as Greater St. Louis, issued recently by the four Circuit Judges the county, were answered yesterday by the City and County Metropolitan Development Committee, sponsoring the merger movement.

An amendment to the State Constitution to enable putting the plan into effect is to be voted on in Missouri at the November election. If it is adopted, the committee will submit a Greater St. Louis charter to the people at subsequent separate elections in the city and county.

Secretary of State Becker, with whom initiative petitions for the constitutional amendment were filed July 3 has notified the sponsors of the movement that the petitions were sufficient and the amendment will go on the ballot as Proposition No. 6. It will have its place on a ballot separate from the blanket one for candidates for office, accompanied by other propositions submitted by the people and the Legislature.

It was announced that the statement on the ballot to represent the lengthy amendment will be: "An amendment to Article IX, Constitution of Missouri, creating a new section No. 26, enabling the voters of St. Louis and St. Louis County to adopt a charter creating city of Greater St. Louis to deal with certain governmental functions, but preserving for all other purposes the right of self-government to all present municipalities within the area."

Answer to the Judges.

The answer of the Metropolitan Development Committee to the County Circuit Judges follows:

"Judges Nolte, Mulloy, Lashly and Brackman of St. Louis County issued a statement through the press recently listing seven objections to the proposed plan to allow the people of St. Louis city and St. Louis County to vote for greater co-operation between the city and the county.

"The metropolitan area plan and the constitutional enabling amendment, which is merely a general and broad summarization of the plan, came out of the melting pot of a great committee of 400 representative citizens, divided equally between the city and the county, who devoted their best talents for months to the solution of the perplexing problem created 54 years ago by the artificial boundary lines separating the city from the county. Each day those artificial boundary lines, like an octopus, are choking the growth of St. Louis and menacing the welfare of the people of St. Louis County. The metropolitan area plan offers a way out. Though it may seem cumbersome, it does permit a great community to get together and work out its common destiny. It gives ample and full opportunity for adjustments as the future may require. It represents the first attempt of the people themselves, unhampered by political influences, to meet around a common council table to decide what shall be the basis for greater co-operation between the city and county.

"In the first of their seven objections, the Judges state that 'the proposed amendment sets up a dangerous experiment in municipal government having no counterpart in operation anywhere.'

Not "Dangerous Experiment."

"It is not a dangerous experiment. Berlin has operated for 10 years and London for 75 years with a similar organization. The relation to be set up between the present cities and villages to the greater city is the same as that between the States and the United States. A metropolitan government will handle such functions as the people of the city and county agree should be handled jointly, the rest of local government will be left to the existing municipalities. There is certainly nothing dangerous or revolutionary about that.

"Progress demands changes. The fearless execution of plans believed worth while gave us a Declaration of Independence, enabled Columbus to discover America and has given us the automobile, the airplane and many other modern comforts and conveniences.

"The second of their seven objections declares that the plan is 'ambiguous in many of its terms and will result in long and expensive litigation and unsettled business conditions in both the city and the county.'

"The amendment is not ambiguous, in fact it goes very far in specifying just what may be done under it. Its detailed language is largely the work of a prominent attorney, residing in St. Louis County, who was most anxious to protect every county right. It may be litigated, but what piece of constructive legislation has not been? The Constitution of the United States was called ambiguous and fraught with the 'dangers' of distressing litigation. It required litigation to clearify its terms and there is still litigation to declare its meaning. There has also been much litigation over the charter of the city of St. Louis. It certainly will not disturb business conditions. We are not discussing the tariff or a change in the basis of taxation but a mere readjustment in the boundaries of local government.

"Ends, Does Not Create Crisis."

"In the third of their seven objections, the jurists claim that the plan 'creates a crisis for St. Louis County and every incorporated city in the county because it confers powers to deprive our people of the last vestige of local self-government.'

"Rather than create a crisis, the plan and the amendment solve an existing one. Virtually all available space in St. Louis is filled. A steadily growing population is flowing over into St. Louis County and St. Louis today is not one city but a collection of cities which, for lack of common unity and systematic planning, presents an uneven and unbalanced community growth. This tendency toward haphazard decentralized growth has, naturally, brought with it many problems for the county, because it necessitates the establishment of such things as parks and playgrounds, adequate sewers, water supply, etc., if the needs of the people of the county are to be adequately taken care of.

"This will mean the outlay of large sums of money. If the county continues to grow in the next decade as it has in the past, such improvements must be made. The proposed metropolitan plan is designed to take care of such problems squarely and equitably. It will bring order out of chaos and will permit sound and continuous growth of the entire area with virtually little interruption to governmental functions as they exist now.

"Instead of destroying local self-government, the plan really guarantees the continued existence of every local municipality of St. Louis County. It provides that every municipality in the county shall continue under its present form of government, governed by its own officials elected by its own people, the same as now.

"No power can be taken from St. Louis County or any of its cities or villages except by a charter approved by a majority of the voters of St. Louis County. The charter proposed will be a very mild measure giving the greater city control only of sewers, main highways, parks, charities, health, traffic regulation and planning. This moderate proposition the people of the county may take or leave. If they accept it, no amendment can be made in the charter taking away any other powers from municipalities except by a majority vote in a majority of the cities and villages affected. (Under this amendment the people of the county can keep all the self-government they want. What more could they ask? Furthermore, local management of schools in existing school districts and of the courts in the present county area is absolutely guaranteed.

Question of the Charter.

"The fourth objection raised by county jurists is that the amendment 'makes it possible for any individual or collection of indivuals in either the city or the county to get up a charter and, if it is signed by an inconsequential number of voters, to call successive elections for the submission thereof to a vote, thereby offering an opportunity for continuous harassing of the people of the county with attendant unsettled business conditions and anxiety in the public mind.'

"While pleading the cause of self-government in one breath, in the next the jurists criticise the plan for giving the people the right to initiate a charter. It is the most democratic possible arrangement. To avoid such deadlock as existed in the last Board of Freeholders and to reduce political manipulation to a minimum, the people are left free to initiate a charter on the same terms as they now may initiate changes in the State Constitution. The committee which has spent so much time and energy on the working out of a plan of metropolitan co-operation will present a charter if the amendment is adopted. Anyone else may do the same. What is fairer than that? In any event, no charter can be adopted which is not approved by the people of the city and county voting separately. As to the continued agitation of the question, it is respectfully submitted that the conditions which now exist will inevitably cause the agitation of the question, irrespective of the proposed amendment, of city-county relations until those relations are satisfactorily settled.

"The jurists' fifth objection, that the amendment 'is purely legislative in character and will become a part of our Constitution and fails to place reasonable and necessary restrictions upon the powers of the majority, the present city of St. Louis, over the minority, the present county,' is purely a legal question, but one that was thoroughly considered by a legal committee, several representatives of which are residents of the county. It is the honest opinion of the lawyers who drafted the amendment that it is not legislative in character.

"Protection of County."

"If this amendment goes into some considerable detail, it is for the protection of St. Louis County. It is the provisions preserving its courts, Sheriff, Coroner, Treasurer, Recorder, Assessor, Collector, Superintendent of Schools and the local control of schools which give it the length which the Judges find objectionable. These are limitations, very important ones, on the power of the majority. The most important of such limitations, however, and one which should satisfy anyone, is the fact that no charter can be adopted which the county does not approve and no amendment adopted diminishing the powers of any city or village without the approval of a majority of cities and villages voting separately.

"In their sixth point, the Judges state that the amendment 'authorizes an increase in taxes in St. Louis County and the cities in the county of at least 100 per cent.' This statement is absolutely unfounded and incorrect.

"The county tax rate is now 86 cents. This is abolished and in its place the amendment proposes a 60-cent rate. This is a reduction of 26 cents and not a 100 per cent increase. The amendment does permit the increase of this rate to $1, but only on the vote of the people. The people of St. Louis won't be inclined to vote this increase any more than the people of the county, because they will have to pay it the same as the people in the county, and at a rate higher than the countians, on account of the greater assessed valuation of property in the city.

Complication Charge Denied.

"The County Judges' seventh objection states that the amendment, 'instead of simplifying municipal government, complicates it by attempting to provide a supergovernment within which are established numerous separate units, the powers of which are overlapping and conflicting, and the net result of its adoption will be profound confusion.'

"The amendment does not complicate governmental machinery. Most of the people of the county are now subject to a county, a city or village, a school district and a sewer district government. Under the new arrangement, they will be subject to a metropolitan government, a city or village government, a school district government—three instead of four governments. The sewer districts will disappear.

"It should be borne in mind that the creation of the greater city or metropolitan government is in many ways the same thing as putting St. Louis back in the county. A general government for the whole area will perform, with St. Louis contributing to the cost, some duties such as those relating to highways, charities, health now performed by the county and some new functions like tho parks and recreation. Call the greater city a county and the new arrangement will appear simple. It will differ from other counties principally in being divided into two sections (present St. Louis and St. Louis County) for judicial purposes.

"It should also be born in mind that the constitutional amendment to be voted on in November is merely an enabling act permitting the people of St. Louis and St. Louis County to draft a charter for bringing the two units into closer co-operation and any such charter must be voted on by the people of St. Louis and St. Louis County before it can be put into effect."

COMMERCE CHAMBER REPORT ON CHARITABLE ORGANIZATIONS

Booklet Confined to Activities of Those Groups Seeking Funds From General Public.

The Charities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has issued its annual booklet containing information concerning charitable organizations it has investigated found worthy and indorsed.

The booklet points out that the scope of the committee's indorsement is confined to strictly local charitable and philanthropic organizations seeking contributions from the general public. No attempt is made to pass on the work of churches, missions or organizations whose work is primarily religious, nor on fraternities, lodges, public or trade union organizations, or national patriotic organizations.

Organizations listed in the booklet are divided in four classifications: those qualified for indorsement by submitting full reports of their work to the Charities Committee; those under the jurisdiction of the Archbishop of St. Louis; those approved by the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association and those approved by the Lutheran Charities Association.

Mussolini Calls Byrd's Feat Symbol Of Nation's Spirit

has given the world her greatest explorers, discoverers and navigators and the heritage which they left behind still fires the hearts of their progeny. The explorers to the poles have all come from pioneering peoples, from the nations whose sons have known how to go out into the vast unknown and bring into existence new worlds and new horizons. The names of these are milestones in the march of the human race from the beginnings of time and their mere mention brings to mind the birth of empires and world dominion.

Praises Heroic Effort.

And can we find any concrete good which the discovery and exploration of the polar territory yields? These lands lie deserted, unseen for decade after decade, receiving only an occasional visit by a small group of explorers whose love of adventure takes them into the frozen, desolate areas. Long before we reach those bitter wastes habitation has become impossible and the outposts of humanity where civilization ends have reached the extreme limit in eking out their bare existence from the scanty offerings of that zone. Beyond is starvation and death.

The heroes of the poles know only too well the hardships to be encountered and in that knowledge they set out to plant their flag at the top and bottom of the earth. No expedition which we have any knowledge of has yet neglected to carry with it the emblems of patriotism and devotion to its mother country. Facing the spectacle of starvation, flaunting their courage in the face of death, they press on buoyed up alone by the will to conquer until they either must give up or have reached their goal. It is not a lust for gold or land which impels them to their dreary adventure but the indomitable destiny of their race. This is one of the most characteristic features of the fateful inevitability of the white man.

And there above all may be found the value in the exploits of these heroes. Well may a nation be proud of her heroes for she can well say: "Through these I live and assert myself for the present and the future." We must beware of the demagogues who would decry the exaltation of the heroic. Personified in the great men of the land are the great exploits which make a nation great. As the United States today exults in her Lindberghs and Byrds, so she exults in the spirit which has typified her heroes from the beginning of the republic. The heroes of today are the continued heritage of a great heroic people who can count their worthy sons in legions.

Value of Byrd's Conquest.

That part of the modern world which in its demagogic tendency would make numerals crush the quality of character is very near to sinking in the pools of a low materialism which places economic factors as most important and basic. How they excite the universe when the price of bacon falls or raises a cent a pound. Happily there arise from time to time prophets, poets and heroes who, following the wisdom of the old civilizations renewed and quickened in the modern world, assert with an indomitable will the power of spirit. Their heroism often may appear as splendidly useless, like the work of the astronomers who may show no immediate reference to practical life. Woe to the nation where the sap which makes such men has dried up. They are the leaven of mankind.

What if there is no gold or silver in the new Antarctica? Admiral Byrd has proved to the world that the spirit of the pioneer is still alive in the heart of the American people. A nation's goods are not all measured in terms of territory or zones or gold. Pride in the virility of the race is as great as them all and our heroes are as necessary as are our mines and factories. They are your empire builders. They carry the flag beyond and to the end of the earth. The nation which cannot boast among its citizens men who are ready to spring at the opportunity of making a greater and grander people is not destined to hand down to posterity much of the past.

The conquest of the South Pole by Byrd is emblematic of the healthy expansionist spirit. Little can be said of the various contending claims for the land of the North and South Pole. Perhaps we will have to wait until a suitable way of living there has been devised and then these claims may assume a more serious tone. For the present we exalt the hero and that is sufficient recompense to the nation for having sent its son into the unknown.

intends to visit, whether he has any friends in Russia and when he was in the country before.

The application is sent to Moscow with two pictures and the tourist trusts to luck that the visa will be waiting for him in Berlin, London or Paris, whichever city he has stipulated in his application.

If luck holds out, the tourist may find that the visa is ready when he appears at the Soviet Embassy, say in Berlin. Naturally he expects that it will be immediately affixed to his passport, but unfortunately that is not the Russian way. He is told to come back the next day at a specified time. When he presents himself he is told that the visa will be ready in an hour or so. There is another form to fill out—printed in Russian and German.

Finally, after paying $12, the visitor gets his visa, and if he is wise he will go to the American Embassy in Berlin to have an official take note of the passport number. This precaution will save a lot of trouble if the passport is lost in Russia or Middle Europe.

A Polish transit visa is also required. It is obtained by filling out a form entirely in Polish and by waiting in a jammed room for more than an hour.

Passports are taken up on the train both in Poland and Russia. This does not add to the traveler's peace of mind. Hotels in Russia and Poland also take a guest's passport before assigning a room. In Poland, however, it is returned when the guest announces that he wants to get a visa. In Russia the Government gets the necessary visas for the guests.

Russian Rubles Cheap.

At first this may look like a gracious accommodation, but unfortunately it usually takes a Government official three days to do what a private individual could do in a couple of hours. In Moscow the hotel, acting for the Government, also relieves the guest of two pictures and $4 for a Moscow residential permit, and $12 and another picture for a Russian exit visa.

The Russians apparently are more concerned over whether a visitor is taking Russian money in or out of the country than over anything else. Russian rubles can be bought in Germany and Poland for slightly less than 20 cents apiece. In Russia the price is slightly above 50 cents each. Private traffic in foreign currency in Russia is severely punished by the Soviet Government and a tourist is compelled to state now much foreign currency he is taking with him into the country. Travelers' checks are exempt. On leaving Russia the tourist who carried foreign currency with him must show a receipt for all the money he has had changed. Why the Government should forbid the export of rubbles is a question without an obvious answer. Offhand, it would seem good business for the Government to allow money which it sold inside Russia to be disposed of outside the country for less than half its stated value. Perhaps it is a question of prestige.

Russia has a high export tax on antiques, the class of articles most likely to be bought by tourists. Nevertheless, the customs examination on leaving the country is as hasty as that made on entrance. Cameras can be taken into the Union, but the films must be developed and printed inside the country—not an unreasonable demand when one considers the misrepresentations that have been made about the communistic government.

Crowded Trains.

VITEBSK, White Russia, June 20.

THE Russians are a hardy race, and this is more evident in their trains than any other place I know of. The effete Westerner who tries to mingle with them on their own ground finds that survival of the fittest is the one rule of the game.

In Moscow I was told that Russians were traveling about as they never traveled before. I saw the long queues at the ticket offices and the railroad gates, and I believed the stories that peasants often were compelled to wait two or three days at stations because they were unable to fight their way to the coaches. But having traveled third-class in France and fourth in Germany in earlier years and having had some experience with American troop trains, I thought I had the physique and the experience to tackle a third-class passage from Smolensk to Vitebsk, a four-hour journey. I'm cured. Henceforth I shall wait for "soft seats," as reserved places are called here to distinguish them from the unreserved "hard seats."

An hour before, the Vitebsk train was due the platforms swarmed with third-class travelers, most of them peasants. This looked ominous, as it appeared impossible that so many persons could get on one train. I learned that the Minsk train arrived just five minutes before the Vitebsk train and my anxiety was somewhat allayed. As a matter of fact, this only added to the difficulties. The two trains arrived almost simultaneously. Passengers on the Vitebsk trains fought, crowded and pushed to get on the Minsk train and the Minsk passengers were struggling just as strenuoulsly to get on the Vitebsk train.

The conductors tried to save time by insisting that the debarking passengers should be allowed to get out of the coaches before embarkers mounted the steps. Their efforts were unsuccessful and they finally gave up and let the crowds fight it out. I finally found myself in the proper coach, thanks to the pushing of those who thought the train might leave without them.

Russian third class coaches are built for utility, not comfort or beauty. Each compartment contains pine seats for eight persons. Directly above the passengers' heads there is a bunk-like arrangement, also of plain boards, where a passenger can stretch out. Above this bunk is a large baggage rack, large and strong enough to accommodate a passenger. When I had a breathing spell I found all the seats and bunks occupied. Several of the male passengers had climbed to the luggage racks. After the passengers had closed the windows and two or three had taken off their shoes, your correspondent climbed up with his luggage on the top rack, where he grabbed snatches of sleep.

Russia's Pastime—Argument.

There are no large towns between Smolensk and Vitebsk, yet at every stop there was a clash between those who wanted to get off and those who wanted to get on the train. The Russian peasant apparently travels with most of his personal belongings tied up in a huge bundle. These bundles complicated the entrances and exits. At one small station, a peasant simplified matters by tossing his big bundle—the size of a large wash tub—from the coach steps. It struck a woman on the head, knocking her to her knees. The crowd thought it a great joke, but the woman could not see the humor, if any, in the situation. Crying babies were held at arms' length in the air while the father pushed through the crowd.

The passengers took all the difficulties as a matter of course. Once inside the coach they fell to arguing—the great Russian pastime. Apparently there was no resentment against the railroad management or persons who had jabbed them in the ribs during the station melees. Third class fares are very cheap, and while it took our train four hours to go about 95 miles, the peasants probably figured that the rail discomforts of the present were preferable to the old times when they had neither the money nor the opportunity to travel. Your correspondent, however, has had enough. If he can help it, he will not ride third class again in Russia.

phasized by the Conservative speakers. They have gone so far as to assert that Washington's purpose, or at least, the logical consequences of Washington's new tariff policy is to make of Canada a "vassal" of the great republic. The inference was drawn that it was the policy of the Americans to bring on by closing the markets of the States to Canadian products, such an unfavorable economic situation north of the border as to force Canada to sue for the opportunity of becoming a part of the republic.

Hawaii's Fate Cited.

Speakers have gone so far as to cite the experience of the Hawaiian Islands as now threatening Canada along identical lines. Hawaii was a monarchy, the speakers explain, with nothing but sugar to sell and with the United States as its chief customer. Through tariff barriers the sugar of the islands, they assert, was barred from the United States, the country's depression became so acute that a revolution developed and a republic was formed which then was taken in as a "vassal" of the Republic of the United States and the barriers against Hawaiian sugar no longer applied.

This is the picture painted by some very able speakers of the Conservative party in this campaign. The argument is of a pattern which Premier King and his Liberal speakers find difficulty in answering. If the Premier denies that this is a fair assumption, if he points out that the imputation is false since the American tariff is directed at no particular country though obviously bearing hardest on Canada, he is accused of reviving the sympathetic attitude that he gained while working in the United States. So the racial and national feeling has been injected into the campaign to the very serious detriment of the Liberal leaders.

Such an argument may appear ridiculous, absurd, to the American people, but, if surface indications can be fairly appraised, it is being accepted rather seriously by a very considerable proportion of Canadian electors. Aside from the heat of political discussion, such sentiment as that attributing to the people of the States a disposition to covet Canada or to injure her commercial interests is a gesture that receives but scant patience.

"Flag Follows Trade."

But trade wars of the world have pressed heavily on the Canadians, infinitely more than they have on a densely populated country like the United States. The home market of the States makes its industrial organization self-supporting without regard to world markets. But Canada is necesarily an exporting country and the American republic is its natural customer from whence it buys a billion dollars worth of goods a year and sells approximately three-fourths as much.

The prospect of losing that market contact is a depressing consideration on this side of the line. Canada once sold its surplus cattle and other products of the land in Great Britain and the continent. Gradually the market changed to the United States. Now she must look elsewhere for the consumption of her exportable livestock surplus. The whole fiscal policy of the nation has received a severe twist. It is this sentiment, plus the national prejudice that is not confined to any one part of the world, that threatens to overthrow the King government and bring into power the Conservatives.

If it does, history will be repeating itself because the Liberals, in power in 1911, were thrown out when they attempted to adopt the reciprocity pact, the trade and commerce exchange arrangement with the United States. It was the cry then that the Americans would control the trade of Canada and that "the flag follows trade." It is so now.

REAL ESTATE CLASSIFIED ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH ADVERTISING FOR SALES

ne to Be Built on Northwest Corner of Roseberry Drive, Other at Intersection of Northwood.

BOTH ARE TO BE 18 STORIES HIGH

Cost Estimated at $3,500,000 — Projects to Be Started as Soon as Loans Are Negotiated.

By Berry Moore

An early resumption of building operations on a moderate scale is seen in negotiations pending for sites. This refers principally to large apartment, office and mercantile buildings, held in abeyance by the limitations placed on loans for new buildings, especially of this character, but for which capital is now said to be available on a conservative basis.

Two 18-story twin apartment projects were disclosed yesterday, one for the northwest corner of Roseberry drive and Skinker boulevard, and the other for the southwest corner of Northwood and Skinker, in De Mun Park, opposite Forest Park. The sites, comprising the entire Skinker boulevard frontage of this block, have been practically secured for these projects and negotiations for loans are now pending. It is estimated that the two buildings would cost about $3,500,000, including the sites which are given a high market valuation.

Facing both Skinker boulevard and Forest Park, this block forms an attractive site for lofty structures of this type, which would dominate the city from a high elevation. It is just inside the city limits.

Another Corner Sold.

Several months ago, R. H. McRoberts, attorney, as the head of a syndicate, purchased the southwest corner of Skinker and Southwood boulevard in De Mun Park, as a site for a 16-story apartment building. Construction is scheduled to begin this fall, with an estimated cost of $1,500,000, exclusive of the price for the site.

A 16-story apartment has been completed at the northwest corner of Skinker and Northwood in De Mun Park, by the McRoberts Syndicate, at a cost of $1,500,000, not including the site. Many of the apartments in this building, known as Six-Twenty-Five Skinker boulevard, have been rented, according to the Willson Realty Co., Inc., which has the management.

A 40-unit apartment is announced by Vincent H. Chinberg for the northeast corner of Clemens and Clara avenues. The site, having 107 feet on Clemens and 155 feet on Clara, was acquired by Chinberg in part payment for an apartment recently completed on Wydown, in a deal negotiated by the Anderson - Stocke - Buermann Real Estate Co., in connection with the William J. Abbott Real Estate Co.

It was learned yesterday that an option had been obtained on the northeast corner of Twelfth boulevard and Chestnut street in connection with plans for a towering office and mercantile building. Details of this project and the identity of the promoters are withheld, pending financial arrangements.

Dimensions of Site.

The site has 96 feet 6 inches on Twelfth and 100 feet on Chestnut. The height of the proposed building would be accentuated by the Memorial Plaza, which it would overlook. The building would be given further prominence with the widening of Chestnut street between Twelfth boulevard and Eleventh street, as is proposed.

The option is noteworthy in view of the fact that those mentioned as sponsoring the project have been the chief factors in a number of other ambitious enterprises recently brought to focus. The corner was previously under option for the same project.

The site is held under a 99-year lease by a syndicate composed of Arthur J. Fitzsimmons, Michael Kinney and William J. Kinney who are represented by Cornet & Zeibig.

Examination has been completed of the titles to the block at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Spruce streets assembled for the new $5,000,000 Mercantile Mart planned by Charles E. Richardson. Consolidation of these titles will be completed this week, and construction is to start as soon as the plans are available. The new building will have rail connection with the Terminal yards.

While regarded as tentative in the main, offers were reported the past week for several downtown as well as uptown sites. Renewed interest in downtown sites looks to a revival of projects on the tapis in this section prior to the collapse of New York Stock Exchange prices.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING FOR LIBERTY BELL OIL CO.

The Administration Building being erected by the Liberty Bell Oil Co. at 1430-40 South Vandeventer avenue will contain research and testing laboratories. It will be an addition to the buildings now occupied by the company. Plans for the new building were made by Wedemeyer & Nelson, architects.

Vandeventer avenue has been widened between Easton avenue and Chouteau avenue and will be widened between Chouteau and Tower Grove.

ST. LOUIS HILLS MODEL HOME OPENING TODAY

Cyrus Crane Wilmore Corporation Erects Structure—Elaborate Program.

The model home built in St. Louis Hills by the Cyrus Crane Wilmore Corporation, will be formally opened today, with ceremonies starting at noon. Mayor Miller and other city officials will take part. An elaborate entertainment program, with Ed Lowry as master of ceremonies, will be given.

The house consists of a living room, dining room, kitchen with breakfast room on the first floor, and a master bedroom, connecting dressing room, guest bedroom, study and two baths on the second floor; a recreation room, furnace room and laundry in basement.

It was built by Hugh J. Karr. It will be open for inspection until late in the afternoon and daily this week. The Cyrus Crane Willmore organization was elected to build three prize-winning model homes in an international architectural contest last spring. The home to be opened today in St. Louis Hills is the first. St. Louis Hills is a residential park, comprising part of the former David R. Francis farm. It is virtually built around Francis Park, a 60-acre tract.

Six major thoroughfares, from 80 to 100 feet wide will be included in the section, and it is planned to pave 21 miles of streets. Surface and municipal improvements, in process of construction, include combination curbs, gutters, sidewalks, paved alleys, light, water, sewer and gas mains. Restrictions have been placed on the property by a board of trustees, who will pass upon plans for single family residences to be erected.

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM CO. LEASES E. ST. LOUIS CORNER

The Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Ok., which has a large expansion program for the distribution of their products, has leased for a term of years the southeast corner of Tenth and State streets, the property owned by the heirs of Mary Jenger.

R. Vernon Clark, realtor at 17 North Main street, represented the lessors in this transaction. Work on a new station will be started at once. The Phillips Petroleum Co. was represented by Forest K. Woodruff of the First National Co. of St. Louis.

It is understood that the Phillips company expects to place its farm tank terminal on the east side of the river, with both rail and river connections and to be connected also with the gas line now under construction from Oklahoma and Texas oil fields.

LABOR SITUATION GOOD FOR BUILDER, GUY STUDY FINDS

Architect Says Men Are More Efficient — Those Who Have Work Are Content With Jobs.

SIGNS OF COUNTRY BEING OVERBUILT

Financing of Structures More Difficult Than Year Ago — Prices on Decline Since Fall of 1928.

Guy Study, architect, of the firm of Study & Farrar, in an interview given to the Post-Dispatch, yesterday gave his reasons for believing that the present is an opportune time for undertaking building enterprises.

Study, a close observer of employment conditions, believes that investors should be encouraged to take advantage of conditions which have prevailed recently in the construction business.

"There has not been a period for five years or more," Study said, "that has been so favorable for legitimate building enterprise as the present. Except for public works, such as schools and city institutions, there have been very few projects started within the last 10 months. There can be no question that contractors are exceedingly anxious for work, and that they are willing today to take work with a small profit. This fact alone will reduce the cost of any building operation materially.

"While labor has not taken a reduction in wages, it is universally conceded that the men are far more efficient than they were a few years ago. We hear of some instances where labor is loafing on the job, due to the desire to string out their time and keep themselves at work as long as possible. This, however, cannot be said about labor as a whole. There may be some individual cases where this is true, but such a condition cannot be attributed to labor in general.

"The fact of the matter is that Labor is not foolish. Labor has become, in the last 10 months, quite as much disturbed over the general business prospects as has capital. The settling down movement that has rather rapidly taken place throughout the country has been felt by labor equally as much as anyone. Labor today is taking its work far more seriously than a few years ago. It realizes that if the country is going to maintain the high standards of wages during the present economic depression, there can be no foolishness entertained. It is to be hoped that the present scale of labor prices can be maintained and there is little or no reason to assume that the present price will be reduced.

Working Labor Content.

"We know that the whole economic fabric of the nation has been keyed up to the standard of high labor costs and that a far more serious economic state of affairs than we have at present would take place if any material reduction is undertaken in labor. On the other hand, labor is too wise to demand any raise at this moment. Those of us who are continually coming into contact with Labor find a far more contented feeling amongst the workmen than was formerly the case. There is, in fact, to be scented a very fine and almost grateful feeling on the part of the mechanics in the building industry who are employed today.

"The factor of profit made by the manufacturer of goods and the employer of labor has always been and should be the most elastic factor that enters into the cost of building. This factor of profit, legitimate as it may be, when analyzed, is found to be a very material percentage in the cost of building and in times of building depression it is logical and just that this factor of profit should stand the largest percentage of the adjustment. This means that the sub-contractor, for instance a painting contractor, while he will employ his painters at the same rate per day, he will be willing to take work at far less profit than in rush times.

"The savings that labor can make is naturally comparatively small

BUILDING DECREASED 49 PER CENT THIS YEAR

Total for First Half Was $1,039,037,914, Straus Reports.

Prospective building throughout the United States during the first half of 1930, as revealed in official reports of building permits issued in 578 principal cities and towns, fell perceptibly behind the volume for the first six months of 1929, according to S. W. Straus & Co. For the first half of 1930 permits for buildings totaled $1,039,037,914, a decrease of 49 per cent from the same period last year, when the total was $2,036,334,562. June this year showed a loss of 33 per cent from June, 1929. Permits for the month totaled $180,066,975, against $202,231,771 in May, a loss of 11 per cent.

The Straus index of building permits for the month of June was 60.7, compared with an index of 59.6 for May. Although this would seem to indicate a slight increase over the preceding month, the increase is not as great as that called for by the seasonal factors adjusted for trend. Taking account of these factors, the index shows that building permits for June were 21.8 per cent below normal. Although this record is not as good as that for the preceding month, S. W. Straus & Co. points out that building permits in June were nearer to normal than in any other month except May during the current year.

Regarding the general building situation, the company said:

"These data again make clear the fact that throughout the country generally sounder conditions for improved real estate are steadily developing. Surplus of building space which may exist in one type of housing or another in localities here and there is being steadily absorbed through the present letup in building activities.

"With this gradual trend toward well-balanced conditions of supply and demand, the rental situation is, of course, improving in corresponding degree by reason of the removal of surplus space from the market. A better tone is thus being imported to the entire real estate situation, particularly in the larger cities of the nation.

"This does not mean necessarily that the present period of readjustment need be greatly prolonged. Following four years of very active building, the present cycle, in fact, began toward the end of 1925, since which time the trend of general building activities has been steadily downward.

CONTINENTAL LIFE DEDICATION TOMORROW

Ceremony Will Be Held at 2 P. M. in Auditorium of 23-Story Building.

The 23-story Continental Life Building, 3615 Olive street, which was constructed at a cost of $2,000,000, will be formally opened tomorrow with dedication ceremonies which will be held in the fifth floor auditorium of the building at 2 p. m.

A dedicatory address will be delivered by Former Judge Byron K. Elliot, manager and general counsel for the American Life Convention, in response to which Former Judge Albert D. Nortoni, general counsel of the Continental Life, will review the growth of the company since it has had its home office in St. Louis.

The Grand National Bank, which is largely owned by stockholders of the Continental Life, will occupy the first floor of the building and the insurance company the mezzanine, second, third, fourth and fifth floors.

Ed Mays, president of the insurance company and the bank, has an apartment in the two upper floors of the structure.

The building, of white stone, with bronze and black marble on the ground and mezzanine floors, towers high above St. Louis from its location on top of the hill at Grand boulevard and Olive street. A red neon beacon on a pedestal above the roof is visible for many miles around St. Louis and can be easily seen by motorists on high points 20 miles west in St. Louis County.

and it is difficult for labor, even with our high wages, to accumulate a surplus sufficient to tide over, in lean times. Labor, as a whole, cannot readily earn materially more than that which is sufficient to purchase the requirements of the average family and a few luxuries, which we are all pleased to recognize today as practical necessities, such as telephones, radios, automobiles and many electrical devices. As soon as a man becomes an employer of labor, he is able to accumulate something more than that which is sufficient to supply his mere needs and it is quite just, in a period of depression such as exists at present, that the employer of labor should stand this loss.

Material Profit Smaller.

"Whether or not he is willing to do so, is of little moment. The fact remains that today he is sustaining this loss and only those who have created a reserve will be able to carry on in the future. In addition to the reduction of profit taken by the sub-contractor, there is today a marked reduction in the profit made on every type of manufactured building material such as steel, brick, lumber, hollow tile, cement, etc. The basic price of steel in 1929 was $1.90. Today it is $1.65. Brick which was $14.50 is now $13. Cement is slightly lower than it was from 1925 to 1929, but due to much public work, it is higher than it was last October.

"The truth of the matter is that the country is probably somewhat over built and that it will take some time for it to catch up. The whole building industry along with all the other great industries of the nation has had a great shake-up and it is now going through the so called settling down process. How long this settling down process will take, no one can say. There are many indications that a spurt will be made again in the fall. Yet there is no real reason to assume that prices will be back by that time to what they were two years ago. It should be remembered that prices go up much slower than they go down.

"A few years ago, the extreme optimism that was universal throughout the land made it possible for promoting schemes to be floated with ease. Financial houses were quite willing to loan almost any amount on new buildings. Many heretofore unknown companies sprang up almost over night with the statement that they had not made a bad loan in 20 years or so. The gullible public readily purchasing these bonds, made it an easy undertaking to promote almost any building enterprise, but only a comparatively short time was necessary to show that many of these loans were unsound, and when coupled with the general depression, many such issues have failed.

Financing More Difficult.

"While it is a far different thing to finance a building today than it was three to five years ago, the few unfortunate experiences should not permanently prejudice the public against real estate loans. It is safe to say that far more money was lost through investment in legitimate, standard, industrial stocks in the last year than was lost through the investment of real estate bonds. A legitimately financed building, a building built to serve an actual need and purpose, is today and will always be a sound investment. However, just at the present time, it is a far more difficult thing to finance even legitimate projects than it was a few years ago and this is due to the fact that the public find it difficult to distinguish the good from the bad and hence there is a hesitancy in the purchase of bonds on even legitimate undertakings.

"The error of the financial houses that floated these building bonds lay in the fact that they were too greatly interested in earning a commission on the sale of their bonds, rather than in the care of their investment. Even the owners of these building projects built with the expectancy of selling their project rather than holding it as an investment. We know that when no chances are taken and when the community considers only the most conservative and sound investments, that no great progress is ever made. Upon a whole, the country has probably permanently benefited by many of the over-promoted schemes, although, unfortunately, many of the original investors may have sustained losses.

"The next few years undoubtedly will be a period of the happy medium. There will be many buildings promoted, but in most cases the element of extreme risk will have been eliminated. It would seem that building bonds offered to the public by legitimate financial houses in the future will naturally be sounder investments than those offered a few years ago.

Reductions in Rent.

"Just what the percentage of reduction in the rent of building today is a much debated question. The most optimistic, place this percentage at from 15 to 20 per cent, while the ultra conservative place it at about 5 per cent. It is probably safe to assume, however, that the percentage of reduction is probably in the neighborhood of 8 per cent. If we check the cost of building materials, the reduction is scarcely 10 per cent. In the increased efficiency of labor, we have what constitutes a decrease in the cost of labor, though happily and most fortunately, it does not affect the laboring man's purse. It would be difficult to estimate just what per cent this amounts to as a saving on the cost of labor. Likewise, the contractor's profit, being an intangible factor, we can merely guess what percentage is involved there. However, it would be safe to assume that the contractors have easily reduced their profits 10 per cent. This reduction in the sub-contractors' profit, however, should not be confused with the gross percentage of the whole.

"As a matter of fact, prices have been slowly dropping in the building industry since the fall of 1928. Our firm, in the spring of 1929 let the large contract for the new Mary Institute building at a price that has been generally recognized as most reasonable. In residential work, for which we have let a large number of contracts, we have found a most favorable market. The large Colonial residence of Beverly Jones, now being built in Huntleigh Village, was let at a somewhat lower figure than was estimated."

BUSINESS CORNER SOLD AT VIRGINIA AND MERAMEC

The Slonim Realty Co. of 815A Chestnut street announces the sale of a parcel of commercial property at 3220 Meramec avenue, consisting of stores and flats, for Benjamin Mushlin to M. G. Rosenfeld.

This property starts 30 feet south of Virginia and completes the southwest corner of Meramec and Virginia, one of the outstanding corners on the South Side.

The purchaser, M. G. Rosenfeld, opened a dry goods, ladies' and men's store around the corner on Virginia avenue, five years ago, and has made rapid strides. About two years ago Rosenfeld expanded by absorbing stores on the west, but the growth of the concern now justifies further expansion. This property, when the present lease expires in 22 months, will be wrecked and a new building erected on the entire lot which will add to the Rosenfeld store over 3000 square feet of floor space.

The material motive in the organization of the St. Louis Fire & Marine Insurance Company was to give to St. Louis and to the State of Missouri a Fire Insurance Company owned and controlled entirely by Missourians—to give the residents of this state an opportunity to place their insurance in a home company—and to assist in upbuilding the insurance industry locally.

It was entirely consistent, therefore, that when the Insurance Commissioner of this state objected to the 16⅔% rate increase that this company should continue to charge the rates approved by him, which do not include this increase.

Since that time, statements have been made by unknowing persons who have referred to these approved rates being charged by this company as "cut rates" and we take this means of publicly objecting to such statements.

To the many property owners of this state who have made offers of their insurance to us, we extend our thanks and in order to correct another misimpression, we announce publicly that we can only accept such offerings through our regularly appointed producers.

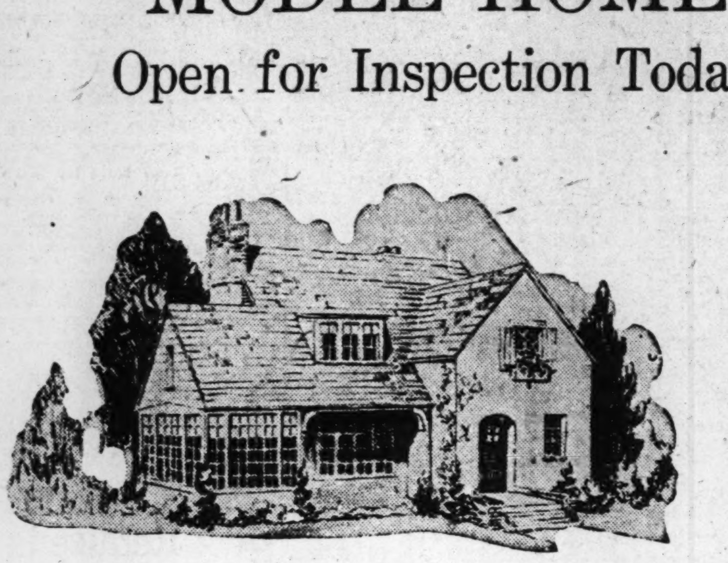
ST. LOUIS HILLS MODEL HOME

Open for Inspection Today



THE FIRST of the Master Model Homes will be opened for public inspection today at ST. LOUIS HILLS, the largest development in the history of St. Louis.

Mayor Victor Miller will be the guest of honor. City officials, Chamber of Commerce representatives and other celebrities are among the invited guests.

Ed Lowry and his Ambassadonians will start the program promptly at 12 noon.

St. Louis Hills is the last remaining large development in St. Louis and is located high above the soot, dirt and smoke of the city, with all the joys of suburban atmosphere, yet only a few minutes' drive from downtown St. Louis. It is close to schools, churches and shopping centers, is built around three sides of Francis Park, the sixty-acre municipal recreation center, and is fully restricted to preserve the fine character of its surroundings. Homeseekers will find it interesting to investigate the wonderful opportunity St. Louis Hills offers both as a homesite and investment.

How to Get There

Drive over Kingshighway Boulevard to Nottingham Avenue (4800 South), turning west directly into the heart of St. Louis Hills. Or you can board Kingshighway bus or Southampton street car.

Bring the family out to see this beautiful development and let them see for themselves the many advantages St. Louis Hills offers. Field representatives are always in attendance and will gladly give you any information desired, without obligation. Parking facilities provided.

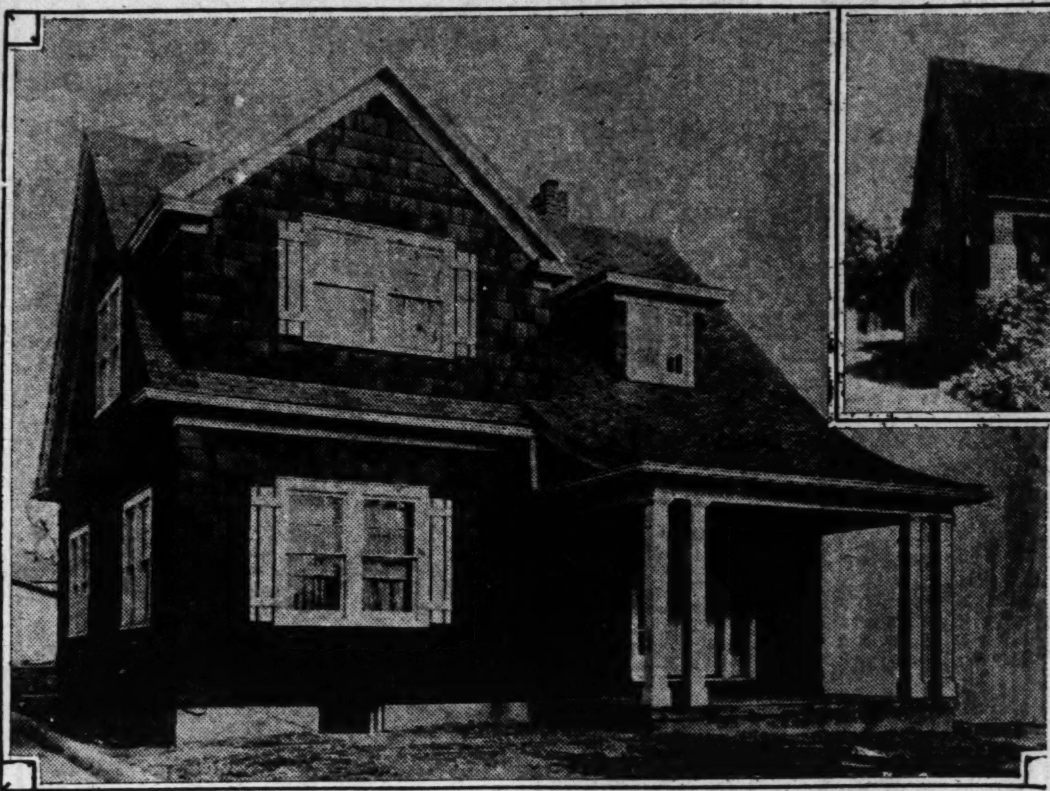
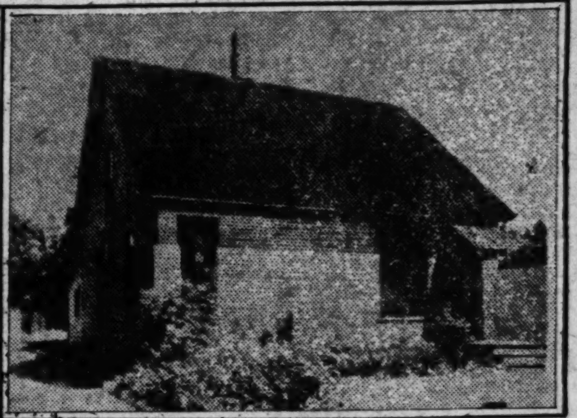
CIVIC DEVELOPMENT AND MODERNIZATION

REMODEL – MODERNIZE – BEAUTIFY ST. LOUIS

This Trim Bungalow Was Once an Old Cottage





There is something inviting in the sweep of the roof lines, the well-placed dormer windows and the attractive front entrance of this little home. No one would suspect that it was the result of modernizing the weather-beaten house pictured in the second illustration.

HOW AN OLD COTTAGE WAS MODERNIZED

New Exterior Lines and New Interior Conveniences Were Introduced.

The smart-looking bungalow at the top of the page was once the lowly cottage shown, in the other picture. The sweeping roof lines and arched entrance reveal the spirit of today.

The experiences of this owner are not unique. Hundreds upon hundreds of dwellings just as hopeless looking have been made up to the minute when modernized.

The illustration of the house before the owner called for remodeling advice shows a particularly forlorn looking affair. It is a shoe box with windows, roof and a nondescript set of additions trailing along behind.

A touch of the magic wand of modernization and a new home came into being—a new home based on the sturdy frame of the drab looking house of former days.

Exterior Resurfaced.

The plain clap-boarding of the older structure has been superceded by shingle sides which add so much to the homey intimate atmosphere of this bungalow. Incidentally stained shingles, stucco, or brick veneer are popular sidings for small houses and permit effective color schemes.

A broad opening filled with two sliding windows now occupies the front space. Quaintly paneled wooden shutters flank each window opening at the front. Shutters of this type are usually distinctive and aid in setting the house apart from its neighbors.

Interior Also Modern.

The interior of the house is as modern as its exterior. The various rooms of the bungalow have been made up-to-date and every convenience that will add to the comfort and pleasure of the occupants is found.

Like most old houses soft wood floors had been used in each room. These floors were relaid with hardwood and waxed to bring out their rich effects.

Electrical outlets are found in each room so that floor lamps can be used without cords reaching to the center cluster of hanging lights as was necessary before modernization. The center cluster of lights has been made smartly up-to-date.

A new heating plant in the basement, a modern appearing tub and shower in the bath, a colored gas range and electric refrigerator in the kitchen comprise a few of the touches of modernization that came when the old place was made up to date.

BEAUTY IN ROOFS

In Modernizing the Home, Do Not Overlook the Roof.

Oftentimes the greatest need of an old house is a modern, up-to-date roof.

Many old dwellings have patchwork roofs. An addition or the porch of one of these houses may have a roof that differs in every respect, coloring, material and design, from the roof which covers the main building.

This patchwork effect spoils the appearance of the residence. In this day when there is such a wide choice of roofing material the property owner will experience small difficulty in planning a new roof which will harmonize with the style of architecture of the old house and add to the appearance of the building at the same time.

Breakfast Nooks Make For Convenience and Comfort

Formality of Using the Dining Room for Breakfast Avoided When a Home Is Equipped with a Breakfast Nook.

One type of home modernization that appeals to the housewife, is the installation of a handy breakfast nook in the kitchen, or the conversion of an old-style, useless pantry into an up-to-date breakfast room.

The convenience and enjoyment derived from the breakfast nook will make the home owner forget the nominal cost connected with its installation.

In some of the newer types of breakfast rooms the table and seats are ready-to-install units. Some of these fold up into a sort of wall cabinet and are out of sight and out of the way when not in use.

These ready to install kitchen units include cabinets of several types, broom closets, fold up kitchen tables and disappearing ironing boards.

Many types of kitchen units come unfinished so that the housewife may have them painted or enameled to harmonize with the color scheme of the kitchen.

Another form of modernization that has found favor with home owners is the conversion of a closet space into a handy lavatory or a second bathroom.

These additional toilet facilities may be easily installed in an old house at a moderate expenditure of money.

In many of the older type residences, a useless closet under the stairway on the first floor, may be made over into a convenient lavatory.

Larger closets which adjoin the master bedrooms may, in many cases, be converted into bathrooms or individual dressing rooms.

Many Colonial houses have a large space on the second floor, just at the head of the stairway, which may be utilized for a bathroom.

A third popular modernization suggestion is to make a sunroom or a sleeping porch out of the front or rear porch of the old home.

An open porch may easily be enclosed and glazed in, which treatment will permit the use of the space summer and winter.

At a small expenditure of money, interchangeable glass windows and screens may be obtained which will render the sunroom habitable at all seasons of the year.

At a larger expenditure, an old porch may be made over into a real room which may be connected with the living room or the dining room by French doors. Insulating materials and an open fireplace make a room of this kind a real joy.

HOME INCINERATORS CARE FOR GARBAGE

Promote Cleanliness and the Sanitary Condition of the Premises.

Whether or not the home is really modern depends in no small degree upon the method of garbage and waste disposal. No matter how beautiful it may be otherwise, just so long as the obnoxious garbage can is used, there will always be a spot out of harmony with the rest of the home, and a source of disease.

For years housewives have put up with unhealthful, inconvenient garbage cans and waste receptacles. Both time and energy have been wasted on account of these age-old nuisances. Trips to the garbage can under any conditions are not pleasant. In bad weather, or at night they are even worse. The rubbish and trash pile in the basement, or other parts of the building, receives its offerings each day. These accumulations are often a fertile breeding ground for disease germs and an ever-present fire and health hazard.

The only thoroughly satisfactory method for disposal of garbage and waste is incineration or destruction by burning. This method has reached an advanced stage of development in municipal plants, but with the exception of a number of stove arrangements, built to operate with gas or other fuel, and designed to consume garbage only, no successful attempt was ever made to solve the problem of the disposal of all household waste, including garbage, until about 1911, when the first chimney-fed incinerator was built.

This required no gas or other commerical fuel to operate, but was founded upon the demonstrated fact that in a normal household there is more than enough combustible material in the form of waste paper, sweepings, rags and the like which, when burning, will dry out the moisture from any ordinary supply of garbage in a chimney-fed incinerator which is properly designed. Garbage itself is thoroughly combustible when dry and requires only sufficient heat to evaporate the moisture in order to render it combustible.

The chimney-fed incinerator is one of the outstanding conveniences for homes, developed in recent years. With this modern method for the disposal of all household waste, including garbage, the work of the housewife is lightened and the cleanliness and the healthful condition of the home is promoted. The garbage can nuisance is banished for all time, and the rubbish heap in the basement or other part of the building disappears.

A CONVENIENT APPLIANCE

Heating System May Be Used to Cool Home in Summer.

In the hot summer months the air propeller unit of the heating plant may be used to rid rooms of stifling, stagnant air, making them cool and genuinely comfortable.

Not that it creates greatly lowered temperatures—the actual drop in temperature may be only two or three degrees—but it provides gentle movement of the air, similar to that from a slowly moving fan, all through the house, and like the fan, has a cooling effect upon our bodies as it carries off excess bodily moisture.

This air motion is especially soothing in sick rooms, and will prove a boon on hot, muggy nights.

REMODELING EXPENSE EASILY FINANCED

National Banks and Trust Companies Extend Modernization Loans.

When the question of modernizing the house arises one of the problems that immediately confronts the home owner is that of finance.

Where is the money to come from which will pay for the work? How can it be raised?

Today the problem of raising money for modernization is not so difficult as it was years ago. Modern financial institutions approve of the principles of the Home Modernizing Movement and are willing to finance improvements to a reasonable degree.

Financial institutions such as insurance companies, private loan concerns and mortgage companies look on the home owner as a safe outlet for their money.

National Banks Give Aid.

National banks through a law enacted in 1927 are now permitted to loan as much as one-half of their savings deposits on realty loans for a period not to exceed five years.

This allows many millions of dollars to be devoted to this type of reconstruction. Previously the money deposited in savings accounts was invested by law in other types of securities.

A Good Risk.

The point to be remembered is that money loaned for modernization is a first-class investment. Little or no risk is involved for the money is devoted to improving the property upon which the loan is placed. This property becomes more valuable because of the loan.

Property owners who hesitate about improving their dwellings because of the financial aspects involved, need not hesitate or be self-conscious about approaching a bank or loan association or other financial institution for money if this money is to be placed into modernization. They will meet with a cordial reception and secure a courteous, sympathetic audience. Granted that their title is clear, their plans sound and the funds available, they will find these officials willing to co-operate.

GERMAN SHIPS WIN SUIT FOR $1,000,000 TAX REBATE

U. S. Will Appeal; Levy Was Suspended by Presidential Order in Harding's Term.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Federal Judge Julian W. Mack ruled today that German steamship lines are entitled to a rebate of more than $1,000,000 paid to the United States in extra tonnage taxes between October, 1920, and November 1921, when the Government held that no marine reciprocal agreement existed with Germany following upon the close of the World War. S. C. Coleman, Assistant U. S. Attorney, said an appeal would be taken.

The decision was given in a test case brought against the United States by the Gans Steamship Line and Rickmers Rohederei A. G. in which the German companies contended the Hanseatic and Prussian treaties with the United States in 1827 and 1828 were restored to full force with the close of hostilities between Germany and the Allies.

The assessments of $1 a ton in excess of the regular six-cent tax were made on the first German vessels to enter American ports after the war. The practice was suspended by order of President Harding who decided Germany was not discriminating against American vessels.

Boy, 11, Caught After Taking Rings

An 11-year-old boy was captured in a two-block chase after he had jumped from a second story porch at 1038 Childress avenue yesterday afternoon. At the House of Detention three rings were found in his pocket. He admitted taking them from the apartment of the Misses Alice and Melba Dressler, who live in a first floor apartment at the Childress avenue address and said he was ransacking the second floor apartment of Paul Reed when he became frightened at a noise and fled.

1000 SEIZED IN MONTH IN POLICE LIQUOR RAIDS

57 Arrested Yesterday—One Man Had Cup Smelling of Whisky.

Concluding a month of raids in which more than 1000 persons have been arrested and 10 warrants have been obtained, police yesterday arrested 57 persons, including a man who had in his possession a tin cup that smelled of whisky, in 12 liquor raids and four gambling raids.

Charles H. Fish, proprietor of a cigar store at 1726 Market street, was the possessor of the tin cup that smelled of whisky. Like the other persons taken in the liquor raids, he was held, suspected of violating the State bone dry law.

The 10 warrants the police obtained in the month of raiding were against persons charged with maintaining slot machines. Warrants against alleged liquor law violators and participants in dice games, have been consistently refused.

Among those arrested yesterday were:

Miss Violet Meyers, who was taken into custody, with five men, in a house at 2308 Cherokee street, where 72 bottles of beer and a pint of whisky were seized; William Hanson, arrested in a saloon at 6126 Plymouth avenue, where police found a pint of whisky; Henry Schaefer, arrested with a pint of whisky, in a barbecue stand at 5412 South Grand boulevard; Charles Amsler, arrested at his home and confectionery, 3659 South Broadway, where police confiscated 328 quarts of home-brew and two crocks.

Miss Helen Sateia was arrested at 2013 Park avenue, where 40 bottles of beer, two crocks and two cappers were seized; Mrs. Stella Petrulis, taken into custody at her confectionery, 1037 Howard street, with three customers, where police found 268 quarts of home brew and seven gallons of whisky; Ronald Meadow, arrested in a saloon at 1247 Carr street, with half a pint of whisky in his possession; Robert Williams, a Negro, taken in a restaurant at 3102 Laclede avenue, where police found a gallon of whisky and 10 half-pint bottles of whisky.

James Anderson, a Negro, arrested in a cigar store at 114 North Cardinal avenue, where half a pint of whisky was found; Herbert House, a Negro, arrested in a cigar store at 606 North Garrison avenue, where two pints of whisky were found; John Buckner, a Negro, arrested at 3527 Franklin avenue, where police confiscated 48 bottles of beer.

In the gambling raids, 11 Negroes were taken in a cigar store at 5 North Ewing avenue, where police confiscated several policy books; six Negroes in a dice game at 1419 North Eighth street; 10 Negroes in a dice game in a poolroom at 1923 Lucas avenue, and 19 white men in a dice game at 201A North Sixth street.

TRIAL OF CAPTAIN OF FAIRFAX TO BE HELD AT NORFOLK, VA.

Charges Grew Out of Collision in Which 49 Lost Their Lives.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The trial of Capt. Archie H. Brooks, master of the steamer Fairfax, on charges of unskillfulness, negligence and reckless navigation, will be held in Norfolk, Va., at the request of his counsel.

The Fairfax was involved in collision off the Massachusetts coast last June which resulted in the loss of 49 lives.

Though the jurisdiction over the disaster would ordinarily come under the Boston district of the steamship inspection service, and a trial board would be convened there to consider evidence on charges of bad seamanship filed against Brooks by the Government, the transfer to the Southern port was said to be desirable as a matter of convenience to witnesses. A considerable number of the passengers aboard the Fairfax were marines and sailors now on duty at the Norfolk naval base.

PALACE PUT ON THE MARKET

Montserrate Mansion Lies at Most Westerly Point of Europe.

By the Associated Press.

MONTSERRATE, Portugal, July 19.—High maintenance costs and heavy taxation have forced on the market the Palace of Montserrate, a mansion lying at the most westerly point of Europe.

It has an incomparable view of the Atlantic Ocean and has been in possession of the Cook family for several generations. It was built by James Knowles for Sir Francis Cook, first Viscount of Montserrate, but the present chatelain, Sir Herbert, surnamed the "Merchant Prince," is making only brief appearances here, being detained by business in England. Not far from the palace, and belonging to it, is the "Cork Convent," so named because its interior is entirely lined with sheets of cork. The convent is partly hollowed out of a rock and was used as a place of punishment for recalcitrant monks from the monastery of Pena.

White, who was estranged from his wife, was said to have followed her to the Dickey home when she went there to get some milk for their two children. Witnesses said he was talking to her when he drew a pistol and shot her five times. One of the bullets struck the Dickey girl as she started to flee. She died today. White fled after the shooting.

ZARO AGHA AT 156 VISITS NEW YORK TO SEE SIGHTS

Turk Likes Tall Buildings, but Is More Impressed With Brunette in Ad.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Zaro Agha, who in impeccable Kurdish tells the world he has been seeing things for 156 years, got around to seeing New York today and found one thing before which he stopped in delight and emitted a sound, half laugh and half cough, which he reserves to denote intense pleasure.

What he found was a plump, white-skinned brunette, who smiles continually from an advertisement for cold cream. She smiled today at Zaro Agha as he left the subway train at city hall, and prepared to walk out into daylight again.

Zaro Agha, at 156, is much too sophisticated to make any other remark about his first subway ride except that it was too warm, almost jumped with delight before the illustration. At 156, Zaro will express excitement over only three things, women, food and Allah.

A shrunken figure of a giant with a tremendous back and a boney head pulled in like a turtle's, Zaro Agha sat in his suite at the Commodore Hotel today looking as cool as a terrapin on a river bank. He was dressed in a heavy black broadcloth suit, and ate at frequent intervals prodigious meals.

From the subway he climbed ahead of the reporters into the elevator of the Woolworth Building. From the heights he looked at the city outspread beneath him.

"A nice place," he said, his eyes turned to a plump brunette standing a few feet away.

Run Down by S. M. Kennard III, Who Gives Bond on Charge of Careless Driving.

Celeste, 15-year-old daughter of H. S. Macke, a salesman, suffered a fractured left arm and possibly a fracture of the skull last night when she was struck by an automobile as she crossed the street in front of her home at 6425 Clayton road.

The driver, Samuel M. Kennard III, son of the president of J. Kennard & Sons furniture company, ran his machine over the sidewalk into the lawn of St. Mary's Hospital in an unsuccessful effort to avoid striking the girl. Kennard, who has been attending Princeton University, is spending the summer with his parents at 4970 Pershing avenue.

He was released on bond, charged with careless driving.

LAWYER'S ATTEMPT TO KILL GIRL ATTRIBUTED TO HEAT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—John H. Roemer, 64 years old, wealthy corporation attorney, is in a serious condition from bullet wounds inflicted by policemen when he held a revolver against the head of a 17-year-old girl he did not know.

Roemer, former member of the Wisconsin Railroad Commission, was shot twice in the head. He had fired at two policemen who saved the life of the girl. The attorney explained he had been in ill health and that he was preparing to leave for a vacation in Wisconsin and had bought a pistol to take with him, he added.

Associates of the attorney [illegible] the extreme heat evidently had aggravated his condition.

Roemer had been living at a hotel while his wife was in New York.

POLICE RESCUE BOY CHAINED IN DARK BASEMENT OF HOME

Clifford Peters, 10, Says Father and Stepmother Kept Him There 12 Hours a Day.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 19.—A 10-year-old boy was found today chained to a post in the dark basement of the home where he lived with his father and stepmother.

Rescued by police, the lad, Clifford Peters, told them he had been chained up for more than 12 hours every day since sc[illegible] was dismissed early in June and that prior to that he was confined in the basement dungeon on Saturdays for about a year.

The rescue, the boy said, came as a birthday present—the only one he received. A squad of policemen broke into the basement after receiving complaints from neighbors.

An investigation disclosed that the boy's father, John, works as a nightwatchman and sleeps by day. His stepmother, Rose, left home for her work each morning at six, chaining the boy before she left and releasing him when she returned at 6:30 p. m.

Neither Peters nor his wife had returned to the house this evening. A search was started.

MRS. OESTERREICH TO BE TRIED ON MURDER CHARGE

Widow of Wealthy Milwaukee Manufacturer Accused of Killing Husband.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 19.—The District Attorney's office today announced it would try Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich for the murder here eight years ago of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, wealthy Milwaukee manufacturer. The trial was set for Aug. 4.

Otto Sanhuber, secret attic lover of Mrs. Oesterreich and jointly indicted with her for the killing, was tried and the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter. His release followed as the statute of limitations in California does not permit a manslaughter conviction three years after a crime is committed.

Sanhuber lived in attics in the Oesterreich home here and in Milwaukee for years and was alleged to have shot and killed Oesterreich while the latter was quarreling with his wife.

MacFarlane and Farrell Tie in Golf Tournament

ELMSFORD, N. Y., July 19.—Two former national open champions, Johnny Farrell and Willie MacFarlane, were deadlocked at 280 at the end of play in the 72-hole Metropolitan open golf championship today. The tie will be played off tomorrow at the Fairview Country Club.

Farrell, starting the final day with a 36-hole total of 143, added a 70 on his third round and then topped off a steady performance with a brilliant 67 on the final 18. MacFarlane started the day a stroke back of Farrell, but scored 69 and 67 in the last two rounds to tie the Mamaroneck star. Farrell held the open title in 1928 and MacFarlane in 1925.

A stroke back of the leaders finished Horton Smith, representing the Cragston (N. Y.) club. Smith, with 141 for his first 36 holes, turned in a pair of 70's today, but could not match the sensational shotmaking of Farrell and MacFarlane. Gene Sarazen, finishing in a tie with Wiffy Cox for fourth place at 282, broke the competitive record for the short Fairview course with a 66 on his last round. Sarazen was out in 32 and home in 34 to wind up only two strokes back of the leaders.

O'DOUL AND KLEIN NOW TIED AT TOP OF THE "BIG SIX"

Frank O'Doul and Chuck Klein of the Phillies made the race still more interesting in the Bix Six yesterday as they drew into a tie for first place in the Big Six and among the regulars of the National League. They both lost ground yesterday as O'Doul made two hits in eight times at bat and Klein made three in as many times, but the result put them in a deadlock with averages of .403.

Motorcycle Hill Climb Today

Riding speedy, tuned-up mounts, motorcyclists of several states in this district will compete this afternoon in the Middle West championship motor cycle hill climb on the Hilgert's Hill, five miles south of Fenton on the Gravois road. The first event is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Three main events are on the program, the amateur and 45 and 61 cubic inch professional. Winners of these are to compete in a divisional climb at Louisville on Aug. 3 in eliminations for the national climb at Muskegon, Mich., on Aug. 17.

Dynamiting during the past week made the ground looser and the steep hill rougher than ever, says Henry "Hank" Eiler, tourmaster of the Ozark Motor Cycle Club, 715 Lemay Ferry road, which is sponsoring the event, which also has the official sanction of the American Motor Cycle Association.

In a previous hill climb on June 8, Joe Petrali of Chicago broke the hill record in 4.92 seconds. Eiler retained his local championship in the amateur ranks by making the top in 6.81.

Clouds of dust churned by the cycles' wheels which blurred the vision and made it unpleasant for onlookers that day, will have been eliminated by chemicals which were applied heavily this week.

In case of rain the championship will run on July 27.

PAUL BARTON WINS IOWA GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press.

WATERLOO, Ia., July 19.—Paul Barton, veteran Davenport golfer, won the Iowa Amateur championship today by defeating Johnny Lasche, 16-year-old Waterloo caddy, 4 and 2.

Barton stopped the snail march of the youth through the ranks of Iowas golfing stars by his steady shooting over the final 16 holes. Lasche, apparently tired from his matches of the previous two days, when he defeated Art Bartlett, former trans-Mississippi champion and defending titleholder, and Bobby McCrary, present wearer of the trans-Mississippi crown, seemed off his game.

Opera Revival of 'Maytime'

Sigmund Romberg's Charming Old Romantic Operetta to Be Staged This Week in Forest Park With a Large Cast, Including Many Newcomers as Well as All the Present Season's Favorites—First Presentation in America of "Madame Pompadour" to Be the Next Offering.

If the summer amusement hunters want the old favorites displayed on the Municipal Opera stage rather than new operettas with which they are not familiar they will get their wish this week with the reliable and lovely "Maytime" on view on the Forest Park stage. During the past week and ending with tonight's performance, "The Red Robe," which came here with much advance praise from New York, failed to interest the usual number of customers in search of seats. But everyone knows "Maytime," a long and thoroughly established success with some of Sigmund Romberg's most delightful music backed up by a charming book by Rida Johnson Young. Following precedent it should attract the banner crowds of the summer.

This revival will bring to Forest Park, for the week beginning tomorrow night, four members of the original New York company of that musical romance; for the cast, headed by Guy Robertson, includes the clever comedian, Charles Purcell, Maude Odell, Edith Wright and Laura Arnold, all of them important figures from the long New York run of the operetta. In addition there will be such Municipal Opera favorites of this season as Margaret Carlisle, Leonard Creeley, Hal Forde and Doris Patston. The cast is the largest yet assembled for a Municipal Opera production of this summer.

"Maytime" was hailed when first produced in New York as having "the rarest of all things, a new stage story." It is basicly, a play with music. That is, the essential thing is the dramatic interweaving of the lives of four generations in two New York families. Lovers separated by parental decree go separate ways and work out their own destiny, but the grandchildren of those lovers also meet and love. They seize, with modern eagerness on their own happiness, and incidents of rare charm and exquisite appeal are developed, both in song and story as the dramatic action of the tale unfolds.

Outstanding in the score of the operetta is "Sweetheart," Sigmund Romberg's own favorite of all his many songs, and one which, as the composer himself pointed out during his visit to St. Louis to attend the opening of Municipal Opera's season with his "Nina Rosa," has become almost a folk-song in America. Indeed Romberg's music for "Maytime" ranks among the very foremost of all the scores by that prolific composer of such successes as "Nina Rosa," "The Desert Song," "The New Moon," and "Blossom Time," to mention just a few of his triumphs, Rida Johnson Young, author of the book, wrote "Naughty Marietta," one of the great Municipal Opera successes of former years, to the music by Victor Herbert. She was essentially a playwright—a fact evident in the fine dramatic story of the operetta—and her stage successes included "The Boys of Company B" in which Jack Barrymore won success, "Glorious Betsy" for Mary Mannering, "Ragged Robin" for Chauncey Olcott and many other well-known plays.

The story, ranging as it does through almost a century of New York life, permits a wide range in the character of the stage pictures which Milton I. Shubert has created for the presentation of the operetta. Beginning back in 1840 when men still wore tail-coats for business dress and affected high hats and garments of rich or delicate color, it carries on to the picturesque period just prior to the Civil War when crinolines were vogue for women's wear, and again into the 80s when New York was the focal point of all America's dreams of glory and expansion. The final act is in the City of Six Million, the babel of races and interests which is today's New York.

Way back in 1840 the Van Zandt family had a cooperage business in the back yard of the Van Zandt home in Washington Square in Little Old New York. In the Van Zandt family was a daughter, Otillie. And in the backyard business was an apprentice, Richard Wayne. These two loved each other and Richard, who is by the way of wanting to be a poet, writes a sonnet or such a thing to his lady, on the back of a scrap of paper which a wind has whirled from Papa Van Zandt's desk within. The verses are placed within a jewel casket by the young lovers and buried beneath a seedling apple tree in the backyard. It is their pledge of love, and the time is May. Their children and their grandchildren, they hope, will play beneath that apple tree when, in years to come, it blossoms.

But Papa Van Zandt has a different ideal. Ottillie, he says, must marry her cousin, Claude Van Zandt. And he sends Richard away. But the boy insists to Ottilie that he will return a millionaire and then will claim her for his bride. She in turn vows to wait for him.

Then the story enters upon the second period—the era when America was beginning to spread its wings a little gloriously. Richard returns to New York, a millionaire indeed after 15 years. He discovers that the elder Van Zandt, upon his deathbed, has wrung from Otillie a promise to marry Claude. She is now a wife in that loveless marriage, but scandal threatens to engulf her. To save the good name of the innocent Ottilie, Richard himself enters into a loveless marriage. The scene of the act is a Night Club of 1855 and in it appear both Claude Van Zandt and another cousin, Matthew, who goes from act to act with a new bride in each, each time having contrived to marry an heiress, and these two cousins together have much to do with the misery which befalls Ottilie.

The Van Zandt family loses its money. The old home must be sold. Richard and Ottilie come face to face at the auction when in the 1880s the family things are disposed of. There are children now, and later Richard tells the little Richard—his grandson—and Ottilie tells her granddaughter another Ottilie, the story of their love.

The scene turns to today. Young Richard, rich, dashing impetuous, loves Ottilie, who penniless, is proud; too proud to marry the rich man. Yet they do love each other, and in the end they decide to dig, as it were in the roots of the old family romance. The apple tree their grandparents planted has grown, flourished, and died. Among its roots they find the casket and the poem. And the poem is written on the back of a deed, the first Richard's father gave the father of the elder Ottilie to pay a debt—a lost deed to millions in real estate on Manhattan Island. The Van Zandt fortunes are re-established. Ottilie, no longer poor, takes young Richard for her own.

"Maytime" will be followed on Municipal Opera's stage by the American premier of Leo Fall's the European triumph "Madame Pompadour" in the original continental version. Fall ranks with Franz Lehar and Emmerich Kalmann as one of the foremost of living Viennese composers of operetta and wrote the music for "The Dollar Princess." Lonsdale, who made the translation of the original version which Municipal Opera produces is one of the foremost living writers of English comedy. There will be a special augmented cast including Glady Baxter, who created the prima donna roles on Broadway in "The Countess Maritza," "Piggy," "Cherry Blossoms," and "Music in May," to name a few of her more recent successes.

The 'Road' Is Coming Back--Maybe

NEW YORK, July 19.

Since Broadway, at the moment, offers but lean material for the discussion about the great American theater, we'll open today's sermon with a few well chosen words about "the road."

"The road?" you ask, wrinkling your pretty brows: "oh, mister, what is the road?"

Because you're quite young, my child, you probably know little about the road. It was something that flourished long, long before your day. When first-class Broadway companies went trouping out into the hinderland, bringing to all America flesh and blood drama, you were still in swaddling clothes and mama used to leave you home to cry yourself to sleep while she sneaked off to the Grand Opera House for an evening with Minnie Madern Fiske, Ethel Barrymore, James K. Hackett, John Drew, Blanche Ring, DeWolfe Hopper, Otis Skinner, Kyrle Bellew, Dustin Farnum, Burr McIntosh and—but the list is almost endless.

After you climbed out of the cradle and began going around at night, the road began to unravel, because a side-track over which New York producers routed second, third and fourth-rate companies, and, when finally life fused into being on the silver screen, you said, "Thank the Lord for the movies. Now I won't have to go to those cheap New York shows any more."

So when we speak of the road today you may arch your brows and ask questions.

Well, the road, you hear along Broadway, is about to return to life. (Please remember I am but reporting, not promising.) George M. Cohan, for one, will go trouping when the new season starts. He'll begin his tour in October with a repertoire of four pieces—"The Tavern," "The Song and Dance Man," "Gambling," and "Seven Keys to Baldpate." He thinks there's still considerable life left in the road; that Americans really do want to visit a theater where the stage is inhabited by human beings.

Bide Dudley, writing in the Evening World this week, also discusses the road.

What about the road? Mr. Dudley asks. Reports from all parts of the country—he continues—say the people are "hungry for regular shows," but, it is added, they won't pay high prices for No. 4 companies. Yesterday, with no special mission bothering me, I dropped in the private office of A. H. Woods and found Aaron Jones, the Chicago theatrical magnate, and Owen Davis, the playwright, there discussing the future of the drama with Mr. Woods. While none of them knew a darned thing about the future, they all had ideas.

"Oh the people over the land want real shows," said Mr. Jones.

"Undoubtedly," replied Mr. Davis.

"Well, I'll tell you how to reclaim the road," came from Mr. Woods. "Let the right man come along and lease one big, fine new neighborhood theater in every town of any size, fom the various film interests and arrange for attractions for his circuit at popular prices. That will bring the road back. Of course, something would have to be done about the high salaries of actors, stagehands and musicians."

"Righto!" said Mr. Jones.

"Righto!" echoed Mr. Davis.

And that was all the news I got out of the trio.

However, Robert Edgar dropped in yesterday fresh from an invigorating trip through the Middle West. His had been a picture promotion mission, but he had ideas that extended beyond the sphere of the talkies.

"Everywhere I went," said Edgar, "I found the people yearning for the regular drama. But I found, also, the picture houses new, clean, cooled by iced air and with a courtesy policy that the regular theaters never knew. Also, I found first-class talkies being exhibited at a price not higher than 50 cents. What few regular plays the people had known recently were in antiquated houses at $3 top or more and the companies were not 'New York' by a long shot. When the legitimate interests send good plays, acted by good companies to the smaller places and offer them in comfortable theaters courteously conducted, the road will come back."

Mr. Long said that, while in Des Moines he learned that the auditorium there was booked for a number of traveling companies next season.

"I don't know where the management of the house expects to get these attractions," he said, "but if it gets them, other cities and towns will get them—and the road will be itself again."

Mr. Dudley and his friends sum up the situation. One offers a remedy; the other frankly tells you what's wrong with the road. If New York producers can revive the road—as they are now promising to do — show business on Broadway will improve. When the road flourished a producer stood to win two fortunes on a show—one in New York and the other on the road. If a show flopped in New York, he still had a chance to reclaim his investment and garner a profit by sending the show trouping, for often the road liked a show that New York scorned. But with the road gone the producer is carrying all his eggs in one basket and the label on that basket is "Broadway." If the basket breaks, as it has been doing so often of late, he closes the show and sends it to the storehouse, kissing his investment a sad goodbye.

Veteran showmen along Broadway, who gaze dimly into a past once glamorous with the blazing of theater scenes from the Atlantic to the Pacific, tell you, "The road isn't dead; it's just sleeping. People aren't tired of the theater outside of New York. They'll come back to it."

But how can they come back to a theater that doesn't exist? The road isn't sleeping now—it's dead. The problem isn't to revive it, but to create a new road.

Getting back to slumbering Broadway, we find little to report. The list still stands at 14, although last night may have been marked with a casualty or two. Nothing at this writing appears in the offing. "Journey's End," which ran from March, 1929, to May of this year at Henry Miller's Theater, will reopen there Aug. 4. Gilbert Miller and Maurice Browne, the producers, have announced that the show will be available to the public at $3 top for a limited summer engagement. That's awfully nice of them. The original engagement, when the show was new (and shows do get old) was offered at $4.40 top. The company for this cut-rate engagement will be composed of players recruited from the four troupes that did the play in the United States and Canada. It is announced that "an actor well-known to New York audiences" will have the role of Capt. Stanhope, but only one of the former Miller Theater players will be found in this new company.

"The Last Mile," which isn't by any means a well-written drama, but because of its theme and sincerity must be classed among the better offerings of the season, plays its 100th performance tonight. The piece has had hard sledding; business has see-sawed up and down. It isn't a play that appeals to women generally since it lacks a love theme and ends in tragedy. That it has been able to stand up so long is something to marvel at and the resolve of the producers to keep it running into next season bespeaks courage of a sort.

The New York Theater League, which was recently formed to eliminate the ticket scalper, is functioning. But how? Well, in the first place, the league temporized by permitting "certain legitimate ticket agencies" to sell seats at 75 cents above the box office price. The managers who became members of the league posted bonds guaranteeing to do business only with the legitimate agencies, agreeing to dole out certain stipulated allotments of tickets.

Not long ago Flo Ziegfeld, who refused to join the league because it tolerated the ticket agencies, legitimate or otherwise, said the choice seats would be bootlegged to those saps who were willing to pay plenty. It turns out that Mr. Ziegfeld wasn't talking through his whiskers, of which he hasn't any, anyway.

Carroll's "Vanities" was the first show to open under the new league plan. Allotments of seats were distributed among the legitimate agencies to be sold at 75 cents above the box office price. And yet, boobs are paying as high as $25 for two orchestra seats for the "Vanities," which should sell in the agencies at $14.70. As a matter of fact, one spender laid down $250 for two front row seats for the opening night. Why? The "illegitimate" agencies, knowing that the "Vanities" was a natural, have been buying tickets at the box office and in the "legitimate" agencies paying the 75 cents boost and then selling these same tickets to the saps with plenty of dough for all they'll stand. In other words, there seems to be only one way to beat the scalper game here and that's to restrict the sale of tickets to the box office. But then, again, that wouldn't work, because scalpers would buy their tickets at the box office and still ply their graft. So one comes to the inevitable conclusion that the only way to overcome it is to make unlawful the sale of tickets except at the box office.

Loew's to Run Fox Theater

St. Louis House and Show Places in Five Other Cities to Be Turned Over to New Management on August 15—Deal Made After Attempt to Combine Fox and Warner Theaters Had Fallen Through — Roth Moved to the Missouri.

The question as to what Fox and Loew's theaters had in mind when some of the best of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer films, originally booked into the Loew house downtown, were transferred to the Grand avenue temple of Mr. Fox has been answered with the announcement that the Loew interests would take over the management of the Fox theater here and in five other cities.

The date set for the new deal is Aug. 15 and under it Loew will have control of the Fox theaters in Washington, Atlanta, Detroit, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, as well as the St. Louis house.

The Fox interests really control the Loew pictures and houses but have left the operation of the latter to the still intact Loew forces. Now, instead of Fox managers running their own theaters, the Loew people will be put in charge of both chains in the six cities named.

The St. Louis Fox theater, like many of the other big show places around the country, has been operating at a loss for some time, the big overhead expenses eating up the large attendance receipts. As St. Louis is badly overseated with theaters it seems likely that one of the two houses here in the new combination will be taken out of the competition in some manner. It would appear that Fox's Grand avenue theater would be retained as the "ace" show place of the new deal and Loew's, downtown, be put on a cheaper scale but for the time being at least both houses will run just as they have been doing.

To Al Roth, youthful veteran of the Skouras musical organization, goes the job of bandleader handling the new vaudeville policy at the Missouri. Roth, whose violin and trumpet solos featured his recent work with the Ambassador orchestra, has had lengthy experience in conducting band shows. He handled the music for Brooke Johns, Frank Fay and Eddie Peabody at the Grand avenue house and also assisted Harry Rose for a few weeks. Later he replaced Dave Silverman at the Ambassador where he enjoyed success as the pit leader. However, with little time now available for overtures he sought a more active position and prevailed upon the powers that be to be again transferred to the Missouri. He has replaced Al Eldridge, the pianist-leader.

Television as the screen's next venture, studio wise ones say knowingly, is just around the corner—but which corner few presume to say.

Certain studios already are inserting "television rights" in their agreements to purchase stories and plays, and up and down the boulevard rumors, wild and tame, circulate as to the possibility of the new idea's becoming soon a part of the movie industry. That it will become so eventually all are agreed.

Meanwhile, a light comedy looks into the future and forecasts visually what television will mean in the home.

The director's idea contributes nothing to science, but as an experiment holds interest. In "Hello, Television," the telephone is in a cabinet, like a radio, over which is a fair-sized screen on which the speaker sees reflected the image of the party on "the other end."

There's no receiver and no mouthpiece—you simply stand before the instrument and talk.

The boy "meets" the girl by television through calling a wrong number; later, also by television, locates her in a football crowd through a close-up of the grand stand, and finally, after hectic events, marries her by television.

Of course you know all the time that it's done by movie tricks, but the thrill of a novelty is there.

The girl, by the way, is Ann Christy, the same who two years ago made a hit as Harold Lloyd's leading leady in "Speedy."

After that, little was heard from her in films, and after a New York vacation she returned to Los Angeles to find herself virtually forgotten. She had gone to work in a downtown office when the chance to resume her movie career, in two-reel talkies, came.

A curiosity equal to that which was occasioned by the appearance of Greta Garbo in her first talking picture has been aroused in connection with the showing this week at the Fox Theater of Lon Chaney's initial talking production, "The Unholy Three" in which the "man of many faces" introduces movie audiences for the first time to his many voices.

The picture is an adaptation of the C. A. Robbins story done by Chaney as a silent film several years ago, directed by Jack Conway who had previously directed the star in "While the City Sleeps." The supporting cast includes Lila Lee, Elliott Nugent, who together with his father, J. C. Nugent, also wrote the dialogue, Harry Earles, John Miljan, Ivan Linow, Clarence Burton and Crauford Kent.

The principal scenes of the picture are laid first in the environment of a circus side-show section and later in a bird and animal shop in which Chaney in the disguise of an old woman hides from the police who are seeking him for a murder. In the pet-shop sequences Chaney reveals a new angle of his versatile talents, that of ventriloquism by which he makes the parrots "talk." By the same method he makes the dummy in the sideshow sequences not only talk but sing "Sweet Rosie O'Grady."

It is said that when the sideshow scenes were filmed the studio lots looked like the combined Barnum-Bailey and Ringling Brothers Circus grounds what with freaks, animals, trapeze performers, hula-hula dancers and other typical details of a gaudy side-show sector. Chaney in an endeavor to make the atmosphere as realistic as possible insisted that actual circus freaks be employed in consequence of which Al Copeland, head of Copeland's Circus secured the services of Birdie Thompson, 500-pound "fat girl;" Harry Kane, "living skeleton," the Great De Garro, "fire-eater," and a number of others.

None of these circus performers had ever appeared before a camera and several of them could not be induced to act until they had satisfied superstitious requirements. De Garro, for instance, would not eat fire until he had repeated a magic formula in French to make sure that he wouldn't burn his tongue. Fire-eaters, he declared, had done this for centuries. Miss Thompson, the fat girl, wouldn't go on until she had walked three times around the cameras. Motion pictures, she said, were something new in her business and no new business should be embarked upon without this precaution.

Each performer, furthermore, insisted on a private dressing room. In explaining this, Chaney stated, "No one hides the secret of his work so carefully as the side-show performer. Many of the tricks of these entertainers have been handed down from generation to generation and they jealously guard them from everyone. As soon as they came on the set they demanded separate rooms so that they could unpack their paraphernalia unseen."

Chaney, who achieved a distinguished niche in filmdom for his

How One Drink Made a Comedian

By Charles Purcell

Mr. Purcell, one of the four members of "Maytime's" original New York cast who appear in Municipal Opera's revival of that operetta, beginning tomorrow night in Forest Park, began his career as a barytone in hero roles, but from its very outset has been associated principally with comedy parts. Herein he tells why.

IT is the first drink—as any wet-drinking, dry-voting Congressman might tell you—that leads you down, Down, DOWN. It was my first drink that made a comedian out of me. I was very young. Only 17. And they sent me down from New York to New Orleans to sing the role of Bummerle in "The Chocolate Soldier." Yes, I was to be a hero. The "My Hero" of the musical version of Bernard Shaw's play.

The manager of the company laughed when he saw me. The company joined in. A laughing chorus. They looked at me and they wouldn't believe. A kid like that! There could only be—they were certain about this—just one logical reason for my being there. Some one wanted to provide me with a career, they thought. A career that would be short—and fatal. I had just been permitted to go on to invite the swift and inevitable doom of failure.

They were a good-natured bunch. They laughed. And were willing to help doom out.

I made a few friends at the rehearsal. Not in the company, mind you. Among the musicians—for I had seriously studied music and I could sing. And among the stagehands. I can tell you a secret about stagehands. Some of them pride themselves on being hard-boiled. They're only acting. One of those stagehands in New Orleans was a hard-boiled guy—just to keep me from finding out he was as tender as a woman.

I was standing in the wings ready to go on. He came over to me. He could see that I was trembling. He could see that I was heart-sick over the way the show was starting off. "Here, Bud," he said, "you take a snifter of this. It'll give you courage." And he hauled a bottle out of his overalls.

Never before had I taken a drink of liquor. Ugh, how it burned! And the darned stuff went to my head. I could remember my lines, but I couldn't remember just what meaning I thought was in them.

THERE'S a lot of difference, you know between what Bernard Shaw means and what a kid of 17, who for the first time in his life is playing a leading role, thinks Bernard Shaw might mean.

When I got on the stage I knew my cues. I could say my lines. But I was half in despair, and half ready for fate to do its worst to me. And I had an all-gone feeling in every muscle of my body.

In short I was Bummerle. For if you remember any really good Bummerle you have seen, when the Chocolate Soldier comes on in the first act he's so weary that you scarcely know whether he's tired or just drunk. I just couldn't help being Bummerle. I didn't know myself whether I was tired or just drunk.

And I was a success. I never afterward took a drink to play Bummerle, but I always played him like that. Even, last year, when "The Chocolate Soldier" was revived in New York for a 12-weeks run and I was the Bummerle, I played him with that same sort of feeling of an exhaustion that was almost drunken in its character. I had started out with a boyish idea of playing the romantic hero, and that first drink—well you might say it sent me down, down, down—but I prefer comedy, myself.

But it did do this. It started me out in a career of drunkeness. Stage drunkenness. Some one recommended me to "the pictures." You know what the films used to be. An actor wouldn't look at them. No, sir! It was beneath him. Well, I was offered a job in two pictures. And of course I refused.

"But it's going to be just like a picnic," said my friend. "You go down in the country. You ride and swim. And of course you know there's riding in the pictures."

I WAS born and raised in Chattanooga, Tenn. And all my boyhood I had loved to swim and to ride. Well, that changed my mind for me. I went and I made two pictures. No, you've never heard of them. They were "The School Ma'am's Ride for Life," and "Wild Bill's Defeat," Westerners. I was the tenderfoot who got drunk and took Wild Bill's gun away from him. That was enough of the pictures for me. I had a voice and I wanted to use it. But the film men told me one thing, when they saw those pictures: "If you know of a show that's got the part of a drunk in it, you get that part."

In Chicago I had gotten acquainted with Jack Barrymore, who was just beginning to climb the ladder, was far from famous and from being the master he now is. Older than I, but we had some bonds in common while we were playing there and we saw quite a bit of each other. I met him later in New York. "Look here," he said, "I'm up against it. I'm under contract to Oliver Morosco for 'Pretty Mrs. Smith.' I never wanted to be in a music show, but you've got to live. And no sooner do I sign the contract than I get a chance in a real dramatic part. You can sing. You come up with me and see Morosco. Maybe he'll let me off and give you the role."

"What sort of role is it?"

"It's a drunk. He wanders through the whole show, day and night, dressed in evening clothes, and sublimely pickled. It's a great comedy role."

Jack's plan worked. Morosco let him go and took me. Fritzi Scheff was the star. Charlotte Greenwood played opposite me in the comedy parts. But I had never had a dress suit.

I went to a tailor on Fifth avenue. I said frankly: "I don't know as much about a dress suit as I do about the Fourth Dimension. But I want to be right. Do your worst." Say, they just melted that suit onto me. They must have taken my hint about the Fourth Dimension, for those clothes and I occupied the same space at the same time. I woke up after the first night to find myself famous on Broadway—as a "drunk" and because of the clothes I wore.

The Shuberts sent for me. "What you want to do," said Lee Shubert, "is romantic drama. Get away from that comedy stuff. You ought to be playing and singing hero roles."

THAT would have sounded good back in Chattanooga, Tenn. But I'd had a taste of blood—as you might say. And I told them I wanted so much money a week, which was more money than there was in the whole world. And that was that. As I thought it would be. But two years later Lee Shubert got me on the telephone and engaged me.

And so, by deviously drunken steps, I reached the role of the romantic hero.

And then came "Maytime."

It wasn't because I was a romantic kid. I love that operetta yet. But in those days it had a special sentimental meaning for me. There's a song, you'll remember, "Our Little Home, Sweet Home." Well, I was building my own very first home—and my only one—during the run of that opera on Broadway. And every time I'd hear the opening bars of the music for that song I'd sort of choke up, and my eyes would dim with tears. The little home, sweet home, is kind of an old story to me now. I've been living in it ever since. But "Maytime" today is to me the loveliest of all romantic operettas.

They're Gettting Rough Again In the Moving Pictures

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.

THE thick of the seaside season is upon Hollywood. Most of the picture stars now possess beach igloos, fitted up for all sorts of parties—everything from yachting to tiddle-de-winks. Far from the madding crowd, they sunbathe and moonbathe, in one of the most beautiful settings imaginable. Probably in the entire world there's no more gorgeous sight than a sun set from Inspiration Point in Santa Monica. The palisades and purple Santa Monica Mountains form a crescent frame for the placid bay and its riotous reflection of a colorful sky, dotted here and there by the yachts of your favorite screen stars. Among the many cinema lights now residing at Malibu Beach in this district are Ronald Colman, Lupe Velez, Rod LaRoque and Vilma Banky, Frank Fay and Barbara Stanwyck, Charles Farrell, the Duncan sisters, Anna Q. Nilssen, George O'Brien, Billie Dove, Corrinne Griffith, Laura La Plante, Herbert Brenon and countless others. And they're all having beaucoup fun.

BARBARA STANWYCK

IT'S easy enough for a music lover to tote a picollo or pack a jew's harp when leaving his accustomed haunts for a time, but to Harry Tierney, the American composer, falls the honor of being the first to transport a grand piano to the scene of a camping trip. And the residents of that beautiful district known as Sherman Oaks, in the San Fernando Valley (which is the location of the R-K-O ranch), must be astounded to hear well-played rhapsodies and mazurkas and things wafted on the midnight air from a tent in the center of a huge encampment of similar temporary homes. It's the location camp for Tierney's "Half Shot at Sunrise," an operetta to costar Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. Tierney composed all the music for the production. He just had to have his piano in camp for possible alterations, rehearsals, etc., and so there it is!

GLORIA SWANSON was the particularly honored guest of the Wampas, the association of the movie press, at last week's dinner party. She sang gloriously. A Sennett girl who has rather made good. And Ivy Lee, reputed the world's only millionaire press agent, told the boys how to get that way. (All you have to do is to sell the idea of engaging you to a flock of oil companies, railroad corporations, transcontinental air lines, Wall Street interests, and a few European governments.) Other interesting guests were Dr. Lee De Forrest, who is quite a radio expert; Lew Cody, Hollywood's boy friend; Jimmie Gleason and the Missus; Harry Carr, the caustic columnist; Lieut. "Tommy" Tomlinson, former commander of "The Sea Hawks;" Allan Dwan, the director, and John Flynn, producer.

THESE screen persons will become belligerent. Latest bout between Vivian Duncan, one of the "sisters," and Rex Lease, a local leading man. Happened in the wide open spaces of Malibu. Not much damage—Vivian got herself a black eye and shattered nose—yes, the same nose which figured in the Cicero, Ill., brawl a few years back. Meanwhile Lease nurses his shins because of Vivian's booting ability. These kids just must have their little quarrel.

THE return to the screen of heroic fisticuffs and hand-to-hand battles is just another sign that the movies are returning to normalcy, microphone or no microphone.

BETTY COMPSON

The fist fight has ever been a high light, an "old reliable" in screen dramatic construction. The drama of combat appeared on the screen long before movies with stories came along.

Peep shows offered a few rounds of photographed prize-fighting before the screen on which pictures could be projected was an actuality, and the first movie starring contract ever known was signed by James J. Corbett, then the heavyweight scintillant, who agreed to fight for one company's cameras and one company alone.

AFTER the screen began to tell stories, the hand-to-hand encounter, usually between hero and villain, became the scenarist's mainstay of thrills. When all else failed, a good brawl would save the plot.

Western thrillers and serials specialized in physical roughness, but they were not alone. The moviemakers knew that everybody loves a good fight.

Hero after hero—Charles Ray, Richard Barthelmess, Richard Dix and the late Wallace Reid, for example—has gone tooth and nail after the villain for "thrill endings."

But with the dawn of the talkie era a noticeable truce prevailed. The movies went musical, gangster plots made crooks say it with bullets rather than fists, and the drawing-room drama so popular for a while replaced physical combat with verbal, which was usually polite though sometimes pointed.

NOW the flying fist, the bleedin nose, the cracked jawbone are coming back into their own.

Audifilming of "The Spoilers" brings Gary Cooper and William Boyd into the same fierce conflict, before the eyes of Betty Compson, that sent William Farnum and Tom Santschi flying madly at each other back in 1914, and Milton Sills and Noah Beery, while Anna Q. Nilsson looked on, tearing each other's throats in 1923 in the second filming of the story.

No doubt about it—the fighting heroes are coming back.

WHILE the synchronized sound version of the early screen epic, "The Birth of a Nation," to be ready for late summer or early fall release, will be unchanged as to cast from the original other screen masterpieces of the past now being revived as talkies will have new faces in the roles made famous by present and former stars.

In the old Griffith production Lillian Gish, Mae Marsh, now retired, and Henry B. Walthall's dashing "Little Colonel" will be seen as before but "Tol'able David," one of Richard Barthelmess' early successes, will offer another David, yet unselected, and "Broken Blossoms," in which Barthelmess shared honors with Lillian Gish, will be without either.

HENRY WALTHALL

And "Mickey," the feature which will be remembered as the late Mabel Normand's best, will have Nancy Welford in the title role.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Cecil B. DeMille may refilm "The Squaw Man," probably with Reginald Denny in the role played by the late Dustin Farnum, serves to recall the business perils braved by the movie pioneers.

"The Squaw Man" marked the entry to pictures, about 1913, not only of DeMille as a director, but of Jesse Lasky, former reporter, vaudevillian, cabaret pioneer, among other things, and of Sam Goldwyn, then a glove salesman, as executives.

The three decided on the "Squaw Man," then a stage hit, as their initial production, and Dustin Farnum, who had starred in it, as their first star. Their capital was little more than $25,000. Farnum, offered stock in the company for his services, preferred $5000 cash, got it and lived to regret his choice.

DEMILLE, Farnum and the troupe came to Hollywood, where DeMille rented an old barn for a studio. In two or three weeks "The Squaw Man" was completed—then the fun began.

When projected the picture flickered and jumped all over the screen. Something was wrong with the spacing of the sprocket holes in the film which insure even projection. Trying to fix it, the studio mechanics spoiled the negative.

It meant ruin to the venturesome three if they could not deliver the film to exhibitors. But De Mille had shot every scene twice, and this second negative finally was brought to Sigmund Lubin, film doctor, in Philadelphia, who saved the day.

LESS than a year in Hollywood has done things for Maureen O'Sullivan, the new personification of Irish sweetness.

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN

It was about eight months ago ago that Maureen and Tommy Clifford came bewildered, fresh from Ireland, to the city which thousands of youngsters like themselves see only in dreams.

They were rushed from one part of the studio to another, to luncheon interview after luncheon interview, through all the routine fuss and formality of initiation into the screen trade.

Tommy, saucy, cocksure and independent, took it all standing up, ready for anything. But Maureen, timid and retiring, not a little bit dazed, passed through the ordeal only by virtue of her innate sweetness and charm.

She didn't know the Hollywood maxim that you've got to talk right up.

NOW, after eight months and two pictures, she is a new Maureen. Only enough timidity is left to add charm, she is more poised, more sure of herself, with a cheery smile for everyone.

Her blue eyes, once a bit frightened, frequently twinkle with mischievous Irish humor.

But for all the change she is still as naive a girl as Hollywood has seen. Herself a movie actress, she is an insatiable star-gazer and fan.

To date she has met many stars, and at least has seen all except Greta Garbo and Clara Bow. When she can put a check by these two on the mental list she keeps of "seen and unseen," she will be happier.

SHE would like to collect autographs but doesn't. She is too shy to ask fellow players for their signatures.

Unlike Maureen, little Tommy has an impressive collection. Tommy's however, is all that Maureen owns.

But the thrill of having fans seek hers, at the openings, is equaled only by the intense fright she felt on first facing the camera.

She admits, rather shyly, to "one or two" boy friends—none "steady." But nobody asked her to attend the openings of her first two pictures, and she went finally with an executive's party. She has only a few close friends.

THIS is a season of real screen come-backs, Pauline Starke, who hadn't done much on the screen since "The Viking" two years ago, took Mary Nolan's place in "What Men Want" after the blonde star and her studio temporarily severed relations.

MILTON SILLS

Otis Skinner, who made "Kismet" for the silent screen years ago, is now audifilming it on a more lavish scale, despite his 72 years.

Milton Sills, after his long illness, again is under contract, as is Bryant Washburn movie idol contemporary of Francis X. Bushman, who is still in Hollywood and acting.

Pauline Garon again is a featured player, and Vera Reynolds, not long ago popular as a star, returns in "Why Marry?"

Mary Nolan, after her tempestuous exit, of course, has returned and is working again. To punish her the studio built her a beautiful new bungalow dressing room!

EVELYN LAYE whose blonde loveliness captured Broadway and who is now in Hollywood for talkies, carries a black enamel cigarette case with a tiny watch in one corner, but depends on a platinum and diamond wrist watch for the time.

In London, where the girls worship their stage heroines, she is one of the adored. There is one girl who has gone to see her every night when she played there.

She has seen "Bulldog Drummond" seven times because she considers the singing in that film the best of any to date.

There is a restaurant in London run by a Frenchman who is such a Laye fan that he never presents her with a check.

LOWELL SHERMAN and Lionel Barrymore are actors who have made acting a training for directing. But five former directors are now acting, all in one picture.

They are James Kirkwood, Oscar Apfel, who assisted Cecil B. de Mille in directing "The Squaw Man" and directed many features himself; Lloyd Ingraham, George Irving and George "Slim" Summerville, who was one of Sennett's original Keystone cops, and now has returned as a comedian.

Sergei Eisenstein, young Russian, director, says the late Barbara La Marr is still the most popular screen actress in his native land.

impersonations and disguises in such pictures as "Road to Mandalay," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Thunder" and "Tell It to the Marines," among others, presents an entirely new aspect as a talking player. With a resonant baritone voice and an uncanny facility for imitating character voices, gleaned from his 20 years on the stage, he can literally "make up" his voice as he does his face so that it is difficult to guess just which of his vocal disguises is most like his natural speech.

SCOTT KOLB, who, as the wealthy young big city ne'er-do-well, plays a part in William Powell's "For the Defense" at the Ambassador Theater all this week, is, like Rudy Vallee, another band leader from Maine who has made good with the public.

His career in the show business, while brief, has been an active one. While a student at the University of Maine he organized a dance band which became so popular that he and his band left school to accept a vaudeville engagement. Next, Kolb played in the Broadway musical show, "Take the Air," and following that engagement he took his band to Italy where he introduced the American master of ceremony idea to the Lido. Being urged to do so by all who knew him, he next went to Hollywood and has had a series of fortunate parts in the talkies.

He played a lead in a Laura La Plante picture and a featured part in a Marion Davies release. Before he signed for "For the Defense," he took part in "All Quiet on the Western Front" as a featured player.

IT IS a somewhat curious fact that most of the movie heroines who always get their men in reel life remain spinsters—and in spite of their wiles and charms.

There is, for example, Lois Wilson, who always wins the man she loves. She has been rumored engaged several times. Jetta Goudal and Doris Lloyd, both dangerous screen sirens, also are single.

Clara Bow has had many engagements but never a wedding, in or out of pictures. Greta Garbo, most famous of all snarers, never has even been engaged to anyone in Hollywood.

The list includes such names as Kay Francis, Alice White, Lois Moran, Olive Borden, Barbara Kent, Mary Brian, Lily Damita, Anita Page and dozens of others.

Most of them will say they haven't met the right person yet, and maybe that's so, but business has something to do with it. They all think moviegoers romanticize them less when they are married—and so less popularity.

She Can Do It, Too

Bancroft Bans Use Of Makeup in Work

GEORGE BANCROFT was the first established screen player in Hollywood to dispense with the use of make-up for the cameras.

Prior to Bancroft's refusal to wear grease paint or powder, film cameramen had believed it impossible to get good photographic results without the use of some skin-lightening agent.

Bancroft insisted that the use of make-up robbed him of his naturalness and made him appear to be wearing a mask.

Ginger Rogers Will Remain East.

Ginger Rogers' scheduled trip to Hollywood is off. Instead of traveling to the West coast to play in Irving Berlin's first screen production, she will remain in New York to take the leading feminine role in Ed Wynn's forthcoming starring picture, "Manhattan Mary," which will be filmed in August at the Eastern studio.

One of the greatest losses the writing fraternity has suffered recently is that of William Bolitho, a London writer who wrote for a time so brilliantly in New York. In his 30s he had determined to give up the newspaper grind and retire to his recently bought home in Avignon. France, to write leisurely the plays and books he always wanted to author. An operation ended fatally and the world lost one of its most promising literary hopes.

One of the best European observers writing today, in my opinion, is Alex Small, whose observations appear in the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune. He is one of the few writers who do not apologize for Americans in Europe. He is just, but he does not kow-tow. Generally speaking, the English-speaking press, especially the American section on the continent, is afflicted with a wholly disgusting and weak-kneed subserviency to European diplomacy. If America would send diplomats to Europe the caliber of Paul Claudel, whom France sent to America, there would not be so much hooting of Americans abroad. Most of our diplomats spend their time drinking tea with rich expatriots who have social ambitions.

Extra Girl to Be Chevalier's Lead

A HOLLYWOOD extra girl will play opposite Maurice Chevalier in his next picture.

This newest true-life Cinderella to be offered Hollywood's approximation of a golden coach and four is Frances Dee, still in her 'teens, and still dazed by the suddenness of this latest turn in her life.

Miss Dee is a Southern California girl, born in Los Angeles, but educated in Chicago and at the University of Chicago, to which city her parents moved when she was 7.

During a summer vacation spent in California Miss Dee, through friendship with girls attending the University of Southern California, learned that Fox was making a picture of campus life and that college girls were being employed as extras. She applied and received unusual encouragement for a beginner. Since that time she has been a "professional" extra.

Extra work in Paramount's production of "Follow Thru" took her to that studio and a screen test followed. A small contract was offered her and her first work under this was as a stenographer in a brief "flash" scene in Ernst Lubitsch's new production. "Monte Carlo."

Miss Dee's test, however, was seen by Chevalier and Ludwig Berger, who will direct the new Chevalier picture, and additional tests won her the leading role in his support. Lillian Roth, first announced for the past, is unable to play it because of work in the New York studios, where she is playing in "Animal Crackers" with the Four Marx Brothers.

The new Chevalier picture tentatively is titled "The Little Cafe." It is a farce comedy with several songs, all of them to be sung by Chevalier.

EXCURSIONS TO VISIT MUNICIPAL OPERA

Railroads Include Tickets to Performances With Transportation Rate.

Using the Municipal Theater as an inducement to come to St. Louis, railroads are promoting special excursions.

The Wabash Railroad announce a special excursion from Missouri and Illinois points for a "Wabash night" at next Saturday's showing of "Maytime," and is selling seats along with railroad tickets.

The Cotton Belt Railroad, which recently operated an excursion from Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas with a ticket for "Blossom Time" included in the excursion rate, is arranging a similar program for the week when "Show Boat" is presented.

The first of a series of excursions on various branches of its system was started yesterday by the Missouri Pacific Railroad from Arkansas points. A Municipal Theater reservation is included with each ticket sold at points within a 200-mile radius of St. Louis.

Early next month the Chicago & Alton Railroad will give a low rate excursion for "Madame Pompadour," and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas will offer rates for the Aug. 1 performance of the same opera. The Frisco will give an excursion Aug. 6 and the Illinois Central Aug. 9 when "The Student Prince" will be given.

NORTH SIDE BUSINESS MEN WIN TREE PLANTING AWARD

To Get Chamber of Commerce Cup in Contest Among Civic Organizations.

The North St. Louis Business Men's Association will be awarded the Chamber of Commerce cup for planting the greatest number of trees in a contest which the General Council on Civic Needs undertook the early part of this year among the civic organizations of St. Louis. Individual members of the organization planted 250 trees during the time the contest was held.

To encourage participation in the contest the Park Department reduced the price of trees from $7 to $5, and for each tree purchased from the department not only agreed to plant it, but guaranteed to maintain it and replace if it died from natural causes within three years. A number of nursery concerns also co-operated with the Tree Committee in the contest, which ended on April 30.

ST. LOUIS DAY PLANS FOR MISSOURI FAIR

Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Bureau Arranging for Delegation of 400.

The St. Louis delegation to the Missouri State Fair on Aug. 19, designated as Greater St. Louis day, will number more than 400 persons, if plans now being formulated by the Agricultural Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce are carried through. About 230 persons constituted the delegation last year.

The representation usually includes members of clubs and civic organizations, who travel by special train to Sedalia, not only to enter into activities specially designated as set aside for St. Louisans at the fair, but to make business contacts with persons from other parts of the State. It is hoped this year that two special trains will be used to carry the group.

Rates for the round trip are $15 a person, an all-expense arrangement which takes care of railroad fare, meals, admission to the fair and reserved seats in the grand stand, together with delegation badges. Music for the party has been arranged by a band that will accompany it.

Interest in the State Fair is said to be heightened this year by the establishment of the National Dairy Show here last fall. Henry W. Kiel is chairman of the committee making arrangements for this year's excursion.

E. ST. LOUIS DRY AGENT DISARMED DURING RAID

He and Partner Leave Place to Get Police, Find It Deserted on Their Return.

Prohibition Agents Z. R. Doyle and G. W. Vanden are looking for a man who threatened them with a revolver Friday afternoon when they walked into the home of Mrs. Goldie Stamper, Twenty-fourth street and St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, to serve a search warrant.

Recognized as dry raiders, the agents were greeted with shouts of derision from the 10 or 12 persons gathered in the house. One man in the group drew a revolver, according to Deputy Prohibition Administrator Hamilton, held up the two agents and took Doyle's revolver from the holster.

The agents and other guests joined in persuading the man to return the revolver. He gave it back and the agents departed. A few minutes later they returned with policemen and found Mrs. Stamper alone. No liquor was found and no arrest was made.

HOLDUP IN BARBER SHOP

Oscar Robertson and Customer Robbed by Two Men.

Oscar Robertson, proprietor of a barber shop at 2913 Benton street, was robbed of $12 yesterday, and Robert Delaney, 2423 North Grand boulevard, a customer, was robbed of $60 by two armed men who entered the barber shop, forced Robertson and Delaney into a washroom, but allowed another customer, stretched out in a barber chair, his face swathed in a towel, to stay where he was.

The robbers then left the place, noticed Delaney's automobile standing in front, jumped into the car and escaped.

The "WORLD'S RICHEST BABY" to Wed a Preacher's Daughter

John Nicholas Brown of Boston, Closely Guarded Through Childhood, Pursued by Matchmakers Since Manhood, Chooses Baltimore Girl, Once a Reporter, to Share His $100,000,000.

John Nicholas Brown.

BOSTON.

THE most sought-after matrimonial catch in the United States — youthful, handsome, likeable, and a millionaire many times over—is off the market. John Nicholas Brown, of Boston, with homes in Providence, Newport and New York, descendant of a shrewd and thrifty Yankee trading family, is about to take unto himself a wife in the person of Miss Anne Seddon Kinsolving, a minister's daughter.

The announcement of the engagement of Boston's richest and most eligible bachelor by the parents of his prospective bride, the Rev. Arthur Barksdale Kinsolving, D. D., and Mrs. Kinsolving, of Baltimore, Maryland, has not only upset the calm of many feminine hearts, but has stirred the gossipers between Bailey's Beach and Beacon Hill to dwelling again on how the Hub multi-millionaire came to receive the title of "The World's Richest Baby."

Brown, a democratic young man, easy-going and free from the snobbishness that often goes with immense riches, has done many things in life, but he has never been able to live down the sobriquet he resents, "The World's Richest Baby," which was pinned on him many years ago by a Boston news writer. There are variations of title, such as "The Richest Boy in America," "The Richest Baby in the World," and "The World's Wealthiest Lad," but they are all anathema to John Nicholas Brown of Boston, Providence and Newport.

It was on February 22, 1921, while a member of the junior class at Harvard University, that John Nicholas Brown became of age and entered into possession of his huge fortune. He is the heir of the Browns of Providence, Rhode Island, and the last to bear the name of his family. Through marriage, however, the name may survive, and should he have a son the world will again have another "richest baby."

The foundation of the great fortune which John Nicholas now possesses dates really from the year 1874, when his grandfather, John Carter Brown, died, leaving an estate of $25,000,000. Through a curious twist of circumstances these millions, practically intact, with additions, of course, were dumped into the lap of young Brown.

In the 47 years between the death of his grandfather and the coming of age of John Nicholas in 1921, this $25,000,000 had grown substantially. In the last nine years the wealth of the young Bostonian has continued to increase and today it is estimated that he is worth about $100,000,000.

FOR more than a decade, charming young women, aided by their devoted and far-seeing mammas, have trailed John Nicholas from one corner of the world to another, all anxious to become Mrs. Brown and help in the spending of the Brown millions.

In the fashionable Newport and Beacon Hill sets, with which he mingled, speculation has been rife for many years as to whether he would select for a helpmeet a Cabot, a Lowell, a Higginson, a Vanderbilt, an Astor, a Rhinelander, a Havemeyer, a Harriman, a Gould—someone nearly as rich and socially prominent as himself.

And now he astonishes the world by making a romantic match with a girl who is neither rich nor a social butterfly, but a member of a cultured and aristocratic Southern family. Over the stately mansions of Brown, one on that most fashionable of America's boulevards, Commonwealth avenue, Boston, another in the heart of the ultra exclusive section of Providence, and a third, one of the great showplaces of Newport, will soon preside the daughter of a Southern preacher, author and educator.

Brown, unlike many other wealthy Bostonians, did not succumb to some captivating beauty of the stage, and in this he disappointed the gossipers of Beacon Hill and Bailey's Beach and confused the prophets who gather nightly in the swagger clubs of the Hub.

Another view of Miss Kinsolving.

Miss Kinsolving, who is to become Mrs. Brown early this fall, made her debut several seasons ago. Coming from a family whose activities for generations have been linked with the Episcopal Church, she is a serious-minded young woman. For some time she worked as a newspaper reporter. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Thomas Seddon Bruce of Richmond, Virginia, and the niece of former Senator William Cabell Bruce of Maryland. and of Philip Alexander Bruce. She is the niece also of the late Rt. Rev. George Herbert Kinsolving, Bishop of Texas, and of the late Rt. Rev. Lucien Lee Kinsolving, Bishop of Southern Brazil.

Since the Civil War the Kinsolvings have been noted as stanch Democrats, but the radiant Anne Seddon Kinsolving did not allow this matter of political faith to interfere with her romance with the scion of a Yankee household, which was once the most intensely Republican in all New England.

Since young Brown's graduation from Harvard, with the class of 1922, he has busied himself looking after his great holdings, which embrace bank stocks and gilt-edged securities of every type. As is well known, especially in New England, the grandfather of John Nicholas had much to do with the founding of Brown University at Providence.

BUT when John Nicholas graduated from St. George's School and his mother, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, looked around for a college to complete the youth's education, she made a decision which made many Rhode Islanders mad clear through. She sent him to Harvard. Brown was, of course, disappointed that the last bearer of the founder's name should not be enrolled as one of its students. But for generations friends of the Brown trading dynasty had sent their boys to the great institution at Cambridge, and so "the richest boy in the world" became a Harvard man.

The history of the fortune now possessed by the 29-year old John Nicholas Brown is not without interest, now that there's soon to be a Mrs. John Nicholas Brown. The foundation of the fortune was the textile industry. Old John Carter Brown, the founder of Brown University, when he died in 1874 left his $25,000,000 in trust for his three children, John Nicholas Brown, Harold Brown and Sophia Augusta Brown, who became Mrs. William Watts Sherman.

John Nicholas Brown married Miss Nathalie Bayard Dresser, who became the mother of John Nicholas Jr. When John Nicholas Sr. died, he left his property to his son, now the Boston and Providence multi-millionaire. Then his brother, Harold Brown, died suddenly. Though married, he left no heirs.

MRS. WILLIAM WATTS SHERMAN, the lad's aunt, during the greater part of her lifetime, left her holdings in possession of the Brown estate. While it yielded her an immense sum, more than she ever needed for her wants, she had but one thought—the principal was for her nephew, John Nicholas.

Thus, in time, there came to John Nicholas Brown the entire fortune of old John Carter Brown and the additions it earned during a period of nearly 50 years.

In connection with the title of "The World's Richest Baby," there can be no questioning that his mother was indirectly responsible for the youth's being saddled with this doubtful honor. She was wrapped up in the lad's welfare, and from the day of his birth she guarded him with a care that bordered almost on the fanatical, although she says many of the stories printed about the precautions she took on the child's behalf were ridiculously untrue. As a baby he was quite delicate, and there were times during his infancy when his life hung by the proverbial thread.

During a crisis in the infant Brown's life Mrs. Brown declared, "No price is too great to pay for my baby's life." And then and there she ordered a special train to speed to Providence from New York with four

An Unpunctured Auto Tire gives the Clew in Kansas Murder Mystery

Roy Kramer Apparently Had Been Struck by a Passing Motorist While Making Repairs. Now the Confessed Slayer Says He Jacked Up One Wheel of Victim's Car and Deflated the Tire but Forgot to Drive in a Nail.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

TOPEKA, Kansas.

IT WOULD have taken only two minutes more. Two minutes to carry out the final detail of a murder plot, and in all human probability the record would have been written, accidental death. Two minutes more and the respectability of two of the most prominent households in this city would have been preserved, scandal and humiliation would have been averted.

But Virgil Pointer, who swears that he committed the murder for his employer, was excited, frightened. He forgot to take the final step, the step on which all the rest of the plot hinged. So a strange story comes to light and Louis H. Kimmel, president of the Kaw Packing Company, faces trial as an accomplice to the murder of the vice president and mainstay of his firm.

Roy Kramer, vice president, who was found slain.

Passing motorists found the body of Roy Kramer on the road beside his car. One wheel was on the jack and the tire was flat. It seemed an obvious case. Kramer, salesman and cattle buyer and a vice president of the Kaw company, had been fixing the tire when he was knocked down and killed by a hit-and-run driver.

The theory that Kramer was killed by another motorist tentatively was accepted, although the Coroner's investigation brought the report that even though it was possible that the fatal wound could have been caused by a motor car, it appeared to have been inflicted with a blunt implement—an iron bar or heavy timber.

Although the spot where Kramer's body was found was just across the line in Jefferson County and out of his jurisdiction as Sheriff of Shawnee County, Sheriff Wayne Horning and his chief deputy, Everett T. Probasco, hurried from Topeka to investigate the death and arrived at the scene before the body was removed.

PERHAPS it was Horning's training as a flyer that made him look for a mechanical clew in the case and prompted him to study the flat tire on the left front wheel of the Kramer car. Discovering the dead man was a resident of Topeka, the youthful Sheriff was granted permission to take the deflated tire to Topeka for inspection.

Taking the flat tire to the county garage in Topeka, Sheriff Horning and Deputy Probasco were surprised to learn that it held air and apparently had been deflated merely as a blind to make good the impression the killer sought to leave—that a passing motorist killed Kramer as he was crouched with his back to the moving traffic, working at the tire lugs on the front wheel.

Believing that this apparent decoy was the best indication that the packing company official was murdered, Sheriff Horning moved cautiously in his efforts to learn if Kramer had any enemies.

At this point a fact came to light which, though it seemed unimportant at the time, was later to play a part in the solution of the crime. It was discovered that Kramer maintained a room in which he occasionally spent the night at the packing plant. It was a neatly-furnished bedroom, which, Kimmel said, the vice president occupied when returning from a business trip at such a late hour that he did not care to disturb his family. It was on the top floor of the packing plant.

NEXT Sheriff Horning learned that Kramer and Kimmel had quarreled shortly before the former's death. Mrs. Kramer, the widow, said she believed it had been a business quarrel.

Following other leads afforded him through gossip, Sheriff Horning soon reached the conclusion that the slayer would be found at the packing plant. The arrest of Pointer followed when it was learned that the president of the company had made two payments on a motor car the employe was buying on the time-payment plan.

Taking Pointer into custody, Sheriff Horning grilled him for almost two days, continuing the questioning even after the man confessed killing Kramer and named Kimmel as a conspirator. The fact that Kimmel came from a rich farming family of Kansas, was socially prominent in Topeka and a recognized leader in business may have caused Horning to proceed with extreme caution. The Sheriff checked and re-checked Pointer's story of beating Kramer to death near the bedroom in the packing house and then transporting the body to the spot where it was found the next day.

When J. Glenn Logan, County Attorney, assured the Sheriff the facts warranted charges against Kimmel, Mrs. Kramer was called in and she signed the complaint charging the president of the packing company with first-degree murder.

And now still another person was drawn into the tangle. Questioning of Pointer and others disclosed that both Kramer and Kimmel had been interested in Miss Catherine Vick, 23-year-old stenographer employed by the packing firm. It was learned that they had quarreled over her, that they had both sought dates with her.

Louis H. Kimmel, president of firm in Topeka, accused as accomplice.

The 42-year-old president accepted the charges quietly and immediately opened negotiations to have his father qualify for the $25,000 bond that is saving him from the ordeal of prison life pending his trial.

Sheriff Wayne Horning.

Where Kramer was the jovial, back-slapping vice president, one of the lanky six-footers who usually are associated with any movie of a cattle buyer, Kimmel was a polished social leader who directed the office affairs of the company and held a heavy hand on expenses. Where Kramer bought cattle and was the firm's chief salesman, touring the State almost constantly, Kimmel was the office czar whose task it often was to discard some of the orders Kramer turned in from concerns without a good credit rating.

Kramer was the type ready to take a drink with friends or customers, but Kimmel was an ardent prohibitionist and was known to have discharged employes coming to work with liquor on their breath.

The arrest of Kimmel, however, brought from him a statement that he had frequently had dates with Miss Vick, the stenographer.

"WE HAVE heard from Pointer that he killed Kramer in a hallway in the packing plant where you men often entertained women," said the Sheriff in questioning Kimmel.

"Kramer first started using that room when his traveling got him back to Topeka too late to disturb his family," Kimmel began, "but of late I know he had dinner parties there, but that was his own business so far as I am concerned."

"Did you ever entertain women there?" asked the Sheriff.

Kimmel showed signs of dismay and denied that he had ever entertained women friends in the room over the business offices.

Virgil D. Pointer, who has confessed the killing.

"I first heard about Roy taking women to that room from our night watchmen," Kimmel continued, "but always felt it was none of my business. It was not my job to tell his wife. How many women he brought there I don't know, other than that the watchmen have told me they saw several different ones."

"Who is this Miss Vick who resigned from your office today?" put in the County Attorney, mentioning the stenographer for the first time.

Ignoring the protests, the County Attorney continued his questions.

"Did you ever have dates with her?"

"Yes, several," was the reply.

"Did she ever go out with Kramer?"

"Only once. She said he was not a gentleman," answered Kimmel.

Bringing up the reports of a quarrel between the two officials over the stenographer, the next question was as follows:

"Did you and Kramer ever quarrel over her?"

"After her one date with Roy he wanted her fired, but I told him that was my job, to hire and dismiss my assistants, and that she would remain."

Kimmel at this point asked permission to explain how he met Miss Vick. He said she was his nurse while he was in a hospital recuperating from an automobile accident.

OVER Kimmel's protests the county authorities have talked to Miss Vick, but have not detained her. "She has promised to remain in Topeka in case we want her," the County Attorney said.

Miss Vick contends that she is entirely innocent of any wrongdoing. She says that both men more or less forced their attentions on her. Kimmel was her employer. She could not afford to offend him. She is deeply distressed by the whole affair.

The confession to the actual murder has met considerable fire from the Sheriff's office on the grounds that it would have been a mighty job for one man to overcome the six-foot Kramer and move the body to the spot where it was found. Pointer, however, has insisted that he acted alone. His description of the murder is as follows:

Knowing that Kramer was due to reach Topeka late at night after a trip into the country and no doubt would spend the night in the bedroom over the packing house office, Pointer armed himself with a heavy two-by-four timber and went into hiding behind shipping boxes that are stacked along the hallway leading to the vice president's private room.

At the top of the stairs leading to the bedroom is a single electric bulb that glares into the eyes of anyone coming up the steps. Realizing that he would not be seen because of this light, Pointer said he hurried from behind the shipping boxes to the head of the stairs when he heard approaching footsteps.

Stepping back to have a clear path to swing his bludgeon on the back of Kramer's head, Pointer said he waited until the vice president was three steps from the top before swinging downward with all his force.

As Kramer crumpled on the steps, the roustabout said he administered several other blows to make sure he had killed his victim. Then, moving as methodically as the killers in the butchering rooms below, Pointer told how he took a muslin sack and wrapped it over Kramer's head to prevent bloodstains as he dragged the prostrate form down the steps and placed the dead man in a sitting position in his own motor car.

HURRYING back to the murder scene, Pointer said he recalled Kimmel's last words of warning and began to remove what little blood was on the top steps of the stairway. Next he hid his death weapon, went back to the Kramer car and after searching the dead man's clothing for the ignition keys, started the machine and drove to the spot where he and Kimmel had agreed the body should be discovered.

Reaching his goal, Pointer said, he dragged the dead man out of the car and laid him face downward on the highway just a few feet in front of his own motor car. To make it appear Kramer was killed while changing a tire, the killer said, he jacked up the left front wheel, working hurriedly for fear a passing motorist would drive by and see the body of Kramer on the highway. To let the air out of the tire, Pointer said, he placed a match against the valve and removed it when the tire became deflated. He had planned to drive a nail into the tire, but became excited and forgot it, according to his confession.

As the County Attorney read off these facts to Kimmel, the president of the packing company remained unmoved.

"Gentlemen, I am innocent," he insisted. "I don't know why Pointer should say I wanted Roy slain. Roy was the biggest man in our company. He got the bulk of the business and did virtually all of the cattle buying."

Against this the authorities have accepted the slow-moving Pointer's story that Kimmel promised him a better job if the vice president was put out of the way. "He made two payments on my car and already I was beginning to have it easier," the confessed killer told the Sheriff and County Attorney.

The final chapter in the slaying will be written in the Shawnee County District Court in Topeka. As the Kansas law does not permit capital punishment, a conviction of first-degree murder for Kimmel and Pointer would mean life in prison, or possibly less for the president of the company if he should succeed in being tried only as an accomplice. In the meantime, Kimmel has resigned from the presidency of the company, a job that he spent 2[illegible] years attaining.

No More Bathing Beauty Contests for Miami

Florida City "Cured" by Aftermath of Disqualifications, Debts, and Troubles of Stranded Queens.

MIAMI, Florida.

IT SEEMS a shame that the promoters of Miami's all-American bathing beauty pageant couldn't wait until it was over to hold it. So many attractions have been added since the enterprise, after a futile struggle against tremendous public indifference, came to a debt-ridden close.

Think what a ballyhoo could be offered now. "Right this way, ladies and gents, to see four supreme queens of beauty crowned, one after another. Each one positively guaranteed to be America's sweetheart and one of 'em married, at that. Watch six gorgeous girls from one town represent the pulchritude of six different states, using only the customary makeup. Thrill to the plight of a little band of lovely Latin ladies, stranded in the wilds of Atlanta. Try to solve the mystery of the missing Nicaraguan beauty. Hear the masterly moaning of Miami, stuck with the check." Even a public that is no longer bathing-beauty-minded ought to pay important money to take in all that.

There is no denying that the beauty pageant, as presented last March, was a flop. And Miami probably has an idea now of how Philadelphia felt after the Sesqui-Centennial. Not that Miami put on the show itself. But it welcomed the promoters and entertained high hopes of the benefit the municipality would derive from the affair—the publicity and all the people flocking into town to see the beauties from all over the United States and South and Central America parade in bathing suits.

THE beauties came to Miami and a reasonable amount of publicity heralded their arrival and subsequent activities. But too late it was discovered that people wouldn't give up their money any more to see pretty girls in bathing suits. The contesting belles were feted and photographed, but they couldn't draw paid admissions. So the pageant company was left with debts instead of profits. It referred creditors to the city, and Miami, consequently, has received bills for nearly $25,000—bills for railway and steamship transportation of the beauties and for their hotel bills and prizes at the contest. The Seaboard Air Line Railway Company has sued the city for $10,000 for the transportation, food and Pullman accommodations it furnished.

Miami has agreed to pay some of these bills, not because it feels it owes them, for the beauty pageant was a private enterprise, but because it fears it would suffer from adverse publicity if it didn't.

BEFORE the pageant ended the group of judges, including John Golden, theatrical producer; Johnny Farrell, former open golf champion, and Mayor Reeder of Miami, chose Janet Eastment, a 20-year-old blonde, entered as Miss Texas, as the queen of the United States beauties. She received a jewel-studded coronet, a large silver loving cup, the title of America's Sweetheart and $2500 in cash. As an additional award, she was to be sent to Rio de Janeiro in September to represent this country in an international beauty pageant.

Second place went to Miss Alberta McKellop, Miss California, and third to Miss Margaret Ekdahl, Miss Florida.

In the Latin-American group Senorita Melida Boyd of Panama, a school teacher, was the victor, and on her black, glossy hair a coronet was placed. Senorita Julia Salazar Loria of Costa Rica won second place, and Senorita Haydee Morales of Nicaragua, third. The three Latin-American winners received loving cups.

The Latin-Americans, incidentally, provided a novelty for such affairs by insisting on being judged in evening gowns instead of bathing suits. Senorita Loria started it by declaring it was not proper for a girl to appear in a bathing suit unless she was in the water. The other Latins agreed with her, and the judges humored them. Representatives of the States showed they had no narrow prejudice against evening gowns by wearing them as well as beach creations when they were judged.

Well, the prizes were awarded, the show ended, and the beauties were ready to depart. But the Pageant Committee had no money to pay their fares home. The Miami City Commission took cognizance of the situation and appropriated $4660 from the city's publicity fund to meet the situation. The beauties departed and the sachet fumes slowly cleared away. Miami was left to feed its estheticism on the loveliness of its native flora and fauna and to consider ways and means in connection with the contest's heritage of debt.

A group of the Latin-American delegates had decided not to go home at once. Instead it started on a barnstorming tour west, with Hollywood and the movies as its objectives. A representative of a number of South American newspapers was in charge of the tour.

The troupe got as far as Atlanta, Georgia. There the tour suddenly terminated. Senorita Boyd, with her chaperone and father, returned to Miami and reported that others of the company were stranded, without money to pay their hotel bills or even buy food. Miss Guatemala, it was added, was safe and well, and presumably happy, having married the tour manager.

THE harassed City Commission had already dug into its treasury to buy steamship tickets home for Miss Ecuador and Miss Panama. It considered gloomily this new call for help. And while it considered, further word on the subject came from the embassies of Peru and Bolivia. Miss Peru and Miss Bolivia had managed to get from Atlanta to Washington and were being cared for there by their respective embassies, whose officials supported the girls' demands for transportation home.

Miss Chile, meanwhile, had ceased to bombard the commission with S O S calls. She had married.

The Miami city fathers finally decided they would have to stand the gaff. They guaranteed payment of the hotel bills of the Latin beauties, thus releasing their luggage, and authorized their transportation home at the expense of the city of Miami.

But the trouble involving the visitors from the Southern republics was not yet over. For before the beauties had been rescued from their financial predicament in Atlanta, one of them, Senorita Morales, Miss Nicaragua, disappeared. She had gone on the tour with the expectation of joining her father in San Francisco. But since her disappearance, information has reached here that Senor Morales is no longer in San Francisco and the pageant promoters have not been able to learn where he is.

ST. LOUIS caught up with Earl Reed, gunman, the other day, through the co-operation of the State of Idaho and the U. S. Government. St. Louis has been wanting Reed badly for a year. It believes he murdered one of its veteran policemen.

Two men entered a cigar store at 3908 South Broadway on the afternoon of June 25, 1929, and held up the proprietor. Patrolman William McCormack, who was in a rear room with the door between open, was surprised and shot to death by one of the robbers.

A few days later a woman became talkative in a "beer flat" and let out information which reached the police. Eugene E. Ware, William P. Maloney and Joseph Daher were arrested. Ware admitted he was one of the pair who entered the store. Maloney said he remained outside in the automobile in which they escaped. Daher said he drove the group to the scene of the holdup, but deserted when he discovered what their mission was. All three are now serving life terms in the penitentiary at Jefferson City. Ware and Maloney, who pleaded guilty, said Earl Reed was the man with Ware in the store and the one who killed the policeman.

Reed got away from St. Louis and the records of his case accumulated dust as the months passed.

Then a man robbed a bank in Idaho, was arrested, convicted and sent to the State penitentiary at Boise for 10 to 20 years. He said he was Earl Ross. On entering the prison his finger prints were taken as a matter of routine and a copy of them was sent to the National Bureau of Identification at Washington. There, again as a matter of routine, the prints were classified and turned over to a searcher to see if there were duplicates on file. The searcher found a duplicate set—found that Earl Ross had been "printed" when sent to a prison farm in Indiana under the name of Earl Reed. From the prison farm he had escaped, less than a month before the holdup murder in St. Louis.

The National Identification Bureau notified the St. Louis police that its man was found, and local authorities immediately began efforts to bring him to trial here.

Earl Reed is one of the many who have learned they can change their names, but as long as they have their finger prints they are inexorably linked with their identities. The penetration of his alias illustrates the working of a great system which constitutes one of the most effective weapons used against criminals.

THE National Bureau of Identification, operated by the Department of Justice, is a finger-print clearing house for the United States. It has the impressions of the finger ends of every person sent to a penitentiary in this country in the last five years, and of nearly every person arrested for a felony in that time. It receives hundreds of finger prints daily from prison and police departments. These it classifies, files and reports upon if reports would be useful. More than 2,500,000 sets of prints are in its files. Close to 100 clerks are kept at work on its records.

The system works in this manner: Detectives, investigating a series of filling-station holdups here, arrest a suspect. He is a man of medium height and build, about middle age, but partly bald, with gray hair and a complete set of false teeth. Although he fits in a general way the description of the robber, so do thousands of other men; the holdup man wore a mask and none of the victims can identify him. The suspect says his name is Joseph Brown and he has a job. His photograph does not seem to be in the rogues' gallery.

The police, having reason to believe, from information received through one of their many underworld channels, that Brown is not on the "up and up," take his finger prints. They are classified and the local police files are searched for a set of duplicates. There are 250,000 sets of prints at the St. Louis Police Headquarters, but it can be determined in a few minutes whether Brown's are among them. If no prints of the same classification are on file, the search can be completed within two minutes.

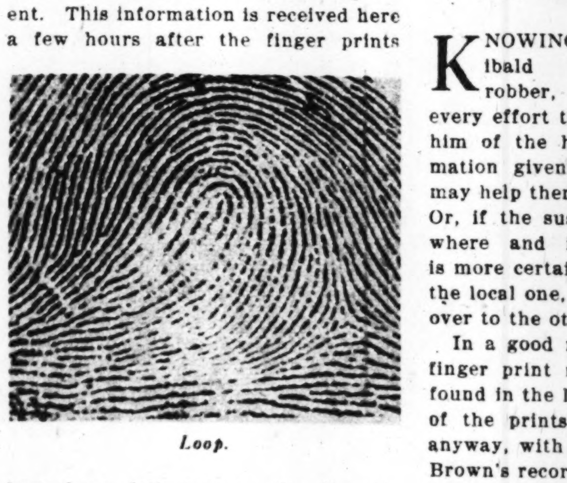
SUPPOSE the local files do not contain Brown's prints. A copy of them is made and sent to the bureau at Washington. On delivery there, they are classified by an expert and given to a clerk, who searches the records for duplicates. If he finds a duplicate set and the accompanying record shows Brown is wanted some place for trial, the bureau notifies the St. Louis police by telegraph, telling who Brown is, what his misdeeds have been and where he is wanted at present. This information is received here a few hours after the finger prints have been delivered to the bureau. The latter also notifies the city which wants Brown.

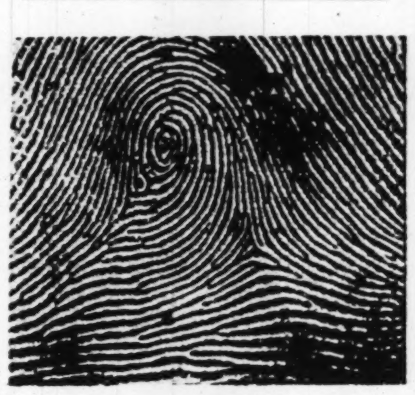


Loop.

If the national bureau has the suspect's prints and record but has no knowledge of his being wanted to answer to a crime, it sends information about him to St. Louis by mail, which means that the local authorities receive it from a few days to a week after they sent the finger prints away. Whether Brown is wanted or not, the bureau adds to its own record of him the fact of his arrest in St. Louis, and, later, the disposition of this case. If there is no record of the man in Washington, the bureau there merely puts the prints from St. Louis in its files.

It may be that the local police do not depend entirely on the Washington bureau for help in identifying Brown. If they have reason to think he might be known in some other city, they send a copy of the prints to that city as well, as more complete information might be obtained from that source.

Suppose Brown has a record. The National Bureau of Identification informs the authorities here that his real name is, say, Archibald Flittermouse, and he has done time in Sing Sing and San Quentin for robbery. Maybe the rogues' gallery here contains a picture of him, after all, but one taken eight years ago, when he had a fine head of bushy black hair, and all his teeth and a straight nose that has since been broken; the photograph doesn't look much like him now. Even some of his bodily measurements have changed. But he has the same finger prints he had when he was a child and will have when he dies.



Central pocket loop.

KNOWING Joseph Brown is Archibald Flittermouse, notorious robber, the police will make every effort to get evidence to convict him of the holdups here, and information given with the identification may help them to obtain this evidence. Or, if the suspect is wanted elsewhere and in a case wherein he is more certain of punishment than in the local one, he is likely to be turned over to the other jurisdiction.

In a good many cases, of course, a finger print record of the suspect is found in the local police files. A copy of the prints is sent to Washington anyway, with a report to be added to Brown's record there. The police then act at once on the information which the establishment of identity supplies.

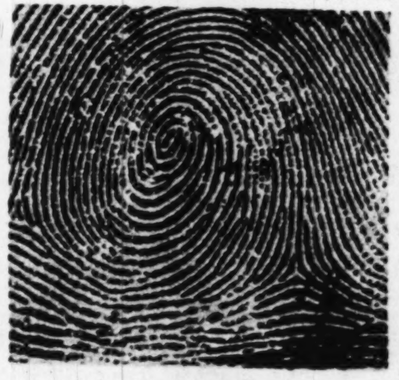
Virtually all the police departments in the United States having finger print systems and many in Canada use the Washington clearing house. All the state prisons send copies of the finger prints of their inmates to the national bureau. Some of the penitentiaries carry on an additional service. That at Jefferson City, for instance, just before a convict is released, sends out copies of his finger prints to the principal cities in Missouri. When a prisoner enters the Ohio State Penitentiary copies of his prints are sent to the principal cities throughout the United States.

Fifteen states have central finger print bureaus of their own. Cities in each of these send in prints to their State bureau, as they do to Washington. While a State bureau, of course, is more limited in scope than the national bureau, it can give prompter reports. The states having this special service are California, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New York, Indiana, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Minnesota and Louisiana.

Identification by finger prints has been known for centuries but was not taken up as a police system until 1901, when it was introduced in England, Francis Galton, an English scientist, having devised a method of classification.

Lieutenant Richard Joyce, present head of the Identification Bureau of the St. Louis Police Department, says this city was the first in the United States to adopt the finger print system. It was installed in the local department in 1904 by J. Kenneth Ferrier of Scotland Yard, who had come here to guard Queen Victoria's exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. John Shea at that time was head of the Identification Bureau. Joyce began his study of the system soon after its local installation.

THE theory of finger print identification is, of course, that no two fingers in the world have identical markings at their extremities. Galton said that only once in 64,000,000,000 times was it possible for two sets of fingers to make duplicate prints.



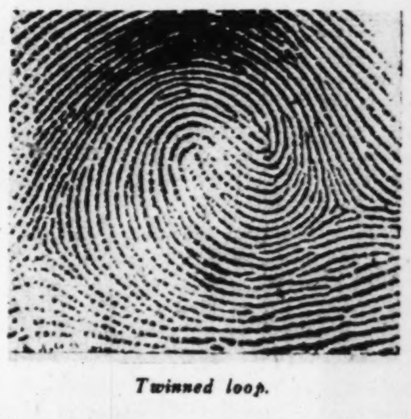
Whorl.

The prints are made by the moist ridges on the balls—not the tips—of the fingers. In recording finger prints, ink is spread thinly over a sheet of glass, the under surface of the subject's fingers is rolled gently on the ink by the operator and then rolled on a sheet of thin cardboard, each finger being handled separately. All the fingers on each hand are then pressed at once on the paper.

The Henry method of classification is the one commonly used in the United States. It is based on the arrangement and number of the lines shown in finger prints, several types of pattern being recognized. The primary classification is effected by grouping the prints of individual digits in pairs, the right thumb and right forefinger forming the first pair, the right middle and right ring fingers the second, the right little finger and left thumb the third, and so on. Each pair has a numerical value, and the sum of these values is a figure with a numerator and denominator, such as 11—10. Subordinate classification depends on the pattern types of the index and middle fingers, a count of certain lines (ridges) on index fingers and a count of lines on the little fingers. Whorls, loops and arches, with their combinations and variations, form the pattern types.

IN PROVING that one print or set of prints is a duplicate of another, an expert must show not merely that they belong to the same type, but that they are identical in the discernible characteristic points; that certain ridges are of the same length, are broken at the same place, and that various other idiosyncrasies exactly correspond.

In taking an impression of a finger print left at the scene of a crime, aluminum powder is sifted over it and then dusted off gently with a soft brush, a deposit of the powder clinging to the lines made by the summits of the finger ridges, while the spaces between are bare. The print then can be photographed. Lieutenant Joyce has devised a different method which is used in the St. Louis department. Instead of photographing the print after it has been dusted with the powder, local officers take an impression of it on a piece of tape of peculiar composition. The bit of tape containing the impression is taken to the Identification Bureau and photographed.



Twinned loop.

As an example of the advantageous use of this method, Joyce cites the investigation of a burglary in Webster Groves two years ago. A window had been broken and the burglar had lifted out a corner of it, leaving the prints of his left index finger and thumb on either side of the glass. One print would blur the other if photographed on the glass. Instead, impressions of the prints were taken separately on tape and each was photographed.

It was known that Herman Fischer had recently been released from prison, where he had served a term for a burglary in St. Louis County. The prints taken from the glass were compared with his finger prints on record at police headquarters and found to correspond. Five days later Fischer was arrested, convicted of the Webster Groves burglary, and sent back to the penitentiary for three years.

There has been criticism of the finger print system since its almost universal adoption as a means of criminal identification and the admission of finger print evidence in courts of law. It has been contended that an expert may mistakenly identify two prints and thus send an innocent man to prison or the gallows. And a Chicago jewelry engraver announced a few years ago that he could forge finger prints.

But so valuable has the system proved in the war on crime that it seems to be firmly intrenched. Almost every day one hears of a criminal being brought to justice through its workings. It has played a vital part in some of the most spectacular cases of recent criminal history.

IT WAS finger prints that established the identity of Edward Hickman, who kidnaped and murdered 12-year-old Marian Parker in Los Angeles in 1927. The prints were on letters demanding ransom from the girl's father, Perry M. Parker, and on the rear window of an automobile from which the slayer tossed the dismembered body of his victim. Comparison of these prints with those taken when Hickman was arrested six months before for forgery at the bank where Parker was employed proved Hickman was the man to look for. Broadcasting of this information led to his arrest.

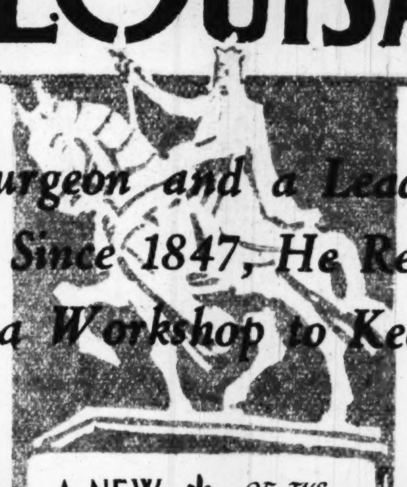
Through one finger print and the operation of the nation-wide system of finger print identification, three members of one of the most desperate robber bands in the West were caught last year and sentenced to death. The gang held up a bank at Lamar, Colorado, killed one of its officers and took two tellers along in its flight, murdering one after a few days. It abducted Dr. W. W. Wineinger of Dighton, Kansas, to attend a wounded robber and then shot him to death. On the window of the doctor's wrecked automobile a finger print was found and photographed, and copies were sent to many places in the country, including the National Bureau of Identification.

Months later, a clerk in the national bureau, going through the files, found a set of prints in which the impression of the right index finger was identical with the one sent from the West. The set was of a man who had been arrested in Stockton, California, and released. One of his aliases was Jake Fleagle. On learning this, the Chief of Police at Garden City, Kansas, remembered a family named Fleagle which lived near Dighton. From a member of the family he obtained information which led to the arrest of Ralph Fleagle, a brother of Jake, and two other men—the three who were later sentenced to death.

Jake, named as the actual slayer of the doctor, kept out of the way of the police. But he is never safe. His finger prints have been sent throughout the world and his arrest for felony in almost any city would link him with his bloody past.

INTERESTING ST. LOUISANS

Dr. Norman Bruce Carson



A NEW FEATURE OF THE POST-DISPATCH SUNDAY MAGAZINE

Pioneer Physician and Surgeon and a Leader in His Profession, a Resident of St. Louis Since 1847, He Retired From Practice, Only to Set Up a Workshop to Keep Himself Busy.

By JULIUS KLYMAN

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

DR. NORMAN BRUCE CARSON first saw St. Louis in 1847. He lived his boyhood here; Tenth street was pretty far out. He experienced the difficult days when the Civil War divided the city against itself. He practiced medicine and surgery when the carbolic acid spray had the place of modern antiseptic methods. He was a pioneer in the city's surgery; he is generally regarded as the father of brain and spinal and abdominal surgery in this part of the country. Now he is 85 years old, yet he retired less than 10 years ago. Today he is still straight as a ramrod, still the independent spirit that has become almost legendary among St. Louis physicians, now in their prime, who studied with him or worked with him or knew him in the days of his professional prowess. But retirement has not sent him into an easy chair, nor does he spend his time musing upon the past. He has transferred his affections to a workshop in his basement. There the hands that performed what were then almost unknown operations, fashion bird houses as gifts for his friends, or boats or toy garages or airplane hangars for children. As a physician he was reputed to have been the first to use some surgical instruments. He has retained his faith in modern invention. His workshop, electric powered, contains up-to-date machines that turn at the twist of a switch. And if his hands tremble a bit as he puts a block on its cradle, they become surprisingly steady as he guides the wood deftly along its penciled line toward the jigsaw.

Dr. Carson was born in Somerset, Pennsylvania. Three years later, in 1847, his parents took him aboard an Ohio River steamboat and they began their journey to the Western frontier town of St. Louis. Down the Ohio they went, then up the Mississippi to their destination. The boat docked at the foot of Olive street, and young Bruce's uncle met his relatives from the East. They got into his carriage and went to his home at Sixth and Locust streets in the "West End."

Bruce's father, James O. Carson, opened a ship's store. There men from the steamboats were wont to gather, swapping tales of their craft. At this ship's store Bruce sometimes saw a young fellow named Clemens, a river man who was accorded the privilege of chumming around with his boat's pilot. This young man Clemens afterwards became an author who wrote under the name of Mark Twain. Tales were told at the ship's store, but not always tales considered of consequence for the ears of a boy in his early teens. On occasion young Bruce was told to run along.

WHEN Bruce was 16 the Southern states declared themselves the Confederated States of America. The North refused to admit the secession, and the Civil War was on.

The Carsons were southern sympathizers. Missouri stayed in the Union, but the division among its citizens was very close. As it was in the state, so it was in St. Louis. Families with whom the Carsons had been intimate now looked upon them with a cold eye, and the Carsons returned the compliment. Some of their friends went further than that; they had nothing at all to do with those Carsons, they no longer spoke to them when they met them on the street. And again the Carsons returned the compliment.

The spirit of courtesy and comradeship deserted the chief city of the upper Mississippi, men were divided by their difference of opinions as they had never been before, or linked together by agreement of ideas as they had not been in the past when gentlemen sat upon their porches, as the evening sun sank over that wilderness that was to become Forest Park, and sipped their drinks.

"The Yankees and the Dutch" were in control of St. Louis. Men in blue uniforms and cocky little caps patrolled the city's limits and stood guard on the roads. "Rebel" spies were in the city, seeing what they could see, and woe to them if they fell into the hands of the Northerners. It was a problem for the Union officers, this business of rebel spies. It was hard to get them. For just about the time a Union squad would think it had one of them in its clutches, the spy would disappear. Where? Into one of those Confederate sympathizers' homes, and there were hundreds and hundreds of homes where the families would have been mighty glad to see General Grant take a licking. The Carsons, for instance.

There was a particularly obnoxious spy—from the Northern viewpoint, at least—operating in the city. His name was Ab Grimes, a slippery fellow, wriggly as an eel. The Yanks had finally got their hands on him; he was courtmartialed and condemned to hang. That would be the end of Ab Grimes. But Mr. Grimes, who didn't like the verdict, got away. Very likely with the help of some of those Southern sympathizers.

One would have thought the Yanks in St. Louis would have been through with Ab Grimes. One would have thought that would be a lesson to him. But Ab Grimes was as persistent as he was evasive. It wasn't long before Ab was back in the city—if he ever left it—doing his rebel stuff.

He did it so audaciously that he fell into the hands of the Northerners again. This time he wasn't going to get away. He was imprisoned in what in peaceful times had been Dr. McDowell's Medical College, and what in future peaceful times was destined to be that again. Once more Ab Grimes was promised the rope. The evening before the morning of his execution arrived.

"I was sitting in our house," says Dr. Carson, "when I heard a knock on the door. It was dark by that time. I got up and answered the knock, for in those days you could do that without fear of being kidnaped. A man was standing on the steps. 'Is your father here?' he asked. I called my father, and he came to see what was wanted. Our visitor was Ab Grimes, for he'd got away again.

"THEY were after him, of course, and he wanted father to hide him. It was impossible to get him out of the city then, for all the roads were guarded and the Union soldiers were on the lookout for him. Father took him upstairs, and he stayed with us for a few hours. Then he stole away.

"The next morning my father was walking along the street when a man with dark glasses came up to him and said, 'Good morning, Mr. Carson.' My father said, 'Good morning, sir,' but it was evident that he didn't know the man. 'Don't you know me?' asked the man with the glasses. My father shook his head. 'Well, you ought to,' this stranger replied, 'I spent last night in your company.' And he cautiously lifted his glasses for a moment and there was Ab Grimes. The Union soldiers never did hang him."

The younger Carson didn't get to the war. He tried to go once, but his plans met with defeat. Later he again decided to enlist. He made all arrangements. But he also made the mistake of doing what so many young men have done when they contemplate brave and secret deeds—he confided in his sister. His mother was very ill at the time and the young man's sister did not believe it was the proper time for Bruce to be off to the war. His mother asked for him. And he remained at home.

"It was just as well I did," he says, "for the war was nearly over; the Confederacy obviously was already defeated."

In April of '65 Lee surrendered and the war was almost over. Peace, and Dr. McDowell's Medical College became a medical college again. And young Bruce Carson began the study of medicine. But not at McDowell's. He attended, instead, the St. Louis Medical College, also known as Dr. Pope's. It would be a great mistake to think that Bruce Carson attended Dr. McDowell's College. For in those days there was great and bitter rivalry between the institutions, for no particular reason at all except that they were both medical schools and both in the same city. Years later McDowell's, or the Missouri Medical College, and the school of Dr. Pope came together in Washington University's medical school. But in the old days no one could have contemplated such a thing.

It was not at all unusual for Pope's students to invade the halls of McDowell's seat of learning and set up a din that made it impossible for the professors to carry on with their grave lectures. Worse, the students of Pope at times resorted to casting missiles through open windows. And in the interest of history it needs must be related that the young men of McDowell sought reprisal in quite a violent form.

Dr. Carson tells of these conflicts with a shamelessness that is almost appalling; his eyes actually twinkle as he tells his tales. Even at this late date I find in him no sign of repentance for his early sins.

Bruce Carson received his doctor's degree in 1868. Then he was off to Europe for a year of study. He returned to St. Louis in 1870. His long career of surgeon and general practitioner had begun. The first hospital-like institution in St. Louis was a small, mud-caulked log house at Third and Spruce streets, built by John Mullanphy. It was Mullanphy Hospital, and it functioned more than 100 years ago. In 1840 it was supplanted by a brick building and from time to time enlargements were made. As a medical student Carson first entered its walls in 1865 with what he says was a good deal of fear and trembling.

Dr. Carson speedily became a figure in his profession. In a profession that dotes on ethics, he was as ethical as they made them. Some of his friends think he almost "leaned over backwards." He would not put Doctor upon his calling cards. He would not put a shingle upon his house, as was so generally the custom in those days. He was always a student, always a man who kept abreast of his time, always among the first to attempt what was then the new surgery. Did he hear of a new operation, then he gave the subject the most intensive study.

FEARLESS he was, men in his profession tell you. He performed abdominal operations which took the nicest skill. He was a pioneer in brain surgery and in the surgery of the spinal column. It is believed he was the first man in the city to operate upon the gasserian ganglion, at the base of the brain, a sensory root of a nerve that controls the nerves of the face.

He taught medicine at the old St. Louis Medical College and later became professor of surgery at the Washington University School of Medicine. He became chief of staff of the St. Louis Mullanphy Hospital. He was made president of the St. Louis Surgical Society and president of the St. Louis Medical Society.

He was tall, slender, wiry, precise. He was, if not the dandy, at least the well-dressed man. He drove about the city in his carriage drawn by two fine horses. He once came to have for a patient the wife of a man he had not looked too kindly upon. She was Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant.

Dr. Carson did his share to set the standards of his profession. His high professional integrity, his high moral sense, became a criterion for the younger men who studied under him or worked with him. His attention to his job, his definite study of each new problem, stamped themselves upon the minds of those men. They still talk about it.

Fifteen years ago, when a celebration was given him at the time of his fiftieth anniversary with the St. Louis Mullanphy Hospital, he was still on the active list. He did not retire until several years later. Before he had come to his retirement a tremor was noticeable in his hand. But his physician friends say that once he walked into the operating room and grasped the knife, his hand became as steady as ever it had been. The wood block in his hand has much the same effect today.

DR. CARSON married Susan Ross Glasgow, the daughter of an old St. Louis family. In the yard of his home at 7006 Maryland drive there stands a rose bush which he believes is 100 years old. It once stood on the grounds of the late Mrs. Carson's father's estate, upon part of which the Glasgow School, at 1415 North Garrison avenue, stands today.

I am about to reveal information that may have been unknown to Dr. Carson's former clients. Perhaps these good people did not realize that their physician was a maker of—well, pies. It is said he not only made pies, but made excellent pies, that his chicken was something not only to be sniffed at but to be lustily eaten, and that his piece de resistance was trout freshly caught in that fisherman's paradise, the Nepigon River in Canada, and then prepared on the spot—or very near the spot.

An informer relates that this trout was seasoned with lemon and tomato, wrapped in damp brown paper, and then baked beneath the coals of a camp fire. My informant, who must by all odds remain incognito, has himself partaken of this first of the Doctor's dishes, and though he says he is a realist, and I have no reason to believe him a sentimentalist, a sweet albeit sad smile crossed his face as he told me of the beauty of this dish and a faint nostalgia seem to pervade his soul.

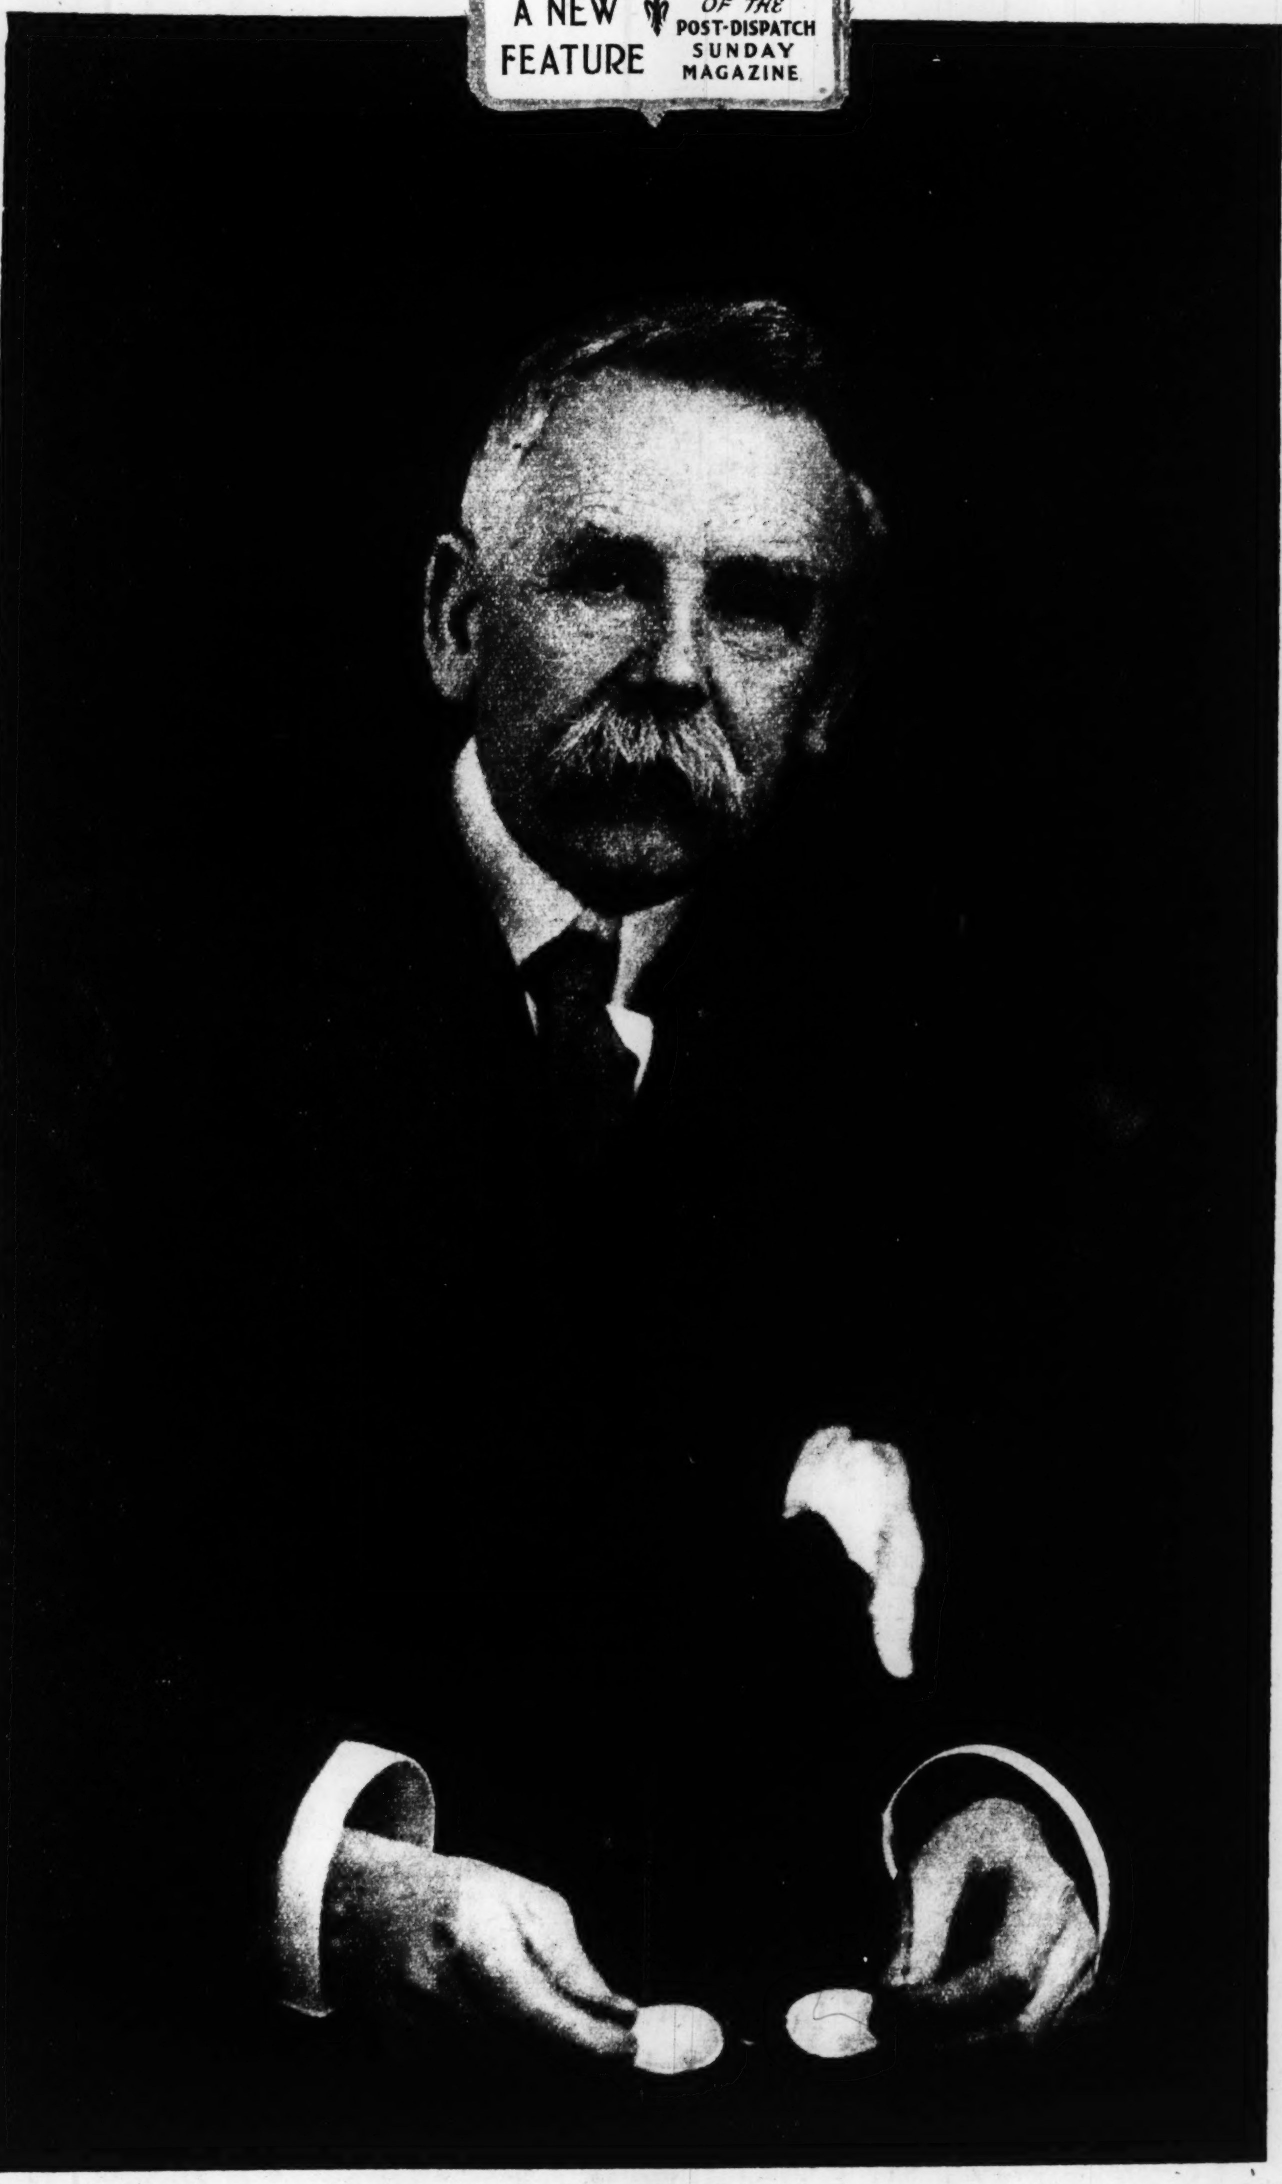
Dr. Carson has been an enthusiastic fisherman and hunter from the days when as a young man he ventured far out into the country—at just about the place where he lives today—and shot wild turkey. Quail he went after, too, though there was not much necessity of going to the trouble of shooting it if you didn't fancy the sport, for then, the Doctor tells, quail sold for 10 cents a dozen.

HE FIRST started going to the Nepigon River in the '80s and he went there so frequently that an island in the river, upon which the Doctor often camped, is known as Carson's Island. He last visited the Nepigon in 1914.

Dr. Carson has shot goat and bear in the Rockies and caribou in Newfoundland. On his caribou hunt he shot five of the animals. On the day that he got his last, and just after he had shot it, he saw another caribou, better than any he had brought down, one that would have been easy prey. But he wouldn't take it. Five caribou were enough, he said. His ethics were not confined to medicine.

Today, though the workshop plays an important part in the Doctor's life, it is not his only interest. Reading finds a high place; his favorite books are those of travel, biography or history. He gets up about 8 o'clock in the morning, has breakfast, and takes a walk. Then to the workshop, and after lunch, to the workshop again. One day each week he lunches with some of his friends. In the evenings reading has its chance.

"My doctor," he says, "tells me that I must not read for more than two hours." He turns his head, looks at his interviewer. Dr. Carson pauses a moment. "But," he continues, "I don't always do what my doctor tells me."



DR. NORMAN BRUCE CARSON.

WHERE THERE'S GOLD

By FRANK CONDON

She stood sadly in the dust of Saw River, contemplating her human associates and waggling her ears

TWO elderly and extremely tough citizens glared at each other on the main street of Saw River and called names rarely heard in good society. They were partners in small enterprises, seekers after gold, chasers down of strayed or lost mines, and mistakenly regarded by Southern California as a couple of dissolute old bums. This was injustice. One of them was Marty Carpenter, and he owned the burro. The other was Zodiac Jones, and he not only did not own the burro but loathed the sight of the little beast. The burro, naturally, was a necessary evil in their daily lives.

Saw River snoozes on the edge of the desert and is mainly a place of wooden shacks and tin garages, and at the entrance of one of these a group of loafers chewed tobacco and listened to Marty and Zodiac.

"You're just dumb," Zodiac was remarking, with amplifications. "The Lord made you dumb, and nothin' has ever changed it."

"And mebbe so," Mr. Carpenter replied, "but Mary Jane is my burro, not yours. We make no trades."

Mary Jane was in clear sight at the moment of controversy. She stood sadly in the dust of Saw River, contemplating her human associates and waggling her ears. She was small and patient, a burro with mournful eyes that bespoke a gentle nature, a confiding nature, and hair that gave out unexpectedly, leaving her hide bare and black against the sun. At her rear was a tail, a mere caudal fragment, which had no hair at all, but resembled a tarred rope.

It had been Mr. Zodiac Jones' intention to swap Mary Jane for a younger and more robust beast, and Tom Hendy, citizen of Saw River, stood ready to do business.

"You need a young burro, Marty," he urged, coming to the aid of Zodiac. "And I'll swap, if you give me $10 to boot."

"No," said Marty.

"Any day at all, she'll die on us," Zodiac complained. "I say swap for Tom's young burro."

"And I say no. You never liked Mary Jane, so you run around lyin' about her."

THE subject of the discourse surveyed her owners with a mournful eye. It was quite true that Zodiac bore for her no warmth of affection, for she had once stepped upon his foot, and once upon his stomach. That was the commencement of the feud.

"If you're through shootin' off your face," Marty commented, "we'll be movin' along. Half the mornin's gone."

"When she falls over dead out there in the mountains," Zodiac wound up, "don't say I didn't tell you."

Marty scorned further disputation and busied himself with preparations for departure. Mary Jane shook herself under her lopsided pack, which contained beans, ammunition, bacon, flour, blankets and small truck, and presently the seekers after yellow metal said good-by to Saw River and straggled out of town.

Morning passed without event and the sun blazed down upon the leathery trio. At 11 o'clock, or maybe a trifle before, Mary Jane had an accident. She fell off the trail. The path was narrow, with jutting rocks on Mary's starboard bow and a ravine threatening her left, and the pack collided with a boulder, shoving Mary over the edge. She descended ungracefully, a spectacle of flying legs and bursting pack, and as she bumped downward from ledge to ledge she squealed.

When the descent was over, she gathered herself together and stood up unharmed amid debris of canned beans, sacks of flour and camp utensils and far above her, on the trail, Zodiac Jones leaned over and cursed her. Marty, of course, sprang to his animal's defense.

"She couldn't help it, you danged old fool," he said. "It was the pack."

They descended to the humiliated Mary Jane and found themselves in an amphitheater of rocks and skimpy vegetation, upon which the burro was browsing, forgetful of her shame. Scattered messily about were bits of equipment and the partners went to work.

"We may as well camp right here," Marty announced. "I'm all tuckered out."

Mr. Jones grunted in reply, being in no way opposed to a rest and presently a tent was pitched and the gold seekers settled to repose. It was Zodiac's job to prepare food, which task he set about in sulky silence. In time there would be a frugal repast of flapjacks and bacon. Marty occupied himself with the tent and Zodiac plunged into his cookery.

"Where is them spoons gone to?" he inquired, and there being no response he began searching through the bags, and in his brief absence Mary Jane sauntered up quietly, sniffing with the humble curiosity of her kind. Intrigued by the pleasant culinary aromas, she poked her blunt nozzle into the can of batter which it was Zodiac's purpose to use. This she found edible. The small pile of completed flapjacks, which were being kept warm, she ate daintily but rapidly, and when the cake cooker reappeared with his spoon distress sat upon his brow.

"SHE'S went and et the flapjacks," Zodiac shouted, his astonishment turning to definite rage.

"I'll learn her," Zodiac declared.

He snatched up a dried cactus root with a knobby end and stepped forward to administer punishment to a burro that had gone too far.

"Hey!" Marty yelled. "Drop that club."

"I'll drop you," Zodiac snarled, and the baton descended upon Mary Jane's ribs, causing her to leap briskly to one side. Marty threw himself upon his angered mate and tore the weapon from him.

"Hittin' dumb animals," he said, adding a word or two from his private stock.

"Yes, and I'll hit you, too," Zodiac returned, and with the flat of his hand he half-pushed, half-struck Mr. Carpenter, who stumbled backward and instantly became as angry as his partner, Without a word, he scuttled into the tent and Zodiac realized that a serious moment had arrived. Leaning lightly over the flapjack stove, he seized his rifle and dodged behind a boulder, and not an instant too soon, for a bulllet clipped the rock beside him, and the little valley roared with the bark of Marty's gun. Peace had turned to war in a flash. Zodiac took careful aim at Marty's head and removed part of his cap. Bullets continued to zip and spit against the rocks as the annoyed partners sought to remove each other from a life of toil.

Mary Jane, being a sensible burro, stepped out of the line of fire, discovered fair vegetation behind a friendly rock and paid no further attention to the scrimmage. The firing continued and Zodiac Jones, being the better marksman, winged Marty in the leg, to which wound the victim paid no attention. Zodiac worked himself higher up among his protective rocks and nicked his partner in the arm, and the latter only cursed vigorously.

Soon after the hour of noon Zodiac Jones won his battle, for Marty tumbled into plain sight and lay upon his back, staring at the sky. The enemy drew a bead, but refrained from firing, and presently concluded Mr. Carpenter was hors du combat, which was an accurate estimate. Hurling down his rifle, Zodiac galloped down the rocks and bent over his defeated foe.

"Well, you ole fool," he said. "I suppose I killed you, didn't I?"

Marty made no response at the moment, but continued to keep his eyes closed and to look pallid. His partner frantically investigated, found the wounds, hurried into the tent for first aid and spent the next hour reviving the fallen warrior. Marty opened his eyes and swore.

"That's what you get for bein' a durned fool," Zodiac said gruffly. "Set still."

When the wounds were bandaged, Zodiac cleaned up camp and made ready for rapid travel.

"I'll git you to a hospital," he declared. "Sooner the better. You're plenty shot up."

"It ain't nothin'," the patient commented. "I got what was comin' to me. We was a couple of fools."

"I'll say we was. Still and all, we're lucky to have a burro, because you have to be toted."

This was apparent after Marty struggled to his feet and tried the injured leg. "I'll have to ride," he said.

"Sure you'll have to ride. We'll step right along to Mill City. They got a hospital. How do you feel?"

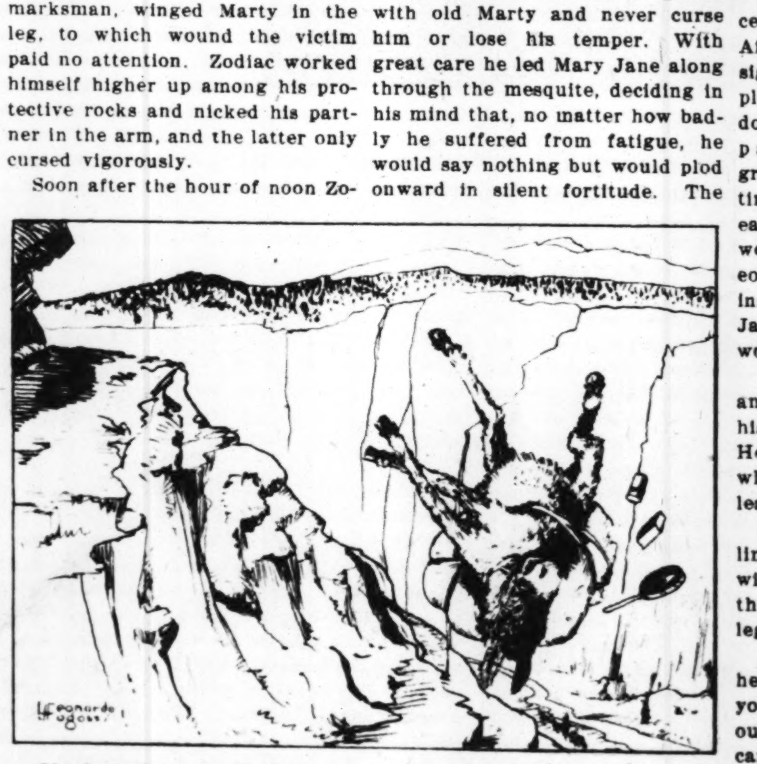
"Terrible," Marty answered. "My elbow hurts bad."

"Certainly tough luck," Zodiac grunted. "When I think of all the useful things we might be doin', sure seems crazy to spend the mornin' wingin' each other."

"Go find Mary Jane," Marty commanded.

THE innocent cause of the distress was captured and a part of her usual burden was jettisoned to make space for the wounded prospector. Marty was trussed up and loaded aboard his burro, and Zodiac Jones, feeling guilty of crimes and misdemeanors, led Mary Jane out of the rocky hollow and straight into the west.

An afternoon sun beat down remorselessly upon the little parade as it hit the trail for Mill City, where a man could find doctors and nurses. Prospecting for gold was at a pause until Marty was fit again, and as he gazed back upon his recent carnage Zodiac bitterly reproached himself. He would make up for it, he vowed, by being extra kindly in the future. He would be gentle with old Marty and never curse him or lose his temper. With great care he led Mary Jane along through the mesquite, deciding in his mind that, no matter how badly he suffered from fatigue, he would say nothing but would plod onward in silent fortitude. The patient swayed with the motion of the burro.



She descended ungracefully, a spectacle of flying legs and bursting pack.

As the slow-moving expedition moved westward the wounded man became steadily more petulant and difficult to handle. He complained in harsh words and forced the penitent Zodiac to rearrange the pack, set him in a better position and make endless changes.

"Soon be in Mill City," Zodiac promised, but Marty prophesied otherwise, adding that as far as a sane man could see, it was Zodiac's intention to let him die of his wounds, far from surgical aid. To make matters worse, Marty turned against his beloved Mary Jane, whose pace was unaltered by mishaps to man or acts of nature. Nothing could make Mary Jane move rapidly, for she had never moved rapidly.

Presently she lay down gently, almost with a sigh. It was an old trick, a burro whimsy that always drove Zodiac into a fury, for it seemed to him she always selected the worst possible time to sink into repose.

Marty Carpenter slid off the pack with a howl of alarm and hit his head against a rock.

"You hurt?" Zodiac inquired.

"Sure I'm hurt," Marty replied. "She's tryin' to kill me."

"She ain't doin' nothin' of the sort," Zodiac replied, wiping his damp forehead and welcoming any pause in progress. "The burro's pretty darn tired, Marty. You got to remember she's carryin' double."

ZODIAC pulled Mary Jane to her feet, helped Marty climb aboard, and then proceeded along the distant trail. After another mile the burro sighed and sank to rest again, plainly giving out under the double burden of Marty and the pack, and the owner's wrath grew with each collapse. The third time Mary Jane slid quietly to the earth and fell upon Marty's wounded leg, bringing forth a piteous howl. It was a job of some instants to release him. Mary Jane was done with the day's work.

In two minutes Marty was free and in that time warm regard for his burro had become bitter hate. He began tugging at his gun, which happily stuck in the leather.

"I'll kill her," Marty declared, limping to his feet and struggling with the weapon. "No burro can throw me down and fall on my leg."

"You don't kill nothin' around here," Zodiac warned him. "How you goin' to git to Mill City without a burro? Think I'm goin' to carry you on my back?"

"She's my burro and if I want to"— Marty yelled, and without further ado he hauled out his gun, aimed it at Mary Jane and might have pulled the trigger but for a development. The development was Zodiac's heavy boot. He kicked with great earnestness and the pistol rolled 10 feet away, while Marty howled in fresh anger and scrambled after it. Mary Jane, seeing the seas were getting rough again, discreetly withdrew to the shelter of a nearby Joshua tree. Marty Carpenter snatched his gun and began shooting. Zodiac scampered into a cavity of stones, and the war was on again. For the next little while the gold miners bombarded each other from behind shelter.

SUNDOWN found them still alive and still battling. The firing grew less intense, for the ammunition was slowly giving out and the stamina of the combatants was vanishing. Marty was hit in six new places and was bleeding profusely and Zodiac Jones had been plugged in the arm, leg and foot and was blaspheming steadily.

A dry rancher far out on the burning sands pulled up his vegetable truck amid the tumbleweed, hearing queer noises and wondering. His name was Jim McKim and he was far from home.

"Somebody must be shootin' over there," he remarked aloud. "Them's guns."

Being of a curious nature, Mr. McKim clambered back into his dusty chariot and began bumping over the desert, observing as he advanced that the shots were fewer. He poked a steaming radiator around the corner of a boulder and beheld to his consternation a war at its conclusion. Mr. Jones reposed in his ambush, wounded seriously, his weapon empty, and Mr. Marty Carpenter leaned weakly against a bush, fingering a six-shooter and whispering low but fervent curses.

Mr. McKim left his car, prowled cautiously about, looked over the wreckage and recognized the combatants.

"Well," he said, "you two have been havin' a hell of a time, ain't you?"

Marty was too weak to reply and Zodiac was in no mood for argument. Mary Jane was nowhere in sight, having sauntered from the scene. McKim turned his truck about and backed up carefully, pulled loose a tailboard, spread blankets and lifted Marty aboard. He performed a similar service for the silent Zodiac, cushioning the heads of both warriors. He then started for Mill City, driving tenderly, as a man should who has had his dry ranch vegetable truck suddenly converted into an ambulance of mercy. Behind in the gathering shadows Mary Jane nibbled, switched her hairless tail. There was nobody to load her up with beans and blankets and she reveled in her solitude.

Mill City is a thriving metropolis, containing a variegated population, and among its lively citizens is Harley Decker, who is constable, Justice of the Peace, real estate promoter and druggist. He leaned against his drug store, chewing a straw and staring at the dry rancher as he unfolded the tale of bloodshed and shooting.

"There they was," McKim informed Decker, acting out the details, "all shot up to hell and gone, their grub pack busted open and the burro missing. Wonder they wasn't both dead. So I brung 'em in."

"Will they die?" Decker asked.

"They will not. Dr. Cook looked 'em over. They're full of lead, but they'll live. You can't kill them hell-lions."

The town's big man smoked reflectively.

"What would they be fightin' about?" Mr. Decker inquired significantly. The dry rancher slapped himself.

"They found somethin' an' got to squabblin'."

"Sure they found somethin'. Can you go back there to the same spot?"

"I would hope to say I can," McKim replied, his eyes shining.

"Get your truck ready," commanded Decker, who was the sort that automatically takes charge of enterprises.

In the sunny hospital Marty and Zodiac were duly probed, bandaged in many places and laid out in twin beds to regain their health.

"What were you fighting about?" the doctor asked when his patients were able to converse.

"We was attacked by Indians," Marty replied. "Hundreds of 'em on wild cayuses. Wonder we ever got out alive."

WITHOUT saying anything to others in town, Jim McKim and Harley Decker left Mill City in the faithful truck and in due time arrived at the scene of the recent combat, where they proceeded to look about. Harley knocked the top off a bit of rock and stepped back in admiration. There was a yellow gleam where his hammer struck. He shouted and McKim came on the run.

"Gold!" he roared.

"Sure is," Harley cried, and continued pounding with his hammer. For the ensuing hour two busy investigators darted here and there, tapping and looking, and that moment saw the birth of Rim Canyon discovery, a gold mine that has made many persons comfortable.

Hastily the discoverers staked out claims, which were afterward disputed, and prepared to return to Mill City. A bedraggled burro came slowly into sight and stared at them.

"There's Marty's burro," McKim said in astonishment. "Poor little feller must be in a bad way by now."

They captured the animal without trouble, loaded Mary Jane aboard the truck and returned to Mill City, where, in celebration of a new and glorious discovery of gold, Mr. McKim indiscreetly filled himself with potent liquors and while so inspired confided to a few intimate friends that the adjacent mountains were shining with yellow gold. The burro was given a temporary home in Gurber's Livery and Garage. Within 12 hours of McKim's confidential announcement the entire population of Mill City picked up and began moving toward Rim Canyon, and the discovery was no longer a gentleman's secret. In a week the mountains were crawling with venturesome persons who came in cars, motor cycles and all forms of conveyance, and the battle for possession was on, led by Harley Decker and Jim McKim.

PEOPLE hurried in from San Francisco and points north, and a regulation gold rush ensued, and in the meantime Zodiac and Marty idled in their beds in Mill City Hospital and perused the papers. At first they refused to believe the black headlines and said it was all a durned lie somebody had thought up to make them feel miserable, but when Harley Decker came to see how they fared, bringing with him a chunk of pure gold as large as an egg, Zodiac looked across at his partner and grinned.

"Looks like we started somethin'," he murmured, "and ain't it our luck to be here in bed?"

The fire of battle had long since faded from Marty's watery eyes and he listened calmly to Decker's story of wealth and excitement.

"I knew," Harley concluded, "when I heard about you two trying to murder each other, that you must have struck gold."

"You're a smart feller, Harley," Zodiac said feebly. "You'll probably wind up rich."

"Wind up rich! I'm rich right now. Mine are the best claims in Rim Canyon, and they should be, seeing I got there first—that is, after you and Marty."

eminent pediatrists to attend her youngster.

From the very day he was born almost up to the time he entered Harvard, John Nicholas Brown had an eminent medical practitioner as a private physician. If there was the least doubt about the boy's condition, medicos from Boston and New York sped to Providence to determine what was wrong and the best means of relieving their young patient's ailment.

HIS diet was a matter requiring the strictest supervision—so, at least, his mother thought. To keep him supplied with the purest of cream, a pedigreed cow was purchased. Over a long period the lad consumed a quart of pure cream daily. This was a part of the diet ordered by his private physician. This cow became one of the major attractions of Newport, enjoying as she did pasturage on one of the most valuable pieces of property in ultra-exclusive Newport. The cow enjoyed herself on Bellevue avenue in a lot which was valued at $100,000. The chatterers always referred to the pasturage as the "cow lot." And the cow had a special caretaker, too.

When the grandson of old John Carter Brown turned seven he was given a pony. He did all of his riding, however, with two mounted attendants, one on each side.

The besetting fear of the lad's mother was that he might be kidnaped, as a result of which a score of detectives were on the Brown payroll. Whenever Mrs. Brown heard of some kidnaping, even in a distant part of the country, she would add another detective or two to her son's personal police staff.

In Newport, he had a wonderful playground, though it was protected by a high barbed-wire fence, lending to it the appearance of a corral. The child never played except under the supervision of attendants.

Extraordinary were the precautions against his being stolen while he slept. His bedroom had barred doors and windows.

When he went on Sunday to Emmanuel Church, in his train followed a nurse and two detectives.

The instructions of Mrs. Brown as regards her son were explicit:

"Never take your eyes off Master John. You never can tell what may happen to him."

PERSISTENT whisperings about Providence and Newport that the lad was to be kidnaped and held for an immense ransom caused Mrs. Brown to close her Rhode Island homes and depart hurriedly for Europe. This happened in 1907, the boy and his mother remaining abroad for nearly a year. On his trip across the ocean his every comfort was given attention, for in attendance upon him were his mother, his aunt, two maids, one maid servant, two detectives and a personal physician.

On one trip to Europe she took special precautions to guard him against the desperate criminals of Great Britain and the Continent by not only having a special guard over him day and night, but also, according to London reports, insuring him with Lloyds against kidnaping.

While a huge fortune was spent on keeping him healthy and happy, he was denied many things; especially was this true of certain toys. There was a fear that he might injure himself with mechanical toys—roller coasters and the like. He could not celebrate the Fourth of July with the wild abandon of other American youths of his own age, because of the danger. A minor hurt with a firecracker caused all fireworks to be tabooed in the Brown household.

His education was assiduously looked after, so that by the time the boy was 6 he could speak French fairly well, and at 12 he was quite proficient as a pianist. He had a private gymnasium, and a well-known athlete as his special trainer.

At times Mrs. Brown spent so much money for her son's happiness that she was forced to appeal to the courts for sanction to make certain expenditures. This was the case when she started to build for the youngster a palace which should be a child's paradise. This is the beginning of the story of Harbor Crest, on Hallidon avenue, Newport, the beautiful Brown estate which overlooks the waters of Narragansett Bay. This site was ideal. It was also healthful, for the waters lapped the edge of the lawn, where the little multimillionaire could wade about and play, while inhaling the restorative ozone.

Gardens, rivaling those of European royalty, added to the picturesqueness of Harbor Crest. Indeed, it was a paradise, both inside and outside.

BUT the most striking features of the palatial establishment were the second and third floors. Two nurseries—one for day and the other for night—were located on the second floor, as were a luxurious bathroom and living quarters for the chief of his staff of trained nurses.

On the third floor was a playroom for "the richest boy in the world." It was more like some auditorium, so spacious was it, not to say anything of its improvised stage and other fixtures that permitted its being put to many uses. If John Nicholas Brown Jr. wished to enjoy moving pictures in his own private playroom, all he had to do was to give the order, and a show would start for his exclusive benefit.

If he tired of his playroom with its wonderful toys and gimcracks of every description, he could amble down to his private dock and get aboard a speedy motor launch, which was always at his service. If he wished to do a bit of fishing, he had but to order some bait and cast his line into one of the stocked ponds of Harbor Crest.

Great stables were also a feature of the home of the youngster. The floors were of smooth concrete, and there were arrangements by which this could be flooded and transformed into a skating rink.

Everything a youth could wish for was his, and yet this coddled child of a worshipful mother remained unspoiled. He attended St. George's School, one of the private institutions of New England, and was a hail fellow, well met with his mates.

He attended Harvard, where he was popular and one of the most earnest students ever enrolled in that institution. He earned a "magna cum laude" with his degree. During his four years at college, he dispensed with personal physicians and sleuthing attendants, and lived like the other millionaire students in his dormitory.

Life was not one round of joyousness for the "richest boy in the world" during the days when he was growing to manhood. His friendships were necessarily restricted, for he could not go anywhere without dragging behind him a bevy of detectives.

DURING his Newport days one of young Brown's closest chums was the youthful William Henry Vanderbilt, eldest son of the late Alfred Vanderbilt. There was much in common between the two lads. Both were heirs to two of the greatest fortunes in America. They were related by marriage. The aunt of John Nicholas, the sister of Mrs. Brown, was the wife of George W. Vanderbilt. The two families were neighbors, both living in the ultra-fashionable Hallidon Hill section of Newport. John Nicholas and William Henry, whom the neighbors referred to as "the Brown boy and the Vanderbilt boy," organized what was probably the most exclusive yacht club in the world, the Brenton's Reef Yacht Club. John Nicholas Brown was the commodore, and young Vanderbilt the other member of the organization.

Only once since growing to man's estate has John Nicholas Brown given his worshiping mother a scare, and that was five years ago, when he was stricken with appendicitis. Since then he has been more or less out of the news, save for an occasional social item concerning his activities at either Newport or Boston.

Recently reports were published that John Nicholas Brown was caught in the crash of a $7,000,000 Chicago rye pool, which was engineered, it was said, by a group of Providence bankers. But those who know young Brown, as well as the details providing for the care of his fortune, scoff at the idea that he lost a cent in the speculative grain market.

While young Brown is not much of a social gadabout, he belongs to several clubs, the Somerset and Tavern in Boston; the Knickerbocker and Harvard clubs in New York, as well as the New York Yacht Club. He is also a member of the Society of the Cincinnati in Newport.

IN SOME quarters the question has been raised as to whether the great care and huge expenditure lavished on John Nicholas Brown was wholly good for the youth. One result is evident; a delicate and frail child is now a lusty specimen of manhood. Furthermore, the coddling and pampering and guardianship he was subjected to for many years apparently did not warp his character. Even during his "petted days" he was not to be listed as a "spoiled darling."

And now as further evidence that his millions have not spoiled him is the fact that the whilom "richest baby in the world" has chosen a girl without money, but charming and intelligent, for his life partner.

wanly at the companion of his sorrows.

"What do you know?" he inquired vaguely. "Ain't that funny? We hit gold and we don't know it."

In the weeks that followed Mr. Decker generously offered the prospectors a slice of his wealth, which was refused in scorn.

"But," Harley argued, "after all, you really discovered Rim Canyon."

"We don't want nothin'," Marty said decidedly, "except maybe you might stake us to a new outfit."

"I'll do that gladly, but it is not enough."

"IT'S enough for us," they said, and stuck to it, and so Mr. Decker, out of his largess, purchased new and perfect prospecting equipment for a couple of elderly men who were about to set forth into the wilds again as soon as nature permitted. There being so many suddenly wealthy persons in and about Mill City, all beneficiaries of Rim Canyon gold, Mr. Decker proposed a dinner of honor at the Mill City Hotel. This invitation was placed before the convalescents.

"Why, sure," Marty agreed in an unguarded moment, "we'll eat with you, won't we, Zodiac?"

"Yeh," that person agreed. "We'd eat with anybody."

The dinner was arranged, the date selected and the guests of honor gave it no further thought until the hour of its approach, which was the evening of their final day in the Mill City Hospital. Down the street, in Gurber's Livery and Garage, waited their fresh equipment. They would dine in state with admiring gentlemen and then head for the silent places they knew so well. A nurse startled them late in the afternoon of their last day.

"Where are your evening clothes?" she asked Zodiac.

"Where is our what?"

"You surely are not going to be guests of honor in your old clothes? Aren't you going to dress up?"

"Don't be foolish," Zodiac replied. "We're goin' in our regular clothes. What would we be doin' with evenin' clothes?"

"Very well," continued the nurse. "Which one of you will make the speech? Or will you both speak?"

"Listen, nursie," said Zodiac. "You got your geography all wrong. We're goin' out tonight to eat with Decker and those people."

"If you are a guest of honor at a dinner—and you are just that—you will have to respond to the toasts. All guests of honor respond to toasts."

With this crushing news the pretty nurse left them standing in the sunshine, staring at each other.

"Let's go over to the livery," Zodiac suggested, "and have a look around."

Mr. Joe Gurber, of Gurber's Livery and Garage, greeted the oldtimers as they limped in.

"Where you going?" he asked, a note of surprise in his voice.

"Gonna hit the trail," Marty answered. "And we're in a hurry. Where's that new outfit Decker got for us?"

"I thought you were going to a big dinner tonight?" Joe said mildly.

"Never you mind what you thought. Where is that new burro?"

STILL looking surprised, Mr. Gurber led the battle-scarred veterans to the rear of the garage and pointed to the new pack burro which stood munching in a stall.

"There is one swell young burro," he said admiringly, "strong as an ox. And wait until you cast an eye on the packsaddle and other junk."

Marty paused and gazed not at the husky young burro, but toward the other side of the building, where stood a familiar figure.

"There's Mary Jane," he said, finally.

"Where?" demanded Zodiac.

"Over there."

"Well, blast me if it ain't," murmured Zodiac. "How'd she ever get in here?"

"Jim McKim brought her over in his truck," explained the liveryman. "She was out there starvin' to death where you left her."

The two slowly turned from the moth-eaten and elderly little beast that had led them into trouble and warfare and many painful wounds—and indirectly to a pot of fine gold for other men to dig up and put in the bank.

"When you starting?" Mr. Gurber inquired.

"Right this minute," said Zodiac.

"Let's git goin' while we got plenty of time."

The gay young burro was prepared for the trail, the prospectors aiding Joe Gurber, and audibly admiring the thoroughness of Harley Decker.

"Now you got a burro," Joe said, poking the new acquisition in the ribs.

"Yeh," agreed Marty. "Harley found us a good one. No doubt about that. And look at that saddle!"

In no time at all they stood ready for the open road. They lingered behind Gurber's Livery and Garage, surveying the new animal, obviously young, tough and stout of heart. . . . In the shadows, Mary Jane switched her short and hairless tail and looked out with melancholy eyes upon the departure of old friends.

"Well," said Marty in an impatient voice, and turning upon Zodiac, who was vigorously chewing fine cut, "what are you waitin' for?"

But Zodiac made no move to start. And despite his words, Marty dawdled, remaining where he was at the hipbone of the new burro.

"I'm thinkin'," Zodiac said slowly.

"Well, what are you thinkin'?"

"We might be makin' a mistake, Marty."

"About what?"

"ABOUT leavin' Mary Jane," Zodiac continued, avoiding his companion's eye. "After all, she done it. If it wasn't for her there wouldn't be no Rim Canyon Gold Mine today."

"You said somethin'," Marty agreed.

"Mebbe our luck might be a little better if we stuck to Mary Jane, instead of experimentin'."

Mr. Carpenter walked slowly around the new pack animal, never giving it a glance. "Joe," he said, "you got the pack on the wrong burro. We're takin' Mary Jane with us. If you like this new one, you can have him. Otherwise, turn him loose."

Joe looked at the ancient twain in astonishment as they moved into the livery and appeared instantly with Mary Jane. She was chewing contentedly on a wisp of hay, and laid back her ears, as she always did, when the pack was adjusted.

"So long, Joe," the wanderers said, and Joe grinned.

"Good luck," he said. "Hope you find what you're looking for."

"Follow us," returned Zodiac cheerily, "and you'll get rich. We know where there's gold, don't we, Marty?"

"Sure do," said his partner, and Mary Jane moved away into the afternoon shadows, followed slowly by her two friends.

company, has sent out a nationwide appeal for help in finding the missing beauty, but as these words are written she has not been located.

The Battle of the Four Queens began soon after the judges awarded first prize to Miss Texas. Miss Utah, in private life Beatrice Lee, disputed the decision, and several members of the pageant company supported her. She insisted that she should be America's Sweetheart, but the official verdict stood. Miss Utah went on tour with the Latin-American beauties and used the title of America's Sweetheart. She is now said to be in New York, waiting to go to Rio de Janeiro to appear in the international beauty contest as the representative of the United States.

Three months after her coronation, Miss Texas was dethroned as queen of the Miami beauty pageant. R. B. Brossier, a publisher of Orlando, Florida, appeared before the officers of the pageant association and charged that Miss Eastment had been ineligible because she had been married. The officers sustained his challenge. That left Miss California, winner of second prize, next in line for the throne. But it was further charged that Miss McKellop also was ineligible; that she had not been chosen by the people of California, and, in fact, came to Miami from McAlester, Oklahoma. The head of the association read his associates a telegram from A. A. McKellop of San Diego, California, threatening legal action if Miss McKellop were removed from second place, but the officers refused to give her the vacant queenship. They conferred the title of America's Sweetheart on the original winner of third prize, Miss Ekdahl of Florida, who remains at this writing the official incumbent.

Although dethroned, Miss Texas apparently has not lost her crown. Pageant officers said they had sent word to her that she must give up the jeweled coronet, the large silver loving cup and the $2500 cash prize, but had received no reply. She is said to be in California, working in movie studios.

Whether Miss Florida will get to represent the United States in the Rio de Janeiro contest is uncertain. If she does, she presumably will have to finance the trip without help from the Miami pageant association.

Further marvels of the contest came to light recently with the filing of the Seaboard Air Line's suit for $10,000 against the city of Miami. The petition alleged that no fewer than six of the contestants came from Shamokin, Pennsylvania; that they represented the States of New Jersey, North Carolina, New York, Montana, Louisiana and Pennsylvania. Why one town in the coal region should produce such an array of beauty was not explained.

The petition added that five other girls came from states other than the ones they represented in the contest. It named Miss California as one, and said that Miss Mississippi came from Wichita, Kansas; Miss Nevada from Dallas, Texas; Miss Vermont from Bangor, Maine, and Miss District of Columbia from Wheeling, West Virginia.

The state beauties were supposed to have been chosen in competitions conducted by newspapers, theaters and various organizations.

The city of Miami is awaiting the outcome of the railroad's suit before taking up the payment of the remaining outstanding bills left by the pageant association. So the exact amount of the crimp put in its treasury is undetermined. But there appears to be no uncertainty on one point: the First Annual Miami Bathing Beauty Pageant ended the series.

For sunburn DON'T accept substitutes .. because

Unguentine goes as deep as the burn

SPREAD Unguentine on your burning skin. Suave and soothing, it cools the fiery pain—quicker than anything else you could use. And it heals—gently, safely!

Lotions and toilet creams only reach the outer surface of the skin. But Unguentine penetrates right down to the inflamed tissue in the dermis, or inner layer of the skin.

Here Unguentine eases the inflamed flesh—takes out the sting. And being antiseptic—it guards against the dangerous infection which any burn invites.

Sunburn is no different from any other kind of burn. It's just as dangerous. So be sure to use Unguentine, the famous remedy used in 8 out of 10 hospitals for burns and scalds.

Unguentine will quickly change smarting red sunburn to a glorious, golden tan. 50 cents for the long-lasting tube. At your druggist's. Use Unguentine for any kind of burn or scald, and for cuts, scratches, insect-bites, etc. Take it on vacation trips.

I'D CROON for DEAR OLD MAINE

Awful Possibilities of the Popular Stein Song.

MASSACHUSETTS gives us codfish, Connecticut gives us locks and keys, New Hampshire gives us pillow cases, Vermont gives us maple syrup and now Maine comes along and gives us the Stein Song. Every loyal Maine man may be singing it, but it looks as if they are getting a great deal of co-operation from outside sources.

For some weeks now this melody has been very abundant on the air. There was a time when it was running a close race with "Happy Days," but it forged ahead with a sudden burst of speed, and "Happy Days" aren't here so often any more. The "Meditation" from "Thais," "The Last Rose of Summer," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" and "Love Brings a Little Gift of Roses" are all quite lost in the static.

The radio set, these days, is acting like a well-trained dog that barks whenever his master approaches. All you have to do is stroll into the room where you have your cabinet and "Fill the steins to dear old Maine" will promptly salute you. Some people firmly believe that it tumbles out of the loud speaker regardless of whether the set is turned on or off.

The hit is rivaling the banana epidemic of a few years ago. It is even being played by distinguished pianists and violinists who ordinarily go up in smoke at the mere mention of anything that smacks of a foxtrot. Of course, they may elevate it by playing a "symphonic arrangement," "variations," or something of the sort, but even so, you can generally recognize the tune. This is a kind of synthetic stein song. Dance orchestras, on the other hand, always render a straight, or 9 per cent, variety.

THE song has a way of finding a place on every program except the weather forecast. It always crops up when you least expect it. For instance, you are listening to a talk on economics by an internationally-known expert.

"And so, my invisible audience," says the speaker, "we must guard against an undue extension of credit through speculative channels and conserve credit resources for the purpose of meeting future requirements of trade and industry. Ahem! I should like to conclude my talk by singing the Maine Stein Song. Unfortunately, I have a cold and must forego that pleasure. However, with your kind indulgence, I will now recite the words."

The song, henceforth, will probably be used by the radio opera companies. We may hear Carmen presented with a scene like the following:

Don Jose: Fill the steins!

Carmen: Fill the steins!

Picadors: Fill 'em! Yea, fill the steins!

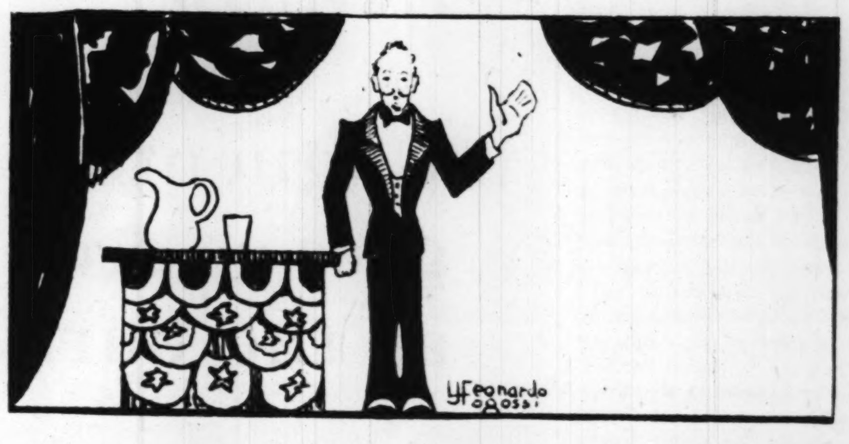
Toreadors: Fill the which?

All: The steins!

Don Jose and Carmen: "Fill the steins to dear old Spain! Shout till the rafters ring," etc. etc.

There is no escape. If you shut off the radio and go to a movie, the orchestra will play the Stein Song as an overture. Then the rising organ will take off and ascend to an altitude of about 10 feet and the pilot will stamp out the Stein Song as it is played here and as it would be played in France, England, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Russia, Brazil, Costa Rica, Portuguese East Africa and Switzerland.

After this the married men in the audience will be asked to sing it, the bachelors will be asked to hum it, the married ladies will be asked to yodel it and the spinsters will be asked to whistle it. Then everybody will roar it in unison.



Leonardo Gross

For many years prior to its revival the song was, of course, confined exclusively to Maine University. Now there is a different situation. For instance, you may go out to California and tell yourself: "Here, at last, I am away from it."

But lo! Some youths in blazers and flannel trousers parade down the street playing the Maine Stein Song and then somebody gives you a sock on the back for not removing your hat upon hearing the alma mater of the Orangeville High School.

THE song will be appropriated by institutions everywhere. It won't make a particle of difference whether the state is wet or dry. A Scott High School out in Kansas, for example, will use the tune with a lyric such as "Hoist a 'sas' to dear old Scott," etc. Hence, people might as well resign themselves to the inevitable.

Compared to how it will be played next fall, the song up to now has been played spasmodically. First call for football and Stein Song practice will come early in September, so that both the team and the band can be in shape for the opening of the season. Pretty soon the rafters will be ringing from one end of the country to the other—from the sun-kissed shores of California all the way back to the rockbound shores of Maine, where the trouble started.

Consider what will happen at the typical football game. First the Ridgedale Academy Band will parade around the field, march over to the Glenview Institute stands and play the Glenview alma mater (Maine Stein Song). Then the Glenview Institute Band will enter the stadium, march over to the Ridgedale stands and return the courtesy by playing the Ridgedale alma mater (Maine Stein Song). There will be more parading and more Stein Song playing between the halves, and all kinds of confusion as to which school is having which alma mater rendered.

The radio will carry on between now and October, so you can't help but remember the Maine Stein Song. The one saving grace is that they don't boop-a-doop it.

TIME TO GO—but still time to use MUM

Those times when you must be ready in a jiffy! Just time to slip on your dress. Not a moment more to spare—yet you must not chance perspiration offense. Then's when you're most grateful for Mum!

In no more time than it takes to powder your nose, your underarm toilet is made with Mum. One dab of snowy cream under each arm and you're safe. Mum doesn't have to dry. It is soothing to the skin, and just as harmless to the daintiest fabric. Mum doesn't even leave the skin greasy. This likable and usable deodorant has removed the last excuse for offending. For it is ready for any and all occasions. It offers you permanent protection, for its daily use can do no harm.

Mum does not arrest the action of the pores, or interfere in any way with their normal, necessary work. Its constant use is actually beneficial to the skin.

Why chance embarrassment ever—when you can always have absolute protection in this delightful form! Mum will neutralize every bit of unpleasant odor. Not the slightest suggestion of any odor can possibly penetrate that protecting film. You are safe for hours.

Spread a little Mum on the sanitary napkin and you will be serenely safe from offense. Every vestige of odor is neutralized—not merely stifled, or disguised. All toilet-goods counters, 35c and 60c.

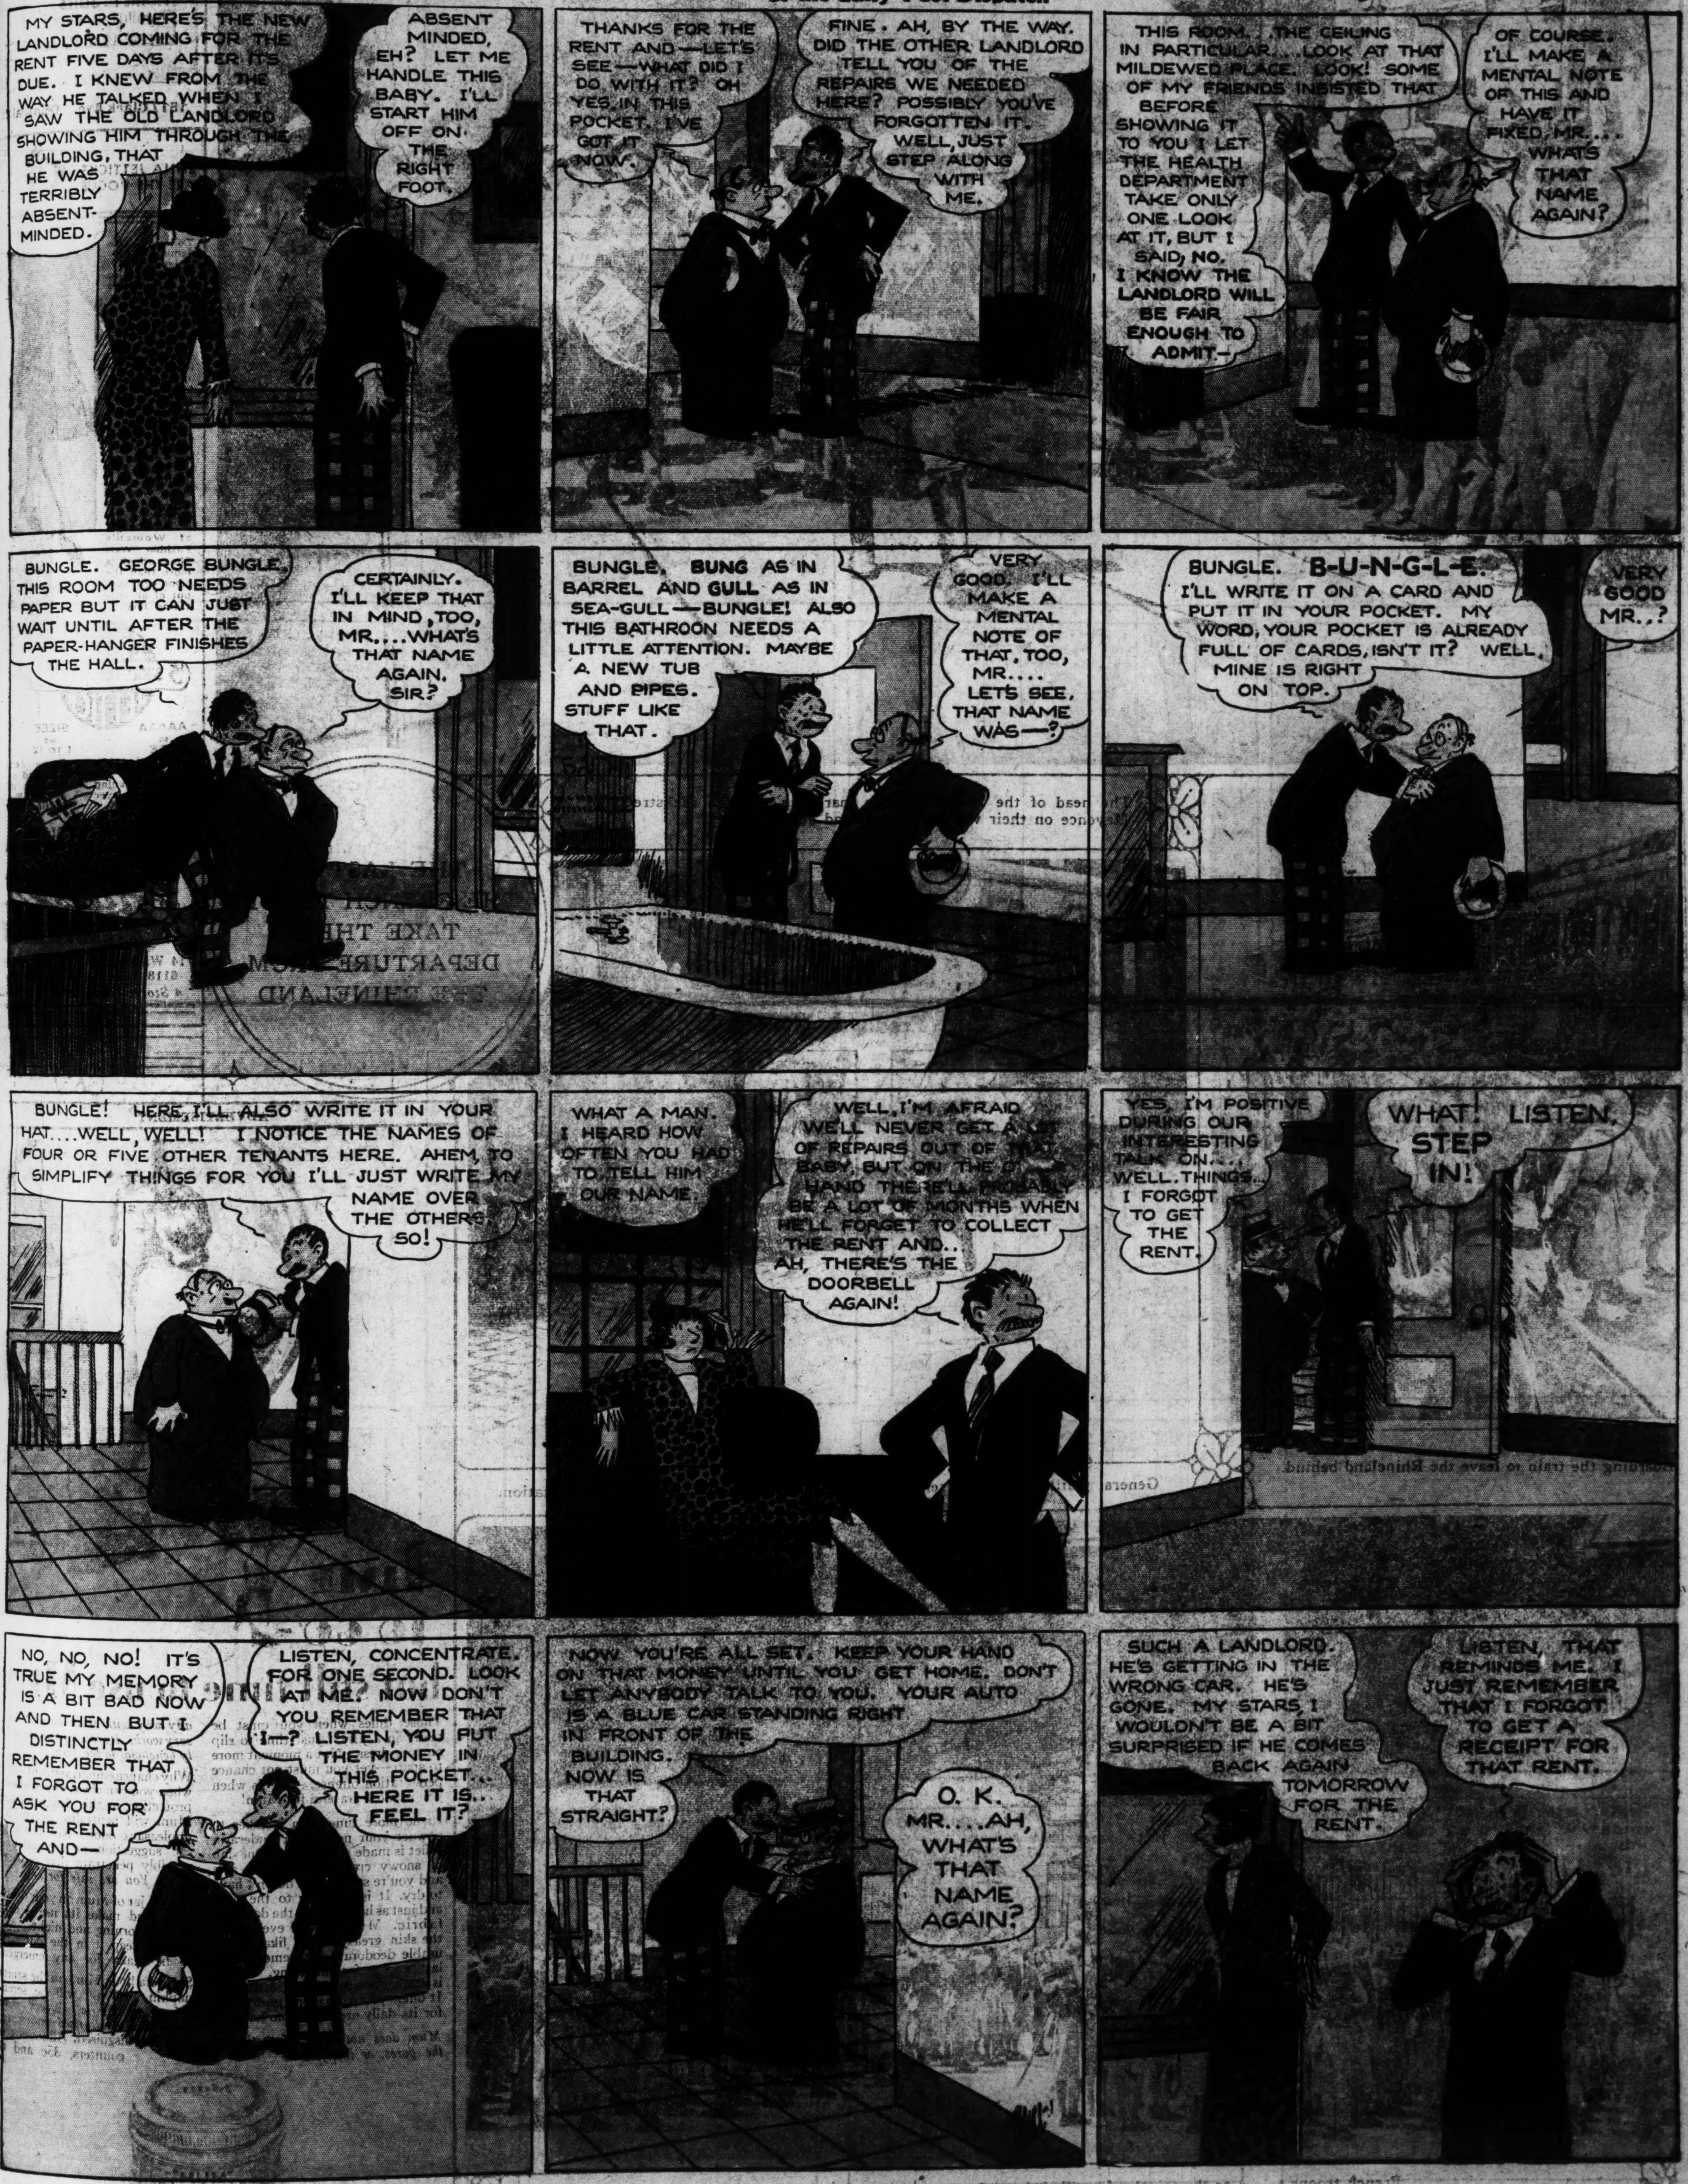
By H. J. TUTHILL



MY STARS, HERE'S THE NEW LANDLORD COMING FOR THE RENT FIVE DAYS AFTER IT'S DUE. I KNEW FROM THE WAY HE TALKED WHEN I SAW THE OLD LANDLORD SHOWING HIM THROUGH THE BUILDING, THAT HE WAS TERRIBLY ABSENT-MINDED.
ABSENT MINDED, EH? LET ME HANDLE THIS BABY. I'LL START HIM OFF ON THE RIGHT FOOT.
THANKS FOR THE RENT AND—LET'S SEE—WHAT DID I DO WITH IT? OH YES, IN THIS POCKET. I'VE GOT IT NOW.
FINE. AH, BY THE WAY. DID THE OTHER LANDLORD TELL YOU OF THE REPAIRS WE NEEDED HERE? POSSIBLY YOU'VE FORGOTTEN IT. WELL, JUST STEP ALONG WITH ME.
THIS ROOM. THE CEILING IN PARTICULAR.... LOOK AT THAT MILDEWED PLACE. LOOK! SOME OF MY FRIENDS INSISTED THAT BEFORE SHOWING IT TO YOU I LET THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT TAKE ONLY ONE LOOK AT IT, BUT I SAID, NO. I KNOW THE LANDLORD WILL BE FAIR ENOUGH TO ADMIT—OF COURSE. I'LL MAKE A MENTAL NOTE OF THIS AND HAVE IT FIXED, MR.... WHAT'S THAT NAME AGAIN?
BUNGLE. GEORGE BUNGLE. THIS ROOM TOO NEEDS PAPER BUT IT CAN JUST WAIT UNTIL AFTER THE PAPER-HANGER FINISHES THE HALL.
CERTAINLY. I'LL KEEP THAT IN MIND, TOO, MR.... WHAT'S THAT NAME AGAIN, SIR?
BUNGLE. BUNG AS IN BARREL AND GULL AS IN SEA-GULL—BUNGLE! ALSO THIS BATHROON NEEDS A LITTLE ATTENTION. MAYBE A NEW TUB AND PIPES. STUFF LIKE THAT.
VERY GOOD. I'LL MAKE A MENTAL NOTE OF THAT, TOO, MR.... LET'S SEE. THAT NAME WAS—?
BUNGLE. B-U-N-G-L-E. I'LL WRITE IT ON A CARD AND PUT IT IN YOUR POCKET. MY WORD, YOUR POCKET IS ALREADY FULL OF CARDS, ISN'T IT? WELL, MINE IS RIGHT ON TOP.
VERY GOOD MR..?
BUNGLE! HERE, I'LL ALSO WRITE IT IN YOUR HAT....WELL, WELL! I NOTICE THE NAMES OF FOUR OR FIVE OTHER TENANTS HERE. AHEM, TO SIMPLIFY THINGS FOR YOU I'LL JUST WRITE MY NAME OVER THE OTHERS. SO!
WHAT A MAN. I HEARD HOW OFTEN YOU HAD TO TELL HIM OUR NAME.
WELL, I'M AFRAID WE'LL NEVER GET A LOT OF REPAIRS OUT OF THAT BABY BUT ON THE OTHER HAND THERE'LL PROBABLY BE A LOT OF MONTHS WHEN HE'LL FORGET TO COLLECT THE RENT AND.. AH, THERE'S THE DOORBELL AGAIN!
YES, I'M POSITIVE DURING OUR INTERESTING TALK ON... WELL. THINGS... I FORGOT TO GET THE RENT.
WHAT! LISTEN, STEP IN!
NO, NO, NO! IT'S TRUE MY MEMORY IS A BIT BAD NOW AND THEN BUT I DISTINCTLY REMEMBER THAT I FORGOT TO ASK YOU FOR THE RENT AND—LISTEN, CONCENTRATE. FOR ONE SECOND. LOOK AT ME. NOW DON'T YOU REMEMBER THAT I—? LISTEN, YOU PUT THE MONEY IN THIS POCKET... HERE IT IS.. FEEL IT?
NOW YOU'RE ALL SET. KEEP YOUR HAND ON THAT MONEY UNTIL YOU GET HOME. DON'T LET ANYBODY TALK TO YOU. YOUR AUTO IS A BLUE CAR STANDING RIGHT IN FRONT OF THE BUILDING. NOW IS THAT STRAIGHT?
O. K. MR....AH, WHAT'S THAT NAME AGAIN?
SUCH A LANDLORD. HE'S GETTING IN THE WRONG CAR. HE'S GONE. MY STARS, I WOULDN'T BE A BIT SURPRISED IF HE COMES BACK AGAIN TOMORROW FOR THE RENT.
LISTEN, THAT REMINDS ME. I JUST REMEMBER THAT I FORGOT TO GET A RECEIPT FOR THAT RENT.
